Rank nonsense! In the most strenuous task a Canadian Premier has ever been called to perform he has won the unqualified praise of the Imperial authorities and of American statesmen. The better element of Mr. Hall's own party and the more influential journals are supporting Sir Robert Borden today. As to the grafters, what about the feathers of the local birds of prey that Sir Robert plucked so thoroughly in the early years of his administration? He is today a candidate in a riding formerly held by a convicted grafter in his own fold whom he read out of the party and expelled from Parliament.

Mr. Hall is simply talking to hear the sound of his own voice when he says that Premier Borden has done nothing to stimulate production and has simply advised the working people to eat less. What about the campaign of production in the very first year of the war? Canada, short-handed as she has been, has never produced so much food as during the past three years.

Mr. Hall is talking against the facts when he says that Sir Robert Borden has neglected the soldier's widow and orphans. What country on earth has so generous a pension scale, inadequate as it may be?

He says further that the Premier has ground down the soldiers to starvation wages and has let the returned soldiers hunt for jobs. The Canadian soldiers are the best paid fighting force in the present war. Still the question of patriotic service has never been reduced to a dollars and cents basis. When men volunteer to serve their country, the compensation is the very last consideration that concerns them. The wages argument is pleaded by the slackers in another province, the people with whom Mr. Hall and his ambition is inseparably interwoven. The men in the trenches are asking for help to win the war. They are not talking of a strike for higher pay.

Premier Borden is finding places in the civil service for all qualified returned soldiers. This answers Mr. Hall's final charge.

Marc Antony excited the ire of the mob against Brutus and his gang by telling the plain truth about them. If he had indulged in wild flights of fancy, the crowd would have laughed him to scorn. Mr. Hall would be more dangerous if he were not so given to working his imagination overtime.

THE SOLDIERS' FIDELITY.

THE CLAPTRAP that The Examiner is publishing nightly by way of argument why the Union Government should be defeated, and which is reinforced by spiteful anonymous letters from time to time, has one marked characteristic. It attempts to appeal to the passions of the returned soldiers by preaching to them that now that they are no longer fit for active service they are being neglected by the Government.

The soldiers are not likely to be deceived by such a line of reasoning. In the first place they are not likely as the very fact that they enlisted in the first place and did their bit while strength was given them proves beyond all question, to be influenced in this crisis by such considerations. They will not allow a matter of mere material welfare to wean them from their devotion to the men they left behind them.

The Canadian soldiers are the best paid soldiers in the world. That is as it should be, as they have proved themselves worth the outlay. The pension scale in Canada, too, is the highest in the world, more generous even than that in the United States, though the latter has been in force for over fifty years and that country is admittedly the richest under the sun. The returned soldiers have not yet come fully into their own, but their day is coming, the day when the best of everything in Canada will be theirs.

What have the returned soldiers in Canada to hope for if The Examiner and Mr. Hall are successful in their attempt to restore Sir Wilfrid and his cohorts to power? Will the French majority, representatives of the class that beat up Canadian soldiers and jostle crippled veterans off the sidewalk, be likely to show them much consideration in the matter of voting them pensions? Grants of wild land would be the most the soldiers could expect.

The soldiers overseas need and have asked for help. Their comrades at home are backing up their demands. Inadequate as the pay of the soldier is, that is not the question that is worrying them. To win the war is the one great object of their existence. To increase their pay to $2 or more would not relieve them of the necessity of doing the double duty in the trenches which they are now called on to perform. It would not help to turn the battle tide more strongly in their favor. To send them reinforcements would do both.

Hopeless indeed is the cause of any newspaper or candidate who has nothing to offer save an appeal to selfish interests. Let The Examiner, Mr. Hall and Laurier get the upper hand again, and there will be no more returned soldiers in Canada. No reinforcements will be sent across the seas, and the men who are already there will be allowed to perish of neglect for all Sir Wilfrid would do to help them.

A newspaper insults the intelligence of the veterans when it pleads with them to desert Borden for Laurier.

FRESH MATERIAL FOR MR. HALL.

MR. HALL, in his election address and in his speeches to the electors, both in the city and county, has cited Lord Northcliffe at considerable length as an authority on the war, with special reference to his views on the question of production.

Lord Northcliffe, in common with the school boys of the Empire, knows very well that food is an essential in the prosecution of the war, and that men cannot fight unless they are fed. He realizes the necessity of maintaining production at the top pace in order to meet the needs of the Allies. Lord Northcliffe, however, has never yet been reported as saying that the outstanding need at present is not men but food. There would be no necessity for food if there were no men to feed.

Lord Northcliffe has just furnished some new literature on the war, material which Mr. Hall is, unfortunately, not at all likely to use. In the Daily Mail of London it is stated that if Laurier wins in the coming election, Canada will have to drop out of the war. Mr. Hall is working tooth and nail for the success of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Putting two and two together we get four. In other words, Mr. Hall is set on forcing this country to give up its part in the war except in the profitable role of sending over provisions and munitions.

Mr. Hall can hardly in reason ask us to accept Lord Northcliffe as an authority on food and at the same time refuse to attach weight to what he says as to what will result from the election of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

JERUSALEM will be the best possible Christmas gift to the Christian nations.

• • • •

EVIDENTLY Mr. Hall has come to attempt to bury Sir Robert Borden, not to praise him.

• • • •

FORTUNATELY, while the average Laurier candidate's bark may be annoying, he seldom bites to any purpose.

THERE can be no possible objection to Mr. Gordon attending a political meeting at Havelock or in this city, no matter under what auspices it is held, and he is likely to come to no harm, provided he does not make a speech.

The marvel about Sir Robert Borden is that he is a winner in a political game in which he is a perfect child so far as manoeuvring or pulling wires is concerned.

TURKEY FOR U. S. SOLDIERS

Today is Thanksgiving Day in the United States and Uncle Sam made it a gala occasion for his soldiers in the training camps, many of whom will never live to see another anniversary of the nation's day for rendering praise.

Who would have thought a year ago that half a million young men would eat their gobbler and cranberries this fall on Uncle Sam? That is what they will do, for there will be no leaves granted for men to go home, even if they live only a mile from camp, because there are two working days following the holiday, and working days are valuable in the formation of this great war machine. Uncle Samuel has planned to make up for this big disappointment to his nephews just as much as he can, and the dinner is one of his efforts.

Christmas Will Be Different.

But Christmas—well, that is something else. Plans are being gone over now to see just how many men can be allowed to go home for that holiday. There is a very strongly believed rumor around camp that those who are not permitted to go at Christmas time will be given passes for New Year, for this may be the last holiday season for some of the boys.

Thanksgiving day will be a real holiday in Camp. In addition to the turkey dinner which every mess officer is trying to make just as memorable as possible under the circumstances, there will be athletics, special movie shows and, if the commission and the Y.M.C.A. can arrange it, theatrical and vaudeville performances at the big auditorium and in the "Y" buildings.

They'll Eat From Dishes.

Capt. Charles W. Reynolds of K company, 341st infantry, who composed the first menu for turkey day known in camp, started something else that promises to be adopted generally. Capt. Reynolds thought that it would be more like Thanksgiving day if the men had dishes to eat from instead of aluminum mess kits, so he dipped into the company fund and bought white enamel plates, cups and saucers, vegetable and meat dishes for the whole company. That was still not enough, so he took another dive and came up with enough white oilcloth to cover every table in the mess hall. It makes a difference.

Here is the sort of menu the men in the 341st infantry, the "Eagles" of Wisconsin, will have:

Cream of tomato soup.
Roast turkey with dressing. Cranberry sauce.
Mashed potatoes, giblet gravy.
Baked Hubbard squash. Green peas.
Celery hearts. Sweet pickles.
Hot rolls and butter.
Pumpkin pie.
Mixed nuts. Layer raisins.
Fruit.
Ice cream and cake.
Coffee.
Cigars, cigarettes.

See What the 333d Will Do.

Over in the 333d machine gun battalion the correspondent received as many invitations to dinner as there are companies in the battalion. The menu displayed by Capt. Walter Schlegel of B Company is tempting and a yard long. This company broke into The Daily News columns not long ago because of another menu arranged there, the special one for Halloween. It broke its record for food programs when the mess officer evolved the following turkey list:

Consomme a la Royal—soda wafers.
Boiled corned ox tongue, aux fines herbs.
Roman punch.
Roast prime rib of beef au jus, Yorkshire pudding.
Roast young turkey, oyster dressing, giblet sauce.
Cranberry marmalade.
Fruit salad en mayonnaise.
Mashed potatoes. Candied sweet potatoes.
French peas in cream. Asparagus vinaigrette.
Thanksgiving plum pudding, brandy sauce.
Hot mince pie. Pumpkin pie.
American cheese. Bent water crackers.
Cafe noir.
Layer raisins. Mixed nuts.
Cigars, Cigarettes.

TODAY'S STORY

"I think it would be nice," suggested Mrs. Potiphar, "to invite my sister Beryl and her husband to eat Christmas dinner with us."

"I am surprised, Eliza Jane, to hear you spring such a scheme," protested Potiphar. "Your sister Beryl has her good points, and if she cared to come alone I'd be glad to entertain her, but when her husband, Theophilus Augustus Wrench, enters this abode it will be over my dead body.

"I endured him for three or four days two years ago, and when he finally pulled his freight I was in shape to consult an alienist and have my intellect half soled. I was practically batty, driven to that condition by the misguided efforts of Theophilus Augustus.

"That was when we had our first auto, as you will recall, and we considered it the most important thing in the country. I was always brooding and worrying over that car, as a mother worries over a feverish child. I was forever imagining that something was wrong with its bronchial tubes or its carburetor. The morning Theophilus came I casually said I'd have to take the car to the repair shop soon, for there was something about it that didn't sound just right.

"Then I put on my lid and went to the office, and when I returned in the evening I found that Theophilus had taken the car all apart and had the pieces scattered around the floor. I wrung my hands and asked him what in thunder he was doing, and he said he was trying to locate the trouble I had spoken of, but he couldn't find anything wrong. I asked him if he knew anything about repairing cars, and he said he'd never tackled one before, but he used to work in a farm implement house and was considered a jim-dandy at repairing hay rakes.

"He spent all the next day putting the car together again, and got everything wapper-jawed, and I had to get a real mechanic to get it right and he charged me $47, and Theophilus Augustus never offered to chip in a cent.

"That evening I said I wanted to take my pink suit down town next morning and have it pressed, and asked you to remind me of it. You forgot he matter in the morning, and so did I. But when I returned home I remembered about it, and went upstairs to get it. I couldn't find it anywhere, and asked you what had become of it. You said you saw Theophilus Augustus taking it out of the house a couple of hours earlier, and supposed I had asked him to take it to the tailor.

"Fearing the worst, I rushed around hunting Theophilus, and finally found him in the garage. He had the gasoline stove and a couple of flat-irons, and was pressing my best suit to beat the band. I've never worn it since, and nobody could wear those trousers unless he had legs like corkscrews. The coat was scorched all up the back and the vest was ruined.

"I asked him what his idea was, and he said there was no sense in my paying out good money to a tailor when he was around. He confessed that he'd never had experience at pressing garments, but insisted that his first cousin Julia was married to a man whose uncle was one of the largest tailors in New York.

"I'm patient and long-suffering, Eliza Jane, but Theophilus Augustus doesn't come here again while I have the strength and energy to load the family shotgun."

EDITOR'S MAIL

MR. HALL'S GUN SPIKED

Editor Review:—It appears Mr. R. R. Hall has great faith in Lord Northcliffe, to judge from his last Saturday night's speech. But what Lord Northcliffe thinks of Laurier and his supporters is a different thing.

For Mr. Hall's information, I may say that Lord Northcliffe has never mentioned that England had enough men, although he has said the first two considerations are food, and ships. Why make it appear he said so?

Lord Northcliffe still urges the British Government to have every man possible ready for the front; by replacing them by women and discharged soldiers.

However, here is Mr. Hall's opinion of Lord Northcliffe and Lord Northcliffe's paper's opinion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Surely Mr. Hall cannot support Laurier under these circumstances?

Lord Northcliffe's paper, "The Daily Mail," is published in the heart of London, England, amongst millions of people and has the greatest circulation of any Daily paper throughout England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales. Its message has gone forth throughout the British Empire as a warning.

It appears to me, but in other words, that Lord Northcliffe's paper has placarded Sir Wilfrid Laurier as a traitor to Canada, a traitor to England and a forlorn hope to our brave Canadian troops at the battles front.

The unseen hand is in Ireland, and still working there. Sir Roger Casemate, a traitor, was shot at the tower, for trying to land arms from Germany.

The unseen hand is in Russia, and the German staff officers are now behind the Russian lines, and our Russian Allies are now useless.

Is the unseen hand in Kitchener and Quebec? —Beware, Canadians and Britishers too.

God Save Our King and Country.

Mr. R. R. Hall convinced the Saturday night audience at the rally that the continuance of reinforcements to the Canadian army is not the most pressing problem before the Dominion today. He showed on the testimony of leaders of the Empire's destiny that conscription is not even of secondary importance. Lord Northcliffe, who it has been said wields greater power than any other man in the world. Lord Rhondda, the British Food Controller, and Sir Eric Geddes, head of the Admiralty were the anxious witnesses. Mr. Hall called to emphasize the Allies' present needs of first ships, and second food. Mr. Hall's argument was simply this: If the British government required men above all other resources needed for victory, would they not have said so? As a matter of fact Canada has already sent overseas a far greater number than was asked or expected of us.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Peterborough, Nov. 10, 1917.

TRAPPER EATEN BY WILD ANIMAL

GRUESOME TALE FROM LOON LAKE WHERE DISCOVERY WAS MADE

Havelock, Nov. 29.— A gruesome tale comes from Loon Lake, Chandos township, to the effect that Alva Lawrence, who was trapping in that section, has apparently been eaten by a bear or some other wild animal. The story has it that Lawrence's boot and a portion of one of his legs were found by some of the residents of the township, and that the scene bore every evidence of the awful tragedy. Lawrence was well known in Havelock and this section of the country.

TWO MEN ON A FARM

How One Exemption Tribunal Dealt With Cases

Agincourt, Nov. 29. —The Agincourt exemption tribunal dealt with a total of 166 cases. Only 22 claims have been disallowed. The smallness of this number is due to the fact that practically all the men in the district work on farms and an exceptionally good proportion of the eligible men had enlisted under the voluntary system. In no case was a claim disallowed if it would leave less than two men to work a 100-acre farm.

Not All Russians In Favor of Peace

Haparanda, Nov. 28.—A counter-proclamation to the army has been made in reply to the Bolsheviki peace decree by the not-Bolsheviki Socialists and Moderates of the Committee of Safety. The proclamation states that the step taken by the Bolshevikis means the definite destruction of Russia, and that the Bolsheviki Government is recognized by no allied State nor by Germany.

Norwood, Nov. 29.—The Norwood military tribunal, which has been in session at the armories for the past two weeks, has adjourned until called together again by the military authorities. In all about ninety applications for exemption have been heard. Out of this number, fifteen claims were disallowed and twenty-one were placed in Class E.

NOTICE TO TOWNSHIP COUNCILS

Mr. Burnham has sent out notices to the Reeves and Councils of the Townships of the West Riding that if they wish to interview SIR ROBERT BORDEN on FRIDAY EVENING at the EMPRESS HOTEL, between the hours of 6 and 7.45 p.m., regarding Exemptions or other important matters, he will arrange it for them.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

"CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS" CAN'T HARM TENDER STOMACH OR BOWELS.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold, or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

SIR SAM HUGHES TO SPEAK HERE

ACCEPTS PREMIER BORDEN'S INVITATION TO FRIDAY NIGHT'S MEETING

Premier Borden has invited Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, his former Minister of Militia, to address the meeting at the Armories Friday night. Sir Sam telephoned Capt. Burnham that he has accepted the invitation and will be here. Hon. N. W. Powell, too, as stated yesterday, will be one of the speakers.

For the first time in twenty-five years the bailiffs had not a single prisoner to take east from Port Arthur district.

Hamilton's Victory Loan parade last night was more than five miles long, and required 90 minutes to pass a given point.

PUTS ANOTHER ONE OVER, DOES MR. G. N. GORDON

WON'T ATTEND BORDEN MEETING BECAUSE HE'S OUT OF POLITICS!

NO BERLIN TRICKS

The man who performed the super human feat of speaking at a political meeting in Havelock and yet not being there, is out of politics. Mr. Gordon made the statement at police court last night, but he was only "putting over" another one.

Magistrate Dumble was trying to fix a date for the hearing of a case, and when Friday night was suggested, it was found that Mr. Gordon might wish to attend the Borden meeting.

"O, no. I am out of politics," laughed the Havelock man of mystery. Besides there's no politics now; it's all Union Government."

Then it was suggested that Chief Thompson would be at the meeting. "I want to be there to see that Sir Robert Borden is not interrupted," said the Chief.

Addition of Two Men Calls for Revision of Routes.

The letter carriers these days are working hard to adapt themselves to a new situation. Two new men have been added to the staff, and this necessitates a revision of every route in the city, the two new ones being formed from pieces lopped from the old ones. Everything is naturally disturbed for the present, but the old routine will be resumed and everything will be running as smoothly as ever again in a few days.

Brief History of Sergt. N. W. Hanna.

Sergt. Hanna enlisted in August of 1914 with the Third Battalion and went to Valcartier on August 14th, sailed for England on Sept. 25th, and went into camp there. After training he went to France and took part in the battle of Langemarck on April 22nd, 1915, and was wounded in the head on the 24th. He was in the battle of Mouts Horl, at Sanitary Wood, on June 13th, 1916, and was again wounded in the head, right arm and body. This caused him to be confined to hospital for three months. He again joined his battalion in October and went through the Somme engagement without injury. He was wounded again at Vimy Ridge while in a bombing raid, in December, 1916, this time in the left arm. He was in hospital for six weeks. He could have come home after this engagement, but Norman was all game, and he again entered the fray and took part in the Vimy Ridge battle on April 9th, 1917, and was buried, being wounded in the left arm and body. He was in hospital and convalescent hospital until October 18th, when he sailed for Canada. Cavan and Millbrook have a right to be proud of Sergt. Hanna, who has certainly done his bit well. Sergt. Hanna was too modest to give us an account of how he won the D.C.M., which he so proudly wears.

Editor of The Review:—Mr. Hall has kindly granted permission to the Prime Minister of Canada to speak here tomorrow evening. Thanks, Mr. Hall. Of course he has some doubts about it, but still he has decided to let him speak.

Now then Mr. Hall, how are you on Prohibition?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier says that he is flat-foot against it. So are you Mr. Hall. We all know that. No Prohibitionist will vote for you or Mr. Laurier, you may be sure of that.

once without waiting for a year to meet her demands. If Great Britain says she wants food then for God's sake let us take immediate steps to produce the food which Great Britain demands.

I pray you to assist in saving the Government of this Country from the Grafters Parasites and profiteers who are hanging round Sir Robert Borden and in whose hands he has been held during this last five years. These grafters, parasites and profiteers have for three years climbed over his Government, possessed it, robbed the people and like the greedy Comorant are feeding on the decay of our national resources.

Galt Man Said He Gained 25 Pounds

Had Rheumatism So Bad He Couldn't Close Fingers—Tanlac Ends Troubles

"I have actually gained twenty-five pounds and firmly believe if I had gotten Tanlac six months ago I would have been saved the awful suffering I had to endure, besides the hundreds of dollars I paid out for other medicines that did me no good." This remarkable statement was made by Nelson Sloat, a stationary fireman employed by Goldie & McCulloch, and living at 75 State street, Galt, Ontario, recently.

"When I began taking Tanlac," continued Mr. Sloat, "I was suffering with rheumatism and stomach trouble, which had just about put me out of commission. My stomach went back on me something less than a year ago. I would bloat up with gas after eating and suffer for hours. I also had a terrible hurting in the pit of my stomach. Then rheumatism set in on me and I got in an awful fix. I ached all over, and the pain in my hands was so intense I couldn't close my fingers. Part of the time I was flat on my back, was so nervous and miserable I couldn't sleep or rest, and fell off until I weighed only one hundred and thirty-five pounds. The time I lost from my work and the money I spent trying to get relief would amount to hundreds of dollars, but I kept getting worse.

"The day I started on Tanlac, I hadn't been able to hit a lick of work in fourteen weeks, but Tanlac soon changed things around for me. I now weigh one hundred and sixty pounds—have picked up twenty-five pounds and have gone back to work. My appetite is better than in months, and my nerves are perfectly calm. I sleep good and get up in the mornings thoroughly rested. My rheumatic trouble has left me entirely and my fingers are as nimble as they ever were. In fact, my aches and pains are all gone and I'm feeling about as well as if I hadn't been sick a day. I simply feel like a different man, and can truthfully say Tanlac is what brought me out.

BOOKKEEPING OUTRAGEOUS COURT FINDS

MAGISTRATE WOULD NOT SEND CHARGE OF THEFT TO HIGHER COURT

At a session of the police court last night, Magistrate Dumble declined to commit for trial J. S. Knapman, who was charged with converting to his own use, money to the amount of $9.74, the property of the Wm. Lytle Cartage Co. The accused was for some months the bookkeeper for the company. It was alleged that the money was missing on December 20, 1917. Mr. Hatton prosecuted.

"To draw the inference from these books that the money was converted to his own use, would be bad law" remarked his Worship. This case if sent up for trial would only be kicked out."

Mr. Gordon, counsel for the accused, tried to account for the missing $9.74, by pointing out that Lytle had in December given Knapman a number of I.O.U.'s amounting to $33, and Magistrate Dumble said, "The only conclusion you could come to is that the bookkeeping was so infernally bad, that you couldn't make anything out of the books."

Mr. Lytle in his evidence said Knapman was in charge of the books. In the instance of the $9.74, made up of two accounts paid to the collector James Robinson and handed in by him to Knapman, the amount was signed for in the collector's book by Knapman, but was not entered in the cash book by him. The books at the bank also failed to account for the money.

In his cross-examination by Mr. Gordon, Lytle said 90 per cent. of payments were made by cheque. Cash was sometimes drawn from the bank. The employes were paid partly by cheque and partly by cash. Witness got money from his bookkeeper on different occasions and gave an I.O.U.

No Credit Entries

David Fleming, bookkeeper for the company, said there were no credit entries in the cash book.

"Would you say it was good bookkeeping or outrageously bad bookkeeping," asked his Worship.

"I'd say the latter," replied witness who further stated that after taking over the books, he had been unable to strike a correct balance. He found more money taken in than paid out.

Mr. Knapman will appear again before Magistrate Dumble next Thursday to face further charges. The amount in one charge is $1100.

Toronto Young Man Charged with Fraud

TOOK ORDERS AND COLLECTED FOR WHISKEY WHICH HE COULD NOT DELIVER

At the Police Court this morning a young man hailing from Toronto was charged with fraud.

It appears that two complaints reached the police authorities yesterday that accused had collected $22 for whiskey purchases, and could not deliver the goods. Detective Newhall arrested accused last night as he was about to board the C.P.R. midnight train going east. Prisoner gave Newhall a chase the whole length of the train, and threw his suit case in front of the detective in the hope of tripping him up. In this he was unsuccessful, however, and Newhall caught his man as the train was about to pull out.

Accused is reported to have been working the town for a couple of weeks. Evidence submitted was to the effect that he falsely represented having several cases of whiskey on hand, entered into an agreement for sale of a quantity of the same to complainants and collected the purchase price therefrom, knowing that he was not in a position to fulfill his part of the bargain. Accused was remanded for one week.

Justice of the Peace H. Rush was on the bench.

Because of disloyal remarks said to have been made by him to citizens while on duty, Leo McCarthy, a Windsor police officer, was discharged from the force three years ago. Now he has been refused exemption.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battlefront; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

A Vote For Sexsmith Means a Vote For Our Gallant Soldiers

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration; and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,
JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

Havelock, November 20th, 1917.

THREE RIOTERS FINED IN COURT

YOUNG MEN WHO BROKE UP BORDEN'S MEETING AT KITCHENER

Kitchener, Nov. 28.—A trio of young men who participated in Saturday night's disturbances on King street appeared in the Police Court yesterday and were found guilty of the charge. Truman Schuller and Otto Litfin who admitted helping to organize the anti-conscription parade, although disclaiming being ringleaders, were each fined $50 and costs. Albert Nahrgang of Waterloo, who was not so active as his comrades, was fined $10 and costs.

Speedy action has been taken by the various industries and financial institutions in dealing with young men who participated in last Saturday night's disturbance. Investigations have been conducted, with the result that a goodly number of dismissals have taken place.

TREATING WITH HUNS FOR PEACE

Petrograd, Nov. 28.—It is announced officially at the Smolny Institute, the headquarters of Bolsheviki that representatives of Ensign Krylenko, the Bolsheviki commander-in-chief, have crossed to the German side and entered into negotiations with the German Military authorities.

MR. DUMBLE ON EXEMPTION OF FARM LABOR

NOT INTENDED THAT ALL THE FARMERS SHALL BE EXCUSED

NO COMPLAINTS MADE TO THE LOCAL TRIBUNALS

In the opinion of Magistrate Dumble, it is not intended that all men engaged in farm work shall be exempted from military service, notwithstanding statements to the contrary which have been made at political meetings. "Reading the reports on political meetings, one is led to believe that all farmers are to be exempted from service but the statements should not b kneta statements should not be taken literally," said Mr. Dumble to The Review. "Such is not the case."

When we are making a decision in the case of a farmer we take into consideration the amount of land, the quantity of produce raised and the amount of labor necessary to do the work and make our decision, with the question of production in mind, as well as the call for military service. The farmers are satisfied with the decisions and there have been no complaints made to the local tribunals."

POLICE CHIEF LOST IN FIRE

HELPING TO SAVE INMATES OF BURNING HOSPITAL IN QUEBEC

(Canadian Press Despatch)

St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, Nov. 28.—The six hundred thousand dollar hotel, Dieu Hospital here, was completely destroyed by fire this morning and Chief of Police Foisy lost his life while assisting in the task of removing the thousand inmates of the hospital. The thermometer was down to zero and after being got out of the hospital the inmates, who included patients, orphaned children and aged folks had hard time until accommodation in the houses throughout the town was found for them. The institution, like similar hospitals dotted all over Quebec, was managed by the Grey nuns. It consisted of three stone buildings.

CITIES TO KEEP PIGS

Plans Made For Greater Hog Production in West

Regina, Sask., Nov. 29.— In the Saskatchewan Legislature Hon W. E. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, made an announcement on behalf of the Government of the plan which will be followed by this Province in the Dominion-wide campaign for greater hog production. In brief, the Government intends to buy young sows off the Winnipeg or other stock yards and ship them to central distributing points in Saskatchewan. In the cities, towns and villages the plan is to sell little pigs to householders who apply for them. Urban municipalities will be asked to modify their by-laws if necessary to permit of pigs being kept.

NEW ROUTE TO WESTERN CANADA PROVING POPULAR

Runs Through Famous Belt of New Ontario and the Cobalt Mining District.

On your next trip to Western Canada why not travel over a new route, see the wonderful land opened up in Northern Ontario by the Transcontinental Railway and gain a glimpse of Temagami, and the Cobalt silver mining region?

You may use the famous trains on your journey without any added expense for railway fare as compared with any other route. The International Limited will carry you to Toronto, where "The National" starts on its westbound flight. "The National" uses the rails of the Grand Trunk to North Bay, the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario (Provincial Government Line) to Cochrane, and the Canadian Government Railways to Winnipeg, where it links up with the Grand Trunk Pacific for all important points in Western Canada.

A pleasant daylight run to Toronto, an evening in the Queen City, and "The National" is ready to carry you westward. The departure of "The National" from Toronto is at 9.00 p.m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. North Bay is reached next morning and there opens up for your admiration all the lakeland beauties of the territory served by the T. & N. O. line. These are followed by a wonderfully interesting trip through the sparsely populated territory of New Ontario, giving the traveller an opportunity of inspecting this fertile region, including the famed clay belt where tens of thousands of settlers will make their homes in the future. The area of New Ontario is 330,000 square miles, fully four times the size of Old Ontario, and in addition to great expanses of good farming land, it has wonderful resources in timber, minerals, water power, fish and game.

The three railways have combined to make the passenger service over this new road the equal of that offered anywhere on the continent. The smooth, straight and level roadbed embodies all that has been learned in three quarters of a century of railroad building. The dining car service is unexcelled, and the greatest travel comfort is assured. Full particulars from any Grand Trunk Ticket Agent, or C. E. Horning, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

EACH MAN MUST DO FULL SHARE

IN WAR WORK SAYS LABOR'S LEADER, SAM GOMPERS

Toronto, Nov. 29.—"Each of us should work with the devotion of a full man's duty to win this war," declared Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who was entertained to luncheon by the city in the King Edward Hotel on the occasion of his visit to speak on behalf of the Victory Loan in Massey Hall tonight.

Mr. Gompers, before the luncheon was introduced to Premier Hearst, Hon. Robert Rogers and others, and expressed admiration at the great efforts which Canada is making in prosecuting the war. "I am only too glad, even exalted," he said, "to come to say anything I can to help on the Victory Loan, just as I urged people to buy Liberty Bonds on the other side of the line."

"The man who does not contribute his service in this great cause of freedom and democracy does not understand the spirit of the times," he declared emphatically, "adding that it was a source of satisfaction to know that the United States and Canada were now united in the same common cause."

Mayor Church, who presided at the luncheon, spoke of the American Labor leader as one of nature's gentlemen beloved of all classes as well as by the masses.

The luncheon was a hurried affair as the company had to leave early to take part in the Victory Loan campaign.

PROPOSED NEW FUEL

That a thousand tons of "oakal" per day could be manufactured from the garbage that goes to waste daily in Toronto, and that a new revenue may be found from this source, was the proposition that faced the Board of Control this morning, when an offer was discussed in a letter from the Nu-Fuel Co., Ltd., of Toronto. The fuel is said to contain more units of heat than ordinary coal to the extent of about 25 per cent. It is made from garbage, such as the refuse from packing houses, stock yards, factories, street debris and manure. It is said for the new fuel that it can be manufactured at a lower cost than ordinary coal can be bought.

The company offers to take care of all the refuse from the city with the exception of the ashes, wreckage such as brick, stone, lime, etc. They would utilize rags, bottles, tin cans, etc., for various purposes. The company has two propositions to offer the city. One is that the city operate its own plant on a royalty basis, and the other is to have the plant operated by a company, the city to receive a consideration to be arranged after a discussion of the terms at a later date.

The board thought that there was something in the proposition and agreed to take up the matter after a report had been received from Street Commissioner Wilson and Dr. Hastings.

Laurier is Not Wanted in West

VETERANS OBJECT TO HIS BEING INVITED TO WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Nov. 29. Hon. J. A. Calder has reached Winnipeg from Regina, and in an interview declared that the outlook for Union success in Saskatchewan was most satisfactory. In common with many other politicians, he said, commenting on Premier Borden's being howled down at Kitchener, Ont.: "That sort of thing will help our cause. At any rate, it will do the other fellow more harm than good."

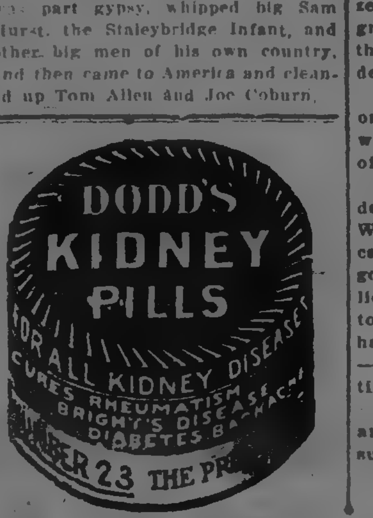
Nowhere was the Kitchener outrage so strongly condemned as at Laurier headquarters in Winnipeg.

A strong declaration has been issued by Major Andrews, Unionist candidate in Centre Winnipeg: "When I get to Ottawa I intend applying the German system in the matter of work for alien laborers. They will be given a card each morning, and they will get paid according to the number of hours they work. If they don't work they don't eat. Why should you women be giving your sons blood while these men are not making any sacrifice for the great liberties which this country will continue to give if victory is ours. I say, make aliens pay something."

Strong protest is to be sent to Chairman McMillan of the Laurier Liberal Committee here, against Sir Wilfrid Laurier being invited to speak in Winnipeg from the Army and Navy Veterans.

Britain's Heavyweights Small Men

It is strange but it is true that the best heavyweights Britain has turned out in the last half-century have all been small men, weighing little if any over the middleweight limit. England hasn't had a really good big man since the days of Bill Perry, the Tipton Slasher, away back in the '50s, and he wasn't any wonder. When it comes to pocket-edition heavyweights, however, John Bull has nothing to be ashamed of. The big fellows of America have time and again fallen before the smaller men of the "tight little isle." One of the best of these giant killers was Charlie Mitchell, who was born in Birmingham, England, fifty-sixty years ago, 1861. Mitchell was only five feet, nine, and weighed in his fight clothes from 155 to 165 pounds, yet he tackled all comers, regardless of size. When he was in his prime he fought John L. Sullivan thirty-nine rounds to a draw at Chantilly, France, and in the opinion of many spectators, he had the best of the argument with the Boston gladiator. Some years later Mitchell was easily whipped by Jim Corbett at Jacksonville, but that was after the Birmingham man had lost much of his former vigor and cleverness through dissipation. Tom Sayers, another English middleweight, standing five feet, eight and a half inches, and weighing 150 pounds, fought his way to the top of the heavyweight ladder and engaged in a memorable drawn battle with the giant John C. Heenan, the American champion. Jem Mace was still another little Englishman who conquered the biggest and brawniest of American scrappers. Jem, who was part gypsy, whipped big Sam Hurst, the Staleybridge Infant, and other big men of his own country, and then came to America and cleaned up Tom Allen and Joe Coburn.



EDITOR'S MAIL

If Laurier Wins

Here is what the Daily Mail says: London, Wednesday, Nov. 28.—The Daily Mail in an editorial on the Canadian election, calls it a "Great Misfortune." It declares that Laurier's supporters have undertaken to wreck the Canadian army at the most critical moment of the war, and condemns Laurier's contention that voluntary service will give all the men required. It says this has already been tried and has failed, as it failed in Great Britain, adding: "Victory for Laurier would mean that Canada would have to drop out of the war."

Yours truly,

SOLDIERS ON LEAVE.

Editor Review: —Would you kindly let those interested know through the columns of your valuable paper, if our young men of Canada, twenty years old, and having complied with the provisions of the Military Service Act, i.e., having put in their claim for exemption or their application for service before the 10th day of November just past, which terms these men soldiers on leave without pay. I would think this should put them on an equal footing, as far as voting is concerned, with the boys at the front.

AN ENQUIRER.

"Enquirer" or any other young man in the same class will be given the right to vote, regardless of age, just as soon as he gets into khaki and is directly under military discipline. The man waiting the call to the colors is not justified in claiming the same privileges as the boys who are at the front.—Ed. Review.

THOSE DASTARDLY ATTACKS.

Editor Review: The Examiner has again given publication to an anonymous letter, a dastardly attack in the dark, worthy of the methods of a sandbagger.

About two years ago The Examiner published the statement that it would not insert any letters attacking and mentioning by name citizens, if not signed by the name of the writer.

Why has The Examiner, during this election campaign, deviated from this splendid rule?

I saw no greater fault in Mr. Morris while at the Opera House announcing a public meeting than I did in the management issuing leaflets announcing the show for the following evening.

Mrs. Morris has excited the citizens' highest admiration for the great work she has accomplished in the public welfare while suffering under a great private sorrow.

She did not let the loss of her only son at the front retard any work she was able to do on behalf of the Empire.

I don't see why any lady should desist from working on behalf of the Win-the-War Union Government because some relative happens to be a government employe. Women, I believe, are allowed to vote according to their own inclination, and do not have to—and in many cases will not—follow the lead of their men relatives.

In conclusion, let me beg The Examiner not to open its columns to such villainous knifing in the dark.

Yours truly,
J. W. WORTH.

Mayor Duffus threw the first ball last night at the opening of the new bowling alley installed by Yeotes Bros. The Mayor spoke very highly of the fine appearance of the rooms and of the way in which Yeotes Bros. have conducted their business in the past.

All the proceeds of the night have been handed over to the Great War Veterans' Association. Mr. William Sharpe, an old bowler and a Peterborough boy, has charge of the alleys and everything promises to be run the same as in the past—open and above board.

The two little children of John Plombert, a Finnish farmer in Conmee township, near Port Arthur, perished in the flames which destroyed their home in the absence of the parents.

ments by the beginning of next year. We know only too well over here that the Fifth Division will indeed be wiped off the slate in order to reinforce the divisions in France if large fresh drafts are not immediately forthcoming. We who are close to the fighting zone know only too well the bitter struggle which the Canadian divisions are making to maintain their position.

"If the people of Canada would only realize that in order to maintain our divisions at full strength men who have been wounded have to be rushed back as soon as they are fit without the leave or rest to which they are entitled. I believe there is not a patriotic civilian in Canada who will not stand heart and soul behind you in your endeavors. Premier Borden has given his pledge that he will not betray us. We know we may rely on him to the utmost. We are relying, too, on the honor of our countrymen of Canada to be true to themselves and us in this great crisis."

How "The Brat" Was Sought and Saved

IN SPITE OF SOCIAL REFORMERS WORKED OUT HER OWN SALVATION

MacMillan Forrester, the gifted son of a wealthy metropolitan family, has a turn for writing novels on sociologistical topics and wanders through the slums to find subjects. On one of these expeditions he runs across a bright girl waif of the street who has been arrested for the first time on a charge of begging. He secures her release and in order to study the under world at short range takes her to his mother's elegant home where her position is that of part servant and part guest, and where she is given plenty to eat and which she prizes even more a stock of fashionable clothes.

The book that the novelist finished with the waif as an inspiration proved a best seller. Then he proposes to cast the girl adrift on the world again without anything in the way of reward.

Things fall out differently, however, the writer's dissolute brother who has been reclaimed by the waif comes to her rescue and marries her.

That is an outline of the plot in the comedy "The Brat," which was presented at the Grand last night with the bright Rea Martin in the title role. The play is a picture of society life, in which two women scheme for the possession of one man and both lose out. It is a satire too, on the man who is satisfied on preaching about human love while fellow morals perish daily around him. Native worth loses nothing in contrast to the artificial variety. "The Brat's" sincerity makes mock of the polish of the social butterfly.

SINK DIFFERENCES AND VOTE FOR THE SOLDIERS

Earnest Appeals in Behalf of the Heroes in the Trenches are Made to Women--Reinforcements the Paramount Issue.

TESTING TIME FOR WOMEN

THE women of West Peterborough will not break faith with the men in the battle line. Those of them who have been given the ballot will vote on December 17th as their soldier relatives would have them vote. They will vote as their friends who are silent forever under the battle-torn sod of France and Flanders would vote if they were alive today. The appeal for help comes from the men who have been spared, but most eloquent of all is that from the military cemetery. The soldiers must be reinforced. The places of the dead and wounded must be filled. The old flag must be kept flying.

There was no mistaking the spirit that was displayed at the meeting of the Women's Union Government League in Victoria Hall last night. Anything like political intrigue was not in evidence. Union Government was the theme, and the mention of Union Government and the name of the candidate who has been chosen to support it never failed to elicit a burst of hearty applause. The new women voters are in earnest in the mission which they have undertaken.

Before the meeting was called to order last night Capt. Burnham met a number of members of the league and Union Government workers, when plans for further organization were fully discussed. Mrs. Arthur Stevenson, the president of the league, called, the meeting to order and made a brief address, in which she clearly outlined the objects of the league. Referring to the cable messages that have passed between Generals Mewburn and Turner, Mrs. Stevenson said that nothing further was required to convince the Canadian people of their duty. The men at the front must be reinforced. Those who have stood in the battle line for three strenuous years must be granted a furlough.

"This is not a political organization," said Mrs. Stevenson, in conclusion. "Our only object is to win the war, and the only way to do that is to support the Union Government."

In a brief address Capt. Burnham told the members of the league to vote as the men at the front would have them vote. The soldiers will tell their friends at home how their ballots should be marked, and every vote cast for to Union Government will arouse a feeling of gratitude in the heart of every man in uniform.

The following resolution was adopted by a standing vote: "In humble thankfulness for late victories, we, the women of Peterborough, do pledge ourselves anew to do everything in our power in support of our brave men overseas, and to send them at once the necessary reinforcements.

Not Responsible

From the outset of his address, Mr. Conant very forcibly pointed out that the Union Government was not responsible for the deeds of commission or omision of the old Government. He spoke eulogistically of the women for their response in patriotic works—efforts directed to the comfort, assistance and succor of the boys in the trenches. "On this occasion when you have another avenue to give assistance there can be only one way to exercise that franchise," said Mr. Conant. He went on to tell of the fight for liberty all through the ages, and then presented the spectacle of Germany in her effort to bring about the realization of her dream, taking occasion to point out that those things which the people of Germany had had to put up with while the war lords were preparing for war would fall upon the peoples of the world if militarism succeeded. The only thing that prevented that realization was the grand old British Fleet in the North Sea. Yet that fleet could not defeat Germany, it could only prevent Germany from defeating Britain and prevent Germany from invading England and her Dominions.

Not a Political Appeal

"My appeal is not a political appeal," said the speaker. "The question is whether Britishers shall continue to control this country or whether the Germans shall be in control. Let us make doubly sure that we will have a country to control ourselves. Speaking of the entrance of leading Liberals into the Union Government, he added: These men, every one of them in my humble opinion have entered this government from a sense of duty. Mr. Borden told them some things of the seriousness of the situation that he cannot tell the people. Mr. Rowell who is the soul of honor, went into that government because of a sense of duty. He visited the trenches, the munitions factories of England, he visited the Grand Fleet and from what he saw presented before him has joined the government believing it to be in the strictest sense, his duty.

If any man in this hall who is a Liberal thinks that he cannot support union government, let him think and bear in mind that this issue is so big that the individual doesn't amount to a snap of the fingers. Over in France men are giving up their lives for a principle—not for any selfish end but for justice, liberty and civilization. If you can't support the union candidate, it is your duty to endorse the principle for which he stands. At this junction you must sink your individual feelings. I am a Liberal, liberalism is democracy and that is the issue on the battle fields of France today."

Herrings Across Trail

Mr. Conant warned his auditors not to be led astray by the cries of profiteering, etc. These issues were nothing more than herrings across the trail. Men who were using them were doing so simply for their own private ends. The new government was in no wise responsible for the acts of the old government. Whatever else might be said of Sir Robert Borden, he was a gentleman and would carry out his promises. There was not a government among the Allied nations that had not made tremendous blunders. Against the present government the people has before them an opposition that was untried.

"Shall we break faith with those who sleep in Flanders' field?" asked the speaker, in conclusion.

DOCTORS TRY TO BLOCK THE MED. BOARD?

MEN IN A2 CATEGORY SHOW PHYSICIAN'S LETTER TO TRIBUNAL

MEANS MORE WORK

The local military tribunals have been inundated with letters from doctors, which have been supplied to applicants for exemption, and the letters have been a source of worry to the tribunals, and have been the cause of extra work for the medical board. Many applicants for exemption have appeared with A2 category papers and upon their personal appearance before the tribunal they have brought forth the doctor's letter which in numerous cases has stated that the bearer suffers from one or more diseases or complaints and is unfit for military service. This frequently results in a second examination.

Judge Huycke almost lost patience this morning when another applicant catergoried A2, presented a doctor's letter stating that Michael J. O'Brien, an employe of the Peterboro Locks Co., had undergone an operation for appendicitis. The applicant asked for exemption.

"The doctors are making a record with their letters," remarked the Judge. They're trying to block the work of the Medical Board because they're not on it."

UNION MEETING IS BROKEN UP BY HOODLUMS

FIRE HOSE QUELLS RIOTERS

Theatre in Which Gathering Was Held a Total Wreck.

Sherbrooke, Que., Nov. 30.— The most serious disturbance that has yet occurred in the Province of Quebec in the present general elections took place here last night at a meeting in His Majesty's Theatre, where Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, and Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries, sought to give assistance to the Unionist candidate here, W. S. Davidson. It was a riotous crowd of hoodlums who started the trouble, which ended only after the front of the theatre had been wrecked and a cyclonic effect had been given to the interior by numerous fights. The rioters were held back only by the well-directed use of a fire hose at the stage door when they attempted to storm the stage

MR. HALL HOLDS RECORD RALLY IN SMITH TP.

Meeting Billed for Fourth Line Attended By Himself and Chauffeur.

NOT A SINGLE VOTER TURNED UP

Farmers Do Not Regard Mr. Hall's Campaign As At All Serious.

Mr. R. R. Hall duly advertised that he would address a meeting in Smith Township at 2:30 yesterday afternoon in the old Temperance Hall, Fourth Line, that historic building in which the temperance sentiment for which Smith is famous was cradled in its infancy and which has in its day been the scene of many a rousing political meeting. The audience that was present yesterday can both aptly and truthfully be described as large and respectable. It consisted exclusively of Mr. Hall and his chauffeur. The former is of sufficiently generous physical proportions to fulfil the first condition. The man who presides at the steering wheel of Mr. Hall's auto is in no sense a politician, notwithstanding his present condition of servitude.

Not a single farmer showed up. Mr. Hall and his chauffeur cooled their heels in the empty room and patiently waited, but waited in vain, long past the hour set for the opening. Then they set out in quest of other victims.

There is nothing that Mr. Hall can hope for from the farmers of Smith. So to speak they already have his political measurement. They have weighed him in the balance. They scorn his counsel and will have none of his specious pledges. Mr. Hall's sole satisfaction to be derived from the verdict of yesterday is that he has scored the record in the matter of political meetings in this riding. There have been small audiences before, but none quite so invisible to the naked eye as that in the Smith Temperance Hall yesterday.

At least, however, it can be said that the meeting was marked by no unpleasant incidents. There were no hecklers on hand to worry Mr. Hall with perplexing questions. He is not even regarded as a factor in the election of sufficient importance to excite anything in the nature of active opposition.

PREMIER WILL BE ASKED TO CONSCRIPT MEN FOR FARM WORK AS WELL AS WAR

Farmers of Smith Listen to Discussion of Labor Problem as it Effects Them—Speeches by E. N. Elliott, G. N. Gordon and Others— Resolution Goes to Prime Minister.

Last night at the Forester's Hall at Bridgenorth, a large and enthusiastic meeting took place, under the chairmanship of Reeve McKee. Mr. Burnham had suggested sometime before that the councillors and representatives of the townships should present their views to Sir Robert Borden, with respect to the food production and labor problem and the action of the tribunals affecting them so the members of the Township of Smith Council, held this meeting for the purpose of discussing the present situation.

The meeting was non-political and was most representative, being attended by all the prominent farmers and their families, both Liberal and Conservative. Mr. E. M. Elliott, County Treasurer, and Mr. G. N. Gordon, were invited to speak and discuss the present situation, as it affected the Township of Smith farmers.

Mr. Elliott Speaks.

Mr. E. M. Elliott was the first speaker and dealt most effectively with the amount of labor required to produce the fullest extentd and to properly cultivate a farm of one hundred acres. Mr. Elliott showed how much food could be produced from the labor of one man and from the labor of two men and showed most conclusively that in this part of Ontario, two able bodied men were needed to properly farm one hundred acres in order to provide

MUNITIONS WORKER WITH FOURTEEN RELATIVES AT FRONT PUT IN CLASS 2

Ernest Symes said he Tried to Enlist Six Times and was Always Turned Down—Tribunal Disallows Approximately 100 Applications

The tribunal at the judge's chambers, in the court house, of which Judge Huycke is chairman, will complete their duties early next week, probably on Monday or Tuesday. To date, approximately six hundred applications for exemption have been dealt with, and it is estimated that already the tribunal has disallowed one hundred applicants. This number would have been increased had it not been for the broad consideration given men of the first class who are farmers and who sought exemption on the grounds of importance of occupation.

This morning John Joseph Hickey, 538 Reid street, a munitions inspector, who was categorized A2, asked exemption because of ill-health and infirmity. He has throat trouble and heart trouble. Hickey requested another examination and was accommodated.

His Father Is Blind.

Because W. S. Doig, 228 King street, has a father who is totally blind, the young man was transferred to the class of married men with families.

The step-mother of Bruce Meeks, Euclid Ave., said: "You never know when one is liable to be laid away and it would be nice to have Bruce at home." Her son, she said, paid his board, and her husband lost time from his work because of head trouble.

"I think he should go," commented Col. Clegg. The claim was disallowed.

"I'm the only son at home," said John Castle, 166 Dufferin street. "Give us some good reasons," encouraged Magistrate Dumble.

His mother replied that the applicant was turned down as medically unfit in his effort to join the 80th Battalion.

"He has poor eyesight," added the mother.

"See the medical board again," ordered the chairman, "and tell them all there is to tell."

One Must Go.

T. J. McCarthy, 274 Woodbine Ave., supports the home. A brother was due to appear before the City Council Chamber today. One step-brother, aged 17 works at the Campbellford Woollen Mills and another step-brother is in England with the Canadian Engineers.

McCarthy agreed with the tribunal that one of the two brothers should go, and he left the court to find his brother in an effort to bring about a decision as to which should go.

Willing To Join.

"If I could get in the Mechanical Transport I would be willing to go and let my other brother stay at home," said James J. Collins, clerk for Matthews-Blackwell. The decision on his younger brother's application was deferred by the other local tribunal. Collins was willing to go, but feared a recurrence of rheumatic trouble if he entered infantry service. Decision was deferred.

Albert E. Duffus, of the Duffus Garage, applied for exemption on the grounds of rheumatic trouble. Applicant said he was forced to give up the management of the branch business at Norwood on account of ill-health. The tribunal sent him to the medical board for re-examination.

Commended by Tribunal

William Lanery, George street, S., didn't think he could pass as an A2 man, but when he went through the ropes at the armories where he was categoried A2, and returned to the Tribunal he said he was quite willing to go. His statement won him the commendation of the Tribunal.

The application of Timothy Parden Bowler, whose stated unwillingness to fight, took the Tribunal by surprise yesterday was later disallowed.

Will Appeal Decision

Mr. [illegible] Lowe appeared before the Tribunal stating that he wished

Archbishop Spratt Accuses Them of Unfairness in Discussing Sister Mary Basil's Case

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Kingston, Nov. 30.—"I stand here to deny every charge that has been brought against me fully conscious of the responsibility of such a declaration."

This was the statement of Archbishop Spratt this morning in regard to the Sister Mary Basil case, in which he and other Roman Catholic defendants were assessed $20,000 by a jury here recently. Today was the occasion of the sixth anniversary of his consecration and the clergy of his dioces assembled to express their confidence in the Archbishop. St. Mary's Cathedral was filled with people to hear his statement and express loyalty and love.

His Grace said he had for five years endeavored honestly to settle the difficulties of Sister Mary Basil, using all his faculties to accomplish this but had failed. He declared that the orphanage was a model institute. The trouble arose, he said, from the refusal to accept the law of obedience in its true sense.

The Archbishop threatened to ban both Kingston papers from Roman Catholic homes in his dioceses if they persisted in what he termed, "Their unfair, unjust, biassed and bigoted attitude."

Papers Denounce Peace Suggestions

London, Nov. 30.—The Marquis of Lansdowne's letter giving peace suggestions holds first place in the editorial columns of the London morning newspapers, but, with the exception of the radical Daily News, which approves it, and the moderate Daily Telegraph, which endorses it in part, it is denounced.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1917

MR. HALL AND PROHIBITION.

WILL MR. HALL tell the voters of West Peterborough just where he stands on the prohibition issue? Nothing has been heard from him yet on this question. The electors know that his party organs are using it as a matter of political capital—taking the ground that the Federal Government should pass a measure that would really amount to Dominion-wide prohibition. They know, too, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to whom Mr. Hall has declared allegiance, is opposed to the principle of prohibition, and that the Borden Administration went as far in reinforcing provincial prohibitory legislation as they had a constitutional warrant to go.

HEAR SIR ROBERT BORDEN TONIGHT.

IT IS SIX YEARS since Sir Robert Borden, then the leader of the Opposition, has been heard in Peterborough. He came then as a member of a political party but times have changed. He speaks in this city tonight as the leader of a non-partisan Union Government.

Sir Robert Borden will always live in history as the Premier who guided the destinies of Canada through the most trying period of the nation's history. He has accomplished what no one a few years ago ever dreamed was possible. From a people unused to war and skilled only in peaceful pursuits, he has evolved an army of over four hundred thousand men, an army that has written the name of this country at the very pinnacle of the honor roll of nations. The burden that Sir Robert has carried for the past three years has been so heavy that the marvel is that any man could stand the strain.

Sir Robert Borden designed the present Union Government and would have constructed it on even a wider plan if he had met with the co-operation which he sought. He is meeting with enthusiastic receptions wherever he goes. No such series of meetings has ever been held in an election campaign in Canada. In all his tour there has so far been only one hostile demonstration, and this has but served to make the Premier stronger than ever with his patriotic fellow-citizens.

Hear the message which Sir Robert Borden will deliver at the Armories tonight. He has been with the men in the trenches and understands their needs. He appeals not to party prejudice but to the best element in human nature — patriotic and unselfish devotion to the country and to its gallant defenders.

MR. HALL NOW AND IN 1911.

MR. HALL has two sermons now, just as he had when he took such an active part in the reciprocity campaign six years ago. One is prepared for the special benefit of the farmers, the other is designed exclusively for city consumption.

In 1911 Mr. Hall told the farmers that if this country had free trade in natural products with the United States they would get higher prices for everything they had to sell. When he spoke in the city to an audience of consumers he changed his strategy and asked them to believe that the free importation of produce from the United States would break down the scale of high prices and would mean cheaper foodstuffs for every household.

Today Mr. Hall preaches production to the farmer. While in the country he has no fault to find with the price of anything the farmer has to sell. When he comes to the city he tells his audience that the Government should fix the prices of everything so as to allow the producer only a living profit.

It is the same old game of six years ago, and will fail in 1917. The farmer rejected his theories and showed the same result. Mr. Hall failed in 1911. He will fail in 1917. The farmers rejected his theories and they are in the same frame of mind today.

DECEIVING THE PEOPLE.

HUNG PROMINENTLY upon the walls of Mr. Hall's committee rooms is a blazing poster which says: "Remember, Borden provided $10,000,000 for worthless C. N. R. stock."

These days there are associations to shield the unwary and the innocent from the machinations of the foxy. The pity of it is that there is no society for the prevention of the dissemination of false teachings, especially of persons who know such teachings to be false, and spread them, not through pure degeneracy so much as for selfish gain. Mr. Hall is not deceived by the legend on his poster. Then why in the name of the memory of Ananias does he attempt to put such a whopper over on the public?

The truth concerning the C. N. R. can be told in a few paragraphs. Premier Borden did not provide $10,000,000 or a single cent for worthless stock. What he did do was to set that amount as the maximum price of the stock in case a Royal Commission find it worth anything at all. If the commission should value the stock at even ten times that amount, no more could be paid. The chances are that not one cent will be laid out for it.

This stock, called worthless on Mr. Hall's posters, is the same stock which Sir Wilfrid Laurier was willing to take over for just a cool thirty million dollars.

Hon. George P. Graham had a deeper laid scheme than any of them when, at the last session of Parliament, he fought for the payment of the unsatisfied claims of contractors who had helped build the C. N. R. Mackenzie and Mann, railway builders, were the constructing contractors for Mackenzie and Mann, the railway owners. They had really been paid by money advanced on the road by the Government. To settle the imaginary claims of contractors would have meant paying Mackenzie and Mann over again for the same work.

Mr. Graham failed in his little scheme, failed, too, it may be added, to land a nomination when the candidates were named a week or more ago.

CAN'T TAKE THE RISK.

THE FOLLOWERS of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Quebec are not content with making war on the Military Service Act. They are going further and are pledging themselves, if they are elected and Sir Wilfrid Laurier is made Premier, to see to it that Canada drops out of the war altogether.

Mr. Hall is identified with the anti-war party in Quebec. We have his own word for it that he will support Sir Wilfrid Laurier for Premier as against Sir Robert Borden, if the opportunity ever presents itself.

That is why West Peterborough cannot afford to risk the election of Mr. Hall. His success at the polls will place Sir Wilfrid one step nearer the goal of his ambition and will mean a recruit to help the Quebec majority vote Canada out of the war.

THE EXAMINER AND LABOR.

IT IS A JOKE in any case to see The Examiner come to the rescue of Labor, and a ghastly joke by reason of the method of its procedure. Our contemporary attempts to blame Sir Robert Borden for the fact that there are not more workingmen in Parliament.

If Labor is not represented in Parliament, then Labor has only itself to blame. The working classes could have a majority of the members, just as they have in other parts of the British Empire, if they would only hold together. Any newspaper that says the contrary is talking the purest bunkum.

The Examiner's candidate, Mr. Hall, at least cannot pose as a friend of Labor. Prior to his nomination he was approached by a delegation from the Trades and Labor Council and emphatically refused to subscribe to the principles of the party or to have anything to do with them in any shape or form. Labor will get a hearing at the meeting tonight, if it accepts the invitation. Premier Borden has promised the workingmen control of the Labor Department, and his word is sufficient. His pledge will be carried out just as soon as the Labor men themselves agree on a selection.

KEEP THE FLAG FLYING.

PETERBOROUGH'S enlisted men marched to the depot to take the train for the front, with their heads held up proudly, and all members of the units heartily singing, "We'll never let the old flag fall." Bravely they have kept their word, though the rally round the flag to which they are devoted cost so many precious and promising lives.

What can the people at home do to help the brave boys in the trenches keep the Canadian standard flying? A vote for Union Government means a helping hand held out to the soldiers. A vote for Laurierism means the withdrawal of Canada from all active part in the war. The old flag will not only fall, but will be trampled into the mud of Flanders, if Laurier wins.

The soldiers have kept the faith, and for three years the flag has been flying proudly among all the national ensigns on the battlefield. Are those at home to desert them now? Must the old flag fall?

APPLYING FOR EXEMPTION.

MANY A YOUNG MAN who failed to volunteer for military duty did so because his parents withheld their consent to his leaving home. There are plenty of faithful young fellows, pure gold to the core, who would hesitate about taking such an important step without the parental blessing. These youths welcome conscription as a solution of their problem. Many of them would never have asked for exemption at all but for the fact that their parents insisted on their making the application. To many a young man the task was distasteful, and it is really a pity that all the proceedings had not been conducted behind closed doors. No man likes to have his family affairs paraded before the public. Every person's private matters are his own business peculiarly. A star chamber hearing would have encouraged the applicants to greater frankness and would have removed from members of the tribunals the temptation to indulge in plays to the gallery.

The law recognizes the right of every man to apply for exemption. The first duty of humanity is to care for those whom the Almighty has placed in our keeping. The Military Service Act did not confer upon the members of the tribunals any prerogative to insult, or to question the motive of, those who appeared before them.

There were young fellows of the right sort who, to satisfy their parents, asked for exemption, while at the same time praying that it would be denied them. Did such young men deserve to be called slackers and loafers in public and to be sent away with such a stigma to follow them for the rest of their days?

Perhaps the great mistake was made in having so many lawyers on the tribunals, men who are so prone to look for the technical points in every case instead of taking the common-sense view of the practical business man who has neither an overstock of legal lore or a superabundance of prejudice. For some reason, too, that it is difficult to understand, the average lawyer appears to regard the person who appears before him in the capacity of a witness as his lawful prey.

REFUSES TO BE TAUGHT.

HOW CAN Mr. Hall assume to teach the public on the issues of the day when he refuses to be taught by those in a position to know more of the points in dispute than he does himself?

He still claims to be in doubt as to whether men or food are most urgently needed by the Allies. Furthermore, he sees no hope of having that problem solved unless Sir Wilfrid Laurier is returned as Premier.

Cannot Mr. Hall get any light from the despatch from General Turner to Minister of Militia Mewburn, published in the papers yesterday? General Turner expresses the sentiments of the Canadian army when he says they are pleased at the prospect of early reinforcements. There is nothing said about short rations or a prospective famine, such as Mr. Hall talks about.

Mr. Hall declares that he is anxious to win the war. That may be, but in the meantime his consuming passion is to secure his own election and that of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as Premier, for without the latter Mr. Hall's success would be considerable of an empty honor.

TO THE WOMEN WHO MAY VOTE

YOU SURELY WILL GO to the polls, whether you like it or not, in view of the great importance of this election. Canada NEVER had an election that was at all important compared with this one.

IF this election were between LIBERALS and CONSERVATIVES, we would not be addressing you. This is an appeal to you to vote for UNION GOVERNMENT, which is THE ONE INSTRUMENT BY WHICH CANADA CAN DO HER PART toward winning the war.

DO YOU KNOW that if you are THE MOTHER, THE WIFE, THE SISTER, or THE DAUGHTER of a soldier OR OF A NURSE, who is or has been overseas in His Majesty's service, and if you are twenty-one years of age or over, YOUR NAME IS ON THE VOTERS' LIST!

MR. BURNHAM IS THE CANDIDATE in Peterborough who promises to stand firmly behind the Union Government and TO OPPOSE ANYTHING LIKE DELAY in sending help to our boys at the front. For the one who takes THAT STAND YOU SHOULD BE GLAD TO VOTE.

It would be well for you to make enquiries some days before the election or to refer to the newspapers to discover THE PLACE AT WHICH YOU RECORD YOUR VOTE. Get it clearly in your mind, then be sure and go, NO MATTER HOW STORMY THE WEATHER, and vote for UNION GOVERNMENT AND THE WINNING OF THE WAR.

any surplus produce for the purpose of sale. He took up in detail the farming in various sections of the township. He showed how the balance of labor was adverse in 1917, so that the loss in food producing in the Township of Smith was about one-third. In other words if labor were conscripted for the farms, the wealthy Township of Smith could produce one-third more food produce to feed the people of the City of Peterborough than it did in 1917, but at the present time with labor being even shorter than in 1917, the food producing ability of the township would be reduced much lower than it was in 1917. Mr. Elliott advocated conscription, but also the conscription of labor, forcing men to be taken from positions which were not producing food and national wealth, into positions where they would be required to produce food and national wealth or go into the firing line.

Mr. Elliott was formerly the Reeve of the Township of Smith and was an old Smith boy and he met with a most hearty reception and his address was received with enthusiasm.

Mr. Gordon and Labor.

Mr. G. N. Gordon was the next speaker who was invited to address the mass meeting of the farmers of the township, from the standpoint of organized labor. Mr. Gordon said he advocated conscription along the lines mentioned by Mr. Elliott, that men should be conscripted to the firing line and also to productive employment for the producing of food for the necessaries of life required by the armies overseas and their dependents at home. Mr. Gordon suggested that as the meeting was called at Mr. Burnham's suggestion for the purpose of preparing a resolution addressed to the Prime Minister, that it should be prepared in their own way, stating the true facts plainly and frankly without any exaggeration and addressed to the Prime Minister in a respectful way, so that he would know the true situation, and if in his opinion it needed any change that he could recommend it at the next Parliament if he were in a position to do so.

After the Profiteers.

Mr. Gordon handed out some red hot criticisms to the food profiteers and war profiteers, saying that the millions of pounds of butter and the millions of dozens of eggs which were held up in the cold storage concerns of the William Davies Company, Flavelle's Limited and the other big concerns in Toronto, Hamilton and Montreal, should be conscripted and sold at a fair margin above cost to the working people and to the wives and dependents of the soldiers, and that the war profiteer should be kicked out of his place and that the flour milling, packing houses and all food producing concerns should be nationalized and run under Government control.

Mr. Gordon also addressed the meeting on the Conscription Act, taking up in detail the operation of it and the rights of exemption that the Act was intended to allow to those in food producing occupations in the national interest. Mr. Gordon said that some of the tribunals certainly did not appreciate, as they had in England, the necessity of keeping men in food producing occupations.

Mr. Gordon concluded his address by urging the farmers of the wealthy Township of Smith to participate freely in the War Loan, because if they did need the money at any time, they could borrow on the war bonds from any Bank to 90 per cent, and in that way those who were not able to fight the battles of the Empire, were able to assist in the fighting with a silver bullet.

Ex-Reeve Garbutt.

Ex-Reeve Garbutt, one of the judges of the Smith tribunal, expressed himself as extremely well pleased with the addresses that were given, and made a neat speech himself, explaining the serious position of the labor shortage in the township.

Resolution for Premier.

A resolution was moved by John McConkey and seconded by J. J. Northey, two of the best known farmers in the Township of Smith, addressed to Sir Robert Borden, drawing his attention to the serious shortage of labor and the loss that would be caused to the township and to the City of Peterborough, unless something was done to conscript labor and to assist the farmers of this County in producing more food for the people.

Mr. John Telford, on the invitation of the chairman, gave a short address also, as did the Rev. Mr. McKee, the resident clergyman, and also Mr. George Nicholls, Deputy Reeve of the township.

The meeting was one of the best and biggest that was ever held in the Township of Smith and was of a non-political character entirely.

The meeting closed by a short address from Reeve McKee, and the singing of God Save the King.

UNION MEETING

where the speakers were. The riot lasted more than three hours, during which period the howling mob broke through the doors of the theatre and were repelled by the audience on the ground floor, and who, each time that the gang broke into the theatre, rose up in their might and drove them back.

It was a series of pitched battles, and there were at least 20 of them. The whole of the front of His Majesty's Theatre, where the meeting was held, was smashed to splinters. Not a single piece of glass was left intact, and through the broken windows stones of all sizes went hurling into the building.

Men Protect Women

At the end of the meeting the chairman called on the peaceful people to remain inside for a time in order that the situation might be gone into, with a view to seeing that steps could be taken to get the women away in safety. The men decided to protect their own women, and many chairs were broken so that the arms and legs might serve as weapons, and almost en masse the audience left the hall. They presented such a determined appearance that they were not rushed, as had been expected. At the close of the meeting only about 800 people remained in the theatre. These were the peaceable people. The others, who had filled the gallery at the commencement of the meeting had gone out, instead of waiting to be thrown out, and joined their fellows in the street.

The trouble was expected. It had been openly threatened for three days. The meeting was called for 8.30, but before that time the lower floor was filled with citizens of Sherbrooke and their wives and daughters. There were about 300 of these men present. They were so angered when the row was started from the gallery that they jumped up en masse and commenced to rush toward the stairway, calling out that they would clean out the gallery.

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE BABY ACT AGAIN.

Editor Review: Once more The Examiner has been properly called to account for publishing an anonymous letter reflecting upon a prominent and public-spirited citizen.

Once more the newspaper pleads the baby excuse that it meant no harm and that the letter was printed through an oversight. That does not set right the mischief that has been done. Private reputation is too valuable an asset to be aspersed through the negligence of careless journalists.

A READER.

THE GREATEST AMONG THEM.

Editor Review: In your enthusiasm over the great address given by Dr. Shields on Tuesday night you make a statement which needs to be qualified. It is not a fact, as you state, that "Dr. Shields is acknowledged to be the most prominent personage in the Baptist Church in Canada." It is indeed true that he is one, but only one, of the foremost Baptist ministers in Canada.

Rev. Capt. W. A. Cameron, who gave an address at the Empress Hotel last spring is another, but it is generally acknowledged that the leading Baptist minister in Canada is Rev. Capt. John MacNeil of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto, and now overseas.

T.A.S. MINSTRILS PRESENT SNAPPY ENTERTAINMENT

Up-to-minute Jokes Kept Audience in Good Humor

The T. A. S. Musical and Dramatic Club, in presenting their minstrel entertainment at St. Alphonsus Lyceum last night were rewarded first with an audience that taxed the accommodation of the hall, and, secondly, with generous applause which followed every number on the program. It was another fine success for the club, and Miss Marion Gorman, the talented and popular pianist, who conducted the rehearsals and directed the presentation.

One of the outstanding features of the entertainment were the snappy, bright and up-to-the-minute jokes and monologues. There wasn't anything that looked like a chestnut. The song numbers were the latest hits of the day, and they were sung as only the well-known vocalists of the club can sing them.

A pretty Chinese scene was introduced with Mr. Hanrahan taking the role of Ching Chong. He was supported by Misses O'Donnell, Dwyer, Leahy and Levasseur, all attired in Chinese costume. The stage setting was very fine.

The six-piece orchestra of the T. A. S. added to the excellence of the entertainment.

Mr. W. Casey was stage manager. The minstrels will give a performance in Ennismore tonight.

POLITICAL NEWS

Capt. Burnham has received word from a number of the reeves of the township stating that they accept his invitation to come to the city tonight and interview Sir Robert Borden with regard to the effect the Military Service Act is likely to have on the labor problem in the country.

Mr. R. R. Hall, the Laurier candidate in West Peterborough, has issued an election address, two newspaper columns in length, in which he fails to mention the name of his leader or to make the slightest reference to the latter's published platform.—Orillia Packet.

Man and Woman are Arrested for Theft

Joseph Duchaina and a woman he claims to be his wife were arrested here last night on a charge of theft. They were held by the police until the arrival at noon today of Chief of Police Short of Lindsay in which town they are wanted for the theft of $60 fom clothing a house where they boarded.

Chief Thompson yesterday received a phone message from Lindsay, asking him to look out for the pair, who were thought to have entrained for Peterborough. Constable Denieard arrested them as they were about to board the midnight C.P.R. train for Montreal, for which city they had tickets.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! A SMALL BOTTLE STOPS DANDRUFF

EVERY BIT OF DANDRUFF DISAPPEARS AND HAIR STOPS COMING OUT

TRY THIS! YOUR HAIR APPEARS GLOSSY, ABUNDANT, WAVY AND BEAUTIFUL

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight— now — any time— will surely save your hair.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

"OLIVET TO CALVARY" ABLY SUNG BY ST. JOHN'S CHOIR

Uniformidlygood Presentation of Work by Maunder

Last night was the eve of the Apostle and Martyr Saint Andrew, and at 8.15 the choristers of St. John's began a programme consisting of Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" and several numbers of Haydn's "Creation." The former is a devotional work, containing several dramatic numbers, indeed, the sad events of Holy Week are realistically presented, from the "Hosanna" of Palm Sunday to the "Death on the Cross," the hymn, "Rock of Ages" very softly sung, being used as the finale. Last night's presentation was uniformly good. The second part of the programme consisted of five numbers from Haydn's "Creation," a choral standard work of extraordinary difficulty. St. John's is an extraordinary choir, witness the little boys of nine years of age, who led the procession of choristers into the chancel and sang apparently every chorus in the first part, answering to the baton of the conductor as admirably as did their seniors. The youngest lady in the choir, Muriel Bridge, aged 15, played an organ solo, "Prelude and Fugue" (Back) with pedal obligato, and played it finely. Mr. Cyril H. Devey, a young musician trained at St. John's showed marked ability in playing the score of "Olivet to Calvary". The real test of the choir as a choral body came in their two "Creation" numbers, "The Marvellous Work," and "The Lord is Great," and right and nobly did the choir rise to the occasion, producing all the choral effects the lovely music calls forth. The unaccompanied double quartette in "Olivet to Calvary" was finely sung by Mrs. Devey, Miss Quartermaine, Mrs. Evans, Miss Lancaster, Mr. Marshall, Mr. C. Devey, Mr. Flowers and Mr. G. Coleman. Mrs. Amys sang splendidly in two solo numbers, "Another Temple," and "Droop, Sacred Head." In the tenor and bass solo work Mr. Hutchinson and Mr Ward excelled themselves, especially in "O, Was There Ever," and "A New Commandment." In combination with Mrs. Perks these gentlemen gave a splendid rendering of the trio "Most beautiful appear." Mr. Ward also sang one of the most famous bass solos in oratorio, "Rolling in foaming billows," preceded by the Recit. "And God Said." His fine voice gave a splendid rendering. Another famous solo "In verdure clad" was beautifully sung by Mrs. W. G. Perks, who also delighted everybody with the soprano obligato which at high range, runs through the chorus "The Marvellous Work." Mrs. Perks appeared some years ago in an operatic production under Mr. Devey's direction, singing the soprano part of "Yum Yum" in the "Mikado."

Mr. R. J. Devey, the veteran organist and choirmaster, conducted with the skill and precision, now so thoroughly associated with the many musical works presented in Peterborough, under his able direction. Hearty congratulations to him and the magnificent voluntary choir of St. John's, a finely constituted body of singers equally successful in singing the glorious liturgical services of the Anglican Church, or the grand Bible subjects in oratorio.

Unity the Only Thing

Mrs. Hamilton brought a fine burst of applause from her audience when after saying" we have it on the authority of that great little Welshman Lloyd George that unity is the only thing that will save us now," she added, "I am inclined to believe what Lloyd George says." Mrs. Hamilton drew a picture of what had happened in Belgium, in Serbia and in Roumania because there were not sufficient reinforcements, and passed on to speak of the situation in Russia and on the Italian front. Then with these happenings in mind, the speaker asked that another picture be drawn—one of what may happen in the West front, if reinforcements are not forthcoming.

Discussing the present situation in Canada, Mrs. Hamilton said she regarded "Liberal" and "Conservative" as labels, and declared that they should be nothing more than labels. "I believe that co-operation is what we want in the government and not contentions" was one of the speakers spirited statements that were applauded. She believed that Sir Robert Borden wanted Mr. Carvell, the critic of the late government, in the Union Government, because he would be able to criticize. By the entrance of Mr. Crerar, Mrs. Hamilton believed that the farmers would be very well looked after.

The Paramount Issue

Her appeal to the women was to make the matter of reinforcements the paramount issue and to get out and work to the last ounce of their strength. If they became tired, they should think of the men in the trenches who were super-tired, yet, reinforcements or not, were prepared to go on to the end. It was a great testing time for women.

'Here we are today with the issue perfectly clear and no difficulty in voting. To the woman who loves her man at the front there is no difficulty in voting. We women have been a bit conceited about our sacrifices, but if we come within 1000 miles of the sacrifice made by the men in the trenches we will have done well. We have asked for independence; now we've got it and let's use it."

Some Accomplishments

Speaking of what the new government had done, Mrs. Hamilton said that the use of foodstuffs in the manufacture of liquor had been prohibited; the end of the patronage system had come; profits were limited and after a certain margin had been made the remainder went to the government. "It was a little late to put that in when profiteering has been settled" declared Mrs. Hamilton after referring to an election pamphlet issued by Mr. R. R. Hall, in which the government was censured for permitting profiteering. The concluding words of the pamphlet were, she said, a very good argument for Union Government.

In conclusion Mrs. Hamilton said: Remember, when you go into a polling booth, a soldier is looking over your shoulder and watching you write.

Col. Stevenson Saw Big Fire

Col. Arthur Stevenson has returned from an official trip to the north country, which took him through Kinmount where on Wednesday morning, a large part of the business section of the village was destroyed by fire, causing a loss estimated to be between $30,000 and $40,000. The blaze which it is thought originated from an overheated stove in Doherty Bros. general store, gained headway speedily, and the volunteer efforts of the citizens to stay the flames were for the most part unsuccesful.

Business houses extending from Doherty's store to the old Dettmann hotel were wholly or partly destroyed.

ALL WORK.

No more "euchres" till after the big bazaar, is the verdict of the Immaculate Conception parish committee. This action on their part is to enable all interested in the welfare of the bazaar a clear field and a straight course to gain the end for which they are working, to better even last year's record. With this end in view the convenors and assistants of the various booths are doing great initial work, and that their efforts will be rewarded by a record-breaking attendance is only to be expected. The memory of last year's bazaar is still fresh in the minds of those who attended, and the enjoyment derived will make each and every attendant a booster for the one to be held the week of December 10th.

The parishes in the city are lending their aid in various ways to help the good work along. This shows a good spirit. So all working together, there's but one answer—success.

"I'm a Wise Old Bird"

Few People Know This

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

SUPERSTITION IN JAPAN

Missionairies Have Had a Fight Against Popular Beliefs

An European writes: "Japan is popularly supposed to have one religion, Buddhism, and one quasi-religion, Shintoism, usually understood to be upheld by the authorities as a stimulus to patriotic thinking. But as a matter of fact there are nearly thirty different sects in the two religions. It is not heathen religions, however, which have to be fought; but the superstitions, which cluster round them. Worship of a deplorable kind is practised in connection with many Shinto shrines. The tourist passes a Fox shrine by the wayside, and is impressed by its picturesqueness and sees little in it except a reason for a smile.

"There are Japanese at this day who keep serpents in cages and call them Oderen-sama, 'honorable lord [illegible],' bowing before them in supplication. When we hobnob with the 'principal' of the village school and he, with a cynical smile, says that the people are very ignorant, we should remember that in almost every village there are one or two soothsaying women called "Miko" who are consulted by otherwise intelligent men on every important step in business, and who have often more power than any priest or official over the actual lives of members of the community, acting not only with regard to the affairs of the living but rendering service as mediums between the living and the spirits of the departed, settling questions of property, marriage and divorce."

It should be the aim of every poulterer to improve the egg qualities of his flocks. He should take good aim. But in his endeavor to improve he should not make too rapid a pace.

Trap nests help to pick out the drones, and enable us to give better attention to the workers.

Russia is estimated to have more than 4,000,000 acres of land which would produce cotton if irrigated.

WHEN CANADIANS UNITED

Races Gave Together For Soldiers—Lord Shaughnessy's Tribute

At a celebration in Montreal over a successful campaign for Patriotic Fund subscriptions, Lord Shaughnessy made one outstanding declaration which was loudly endorsed, and the business men came away from the meeting with this announcement in their ears: "If I were in charge of the affairs of the country, if I were administering the Government, I would get just such assistance to carry these things through as we have had in this fund. Such enthusiasm, such capacity for organization, such singleness of purpose, would give us results a thousand times better than can be had when we have to consider political exigencies or party advantages." The bonne entente spirit, which has characterized the whole campaign, was very much in evidence at the final demonstration. Mr. J. W. McConnell, the chairman of the Day's Pay Committee, announced that no less than 60 per cent. of the contributions included in this magnificent total came from French-Canadians.

THE FOOD VALUE OF GOOD MILK

That is Pure, Clarified and Pasteurized Milk

The milk matter is very [illegible] for reasons of economy, as well as for its relation to [illegible].

Milk is equal to a meal consisting of meat and eggs, sugar and cereals, oils and fats, with salt and water. A milk diet, therefore, is like a mixed diet. Milk contains all the elements necessary to sustain life.

To get the nourishment contained in a quart of milk—according to Prof. Rosenau of Harvard—you would have to buy and prepare ¾ pound of beef, or 8 eggs, or 2 pounds of chicken, or 2 pounds of codfish. Each of these costs you more, to say nothing of the time, labor and fuel required in preparation.

NEW ROUTE TO WESTERN CANADA PROVING POPULAR

Runs Through Famous Belt of New Ontario and the Cobalt Mining District.

On your next trip to Western Canada why not travel over a new route, see the wonderful land opened up in Northern Ontario by the Transcontinental Railway and gain a glimpse of Temagami, and the Cobalt silver mining region?

You may use the famous trains on your journey without any added expense for railway fare as compared with any other route. The International Limited will carry you to Toronto, where "The National" starts on its westbound flight. "The National" uses the rails of the Grand Trunk to North Bay, the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario (Provincial Government Line) to Cochrane, and the Canadian Government Railways to Winnipeg, where it links up with the Grand Trunk Pacific for all important points in Western Canada.

A pleasant daylight run to Toronto, an evening in the Queen City, and "The National" is ready to carry you westward. The departure of "The National" from Toronto is at 9.00 p.m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. North Bay is reached next morning and there opens up for your admiration all the lakeland beauties of the territory served by the T. & N. O. line. These are followed by a wonderfully interesting trip through the sparsely populated territory of New Ontario, giving the traveller an opportunity of inspecting this fertile region, including the famed clay belt where tens of thousands of settlers will make their homes in the future. The area of New Ontario is 330,000 square miles, fully four times the size of Old Ontario, and in addition to great expanses of good farming land, it has wonderful resources in timber, minerals, water power, fish and game.

The three railways have combined to make the passenger service over this new road the equal of that offered anywhere on the continent. The smooth, straight and level roadbed embodies all that has been learned in three quarters of a century of railroad building. The dining car service is unexcelled, and the greatest travel comfort is assured. Full particulars from any Grand Trunk Ticket Agent, or C. E. Horning, District Passenger Agent, Toronto.

Mrs. Justspliced Writes Again To Mama

My Darlingest Mama:—

It seems such ages since I saw you. But I am writing to tell you that I am coming to pay you a short visit next week, and I am sure you will be surprised to see how little Phonsy has grown. I'm sure he has a tooth coming because he bites his finger so, and he is beginning to talk already, both Alphonse and I heard him say "Dada" quite plainly. You were asking me in your last letter if my grocery man is still there; well you can bet he is, and he is still ahead of them all. We've been having such fun, because the City Council started a fish Trust, saying it was in the people's interest that only three men should be allowed to sell government fish, but of course the people knew it was only a case of trying to put something on them again. So when my grocery man started in to give them a square deal, why everybody goes to him for their fish. And then you know those hams he was specializing? Well he sold so many that some of the others thought they must try, but they couldn't touch him for quality or price, and then he has now got an entirely new line which is even better value; that is small bacon rolls, no bone and no skin and he sells them at 35c a lb. for the smoked and 31c a lb. for the pickled. So as you will see he's still ahead and I am going to bring you some of the special homemade candies he has just started selling. There is some maple cream that is delicious and it is only 28c a lb. and some peanut brittle and—but I won't tell you anymore now, wait till I give you a taste. I'm afraid you will think my letter is all "grocery man", but everybody talks about him, and we are teaching little Phonsy to say go to A. W. Paskins, Cor. Hunter and Aylmer Sts., Phone 317. And he will soon be able to say it all because already he says "Go Go." Well now dearest Mama, I must close with love from Alphonse, Phonsy, and your happy daughter.

MIMI.

A stiff upper lip doesn't amount to much if the lower jaw is too limber.

MAKING CANDY IN THE KITCHEN

Christmas—the season of mirth and jollity with holly and evergreen in our homes, with a table that in its festive air bespeaks the season, with the happiness of youth even in homes that have known the ravages of war—how will it be this year?

A letter less exuberance, holly and evergreens as before, a table with the lavishness of other years somewhat modified, but still the same joy abounding among the boys and girls in Canadian homes in city and country.

With the people of France, Italy, Belgium and Serbia, on rations, with the boys and girls in Great Britain knowing less and less of confectionery and more and more of plain and restricted diet, it is not likely that there will be such lavish supply of sweetmeats in Canada this Christmas as in other years.

No Christmas Candy?

Does it mean that there will be no Christmas candy? May we not send any to the men at the front? Must the boys and girls at home have a candyless Christmas? We are asked only to use a little ingenuity in the combination of fruits and nuts, and of sweetmeats made from honey, molasses, maple sugar and raisins. We can eat all the candies we want with a clear conscience if we eat those made from other things than cane or beet sugar. Chocolate is quite permissible and the varieties of candies which can be made, without the use of cane or beet sugar, are numerous.

Human beings need sweets. Candies are wholesome when eaten in moderation. There is a movement on foot in the United States to display in the shops only such varieties of candies as are made entirely or largely from other ingredients than cane or beet sugar. People who are unpatriotic enough to want the latter may have them by asking for them but it is anticipated that the demand for those varieties will be greatly reduced.

Home Made Candies

There never were any confections half as delicious or half as wholesome as those made in the home kitchen. They are simple and nourishing. They satisfy the child's normal craving for sweetmeats without creating a false taste. It should be a pleasant occupation for housewives to devise new and pretty Christmas bonbons for their boys and girls. They can picture some of the following at the children's party or on the dinner table—dates split open, pitted, a little marshmallow icing placed within and bright red cherries on top; others filled with cherries or nuts or with marshmallow and nuts. Figs form the basis for another confection when sliced and topped with marshmallows and raisins. Other fig slices might have maple sugar and nuts on top, while maple sugar bonbons could be nicely finished off with raisins.

A pretty idea for anyone wanting a particularly decorative effect is that of a light yellow basket, with a bow of fluffy gauze ribbon on the handle and in the basket rows of prunes from which the pits have been removed and the openings filled with whipped cream piled high. The finishing touch is given when chopped green pistachio nuts are sprinkled over the cream.

Some Candy Recipes

The following are some tried and proved candy recipes which every housekeeper may be assured are nourishing and are proper war-time confections:

Pop-Corn Candy

For making pop-corn candy either honey, maple syrup, molasses, white cane syrup or corn syrup may be used instead of sugar. To one cup of syrup allow one tablespoon of vinegar. Boil together until syrup hardens when dropped in cold water. Pour over freshly popped corn and mold into balls or fancy shapes for the Christmas tree. Little pop-corn men will please the children. Make in the features and outlines with melted chocolate.

Crystallized Fruits

Use your own preserves. Peach, pear, apple, quince or watermelon rind will do. Drain from the fruit all syrup possible. Cut any size desired, sprinkle with sugar and dry in the warmer or a very slow oven. It may be necessary to sprinkle the fruit again with sugar during the drying. When dry enough not to be at all sticky, sprinkle with sugar and pack in layers with wax paper between. This fruit may be used for dipping in bitter chocolate for bitter-sweets.

Bitter-Sweets

An attractive variety of candies may be made by dipping sweet fruits in bitter chocolate. Use for this purpose dates, citron, candied orange peel or crystallized fruit. Melt unsweetened chocolate in a double boiler. Keep the chocolate just warm enough to prevent solidifying. With a silver fork drop pieces of fruit in chocolate. See that each piece is completely coated, then remove to waxed paper to harden.

Fruit Paste

Put through the meat chopper enough cherry, peach or quince preserves to make a half-pint with the juice. Heat fruit and add two tablespoons of gelatine, previously softened in a very little cold water. Stir well, and continue stirring until it begins to cool and thicken, then pour into oiled dish to make a layer one inch thick. Let dry slowly, sprinkle with sugar and place in box with waxed paper between the layers. A mixture of dried apricots and dates may be used for this paste. Wash apricots and soak overnight in enough water to cover. Pour off water, bring it to a boil, pour over apricots and let stand until cool. Put apricots and dates through meat chopper and proceed with the proportions as given.

Chocolate Dainties

Put through the meat chopper one-half cup each of dates, figs and nut meats. Add one tablespoon orange juice, a little grated orange peel and one square of melted unsweetened chocolate. Mould into balls and roll in chopped nuts or granulated sugar. This mixture may be packed in an oiled tin, put under a weight until firm, then cut in any shape as desired.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—MRS. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

No woman is really afraid of a mouse, but she doesn't like to disappoint the men who expect her to be.

Maple Creams

Boil one cup maple sugar with one cup water until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Remove from the fire and stir rapidly until it becomes creamy. Form into balls the size of marbles and put nut meats on either side. Lay on wax paper to cool.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battlefront; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

Havelock, November 20th, 1917.

A Success Secret

Governor Bilbo said at a dinner in Jackson: "The man who succeeds easiest is the man who works on the queer, the funny, in human nature.

"Like the chap who turned up at Palm Beach with a new 12-cylinder car, you know.

"'Oh, I've struck it rich," said he. "I've written a book called, "Hints to Beautiful Women."'

"'Good!' said the reception clerk, as he led the newcomer to his locker. 'And all the beautiful women are buying it, eh?'

"'No,' said Newrich, 'All the plain ones.'"

Some men seem to have the horseless brand of horse sense.

DYING FOR LOVE IS UNWISE

For the love of her he declared he was going to kill himself. He had asked her to marry him and she had refused. He told her he couldn't live without her, that if she rejected him he would commit suicide.

Complacently she told him to go ahead and commit suicide. She said if he were the suicide-committing sort, the sooner he did it the better for himself and her and the rest of humanity.

She also told him that if he was set on dying on her account it would have a better effect on the community at large if he would go out to the front and let some German [illegible] a chance at him.

Cold and cruel girl? Not at all. It was plain to her that the man who would be so silly as to kill himself because a girl refused to marry him wouldn't make a husband worth having.

There is something wrong with such a man. He isn't "all there."

As soon as he found out the fact that matrimony isn't all beer and skittles he would up and suicide and leave a widow to shift for herself.

This girl who scoffed at the would-be suicide knew that to be worth a woman's respect and love and confidence a man must possess the full masculine quota of self-respect, self-esteem and self-confidence, and that before she could trust her fate to him he must be a master of his own fate.

The fact that a man wishes to make a fool of himself for the sake of a girl is nothing for the girl to flatter herself over. It only signifies that it is in him to make a fool of himself, and the malady is liable to crop out on any occasion.

After marriage, when the honeymoon wanes, he may make a fool of himself over all sorts of trivial things, even over another woman.

The man to tie to is he who despite the bitter disappointment of a rejection, can accept it like a man along with other defeats life has in store for him.

The man to pick for a life mate, whatever his qualities as an ardent lover, is he who has too much self-respect to commit suicide or make a fool of himself in any other manner for a woman, and who maintains his own dignity, no matter how madly in love.

Such a man is likely to accord fairness to a wife, can be counted on on all occasions, and will make the best of things when it comes to house rent and bread and butter.

Better say "No" to the romantic fellow who would talk about suicide for love of you!

Food Control

The doctors have been saying it
These forty years and more,
Been preaching and been praying it
Until our hearts were sore
We ate too much and we drank too much;
In fact, the truth was flat,
The Great American Commonwealth
Was much—too—FAT!

CHORUS

Then hip hooray for the Meatless Day!
The Wheatless Day! the Sweetless Day!
We'll fling our superfluous pounds away,
And light and airy be;
Then give three cheers for the Food Control!
We'll every greedy mood control;
So Johnny fill half-way up the bowl,
For that is enough for me!

A Washington man, in motoring through Virginia stopped one day at a toll bridge he had often passed over, and found there was a new keeper in charge.

"Where's the man who used to act as keeper here?" asked the motorist.

"He's dead, sir," was the reply.

"Dead! Poor fellow! Joined the great majority, eh?"

"Well," said the new man, cautiously, "I wouldn't like to say that, sir. He was a good enough man, so far as I know."

If there were no fools the fads wood die out.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,

J. H. BURNHAM.

SEND REINFORCEMENTS OR QUIT

SIR ROBERT BORDEN DECLARES FOR NO REFERENDUM AS LONG AS HE LEADS

Will Enforce the Act, Fully, Impartially, But Firmly in all Canada.

R. L. Borden.

IS Canada to withdraw from the war she entered in defence of liberty and justice, in 1914; or is she to continue the struggle with honor unsullied and her glory written in letters of gold on the pages of the whole world's history? A reply to this question is to be your message on December the 18th to your brave brethren overseas, and to the Empire of which Canada forms an important part. And I leave this matter with you, supremely confident that your answer will be equal to the best traditions of that glorious race from which we all have sprung."

With this ringing challenge to an enthusiastic audience of eight thousand people, in the armories last night, Sir Robert Borden concluded a masterly declaration of the Union Government's policy. And the tremendous burst of applause which followed must have left no doubt in the Prime Minister's mind of the issue in West Peterborough.

Long before the opening of the meeting the huge armories was packed with a good-natured mass of humanity, eager to pay tribute to Canada's First Minister. Every seat on the floor of the building and in both galleries was filled while even standing space was at a premium, and to say that quite eight thousand were present is a conservative estimate. Decorations, consisting of flags and buntin were profuse and picturesque, while the following appropriate mottos were in appreciative evidence: "United We Stand, Divided We Fall". "Borden Canada and the Empire"; "Trust the Man Who Has Served You Well"; "British Connection For Ever"; "What Will Peterborough Cable to the Men at the Front"; "Shall We Do or Shall We Delay."

On the platform the place of honor was given to some 75 members of the Great War Veterans Association in khaki, while in the rear of the chairman's table were seated a strong galay of representative ladies from the Women's Union Government League and other ladies' organizations. The rear of the platform was fittingly supported by a large national crest, embodying a dozen protective lions, emblematic of the King of Empires in defence of universal freedom and equal rights. The speakers spoke from beneath a decorated sounding board, and their utterances were quite as clear and distinct as the intermittent cheers with which they were punctured.

A Cheering Crowd

The huge audience was non-political. Liberals, Conservatives and Laborites, rubbing shoulders together in perfect harmony, while the number of ladies present was a record-breaker. The entrance of the Veterans was the signal for an ear-splitting burst of applause and Captain Burnham, the Union Candidate, was accorded a warm and flattering reception. But the appearance of Sir Robert Borden, Mr. N. W. Rowell and Sir Sam Hughes was greeted with a stupendous ovation. The vast audience stood up with one accord and cheered and cheered, and never left off cheering until they had cheered themselves hoarse.

Not a Dissenting Voice

The most remarkable feature of the whole event was that not a dissenting voice was heard, and everyone seemed agreed that the Union Government should continue in the policy it has originated and outlived 'Tis true that some one did ask Sir Sam if he had buried the hatchet but the General simply grinned, and continued his eulogy of the Union-Government, which he was then in the midst of.

A Fitting Close

At the conclusion of a forceful and eloquent address by Mr. N. W. Rowell, chairman Sydney Whatley said: "After hearing the eloquent speakers of the evening, I trust you have heard sufficient to convince you that your duty is to show your confidence in Sir Robert Borden and his government by returning Captain Burnham, the Union candidate for West Peterborough, to support the Union Government, and enable them to prosecute this war to a successful and triumphant conclusion." (Prolonged applause). The National Anthem was here sung.

Mr. R. J. Soden then called for three cheers for Borden and Rowell, which were given with a vengeance.

Sir Robert Borden in response, called for three cheers for the men who had fought and were fighting the battles of the Empire, and the huge crowd made the rafters ring again and again.

A Capable Chairman

Mr. Sydney Whatley, secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association made an exceedingly capable chairman, and demonstrated, in presiding over one of the biggest meetings ever held in Peterborough, that he can talk as well as he has fought for his country.

The proceedings opened with the singing of the first verse of the National Anthem, to accompaniment by the 57th Regt. Band, after which Chairman Whatley said in part:

"As secretary of the Great War Veterans' Association, I have been asked to act as chairman. (Cheers). For the past two months we have been severely criticized by some people, who say that the Veterans should not take any part in politics. It is true we are non-political, but in this particular crisis we do not recognize the election as a political one. It is a serious issue at stake—the question of whether Canada shall continue the war or quit. When such is the issue how can any one expect the Veterans to refrain fro msupporting that party which is pledged to support our comrades at the front? We could not be true to our country, to ourselves, or to those who have made the supreme sacrifice if we did not take a decided stand on the biggest question the people of Canada have ever been called upon to settle. (Cheers). The War Veterans must unitedly support that government which has undertaken to send overseas those reinforcements that our comrades in the trenches are so urgently in need of. (Prolonged cheers). If that is politics, then we remain in politics until the end of the war and victory is won. Mr. Laurier says the issue is food—meats and fats. What a message to send to our comrades standing knee-deep on the blood-soaked battle fields of Flanders: 'There are no more men to come, but cheer up, boys, Hall is going to send you some meat and fat.' (laughter.) Let me tell you, if adequate reinforcements are not soon sent to the Canadian divisions at the front, Canada need not worry about food production, for there'll be no men left to whom to send supplies. Are you going to send reinforcements under the Military Service Act or not? That question is the reason of my comrades being here tonight. Are you going to let the men we left at the front wait in vain for support?"

Voices—"No! No!! No!!!

"I will now, concluded Chairman Whatley call on Capt. Burnham, West Peterborough's representative for that Union Government which wishes to keep faith with our comrades overseas."

The Candidate.

"We will be simply hurrying to the aid of the men who in the hour of peril, hurried to our aid," said Capt. Burnham in making his plea for the sending of reinforcements to the front. This would be done if the Union Government were endorsed as he believed it would be. The policy of compulsion underlies everything," he said. "You are compelled to pay your taxes. You are compelled to be decent or you will go to that place to which the war profiteer consigned the profits. The

ATTACKS ELSEWHERE LOSE

Three Attempted Raids by the Enemy at La Bassee Driven Off.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 1.—The Germans last night made no further large attacks on the Cambrai front where they conducted a violent offensive yesterday in an effort to regain the ground captured by the British last week.

Southwest of Vendhuile local attacks were successfully repulsed by us. The hostile artillery has been more active than usual in the Scarpe Valley. Three raids attempted by the enemy last night southwest of Labasse were driven off by our fire. We made two successful raids in the neighborhood of Warneton inflicting many casualties on the enemy and securing prisoners on both occasions.

Russian Ambassador To France Dismissed

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Dec. 1.—M. Maklakoff, the Russian ambassador to France, has been declared dismissed from his post by Leon Trotzky, the Bolsheviki commissary for foreign affairs. This action was taken because of the ambassador's participation in the Inter-Allied Conference, which is considered a state offence, entailing a heavy penalty.

Loss of Considerable Number of Men Admitted

Guns Blown Up

(Canadian Press Despatch)

British Headquarters in France, Dec. 1.—In operations in the Cambrai regions yesterday, Germans began a turning movement but the British were able to pull back most of their troops and guns at the first attack and save them from being caught. The British blew up a certain number of guns. So far as could be ascertained this morning no British guns were captured by the Germans.

German casualties yesterday were exceedingly large. The British probably lost a considerable number of men.

Berlin Says 4000.

Berlin, via London, Dec. 1.—Germans yesterday captured four thousand British and several batteries in Cambrai region, the war office announces.

British Headquarters in France, Dec. 1.—There is no concealing the fact that the enemy gave the British an uncomfortable hour or two yesterday but the situation this morning is not one to cause particular uneasiness. Some scattered British in the front line may have fallen into the hands of the Germans but most of the troops are reported to have been withdrawn safely. Some ground has been lost but unless unforseen events arise the German plans have been frustrated with the infliction of serious losses on them. Fighting is still proceeding today. The British are continuing their counter attacks.

CAPT. J. H. BURNHAM
Who Supports the Union Government

GAVE HIS LIFE FOR COMRADES

PARENTS OF LANCE-SERGT. W. H. CURTIS RECEIVES MEDAL WON BY SACRIFICE

The medal won by the late Lance-Sergt. Wm. Howard Curtis for his brave and heroic work of carrying the wounded from the scene of fighting at the front line trenches to a place of safety, a performance that cost him his life, has been received by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Curtis, from Gen. Hemming.

Lance-Sergt. Curtis was a member of the gallant 2nd Battalion, going overseas with the first contingent of Canadians. He was killed on Oct. 8, 1916.

Joseph Buse, who recently returned home fro mFrance died suddenly of apoplexy in Queen's Military Hospital, Kingston.

CAPT. BURNHAM WILL VISIT COMMITTEES IN TOWNSHIPS AND HEAR ALL COMPLAINTS

Farmers are Pleased That Time For Exemption Has Been Extended and an Appeal Board in This City is Probable

It was like the soap-box politics of The Examiner to attempt to revive old animosities with regard to the appearance of General Sir Sam Hughes at the meeting in the Armories last night. Sir Sam came here at the express invitation of Sir Robert Borden, and his presence was another evidence of the fact, growing more and more apparent every day, that anything like animosity between different factions is dying out and everything save the one goal lost sight of. The Examiner has dragged the temperance issue like a red herring into this campaign, and has forced the Union party into calling upon Mr. Hall to declare his attitude on this question.

Now that Sir Robert Borden has spoken in Peterborough, the atmospher is clearer. The Unionist party has every reason to feel encouraged. Sir Robert Borden said in Toronto yesterday that he was pleased with the reception which he is being accorded on this tour. His meetings are successful everywhere, and on all his trip around the circle, no better gathering was held anywhere than the one in this city last night. After the audience began to leave the building, Sir Robert held an impromptu reception on the stage, where he met hundreds of nionists, who congratulated him on his address and wished him the fullest measure of success in what lies ahead of him.

The farmers of the riding, too, are well pleased over the result of their interview with Sir Robert at his hotel. To hear him clearly and fully explain the Military Service Act, to indicate its design, and give the reasons why it has been made to supersede the Militia Act of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was a vastly different matter from reading the newspaper discussions of the same subject.

The farmers knew that they had a chance to appeal from the findings of the tribunals, but the time was felt to be limited. They were assured by Sir Robert that this time will be extended, and all that is necessary to get an appeal before the Board is to write an ordinary letter to the official at Toronto.

Another objection to the methods of appeal was the time likely to be lost and the money spent in going to an appeal board in Toronto or Kingston. The farmers were encouraged to hope that an appeal board will be established in this city for the convenience of the men of the district.

In this connection it may be announced that Capt. Burnham will soon visit his organization committees in the townships and will hear complaints of any who may care to make them, with especial reference to the operation of the Military Service Act. He will also draw attention to the necessity of people who agree to help of doing what the candidate, who superintends the organization wants, without introducing ideas of their own.

"This immense audience is an evidence of the deep and abiding interest you feel in your soldiers at the front," said Mr. Rowell in opening his address. He first congratulated the women on their numbers, and said that in his visit of various parts of Ontario, one of the most impressive features was the large number of women present in the audiences." That is a matter of very great significance in the question we are now facing. The women have been untiring in their unselfish efforts in Red Cross work, in their undertakings, tasks, labor and service in contributing to the comforts of the soldiers, and the success of the Allied cause. The presence of the women in this audience is a striking testimony to their continued interest in the men at the front and in the cause in which the men are fighting. I venture to say that the women of the province and throughout the land by their unerring instinct to see the heart of the issue—the women of the province and of Canada realise that the issue we are now facing is deep and vital to the women of Canada. For if the gallant men in the trenches are not backed up what will come to the women, and Canada, and these homes of ours.

Think of Belgium. Is it any wonder then, that the women of Canada, so far as is in their power, are behind the government that is pledged to back up the men at the front."

Speaking of the presence of the Great War Veterans, Mr. Rowell said he was glad to see present so many of the men who had placed their lives on the altar of service, the men who first voluntarily left our shores, crossed the seas to help make the line and who barred the way of the Germans to Calais and the sea. By their service and sacrifice the soldiers of Britain and her Allies made it possible for us to meet in peace and security tonight. All honor to these gallant men. And it was not without deep significance that the men who had served and suffered and sacrificed were backing the government who were backing up the men.

HON. N. W. ROWELL

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1917

MR. HALL AND PROHIBITION.

WILL MR. HALL tell the voters of West Peterborough just where he stands on the prohibition issue? Nothing has been heard from him yet on this question. The electors know that his party organ merely as a matter of political capital takes the ground that the Federal Government should pass a measure that would really amount to Dominion wide prohibition. They know, too, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to whom Mr. Hall has declared allegiance, is opposed to the principle of prohibition, and that the Borden Administration went as far in reinforcing provincial prohibitory legislation as they had a constitutional warrant to go.

LAST NIGHT'S MEETING.

THERE WAS NOT a single note of discord at the meeting in the Armories last night. Not one sign of disorder. The thousands of men and women who packed the vast auditorium were as decorous as any church congregation possibly could be. They were united in one purpose, to win the war.

Sir Robert Borden emphasized by personal application all that he has said in other places. There was no tinge of political bias in a word he uttered. It is simply marvellous that eight thousand people could gather together on the eve of an election with the old party spirit absent.

Sir Robert Borden made clear the necessity for the Military Service Act, and that it is to be impartially enforced. He also showed just why it is to be preferred to the Militia Act, which has been a law in Canada for over forty years and which was re-enacted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1904. Under the Military Act, men needed for the service will not be selected at random, but by the exercise of intelligent judgment, so that there may be the least possible interference with the industrial economy of the country.

After his interview with the farmers of the riding and his clear explanation, there should be less hostility to the Act today than there was before Sir Robert's visit to Peterborough.

SIR SAM HUGHES AND QUEBEC.

SIR SAM HUGHES at the Armories last night shed considerable light on the recruiting situation and dispelled effectively the contention of the Laurierites that nothing was done to induce the young men of Quebec to enlist.

Sir Sam showed that he had made a systematic effort to secure recruits in that province. First, he naturally appealed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier for assistance. The veteran leader did, it is true, hold three or four meetings with the professed object of arousing the loyal enthusiasm of his compatriots, but these meetings were really political gatherings in which bilingualism cut more of a figure than patriotism. How could French-Canadians be expected to enlist when they were told by their leader that the English-speaking race were not giving them a fair show in the struggle for national existence.

Failing to obtain assistance from Sir Wilfrid, Sir Sam sought the aid of his lieutenants, and ex-Postmaster-General Lemieux was the only one who responded to any extent. He next appealed to the sons of these men, but without success. The clergy, too, refused to respond.

General White was told flatly that the English-speaking people should do the fighting. The habitants were told to hold back, and they would get the jobs of the men who volunteered. They have done this. Young men from Quebec are in all parts of Ontario, in Campbellford especially, filling the places of men who are overseas.

What Sir Sam Hughes said last night disposes of the assertion that no effort was made to find recruits in Quebec.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier would excuse Quebec's failure to furnish its quota to the army on the ground that the people have been wrongly taught in national duty. If they have, then he must share in the responsibility for this condition. Any so-called recruiting meetings that he held defeated the very object in view. Sir Wilfrid appealed to the passions of his people, to their racial prejudices rather than to their patriotism. Sir Wilfrid says if he is made Premier of Canada he can induce French-Canadians to enlist. Why does he not exercise that influence over them now?

If Quebec had furnished volunteers in the same ratio to population as the other provinces, its enlistments would have been 170,000 instead of 46,998. Of the 46,998 enlisted, 35,000 were furnished by the English-speaking people of Quebec and 11,998 by Sir Wilfrid's compatriots.

Sir Sam Hughes is nothing if not practical. He suggested to Sir Robert Borden last night that Quebec be required to raise its fair percentage for military duty before the other provinces are asked to produce another man.

In connection with this suggestion, take the significant statement of Sir Robert Borden in his address, to the effect that the Military Service Act is to be vigorously and impartially enforced in all parts of the Dominion.

TALKING FROM CONCEALMENT.

THE EXAMINER, it seems, cannot suppress the anonymous writer. Last night it encouraged him again by permitting him to use its columns to propound a number of questions for Sir Robert Borden to answer at the meeting in the Armories. The Examiner and the writer must feel keenly disappointed because no notice was taken of their effort.

Is our contemporary really simple and unsophisticated enough to imagine for a moment that the Premier of Canada would waste time holding converse with a man who hides under the bed?

VOTE FOR LAURIER OR CARVELL, WHICH?

THE BEST MEN of the Liberal party have decided for Union Government. Some of them have entered that Government, others have announced their adherence to it. The Prime Minister of every Canadian province with the exception of two have declared for Union. Such spectacular and commanding party figures as F. B. Carvell, J. A. Calder, Hon. William Pugsley, N. W. Rowell and F. F. Pardee have pronounced for Union. All over the country the rank and file of both political parties are swinging to an acceptance of Union and all that it implies.

In the dreadful affairs of the past three years Canada has done more than it was dreamed she would be able to do. Now, men are perceiving that the end has not been reached of the effort that should be made or the results that can be accomplished. We have still more men, and we have still more means and materials. The Union Government was organized for the purpose of enabling Canada to put forth the mighty force of her full power, a thing that could not be accomplished with two conflicting parties struggling for political power when they should be united for victory.

Election day is approaching, and upon that day the Liberals of Canada will have to decide whether they will vote for Carvell and victory or for Sir Wilfrid and something that is by no means a victory effort. The elector has some serious thinking to do before he or she casts a vote next month. The more electors think, the more certain becomes the success of Unionism.

MR. ROWELL AND UNION.

MR. ROWELL'S eloquent exposition of the aims of the Union Government and his recital of what it has already accomplished in the six weeks of its existence should confirm the voters in their belief that the coalition that Sir Robert Borden worked so hard to secure is the true solution of the war problem so far as Canada is concerned.

Read what Mr. Rowell says of Union Government and contrast it with the watery criticisms and feeble objections to it that are offered by The Examiner, the paper that enjoys the rather doubtful distinction of being one of a pair of Ontario's newspapers that are kicking against the goads.

LABOR IN THE CABINET.

MR. HALL AFFECTS the championship of the cause of Labor and deplores the fact that the wage-earners are not properly represented in the Cabinet. Did Mr. Hall hear what Mr. Rowell, specially requested by Premier Borden to speak on the aims of Union Government, had to say on this point last night?

"There is a labor man in the Cabinet now, but without a portfolio. The Labor Department, however, is to be reorganized after the election, and a new executive officer is to be chosen. He will be a workingman in the true sense, a representative of the Trades and Labor Councils of Canada, named by the workingmen themselves.

That should be sufficient to silence Mr. Hall and to satisfy Labor that their claims will be recognized.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN gave up his seat in Halifax to make way for a Liberal Unionist.

HON. W. S. FIELDING, formerly in the Laurier Cabinet, was elected by acclamation, thanks to the aid of Sir Robert Borden.

ANOTHER anti-war riot in Quebec. If this continues, Mr. Hall may yet become positively ashamed of his political associates.

• • • •

GEESE SAVED Rome, but the anti-war rioters cannot even claim to rank in intelligence with those much misjudged birds.

• • • •

DOES MR. HALL for a moment imagine that the loyal residents of West Peterborough are to be identified with the anti-war mob in Quebec?

• • • •

THE WOMEN of Peterborough are grateful to Providence for past victories, but are not insensible to the efficacy of dry gunpowder and reinforcements.

• • • •

"MR. ROWELL and the other Liberals in the Union Government have not deserted the Liberal party. They have brought the Liberal party with them." — Sir Sam Hughes.

• • • •

"THE MEN in the trenches ask for reinforcements. Mr. Hall offers to send them meat," said Chairman Whatley at the meeting last night, and no epigram by any of the speakers made a greater hit.

• • • •

"WHAT DOES the political future of any man or group of men amount to as compared with the fate of the Empire?" said Sir Robert Borden. Yes, and what do local prejudices amount to when submitted to the same comparison.

Electric Headlights.

It is announced that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has commenced the installation of electric headlights on all of its locomotives, totalling about 2,500. The improvement will be made at the rate of from 75 to 100 engines a month.

In Northern Italy.

The German drive into Italy was aided by the treachery of troops poisoned by spy work: It now faces men who know how to win or die—not grimly like German "shock troops," but with Latin gayety and fervor. Well are they named "the ardent ones."

A WORD FOR ANDREW CARNEGIE

Andrew Carnegie was 82 years old last Sunday. Every kind hearted Canadian ought to wish him many happy returns of the day.

If Mr. Carnegie had given away one-tenth of the amount of his benefactions to humanity without disclosing the source of the gifts the world would ring with praises for the Great Unknown Donor.

The fact, however, that Mr. Carnegie has seemed to demand recognition of his generosity by insisting upon the association of his name with all he has done has operated rather harshly and unfairly to deprive him of honor which is due.

Almost coincident with the eighty-second anniversary of his birth there has appeared in the "Recollections" of John Morley—now Viscount Morley— a notable tribute to Andrew Carnegie, which his critics would do well to mark, read, learn and inwardly digest. Lord Morley accompanied his friends, the Carnegies, on their return home to America in 1904. "Mr. Carnegie," he says, "had proved his originality, fulness of mind and hold strength of character as much or more in the distribution of wealth as he had shown skill and foresight to its acquisition."

He quotes Mr. Carnegie as saying to a friend: "Don't look as if you were overwhelmed with gravity; don't let people think you have got as much as you can carry. It is not so much for a superior man that he suffices for his day's work as that his day's work suffices for him."

When Andrew Carnegie retired from all other business he said that his business had now become to do as much good as he could in the world. This, says Lord Morley, is his key to life. "Much too shrewd to suppose one man competent by himself to perfect and administer all the many schemes to which his name belongs, it is impossible not to admire the pains he has taken in inducing the right men to co-operate as trustees and in firing them with sympathy. Without them miscarriage would have been certain."

As a biographer and historian Lord Morley is not habitually lavish with praise. His estimates of character are careful, discriminating and judicial. What he says of Andrew Carnegie may be accepted as just and true. The old iron master is "a man of high and wide and well earned mark in his generation."

AN OPEN LETTER TO SIR WILFRID

Dear Sir Wilfrid:—Examine yourself, Sir Wilfrid, and see whether you can explain your course — for neither you nor any man can justify it. Is it that age has dulled the keen edge of your courage and blinded the clearness of your vision? Is it that your ears have become too old to hear more than the appeals of your panic-stricken province, and are deaf to the cries for help of our sons across the great protecting waters? Is it that the sting of your defeat in 1911 has become an obsession and that you are willing to make the needs of your country secondary to the petty triumph of a political victory? Is it that the mystery of the future is pressing close about you, and that you fear to assume the responsibility of demanding the sacrifice, even in this highest of causes of the lives of many of your fellow citizens? Whatever may be the explanation, alas that you, who in the past have been to so many of us our ideal of statesmanship, our chevalier sans peur et sans reproche, alas that you have failed us at the supreme test of our history. We who saw you go forth to battle in your youth little thought to see you return neither with your shield nor on it.

Can you not see, Sir Wilfrid, that it is necessary that you fail in this your last campaign, necessary for yourself and the reputation of your services in the past, necessary for your province and its future in the confederation of Canada, necessary for your people and their equal place among their fellow Canadians, necessary for your church, if it is not to incur the odium, whether merited or not, of being one of the causes of our failure, necessary for your native land and its place in history, necessary for your empire and its untarnished glory, necessary for our allies, that they may be inspired to resist all proffers of an unworthy peace, necessary for the civilization which our sons are so gloriously upholding, necessary for our dead, that their hallowed sleep may be unbroken, necessary for our soldiers overseas, that they may not be deserted and abandoned, necessary for ourselves that we may keep our self-respect and continue to serve in the greatest crisis the world has ever known?

Wit and Wisdom

Too Much for Nature.

"How's your bungalow. You told me it was cooled by woodland breezes in the summer."

"That part was all right, but the landlord is working nature overtime. Now he's trying to heat it solely with the sun."

Consoling.

Enlarging Her Sphere.

"Mrs. Dubwaite is always talking about enlarging her sphere of influence."

"What does she mean by that?"

"I suppose she means moving in a larger circle by attending more club meetings."

Alice At School.

Little Alice, coming home from school, said: "Oh! mother, I've learned to punctuate."

"Well, dear, how is it done?" asked her mother.

"Why, when you write 'Hark!' you put a hairpin after it and when you ask a question you put a button hook after it," she answered.

In His Case.

An editor received this letter from a fresh youth:—

"Kindly tell me why a girl always closes her eyes when a fellow kisses her."

To which the editor replied.

"If you will send us your photograph we may be able to give you the reason."

FOWLER'S CORNERS.

(Special Correspondence.)

Fowler's Corners, Dec. 1.—Don't forget the date of the Lakevale Presbyterian anniversary services, Sunday, Dec. 2nd, at eleven a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

Mild weather is once more prevailing and is very much appreciated owing to the scarcity of coal in the country.

Come to Lakevale Church on Wednesday evening, Dec. 5, and hear a lecture from Miss B. Nugent, a missionary on furlough from India. You will not be disappointed if you come.

LOCAL MARKETS.

There was a fairly large local market this morning both in attendance and offerings. Prices were firm and buying none too free. A few potatoes were going at $2 a bag, but $2.25 was more general. Butter sold at 48c to 50c, eggs 60c dozen, chickens 75c to 85c each, and geese 18c to 20c a pound.

If you ever get acquainted with yourself the chances are that you won't find your company so very agreeable.

However, the man who thinks he is going to have his own way after marriage is apt to have another think coming in after years.

TODAY'S STORY

"You might travel all day on a swift horse," said Gosling, "and not find a man in Jack Stingo's class for complete worthlessness. If he has any redeeming features he keeps them so well concealed you'd need a search warrant to locate them.

"Yet Jessie Twaddle is going to marry him at high noon one of these days, and Jessie is as fine as silk. I'd like to have nineteen daughters just like her. I admire her so much. And she is going to marry that cheap skate with the idea of reforming him. She might as well try to reform the village dump by spraying rosewater on it. Such a misfit marriage makes me sore."

"Yet there is nothing an innocent bystander can do," mournfully confessed Jimuelson. "We see the lamb to the slaughter led, and we can't do anything but stand around and cuss the government. It's a curious thing that human beings positively refuse to learn anything from the experience of others. They must pile up a lot of their own experience, at a frightful cost, before they get wise.

If Jessie Twaddle would look around and consult her elders she'd find many instances where girls married four flushers to reform them, and I doubt whether she'd find one instance where the plan worked out. But every girl thinks things are going to be different where she's personally concerned.

"And here I stand moralizing over the frailties and foolishness of others and I'm such a blamed chump myself I ought to have a police bodyguard to keep me out of mischief.

"You doubtless have noticed that I am wearing my hat sideways today. That's because I have a lump about the size of an ostrich egg just above my brow. And I have that lump, which aches and throbs most disgustingly, because I haven't sense enough to profit from the experience of others.

"If Jessie Twaddle came along and learned the sickening details, she'd probably say I ought to know that no sane man will take the part of peacemaker when a husband and wife begin throwing priceless china and bric-a-brac at each other.

"Mr. and Mrs. Alum live next door to me, and their frequent wrangles have distressed me very much.

"This morning they cast aside all restraint and chased each other around their vine covered cottage, throwing domestic utensils, whatnots and all kinds of portable household furniture. Had I been as wise as I'd have other people be, I'd have paid no attention, for I have knitting of my own that demands attention.

"But I must go over and make a remonstrance, like a bejiggered idiot, and Mrs. Alum smote me on the dome with a flowerpot, while her husband pelted me in the small of the back with a bootjack.

"In view of which I beg leave to retract any remarks I have made concerning the fatuous folly of others."

While the mothers may regret it, the children will be more than satisfied to see this dose abolished for all time or even temporarily. "Most Grateful Woman in Town"

"THE WAY TANLAC HELPED ME IS SIMPLY WONDERFUL," SAYS MRS. EDWARDS.

"I feel so happy over what Tanlac did for me, I just want to tell everybody about it," said Mrs. Florence Edwards, a resident of Buttonwood avenue, Mt. Dennis, Toronto.

"Several weeks ago," continued Mrs. Edwards, "I contracted a severe pain that settled in my side. In a little while my left side, arm and shoulder began to throb and ache till I suffered agonies from rheumatism. The trouble got worse and worse till finally my arm and shoulder were so stiff it almost killed me to bend over, and I actually was unable to put on my shoes. My shoulder hurt so I couldn't rest, and sometimes for two whole nights I wasn't able to sleep a wink. My side felt like a sharp knife was sticking in it, and I was so weak and helpless I just had to give up my housework, for hardly an hour passed over my head that I wasn't miserable the whole time.

"Just as soon as I started taking Tanlac I began to feel better, and the pain seemed to be leaving me. I am now on my second bottle, and already that awful pain in my side is entirely gone and I am feeling better all over. My side and shoulder are entirely free from rheumatism, and I can now do all my housework as well as I ever could. The way Tanlac has relieved me of that awful rheumatism is simply wonderful, and it has made me the most grateful woman in town."

Rheumatism is not only one of the most prevalent, but one of the most painful and difficult to treat of all present-day diseases. When the digestive organs and bowels are not working properly, and the kidneys become clogged up, the whole system becomes deranged and saturated with uric acid poisons and other impurities which accumulate in the joints and other parts of the body and produce the condition known as rheumatism.

Tanlac is a powerful reconstructive tonic and quickly overcomes this condition by acting directly on the vital organs, toning them up and enabling them to perform their proper functions, so that the impurities are soon eliminated from the system in a natural way. Liniments and external applications as a general thing only afford temporary relief. Tanlac is a constitutional treatment and gets right at the root of the trouble by removing the cause.

AUTOINTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

The Dangerous Condition Which Produces Many Well Known Diseases.

HOW TO GUARD AGAINST THIS TROUBLE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" — The Wonderful Fruit Medicine — will Protect You

Autointoxication means self-poisoning, caused by continuous or partial constipation, or insufficient action of the bowels.

Instead of the refuse matter passing daily from the body, it is absorbed by the blood. As a result, the Kidneys and Skin are overworked, in their efforts to rid the blood of this poisoning.

Poisoning of the blood in this way often causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Disturbed Stomach. It may produce Headaches and Sleeplessness. It may irritate the Kidneys and bring on Pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Gout, and Rheumatic Pains. It is the chief cause of Eczema—and keeps the whole system unhealthy by the constant absorption into the blood of this refuse matter.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always cure Autointoxication or self-poisoning—as "Fruit-a-tives" acts gently on bowels, kidneys and skin, strengthens the bowels and tones up the nervous system.

CLOTHES NEEDY IN LABRADOR

APPRECIATIVE LETTER FOR ASSISTANCE SENT FROM PETERBOROUGH.

The secretary of the Grenfell Mission has received the following letter, which will be of interest to those who helped to clothe the needy in Labrador:

Harrington,
Canadian Labrador.
October 17, 1917.

My Dear Mrs. Wood:

Your shipment of clothing arrived at a most opportune time last week. It is all very useful indeed. I was just despairing over getting enough to do up parcels for up and down the coast, when the steamer arrived with several bales, barrels, etc. Our two mail boats are leaving this week on their last trip, and it is our last opportunity of sending parcels to the needy ones north and west of here, and the real destitute ones are north. I think I have a parcel for every family. I also had to get the Christmas boxes ready to go. I had enough toys on hand to make up five boxes. These are sent to the school teacher in each place, and she carefully secretes them until the proper time. Our real cold weather is starting now—stormy and windy.

Thank you and your co-workers for your help in this corner of the Master's vineyard.

Very sincerely yours,
M. A. MURRAY, R.N.

CROSS, FEVERISH CHILD IS BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

LOOK, MOTHER! IF TONGUE IS COATED GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative because they love its pleasant taste and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

(When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative,' and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs' handy; they know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here, so don't be fooled. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

for no apology to any man for the position I occupy," said Mr. Rowell. "Sir Robert Borden has told you about the Union Government. I'm in it. And I'm supporting it because I am in accord with the government in that great and vital question: Are we to continue to back up our men or are we going to back up our quit in this the hour of peril.

The New Composition.

Discussing the composition of the government, the speaker went back to the formation of the coalition government which gave Canada confederation. Sir John A. Macdonald and Hon. George Brown were not only politicians but their personal animosity was so great that, they would not speak to each other, yet they forgot all in the hour of national crisis, to avert the national peril and to achieve the great national ideal. Coalition was brought about, and made possible Confederations, and the achievements of the past fifty years. It had been said of Hon. Mr. Brown that he had betrayed his principles, that he had deserted his party. "We have a real comfortable time compared with Hon. Mr. Brown, added Mr. Rowell amid much laughter.

And so we are in the Government, and with a united country, we can stand with a united front and help fight the issue to a successful conclusion.

Of the accomplishments of the new government, Mr. Rowell said that in the first place on the recommendation of the Prime Minister, the government abolished the patronage system and reorganized the war purchasing committee. In future all war supplies would be secured irrespective of the party affiliation of any man who wished to deal. That was one great achievement in the public interest.

Further, on the recommendation of the Prime Minister the Civil Service Act had been extended so that appointments to the outside service would not be based on politics but on the ability of the man to perform the duties of office to which he was appointed.

The Packing Industry.

Further, the government had taken effective control of the packing industry in Canada. In exercising that control it would be careful not to curtail the operations of the packers. It had been decided that hereafter packers would not be entitled to charge more than a profit of 2 1-2 percent on the turnover for the year. That if the packer made more than 7 percent on the actual capital, the packers making from 7 to 15 percent would keep half and the other half should go to the state. In an excess of 15 percent the whole amount would go to the State and help to defray the expenses of the war. No more radical legislation to conserve the public interest had been made in any country at war. The American government had adopted similar regulations—our government led the way and the American government followed.

Wealth To Bear Share.

The policy of the government was that when calling up the manhood of the nations it would also call upon the wealth of the nation to share the burden and the government stood pledged to the conscription of wealth as well as of men. Wealth as well as man power shall bear it's fair share.

"When we realize that these men with no asset except the life God has given them have thrown it into the scales of liberty and justice, it is only fair that those who have wealth at home shall share it in this struggle," said Mr. Rowell. "And it's the intention of the Government to see that they do."

The speaker also pointed out that in the representation of labor the Prime Minister had said that when the constitution of the Government had been completed there would be added one more honored and trusted leader from the Trades and Labor Council. It was not a matter of charity, of grace, but a matter justly earned, that Labor should help to make the laws in the administration of the country.

In the matter of agriculture no better choice could have been made had the government searched all Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Mr. Crerar knew the needs and sympathized with the people's aspirations.

Military Service Act.

In applying the Military Service Act, the Government had recognized that there would be local irritations and that it faced some political risk but the government had said: We stake our policy feeling that on this issue we are standing by the men at the front and trusting the people to back us up. If in doing so we fail, we fall because we had too much faith in you in that we could trust the patriotism and courage of the people to rise to the height of service and sacrifice to stand by the men who have so gallantly stood by us."

"What are you going to do with it " asked Mr. Rowell.

"Stay with you," replied a voice.

"I believe you are," added the speaker.

Then Mr. Rowell took his audience to the fighting front, and told of that fine spirit of heroism and sacrifice on the part of the men in the Princess Pats. It was at Ypres. The battalion, badly cut up had come out for a rest. Before the return to the trenches was due, five men of the original 500 of the Pats were entitled to leave. But they said they would not take it when reinforcements were so urgent. They decided to stay to steady the new men for the honor of the regiment and the safety of Canada. Of that five who returned, four made the supreme sacrifice for you and for me," said the speaker. That's the spirit of the heroes at the front. What is the spirit of the Canadian people?

"God grant that we at home may prove worthy of the heritage these gallant men have won for us. May we one and all, dedicate ourselves afresh to the cause for which they so cheerfully give their lives and in the sight of high Heaven, solemnly resolve that these men are not in vain and that we stand a united people behind them, until peace, God's peace, sweet peace, comes again to this war-wrecked world of ours."

GEN. SIR SAM HUGHES.

Recruiting in Quebec

That the Province of Quebec should give it's fair proportion of men for military service before Canada as a whole is called upon to provide further men for the war, was the argument of Sir Sam Hughes, who also took occasion to speak of his fruitless efforts to enthuse recruiting in Quebec, when he was minister of militia. "I have the highest admiration for the people of Quebec," said Sir Sam, but they have been badly trained and they have had their prejudices appealed to." Sir Sam told of his unsuccessful appeals to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Cardinal at Quebec and Archbishop Bruchesi. He told of the effort of Col. J. P. White to raise a battalion. The French-Canadian leaders notified the people not to go to the front. They were told to let the English-speaking people go and fill their jobs in Canada with French-Canadians. At Campbellford the speaker said young French-Canadians who would make excellent soldiers had been brought in to work, and they were filling the jobs of brave lads who had enlisted.

He had heard at his hotel, several men discussing the election, who had declared that they would not vote for the union candidate. "What stands between us and German invasion?" Less than forty ships of the battle line. If the British battleships were sunk and Germany became mistress of the seas, these gentlemen who were doing the boasting would be taken to the tall timbers, leaving their wives and daughters in the hands of the invaders."

In conclusion Sir Sam said," I have faith that the people of Canada will again do their duty and hurl back the Allies of Germany, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his outfit, and return the Union Government on the 17th of December.

TRIBUNAL INVITED GUY NIMMO TO ENTER APPEAL

Valuable Man for the Allies by Continuing his Employment

Judge Huycke's tribunal gave a unique decision this morning when after disallowing the claim of Guy Nimmo, the young man was invited to appeal.

Nimmo said he was a foreman toolmaker. After coming to Canada from Scotland, he supervised the preparations for shell-work in a plant at Montreal. Later he was employed at the Vickers Shipbuilding plant at Montreal, doing skilled work. Some time ago he took employment with the Metal Products Co.

The tribunal liked the make-up of the applicant and were inclined to the view that he was a valuable man if he was all he said he was. In reaching a decision Judge Huycke told the young man to get documentary evidence from his employers for presentation before the Appeal Board.

Nimmo has two brothers serving with the Highland Light Infantry. He himself offered his services to a Montreal regiment but foot trouble kept him out of khaki.

Not Sure of Age.

The tribunal were disposed to believe the story of Robert A. Simpson, who said he was 36 years old, but was not certain, because a book bearing the births of the family was burned in a fire at Belleville.

"If you want to enlist hey will take men of your age," remarked the Judge as Simpson departed.

Oran Varty, 545 Chamberlain St., a wire inspector, was also uncertain as to his age. Dr. Ford sad by letter that Varty was born on August 22, 1883, which would make him 34 years old, and place him within the call for men. As he had not been examined. Varty was ordered to appear before the Medical Board.

Alvin Mahaffy, 370 Burnham St., was not detained when it was found he was in E Category.

William George Lockie, 223 Antrim street, based an exemption claim on stomach trouble and severe headaches. The medical board decided he was an A2 man. Lockie who is a chauffeur for Matthews-Blackwell, was refused exemption.

Daniel A. Donoghue, 526 Water street, a motorman on the Peterborough Radial Railway, categoried A2, will undergo another examination. He claimed ill-health.

Clinton Henry, 123 Murray street, was refused exemption. His claim was supported by his mother.

The FORD Car

Is still "Going Strong" over the World

From information received, a car shortage is inevitable, and an upward revision of prices may be looked for any day.

It is obvious, therefore, that unless the prospective buyer acts reasonably soon he will find it a difficult matter to obtain the car he wants at any price.

It is practically certain that the demand for Ford Cars will very soon exceed the output, and that the shortage will compel a radical revision in car prices upwards.

The Ford Touring Car is still the Universal motor car of the world—the car of the multitudes; and, up to date, is still selling at last year's price, viz., $495, F. O. B., Ford.

We have put into effect a plan which should prove eminently satisfactory to those who can book their order forthwith for future delivery. Our salesmen will be glad to explain this plan.

SIR ROBERT

men who go out in the trenches night after night and who go over the top, have proved the equal of the best men the world has produced. I appeal to you not to delay. The call is for immediate help.

The Prime Minister

A wild burst of cheering greeted Sir Robert Borden when he stepped to the front of the platform to speak. His address was a forceful, measured recital of the policy of the Union Government, and events leading up to conscription. He said nothing which could give offence to race or creed, but his utterances conveyed a positive assurance that the men at the front will not be left without adequate and early support. He pointed out that those class A men refused exemption by the tribunals have a right to appeal, and that the Government also reserves the right to appeal against indiscriminate exemptions, whenever made—this declaration, which apparently referred to Quebec was cheered to the echo.

Influence of the Women

Sir Robert considered it a pleasure and a privilege to speak to so vast an assemblage of good citizens, whose presence, he opined, testified to their realization of the supreme issues on which the country is asked to give judgment. He joined with Sir Sam Hughes in recognizing the splendid influence the undaunted courage and self-sacrifice that Canadian womanhood had had upon the national spirit of Canada. Upon mothers and sisters and wives sorrow had laid its heavy hand, but still they are found foremost in every work of mercy and every patriotic endeavor to aid, and support in all possible ways those men who are fighting for them, for Canada, the Empire and universal freedom. "And maybe," Sir Robert continued, if this war continues much longer, there will be further calls of duty to the women I see before me, and I am sure they will meet those calls with that noble spirit which has ennobled their sisters overseas. We must all persevere to the end for the honor of Canada and in support of the men at the front who are anxious to be assured that they have a United Canada behind them." (Cheers.)

The Union Government

In referring to the Union Government the Prime Minister said:

"I do not come as the leader of any political party, but as the leader of men united in the best interests of Canada in a national crisis. I come as leader of men animated with the best ideals and traditions of the Liberal-Conservative party, united with those Liberals also animated by the best ideals and traditions of Liberalism in Canada. In this Union Government, there are eight Liberals, honest men who have filled high places and who are animated with a desire to give the best possible service to their country. The relations between Liberals and Conservatives around the Council Board are of the most cordial character; it is not a two-party government, but a non-party government. (Cheers). With these men it is not a question of party or politics, but one of united effort in the welfare of Canada. (Renewed Cheers). Those Liberals who have joined the government hold important posts, and are promised equality of representation. Their number is not just now precisely the same as that of the conservatives but they have my pledge to give both political parties equal representation in the government of Canada outside the Prime Minister." (Prolonged Cheers.)

Credit to Mr. Rowell

Sir Robert here went on to eulogize Mr. N. W. Rowell, to whom he gave considerable credit for much good work already accomplished, and to whom he had been glad to hand the presidency of the Privy Council "But," said the speaker, "Mr. Rowell has even a far more important position than that as vice-chairman, and practically chairman of the government's War Council in which capacity he has taken into consideration matters of considerable domestic concern, and the achievement of weighty national results are due to the energetic efforts of Mr. Rowell."

Good For Sir Sam

The Chief Minister here spoke feelingly of General Sir Sam Hughes' splendid work in the early days of the war, when 33.000 men voluntarily flocked to the colors at Valcartier in response to the call for 20,000. Both he and Sir Sam had been deeply agitated at the thought of having to send some of those brave men home again; but finally, concluding that they all would be needed before the war was over, he (Sir Robert) had consented, to Sir Sam's relief, to the whole 33.000 being sent overseas. And, added the speaker, that first contingent has brought such honor and distinction to Canada in the eyes of the world as I pray God there will never be need for again. (Applause).

"It is the universal consensus of opinion that it was due to the remarkable valor and individual resourcefulness of those first 33,000 men that the Germans did not break through to Calais. They barred the road to the Huns on that first line of the Empire's defence in France, as the British navy is barring their way on the second line of defence, the sea, for with control of the English channel lost to Britain, nothing could have saved our peaceful land from those barbarities and cruelties inflicted by Germans on the helpless non-combattants of Belgium and France. The speaker here told of the steady diminution in the number of recruits, until now there is just one issue, and that is shall we fight to the end, shall our men overseas be supported and reinforced, or shall they not? "And," he said, "I have no doubt of your verdict on December 17th. (Prolonged applause.)

"In May last, when I returned from England I recognized thatt here were two alternatives: one to leave the men at the front unsupported, the other to keep the divisions up by some system of selective draft. And how could I have had the hardehood to come here and stand up on this platform tonight had I committed the people of this country to abandoning their comrades overseas; or how could I have had the hardihood face of those men who did return from the front? Having made up my mind to re-inforce the men at the front I had to consider whether the Miliatry Act as it had been on the statute book for 49 years was adequate to meet the view, and I concluded it was not. That act declares that all men between 18 and 60 can be called out for compulsory service, whether within or without Canada for the defence of Canada, and I had no doubt this war we were fighting was for the defence of Canada, the Empire and the whole world. (Applause.)

The Minister here said he would have been perfectly justified in resorting to the Old Militia Act, but it provided that the men called out should be done so by ballot, and he preferred not to have selections made by blind chances. He therefore introduced the Military Service Act, which calls men to the colors by selective draft.

Right of Appeal

Turning to the question of the Exemption Tribunals, Sir Robert pointed out that there are 1350 tribunals, comprising 2700 men operating without any interference from the government. Courts of Appeal are provided for those men who think their services are of more value to the Empire if they remain at home, or for other reasonable pleas for exemption which can be offered. "But if exemptions are granted too freely or indiscriminately," he said, "then the government exercise the right to appeal firmly and vigorously in order that even-handed justice may be meted out." (Prolonged cheers). "The Government intends to enforce the Military Service Act fully, impartially, but firmly in every community in this country." (Renewed applause). "I want to tell you, so far as I am concerned, there will be no referendum as long as I am Prime Minister." (Cheers). "We owe a debt to the men in the trenches, and it would be far better to repudiate our financial obligations than to repudiate the debt we owe them. With a referendum to be taken relief could not be sent to the men overseas in less than a year, and even under the present act, there is barely time to get reinforcements to our armies as needed. There will be no referendum."

A Spirited Peroration

In conclusion the Premier believed the resolve of the Canadian people is as strong today as in 1914 that the Germans shall not win out in a test of nerves and dominate the world. There is," he said, "No spirit of depression with the men at the front. They have supreme confidence that if supported from home, they can win out and bring to the whole world that abiding peace for which the Allies are fighting. And the issue before Canada today is the responsibility of a nation's life time, a test in support of those national traditions to which we are born.

"Is Canada to withdraw from the war she entered in defence of liberty and justice in 1914; or is she to continue the struggle with honor unsullied and her glory written in letters of gold on the pages of the whole world's history? A reply to this question is to be your message on December 18th to your brave brethern overseas, and to the Empire of which Canada forms an important part. And I leave this matter with you, supremely confident that your answer will be equal to the best traditions of that glorious race from which you sprung."

BOARD OF APPEAL MAY BE LOCATED IN THIS CITY

Premier Borden Has an Interesting Session with Farmers at Empress Hotel — No Men will be Taken if They are Needed on Farms.

Sir Robert Borden reached the city last night about 7 o'clock, coming from Millbrook, where he held a meeting in the afternoon. He was met by Capt. Burnham and escorted to the Empress Hotel, where he had a busy session, receiving friends and delegations, before the meeting in the Armories.

There were about twenty-five representative farmers of the riding waiting for the Premier, and a few minutes after his arrival at the hotel they were presented to Sir Robert by Capt. Burnham. Smith, Ennismore, North and South Monaghan and Harvey all sent delegations, the councils of each township accepting the invitation of Capt. Burnham to meet Sir Robert.

Reeve McKee of Smith was the spokesman of the delegation. He told Sir Robert of the meeting that had been held at Bridgenorth Thursday evening, a full report of which was published in The Review yesterday. The resolution adopted at that meeting was presented to Sir Robert. It called attention to the serious shortage of labor and the loss that would result unless something was done to conscript labor and to assist the farmers. Reeve McKee spoke of the situation in Smith and of the decrease in production because men could not be obtained to work on the farms.

The Premier's Reply.

Premier Borden said he did not see how he could promise more than he had already agreed to on previous occasions. The Military Service Act has been passed and the Militia Act passed over to provide for just such conditions. Under the latter law the selection of men for military service would be made by ballot. Under the recent Act the choice will be made by wise judgment. Men will not be taken if they are of more service to the Empire in their present occupation.

This war is a serious matter to everybody. The entire energy of the country must be utilized. There are about 2,700 members of the tribunals unused to that kind of work, and it is only natural that there should be mistakes made. Exemption might be granted too freely in some cases and denied in others where it would be justified.

In all cases the right to appeal exists. General Mewburn has made it clear that if men needed on the farms are conscripted they will be sent back. The Premier then explained how to proceed in an appeal from the decisions of the tribunals. There is no expense involved except that of travelling to appear before the Board. The time in which appeals are allowed has been extended.

Capt. Burnham's Suggestion.

Capt. Burnham suggested that perhaps the farmers would be more satisfied if a board of appeal were established in Peterborough, so as to save the time and expense of travelling to another city. Reeve McKee thought that such an innovation would meet with general approval.

At the request of Sir Robert the farmers will draw up a statement of their views with regard to a board of appeal in this city, and this will be forwarded to Ottawa. Premier Borden promised to take the matter up with the proper departments at the Capital.

The Military Representatives.

Some members of the deputation who are on the different tribunals in the townships, complained that their decisions were being overruled by the military representatives, who were posted in the law.

"The military representatives," said Sir Robert, "are there in the same capacity as lawyers in a court of law. The lawyers argue the case, but the judges decide it. You are the judges in all the cases that come before you. You can listen to the military representatives and then decide according to your own judgment.

war will be won and some think that if we raise 200,000 men and send them over to Great Britain and France that the war will be won. More must be done than send men to Great Britain.

Italy has lost in this last month or more 250,000 men and still the war goes on. Great Britain has pointed out to Canada some of her greatest needs. She wants ships to carry food to her markets and to transport troops to her shores. The United States have hundreds of thousands of troops already to be sent over and they are short of ships to carry them and Sir Robert Borden has made no effort whatever to supply ships to England. Great Britain must be supplied with food and Sir Robert Borden has no policy whatever whereby he indicates that Government assistance will be given to the farmers to increase food production.

Attacks the Globe

The Globe Newspaper is now unworthy of belief. It has proved itself false and traitorous to the great trust that has for two generations been reposed in it. I do not care what evil influence has caused it to conceal the truth.

It is enough for me that that paper does conceal the truth and is now unworthy of belief.

LABOR MEN CALL ON SIR ROBERT

ASKS PREMIER TO DO AWAY WITH THE PATRIOTIC FUND

A large delegation of local representative Labor men was introduced by Capt. Burnham to Premier Borden at the Empress last night before the meeting in the Armories. A. J. Bolwell, president of the local Typographical Union, was the spokesman.

The delegation took up with the Premier the question of the separation allowance paid to the soldiers' dependents, a matter which was fully discussed at a meeting of the Trades Council recently.

Mr. Bolwell said that the labor men of this city are in favor of the abolition of the Patriotic Fund. In its place they would have the Government increase the separation allowance, grading it according to the number in the families of the beneficiaries. They also favor an increase in the pay of the soldiers.

The speaker also told the Premier that it was proposed to ask the City Council to add an extra five mills on the tax rate to raise the Patriotic Fund for 1918. This would mean an increase in the rents, and the workingman, not the property owner, would really pay the new tax.

"That," said Premier Borden, "is a matter which must be taken up at the next session of Parliament. There was some discussion of it last session, but no definite action was taken. The patriotic organizations that have handled the Fund have rendered valuable service in other ways.

"The pay of the soldiers sent from this country is four times that of the other Allies, and yet it is not adequate. Still, we must consider how much we can do in the way of money. Put your ideas into writing and forward them to me at Ottawa and they will be given careful consideration."

It was the intention of the delegation to take up a number of other matters with the Premier, including Labor representation in the Cabinet, but owing to the limited time it was impossible to discuss these questions.

BOWLING

Tonight at the Water St. Bowling Alleys the second game of the Inter. City Five-Pin championship series will be rolled.

A great game is anticipated for tonight, as the Toronto team are the champions of the Commercial League of the Queen City.

The local team is as follows:— F. C. Weber, Wm. Henderson, R. Ross, J. D. Fitzpatrick and J. J. Solomon.

All bowlers are invited to witness this match which will start as soon as the five-man team arrive from Toronto by C.P.R. tonight.

Nothing that the C.P.R. has done in the direction of food conservation has resulted in so many letters of commendation, as the footnote printed on all menu cards on C. P. R. dining cars and hotels. This reads:—

"It must have required some grit as well as a full sense of duty for an institution which includes such hotels and restaurants as are found on that railway, to put such a memorandum before their high-class patrons. But it has been done and its moral effect has been wider than the actual wastage that has been saved. Those who have read the notice have in some cases at all events, followed the good example of the railway, and have given up purchasing any of the immature animal food.

"If the food controller could prohibit the sale or use of these young animals it would be another means of food economy."

MR. HALL MAKES SERIOUS CHARGE AT MEETING AT YOUNG'S POINT

Says That Majesty's Mails Have Been Tampered with and that His Campaign Literature is not Delivered.

Mr. R. R. Hall yesterday afternoon addressed a representative gathering at Selwyn and at Youngs Point in the evening.

The meeting at Youngs Point, Mr Hall explained was not as large as he had expected owing to the fact that His Majesty's mail had been tampered with by some post office official and that many of the notices advising the electors of the meeting had not been distributed from His Majesty's post office although they were mailed in time.

Mr. Hall in his address at Youngs Point further stated that he had mailed to the electors his election address and also the information regarding the Union between Sir Robert Borden and the Quebec Nationalists whereby Sir Robert Borden proposed to take only 5000 men from the Province of Quebec and to take 95,000 from the rest of the English speaking Canada.

Makes Grave Charge

His Majesty's mail has also been tampered with and these addresses were not delivered through the mail to those to whom they were addressed. I cannot believe for one moment that this is done with the knowledge and connivance of Mr. J. H. Burnham the Conservative candidate, but I wish to draw Mr. Burnham's attention to this and who ever is responsible for the commission of this Point and the distrint surrounding crime against the people of Young's it, must be punished or else Mr. Burnham must take the responsibility of not putting the law immediately in motion.

The Old Food Argument

Mr. Hall stated to the electors that the high cost of living was agitating the minds of the people living in our cities and towns, but the high cost of living must go higher if the farmers are producing less and if the demands upon Canada for food stuffs are growing greater. There are some people in this riding who do not think for themselves, who proclaim that if we raise 100,000 men in the Dominion of Canada and ship them over to Great Britain and France that the

EDITOR'S MAIL

JUDGE HUYCKE AND THE DOCTORS.

Editor Review: Many absurd and puerile remarks have been made by the members of the Tribunal Boards in this city but the offense of yesterday in which the physicians were accused of hampering the work of the medical board because they were not on it, is so extravagant and insulting as to demand instant refutation. To use Judge Huycke's own words, "The doctors are making a record with their letters. They are trying to block the work of the medical board because they are not on it."

I have no knowledge of the letter in question nor of the doctor who wrote it.

One can hardly realize that any one, even in a less exalted position than Judge Huycke, could or would dare hurl such an insult at the medical profession. A profession that ranks highest of professions, next to that of the clergy, a profession for which the most precious gifts are sacrificed, health and strength; a profession in which a man is brought in closer contact than any other, with life and death.

To say the physicians would sign a certificate, which is practically taking an oath, and not do so sacredly and conscientiously is most infamous. Any one who has such a small and narrow confidence in his fellowman must miss a lot of the best in life.

Not only does Judge Huycke insult the physicians not on the examining board, but the medical men who are presiding as well, certainly they would resent such remarks.

"Because they are not on it." Does Judge Huycke mean the other physicians are jealous of the popularity of the medical tribunal? Or does he mean they are envious of the big fee of five dollars per day. Surely he does not think the doctors on the medical board are being well paid or have an easy job? Does he realize at what a sacrifice these men are offering their services? They certainly are not doing it for the remuneration that is in it or the popularity either. They must do it from a feeling inspired of patriotism. Even insurance companies pay five dollars for a single examination.

I'm certain any of the medical men on the Board would accept as correct any report, if it were submitted to them from a man's family physician. A family physician is certainly in a better position to know one's physical capabilities, knowing the family history. The medical tribunal have such numbers to examine that it is almost impossible for them not to occasionally overlook ailments. Many people have not told their troubles to the physicians, partly as it would sound dictatory and more particularly because a man of even average refinement is so shocked at the proceedure of examination as to be almost speechless.

However Judge Huycke's views do not require any explanation to the people. It will take more than his scathing remarks to shatter the confidence, love and affection one feels for his family physician. Despite the fact that Judge Huycke doubts and questions the honor, sincerity and truth of a physician, as a general belief it is an undisputed fact, that when a physician gives a certificate that a man should be exempted, he gives it from an honest conviction, carefully thought out, that the applicant, even after training, would not be physically fit to go in the firing line.

Judge Huycke's attitude serves merely to instance how military enthusiasm will override even an otherwise calm and judicious mind.

LOUISE M. McNULTY.

SIR SAM NO TRAITOR

Editor Review:—There is a funny game going on somewhere, and the Examiner is at it again just because Sir Sam Hughes comes to Peterboro to support the Empire, which is fighting for its very existence. Old sores are reopened to try and discourage the loyal people of Peterboro and Canada. The Examiner tries to make little of a man who with all his faults if any, has Canada and the Empire first and foremost in his heart.

THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

IES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administra- at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and con- ous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle- t; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public of vision—sinking for the present all political differences w stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many ds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to ulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our mon foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all pos- e speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now hold- the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as l as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy ances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth y effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the den Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the ut- t of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and luence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East erborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

WHICH?

"This bulk tea is the best I could buy at the price, Mrs. Brown, but I believe you will like Red Rose better.

"We use Red Rose at home and like the rich flavor. My wife says it goes further."

They have sold Red Rose Tea for many years and have found the quality so good that they use it in their homes.

Most grocers naturally like to make an extra profit on their bulk tea, but they cannot help recommending Red Rose Tea because they know it's worth the price.

They know it goes further because it consists chiefly of the teas from Assam in Northern India, the strongest, richest teas grown anywhere in the world.

Red Rose tastes better and goes further.

DOES IT PAY

to carry Life Insurance? There is only one answer, either from a financial or peace of mind point of view. The ever-increasing amount of life insurance written, not only by our Company but other representative institutions, is an evidence of its merit.

If it is good business to carry Fire Insurance—and every sane business man believes it is—then it should be equally good business to carry Life Insurance. A Fire Policy may become a claim, while a Life Insurance Policy must either by death or maturity.

Write us to-day, stating your age, whether married or single, and we shall be pleased to forward you particulars of a policy best suited to your needs.

To Mr. R. J. Devey: For about twelve years you have been the choirmaster and organist of St. John's Chuch, during which time you have not only discharged all your duties as such, with efficiency, faithfulness and skill, but have also thrown yourself most heartily into the general work of the church, of which we regard you, Mrs. Devey and your family, valued members.

The appreciation of your services is general throughout the congregation of St. John's, and for them as well as ourselves officially, we ask you to accept the accompanying gift as one that will always be a reminder to you of the very happy relationships that have always existed between you and us.

(Signed) W. T. HOLLOWAY,
W. J. JOHNSTON.
29th November, 1917, Wardens of St. John's Church, Peterborough.

Mr. W. F. Johnston then presented Mrs. Devey with a splendid silver tea and coffee service and tray, amid hearty applause.

Mr. Devey, evidently taken aback by this sudden onslaught of silver and compliments, accepted the gift to Mrs. Devey and himself, from the Wardens and congregation, with gratitude, not only for its evident value, but for such expressions of kindly esteem which he felt were undeserved. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of the choristers, and heartily thanked them and the wardens for splendid co-operation which made all their work in the Church's service so thorough and hearty. The singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow" and cheers and a tiger for Mr. and Mrs. Devey concluded a very pleasant surprise party.

SATURDAY SYMPHONY CONCERTS

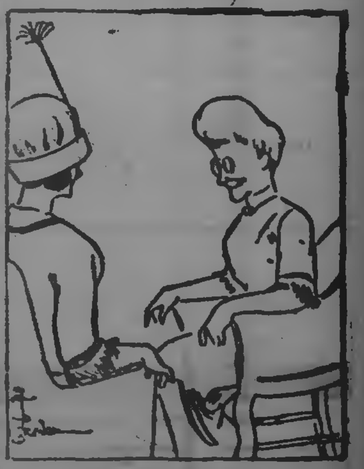
An announcement of too great significance to be passed over without comment appears in the New York papers to the effect that there is being given a series of six Saturday afternoon Symphony concerts for young people by the New York Symphony Orchestra under the conductorship of Walter Damrosch. Also the same organization is giving a series of four programmes for children on Saturday mornings.

The New York parents and children are fortunate indeed that such an arrangement is possible for these programmes will undoubtedly do much to influence the boys and girls and young people to become lovers of good music. The youthful mind will be educated musically by hearing a good orchestra just as it is educated in Geography by seeing maps. The hearing of music should then be supplemented by having the child produce music for himself just as the seeing of a map is made the most of by actually drawing it.

At school we used to draw the map of Europe putting in the countries, ports, rivers, chief cities, mountain ranges, and all boundaries. The doing of this after a close study of the map was a splendid training. In the same way a mother can take her son or daughter to such a programme as is above referred to, point out certain details about the rendering of music as exemplified in the orchestra's playing and then ask the pupil to strive for similar results in her practising.

Another great advantage to be derived from such series of recitals, though perhaps more indirect, is surrounding the children with this musical environment, the good and far-reaching influence of which requires no dwelling upon.

Self Sacrifice.



"Your husband has to be out of town on business a great deal, doesn't he?"

"Yes; I don't suppose he is at home more than ten days a month on the average."

"I should think you would find such a state of things very unsatisfactory."

"It isn't as pleasant as it might be, but he tells me that he would have to accept $25 a month less than he's getting if he stayed at home, so what is one to do? Of course if he were a younger and handsomer man than he is I shouldn't put up with it even for the money it brings us."—Chicago Record Herald.

Not an Expert.

"Do you hesitate?" she asked when he had come to remind her that she was engaged to him for that dance.

"Ye-ye-ye-ye-yes," he replied, "bu-bu-bu-bu but not as w-w-w-w-w-well as I w-w-w-w wish I did."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Music in the Home

MUSIC THAT CHUCKLES.

Songs of vaudeville in America are not as a rule comparable either in manner or matter to the Music Hall ditties of London. Of course London has taken kindly to the New York songs, as to the New York comedians and chorus girls, and one may hear as much ragtime now on the Strand as on Broadway. This has been one result of the growing friendliness of the two cities. Nevertheless, London in the native Music Hall song has something to be cherished. It is music that chuckles, while usually American ragtime yells. It is a long time since "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" was written. It is not so long since "Who Were You With Last Night" appeared. Yet both songs have a similar music hall spirit of lilting enjoyment. Rhythmically they are charming. The composers of Music Hall songs provide an infectious and delightful dancing rhythm, a radiant melody not too sophisticated, a few stock cadences, and generally a set of verses gay as Harlequin, sometimes as genially improper as Clown. The verses of the ordinary American popular song are a sight for gods and men. "Under a tree planted by he" is a classic instance. As for the music, it generally lacks distinction. It is apprentice music, while the London kind is done generally by a finished journeyman, and sometimes by an artist. For those who have a passion for light music and who buy with much energy, a glance at the various English productions as well as the Broadway successes will prove interesting and amusing.

TWO EXAMPLES FROM ENGLAND.

One effect the happenings of the past three years have had is to show that we cannot be local in our thinking. We must be prepared to learn from the experiences of other countries. There are two directions in which the Old Land has set us a worthy example. The first is the introduction of the mid-day concert or recital which we are told is now a [illegible] institution in both Liverpool and Manchester. Frequent references appear in the British papers to the selections given at these noon-hour programmes, and their quality strikes one instantly.

In our Canadian cities throngs of people lunch down-town. There is little to occupy the noon-hour except the actual time for eating unless it be occasionally to do some shopping. Scores of people would look forward to the opportunity once a week of dropping in to a piano, organ or violin recital for three quarters of an hour. And that such recitals would promote the city's musical life there can be no doubt.

The second example is that of the Children's Concert Movement, which has been pioneered also in Manchester and Liverpool by those who see the great gain that can come to a city through this medium. While the children's concerts in Manchester are only on their second season, Liverpool has had on an average of twenty-seven of these programmes expressly for children each year for the past nine years.

A musical optimist said the other day: "Mark my word, both the noon-hour recital and the children's concert will one day be a recognized institution in every large city in Canada and they will become a source of attraction to visitors from the surrounding districts.

PERSONALITY VS. MUSIC BY RULE.

That the personality of the interpreter of music is the most important element in the interpretation is the assertion of a writer in the New York Sun. There are artists which the public consider second or third rate musicians whose technical ability perhaps even surpasses that of the outstanding favorites and yet there is lacking the real message that differentiates the greater and lesser artists. This writer adds: "It is an old topic indeed, but it has to be discussed repeatedly, if for no other reason at least because little children will grow up and become new generations of music lovers. These dear young ones have to learn that the interpretative artist is not artist at all if he gives no expression to himself.

A parrot can talk quite wisely at times, but it does not know what it is saying. The confident young pianist who marches out on the stage and recites a Beethoven sonata according to the rules and regulations laid down by his teacher is no artist. He is usually not even a good parrot. But the player whose personality cannot be smothered will either interest or enrage the hearer. He has something to say."

The rules of music have their place but it is the real genuine spirit of music that it is more important to get into one's nature. It is the getting of music into ourselves in order to put ourselves into the music.

BACK TO GREGORY

Mr. Healey Willan, organist of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, is giving a series of addresses to organists and clergymen on the principles and practice of Plain Song, that remarkable system of religious music devised, or revised by Gregory the Great. Of late years a better understanding of the devotional stateliness of this system has grown up, and while there is no likelihood of any Low Church congregation leaning towards a fuller ritualism, the meaning and origin of Plain Song has special interest to all persons interested in the development of Music.

The subject abounds in technicalities, but there are a few general principles which guided the development, and these are understandable of all men. In the first five hundred years of the Christian Era church music was probably derived in the main from the Jewish Temple ritual, with accretions of heathen festival hymns "adjusted or adapted" for sacred purposes. It became the custom for the singers to seize on the words Hallelujah or Amen whenever they occurred and improvise "fancy music" on them, greatly to the distress of the devout. Gregory devised a system of free recitative to be employed in the singing of the service and pinned down the "Hallelujah's" to a more seemly length. In time the portions of the mass specially suited for singing, such as the Te Deum or the Sanctus got entangled with the mathematics of counterpoint and singers and composers used secular tunes until another scandal arose. Then came Palestrina who, with a basis of the semi-Greek "modes" or scales adopted by Gregory, wrote a Mass setting that was the beginning of modern ritual music as we know it. Even in late years a now tendency towards florid and "expressional" music was rebuked by the Vatican and musicians were sent back to Gregory to learn their principles.

What National Cash Registers Do---

No. 8--Tell You the True Worth of Each Clerk.

The New National Cash Registers enable you to estimate the true worth of each clerk in your store.

They have a seperate cash drawer for each clerk which makes him directly responsible for mistakes.

They tell who makes the greatest number of sales by recording the clerk's initial against each transaction. They also tell you who sells the most in dollars and cents.

Thus they show the true worth of each clerk. At the same time they protect them against unjust suspicion and give credit or good work.

They encourage clerks to do their best—which means increased profit for you.

Now is the time to install machines which as an incidental part of the service they perform, tell you the true worth of each clerk in your store.

If you would like to know more about this system write us at once and our agent will call on you.

R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

I have the honor to accept the unamious nomination of the Liberal Party to contest the election as a Candidate to represent the people of West Peterborough in the House of Commons.

MASSES REQUIRE JUSTICE

Now is the time in the history of this country when we should be guided by true Liberal principles and stand by the masses as against the classes; stand by the people who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow and against the classes who exact unjust profits and extortionate tolls out of even the very necessities of life.

WAR POLICY

Today we are engaged in a great War with the Germanic powers in defence of Canada and the Empire. In the great struggle is involved the very existence of the freedom and liberty of mankind.

Our duty is plain. Our course is clear. We must prepare for any sacrifice of blood and treasure. We must fight Germany until we secure a just and a lasting peace. In this resolve all Canadians are united from Lake Champlain to the North Pole and from our furthest East to our furthest West.

Such being our Nation's resolution I pledge myself to support any effective war measure no matter from what source it may come. We must give immediate and constant support to our noble Canadian armies who have covered themselves with glory. We must support them with men. We must feed them. The rich and poor alike must serve. Our only difference is in how to serve but serve we will.

FOOD PRODUCTION

Great Britain has appealed to Canada to send her 300,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed her teeming millions and those of Italy and of France.

This enormous quantity of wheat would feed 40,000,000 people for a whole year. This shows our Allies want food.

Let the Government encourage the Farmer to produce more. Give him agricultural implements duty free. Supply him with suitable labor on fair terms to till the soil. Use our banks and Loan Companies to lend him money on fair and easy terms of payment to assist in every possible way to plant and produce food stuffs. Supply the farmer with steam or gasoline tractors to enable one man to do the work of five. Shield us from the profiteer who plunders the farmer and robs the consumer, makes a profit of a million a year and supports Sir Robert Borden and his hypnotizer Sir Joseph Flavelle.

A forward policy on these lines would be a double blessing. It would reduce the cost of living at home and would help supply the necessities of our Allies overseas.

Remember one single North West farmer produces 2000 bushels of wheat per year when well directed and equipped. 100,000 men would produce 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. Those already on the ground in the North West properly equipped and manned could produce 200,000,000 bushels more.

I pledge myself, if elected, to support prompt and immediate efforts to reduce the high cost of living.

BORDEN DISCRIMINATES AGAINST ENGLAND

Since the war began the Borden Government imposed an increased duty of 5 per cent. on British made goods entering Canada. This should be removed at once. Our great Mother of Nations has troubles enough without the Borden Government thus increasing them.

PROFITEERS AND SOLDIERS

The profits made by War Profiteers should be investigated. The profiteer should be made to disgorge his excessive profits to be used to increase the pay of our soldiers and to increase the pensions or allowances to our soldiers, their mothers, wives, sisters and dependents. None of them should ever be subjected to the indignity of "cold charity" by this grateful Nation on whose behalf they have suffered or died.

NO CONFIDENCE IN BORDEN

Sir Robert Borden has been for six years and is now the Prime Minister of this Country. Its chief head and front with full power to choose and remove his Ministers. He is appealing to this Country under an assumed name, but the policies and methods of his Government remain.

I cannot stop to repeat the well known charges of grafting proved on sworn testimony from the mouths of unwilling witnesses respecting the purchase of motors, of horses, of binoculars, of bandages, of drugs, of boots, of shells of gauze fuse and of all the implements of war

These unseemly transactions have taken place under the nose of Sir Robert Borden who now seeks to stifle and conceal further investigation with the hollow pretense of so called Union Government which in no sense whatever represents true believers in the principles of justice, truth and liberalism.

BORDEN CONDEMNED FOR SUPPLYING DEFECTIVE AMMUNITION

I have no confidence whatever in Sir Robert Borden who supplied our troops for many months with the Ross Rifle and defective ammunition which he must have known would jam and become a useless weapon after our Canadian boys had nobly entered the battle. The Ross Rifle was used by our troops at the six battles of St. Julien, of Givenchy, of Festubert, of St. Eloi, of Zillebeke and of Sanctuary Wood. In each battle the rifle jammed and many a Canadian soldier was needlessly killed or wounded and some of them today languish in German prisons justly cursing the Borden Government without a chance of voting against it.

GRAFTERS

We must destroy the parasite, the profiteer, the grafter and camp follower, who are our worst enemies and fight our common foe with all the resources at our command.

TO OUR NOBLE WOMEN

I appeal to the women of this Riding who are casting their vote for the first time to act on the pure impulse of your heart alone and vote according to the dictates of your own conscience. My heart goes out in sympathy for you in these anxious times. I know your "beloved is white and ruddy; the chiefest among ten thousand. His countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars" and by him and his I pledge myself to stand.

UNITY OF ACTION AND SENTIMENT

Let us unite our people in this Great War as the armies of Great Britain and of France are united, marching and fighting side by side, the parents and guardians of Freedom and Justice.

"With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right" I appeal to you fellow electors to press on to finish the great war in which we are engaged "to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, his widow and the orphan to do all which we may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace with all nations."

For these reasons I appeal to you my fellow electors for your vote and influence in the pending election.

Your Obedient Servant,

R. R. HALL.

The Bright Side of The Picture

(New York Sun.)

A splendid tonic is in the words of Major Donald Guthrie of the Canadian overseas forces: 'There's lots of fun over there. There are no more cheerful and contented men on the face of the earth." He was talking, of course, about the soldiers in the trenches, who, some would have us believe, are pitiful, weeping, gray-haired wrecks after a tour of duty.

There are societies and committees for nearly everything nowadays. Not the least useful among them would be a committee for printing the Canadian major's words, bracketed with Brigadier-General Hoyle's hearty classic, "A soldier's life is a bully one," to be given to every man of draft age.

It would serve as an antidote for much depressing drivel.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Mr. L. J. Pettit, of the Collegiate, will address the High School Club this (Friday) evening at 6:15 o'clock his subject being "The School." This is the fifth of a series of studies on the city in connection with the life problem course now being followed by the High School Club this winter. Every older school boy should be present.

On Saturday evening at 7:15 a treat has been prepared for the "B" and "C" Employed Boys and School Boys. A series of views showing Y. M. C. A. work throughout Canada and overseas will be shown, with the assistance of Vernon Fiske and his lantern. On Sunday evening at 8:15 these views and a few others will be shown to the older boys and men, this service to take the place of the regular Sunday afternoon meeting. Every man and older boy is cordially invited to attend the Sunday evening service, when an enjoyable time will be had by means of the Association views and the use of appropriate song slides.

We would call the attention of the parents of Peterborough to the fact that now is the time when a boy would appreciate a Y. M. C. A. membership more than at any other time of the year. All Y. M. C. A. activities are now at their height, and gymnasium, plunge and game rooms are being largely used by the boys. The six classes of the Boys' Department are engaged in a membership campaign for a supper and a pennant, so as these boys seek to persuade their chums to join the Association, we trust that the parents' consent may readily be obtained, for it means much to a boy to be given a Y. M. C. A. membership early in life.

The Brantford Park Board have filed a complaint that boys are endangering the Bell memorial.

SAVE YOUR ARTERIES IF YOU WOULD KEEP YOUNG

Prominent Doctor Recommends the Turning of Six Somersaults Every Night and Morning.

We promised to tell you how to conserve the arteries, how to stay young. Here is how—and we mean this seriously. Any old fossil who thinks we are joking about it is hopeless, that's all.

If you want to stay young forever turn six somersaults every night and every morning.

Not so fast; not so fast. It does sound foolish, we must admit. But it isn't anything of the kind.

Turn six somersaults every night and every morning. If you can do it you are young. If you can't, get young as soon as you can. Any 4 year old child will show you how to turn a somersault. Any dodering old fellow will laugh at the very notion. We old folks love to laugh at the ways of youth after we have departed from those ways forever. Nevertheless, six somersaults night and morning constitutes the most effective prescription we know for the prevention of arteriosclerosis. We are not going to try to tell why. Suffice to say that this silly ceremony makes folks young. If you don't believe it, try it. If you are not younger after the first month's trial, if your stomach doesn't behave better, if your liver isn't less troublesome if your temperature doesn't improve if you don't feel more pep and ambition and everything, then send back the somersaults and we'll use them ourself. And we don't mind admitting that somersaults improve metabolism, not to drag in the circulation, digestion and a lot of other handicaps. Methabolism is what makes the machinery go. When the machinery is working beautifully a doctor would say the metabolism is well balanced or the individual has a normal metabolism. Every household should have a somersault hall, long enough to allow six in a row. If your house is cramped for room, turn them in a circle around your bedroom. There is only one place where it is really inconvenient to turn them, and that is the aisle of a Pullman sleeper, though there are also other reasons why traveling men wear out so many arteries.

WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

MOUTHS AND DISEASE.

More and more insistently members of the medical profession as well as dentists are affirming the relationship between unclean mouths and serious diseases.

The latest utterance on this important subject is made by a New Haven physician, Dr. Oliver T. Osborne, professor of therapeutics at the Yale University school of medicine. Dr. Osborne reports, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association:

"For nearly two years, now, at a public tuberculosis institution of which I am chairman of the medical board, we have examined the mouths, corrected the teeth and removed sources of infection of every patient who entered the institution.

"Owing to this preventive treatment we have had less tonsillitis, fewer sore throats, less indigestion, less influenza and fewer colds than we had before we began these mouth investigations."

I have already stated in this column the elementary facts in mouth infection. But they will bear repetition, as they are facts which cannot be too well remembered.

In and around the mouth are various structures—the teeth, the tonsils, the antrums and sinuses—where disease germs may gain entrance, secure a foothold and multiply.

Unless the mouth is kept clean and frequent visits paid to a good dentist, these germs soon or late attack the surrounding tissues, causing inflammation, tooth decay, dental abscesses, bone necrosis and so forth.

Their presence may long be unsuspected. Dental abscesses, for example, often are quite painless.

But from the infected areas absorption of the disease germs into the blood stream follows. Then will result symptoms of general ill health or acute disease, according to the character of the germs absorbed.

"Chronic invalidism may be caused by mouth infection.

"The blood pressure may be raised or lowered by mouth infections.

"The thyroid gland is frequently enlarged and may hypersecrete or hyposecrete in these infections.

"Glycosuria can be, and perhaps true diabetes mellitus may be, caused by mouth infections.

"Serious brain and nerve disturbances, as well as neuritis, may occur from mouth infection.

"Ulcer of the stomach, pyelitis, appendicitis and chronic colitis may be caused by pyorrhea alveolaris and mouth infection.

"Pneumonia, especially that which follows influenza, may frequently be caused by pneumococci long carried in the patient's mouth."

Dr. Osborne adds:

"No treatment of these conditions will be of any avail until the mouth is made clean."

Even then, if the infection has been of long standing, a complete cure may not result. Prevention is pre-eminently to be desired.

For prevention the chief measures to be taken are frequent cleansing of the mouth by some simple wash, regularity in the use of the tooth brush, and dental examinations at intervals not exceeding six months.

MR. HALL'S ADDRESS

The Wrongs to the Soldier and His Family Must be Righted.

THE WAR MUST BE WON

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

The following are some of the many reasons why the Electors of West Peterborough, and more particularly the women electors, are appealed to not to vote for Sir Robert Borjlen and his candidate, Mr. J. H. Burnham:

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden armed our Canadian soldiers with the Ross rifle, which he knew would jam in the front line trenches and would become a useless weapon when the enemy was pressing them the hardest.

BECAUSE facts are coming to light which give grounds to believe that our Canadian soldiers are now and have been forced by Sir Robert Borden to do duty overtime to induce them to vote for the Government in order to get a rest.

BECAUSE there are over 100,000 Canadian Soldiers in England who have not been utilized by Sir Robert Borden to give a rest to our weary-worn warriors on the firing line.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden sent our soldiers overseas to fight for $1.10 a day while the men who remained at home in safety received from $3.75 to $11.00 per day and recruiting was discouraged on that account.

BECAUSE the pay of our soldiers has not been increased by Sir Robert Borden with the increased cost of living, and he does not increase their pay, although he knows they are worthy of it.

BECAUSE our soldier's family is suffered by Sir Robert Borden to live on assigned pay and separation allowance of only $35.00 per month, when he knows that owing to increased cost of living $1.67 will not go as far as $1.00 did three years ago.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has compelled the soldiers' dependents at home to live on starvation wages; and to answer questions which independent womanhood resents to share in the patriotic funds.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has permitted the Food Barons to bleed our country while our soldiers bleed for it.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has failed to justly reward the soldiers who have returned, has failed to establish technical training schools where their talents and ability could be trained to the best advantage of themselves, and has failed to support and maintain our returned soldiers in any way worthy of the great sufferings they have endured.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has allowed the dependents of soldiers to be made the objects of public subscriptions when their dear ones are making such noble sacrifices for Canada.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has failed to co-operate with the United States to assist her to send France millions of men from the United States who are only too anxious to take their place in the firing line and give the trench-tired Canadian, English and French soldiers a period of rest.

BECAUSE Canada has already 400,000 men in arms. The United States should have 5,500,000 men under arms before she has done as well as Canada. She only lacks ships to carry her soldiers to France, and Sir Robert Borden has really done nothing to provide these ships.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden, through his Quebec Nationalist Ministers Blondin and Sevigny discouraged recruiting in the Province of Quebec, and now seeks to take, under the Military Service Act, only about 5,000 men from the Province of Quebec and to take the remaining 95,000 men from the rest of English-speaking Canada.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden, through Food Controller Hanna, tells the soldiers' dependents to eat less, instead of assisting the Farmers to produce more.

BECAUSE the British statesmen have appealed to Sir Robert Borden for food to feed the British people, but he neglects to take any steps whatever to assist in food production. The Allies ask for bread. Sir Robert gives a stone.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden is feeding the enemy with the false news that we in Canada are divided; and thus the enemy are encouraged to fight on.

BECAUSE the foreigners from enemy countries can stay at home in safety and draw big wages, but our Canadian boys have got to go overseas to fight for $1.10 per day, and see their families come to want, while the foreigner's family lives in comfort.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will right these many wrongs and help to win the war.

I SHALL SUPPORT any effective war measure that will bring immediate and constant relief and assistance to our boys at the front.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will increase the soldier's pay and pension.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will increase the allowance to the soldier's family.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will rid this country of the profiteer and grafter and make him disgorge his ill-gotten gains for the benefit of the soldier and his dependents.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will reduce the high cost of living, and will secure increased food production and that will give full value for every dollar paid.

These are some of the many reasons why I confidently appeal to you for your vote and influence in the pending election.

Your obedient servant,

R. R. HALL

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Nine Unionists in Hospital, One With Broken Leg.

Sherbrooke, Que., Dec. 1.—Nine Union supporters were under medical treatment today as a result of the fracas at the political meeting here last night, when an anti-Government mob attempted to prevent Hon. One man has a broken leg and the others are suffering from bruises and scalp wounds. No report is available of the injuries to the anti-Union element.

No arrests have been made. Unionist supporters today were arguing that had more adequate police arrangements been made the trouble very probably would have been avoided.

The W.C.T.U. has already sent to France, mainly for this purpose, about $11,000—but the need grows more insistent.

In addition to the free drinkables, the Ontario W.C.T.U. has become responsible for the cost of printing a weekly leaflet of cheer and spiritual help, which is being sent through the mails to all the soldiers in the forward trenches, who express a desire to receive it. The appreciation of the men for this bit of comfort can be judged by the fact that, in one division alone, and within one month after the issue began, 15,000 soldiers asked that their names be entered on the "Pay book Leaflet" list, the leaflets being so named from the fact that they are designed to fit into the soldiers' pay book.

"The Princess Pat" Light Opera With Vic. Herbert Music

On Wednesday next, Dec. 5, at the Grand the original Cort Theatre, New York production of Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom's greatest musical play, "The Princess Pat," will be presented. From its opening in New York, it played with unabated success for over six months and after a short road tour, it will return to the metropolis where it is safe to assert it will prove as great a favorite as during the original run. For "The Princess Pat," Mr. Blossom has, it is said, written a book that is very bright and humorous and, what is more, has given to it a consistent and interesting story of the manner in which a flirtation may be employed to win back the warm love of a husband by his charming, but neglected little wife. In evolving this plot to its satisfactory conclusion, an almost continuous chain of odd complications are met with.

Combined with a book that fairly scintillates, are a score of numbers in Mr. Herbert's characteristically happy style. There is rather wide range of music going from the whistleable kind to that which borders very closely to his grand operas, "Natoma" and "Madeleine." An unusually elaborate scenic equipment from the studio of Homore F. Emens, America's foremost scenic artist, is promised.

The play has three scenes all laid on Long Island. The first shows a beautiful garden, the second a living room, while the third is the smoking room of the Westmoreland Hunt Club, all perfect specimens of the best there is in that particular art.

The cast of well known singers includes Annette Ford, Genevieve Vernard, Peggy Johnson, Will H. Sloan, Neil Moore, Charles Coghlen, Overton Moyle, Augustus Buell, John Reinhard, Andrew Bixby and others of note. A large singing chorus, under the direction of H. H. Hamilton completes the organization.

Can a Britisher Be Neutral in War?

To Editor of The Mail and Empire:

Sir: What is a neutral? A person who, for reasons but known to himself, sides with neither one of two combatants. But supposing that members of that person's own family were engaged in the fray and he took no side, would he be considered a neutral? No. What then? Either a moral degenerate, a selfish beast, or a coward. What does the term "pro" signify? A leaning towards one of two combatants. In what is that leaning reflected? In anything favorable to one of the two combatants. Is conscription favorable to one of those combatants? Yes. Which one? The allies. Is anti-conscription favorable to one of them? Yes. The enemy. Then as one who took no side when his own family were engaged in combat, is either a moral degenerate a selfish beast or a coward, and one who places obstacles in the way of one combatant to the advantage of the other, is a "pro", what shall we call a British subject who takes sides with anti-conscription? What is a traitor? One who works or incites others to work in the interests of the enemy. Is working for anti-conscription in the interests of the enemy. Yes. Then what shall we call leaders of a political party who have for their "platform" anti-conscription?

Think it over. You are either for or against your country. You are either a true British subject or you are not. There is no compromise.

You may think you can be unnecessarily disagreeable and get away with it, but you can't.

THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

IES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall ountry than the defeat of the Borden Union Administra- at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and con- reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle- ; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public of vision—sinking for the present all political differences w stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many s and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to lder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our mon foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all pos- speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now hold- he battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy nces?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the n Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the ut- of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and nce of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East rborough.

have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

WHICH?

"This bulk tea is the best I could buy at the price, Mrs. Brown, but I believe you will like Red Rose better.

"We use Red Rose at home and like the rich flavor. My wife says it goes further."

They have sold Red Rose Tea for many years and have found the quality so good that they use it in their homes.

Most grocers naturally like to make an extra profit on their bulk tea, but they cannot help recommending Red Rose Tea because they know it's worth the price.

They know it goes further because it consists chiefly of the teas from Assam in Northern India, the strongest, richest teas grown anywhere in the world.

Red Rose tastes better and goes further.

DOES IT PAY

to carry Life Insurance? There is only one answer, either from a financial or peace of mind point of view. The ever-increasing amount of life insurance written, not only by our Company but other representative institutions, is an evidence of its merit.

If it is good business to carry Fire Insurance—and every sane business man believes it is—then it should be equally good business to carry Life Insurance. A Fire Policy may become a claim, while a Life Insurance Policy must either by death or maturity.

Write us to-day, stating your age, whether married or single, and we shall be pleased to forward you particulars of a policy best suited to your needs.

SILVER TEA AND COFFEE SERVICE IS PRESENTED

MR. AND MRS. R. J. DEVEY ARE APPRECIATED BY ST. JOHN'S CONGREGATION

At the conclusion of Choral Festival in St. John's Church Thursday night, the choir and St. John's congregational members present were invited to the Guild Room by the [illegible] Mr W. F. Johnston and [illegible] T. Holloway. On arriving Mr. Devey was called up, and an address was read by D. Holloway as follows:

To Mr. R. J. Devey: For about twelve years you have been the choirmaster and organist of St. John's Chuch, during which time you have not only discharged all your duties as such, with efficiency, faithfulness and skill, but have also thrown yourself most heartily into the general work of the church, of which we regard you, Mrs. Devey and your family, valued members.

The appreciation of your services is general throughout the congregation of St. John's, and for them as well as ourselves officially, we ask you to accept the accompanying gift as one that will always be a reminder to you of the very happy relationships that have always existed between you and us.

(Signed) W. T. HOLLOWAY,
W. J. JOHNSTON.
29th November 1917, Wardens of St. John's Church, Peterborough.

Mr W. F. Johnston then presented Mrs. Devey with a splendid silver tea and coffee service and tray, amid hearty applause.

Mr. Devey, evidently taken aback by this sudden onslaught of silver and compliments, accepted the gift to Mrs. Devey and himself, from the Wardens and congregation, with gratitude, not only for its evident value, but for such expressions of kindly esteem which he felt were undeserved. He paid a glowing tribute to the work of the choristers, and heartily thanked them and the wardens for splendid co-operation which made all their work in the Church's service so thorough and hearty. The singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow" and cheers and a tiger for Mr. and Mrs. Devey concluded a very pleasant surprise party.

Mrs. John Henry, Belleville, was killed when a train struck a motor 'bus at East Trenton.

Germans Have Hope of Peace

London, Nov. 30.—Newspapers in Germany today publish Lord Lansdowne's letter on their front pages, telegraphs the Amsterdam correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co. THE TROTTEUR.

The Way of It

"Germany wants peace, but the Allies want pieces. In the beginning it was the other way about."

The speaker was a novelist.

"If the Allies win," he resumed, "I for one shall be in favor of their annexing considerable parts of Germany. I'll tell you why.

"I'll tell you with a story—a story about Red face Leary of Tin Can.

"'Red-face Leary is a better man than he was a week ago,' said the bartender of the Tin Can Hostel.

"'Has he reformed?' asked a citizen.

"The bartender rubbed down the bar with a grey rag.

"'No,' he said; 'he's had two fingers bit off in a fight. There's less of him now, you know.'"—Exchange.

Music in the Home

MUSIC THAT CHUCKLES.

Songs of vaudeville in America are not as [illegible] able either in manner or matter to the Music Hall ditties of London. Of course London has taken kindly to the New York songs, as to the New York comedians and chorus girls, and one may hear as much ragtime now on the Strand as on Broadway. This has been one result of the growing friendliness of the two cities. Nevertheless, London in the native Music Hall song has something to be cherished. It is music that chuckles, while usually American ragtime yells. It is a long time since "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" was written. It is not so long since "Who Were You With Last Night" appeared. Yet both songs have a similar music hall spirit of lilting enjoyment. Rhythmically they are charming. The composers of Music Hall songs provide an infectious and delightful dancing rhythm, a radiant melody not too sophisticated, a few stock cadences, and generally a set of verses gay as Harlequin, sometimes as genially improper as Clown. The verses of the ordinary American popular song are a sight for gods and men. "Under a tree planted by he" is a classic instance. As for the music, it generally lacks distinction. It is apprentice music, while the London kind is done generally by a finished journeyman, and sometimes by an artist. For those who have a passion for light music and who buy with much energy, a glance at the various English productions as well as the Broadway successes will prove interesting and amusing.

TWO EXAMPLES FROM ENGLAND.

One effect the happenings of the past three years have had is to show that we cannot be local in our thinking. We must be prepared to learn from the experiences of other countries. There are two directions in which the Old Land has set us a worthy example. The first is the introduction of the mid-day concert or recital which we are told is now a firmly established institution in both Liverpool and Manchester. Frequent references appear in the British papers to the selections given at these noon-hour programmes, and their quality strikes one instantly.

In our Canadian cities throngs of people lunch down-town. There is little to occupy the noon-hour except the actual time for eating unless it be occasionally to do some shopping. Scores of people would look forward to the opportunity once a week of dropping in to a piano, organ or violin recital for three quarters of an hour. And that such recitals would promote the city's musical life there can be no doubt.

The second example is that of the Children's Concert Movement, which has been pioneered also in Manchester and Liverpool by those who see the great gain that can come to a city through this medium. While the children's concerts in Manchester are only on their second season, Liverpool has had on an average of twenty-seven of these programmes expressly for children each year for the past nine years.

A musical optimist said the other day: "Mark my word, both the noon-hour recital and the children's concert will one day be a recognized institution in every large city in Canada and they will become a source of attraction to visitors from the surrounding districts.

PERSONALITY VS. MUSIC BY RULE.

That the personality of the interpreter of music is the most important element in the interpretation is the assertion of a writer in the New York Sun. There are artists which the public consider second or third rate musicians whose technical ability perhaps even surpasses that of the outstanding favorites and yet there is lacking the real message that differentiates the greater and lesser artists. This writer adds: "It is an old topic indeed, but it has to be discussed repeatedly, if for no other reason at least because little children will grow up and become new generations of music lovers. These dear young ones have to learn that the interpretative artist is not artist at all if he gives no expression to himself.

A parrot can talk quite wisely at times, but it does not know what it is saying. The confident young pianist who marches out on the stage and recites a Beethoven sonata according to the rules and regulations laid down by his teacher is no artist. He is usually not even a good parrot. But the player whose personality cannot be smothered will either interest or enrage the hearer. He has something to say."

The rules of music have their place but it is the real genuine spirit of music that it is more important to get into one's nature. It is the getting of music into ourselves in order to put ourselves into the music.

BACK TO GREGORY

Mr. Healey Willan, organist of St. Paul's Church, Toronto, is giving a series of addresses to organists and clergymen on the principles and practice of Plain Song, that remarkable system of religious music devised, or revised by Gregory the Great. Of late years a better understanding of the devotional stateliness of this system has grown up, and while there is no likelihood of any Low Church congregation leaning towards a fuller ritualism, the meaning and origin of Plain Song has special interest to all persons interested in the development of Music.

The subject abounds in technicalities, but there are a few general principles which guided the development, and these are understandable of all men. In the first five hundred years of the Christian Era church music was probably derived in the main from the Jewish Temple ritual, with accretions of heathen festival hymns "adjusted or adapted" for sacred purposes. It became the custom for the singers to seize on the words Hallelujah or Amen whenever they occurred and improvise "fancy music" on them, greatly to the distress of the devout. Gregory devised a system of free recitative to be employed in the singing of the service and pinned down the "Hallelujah's" to a more seemly length. In time the portions of the mass specially suited for singing, such as the Te Deum or the Sanctus got entangled with the mathematics of counterpoint and singers and composers used secular tunes until another scandal arose. Then came Palestrina who, with a basis of the semi-Greek "modes" or scales adopted by Gregory, wrote a Mass setting that was the beginning of modern ritual music as we know it. Even in late years a new tendency towards florid and "expressional" music was rebuked by the Vatican and musicians were sent back to Gregory to learn their principles.

SATURDAY SYMPHONY CONCERTS

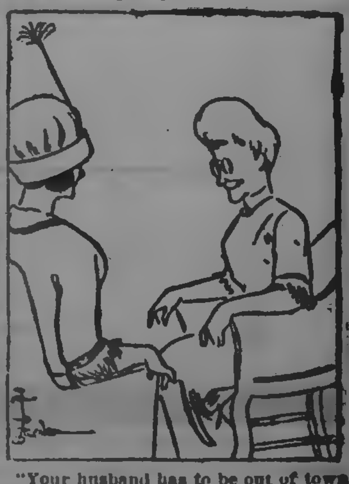
An announcement of too great significance to be passed over without comment appears in the New York papers to the effect that there is being given a series of six Saturday afternoon Symphony concerts for young people by the New York Symphony Orchestra under the conductorship of Walter Damrosch. Also the same organization is giving a series of four programmes for children on Saturday mornings.

The New York parents and children are fortunate indeed that such an arrangement is possible for these programmes will undoubtedly do much to influence the boys and girls and young people to become lovers of good music. The youthful mind will be educated musically by hearing a good orchestra just as it is educated in Geography by seeing maps. The hearing of music should then be supplemented by having the child produce music for himself just as the seeing of a map is made the most of by actually drawing it.

At school we used to draw the map of Europe putting in the countries, ports, rivers, chief cities, mountain ranges, and all boundaries. The doing of this after a close study of the map was a splendid training. In the same way a mother can take her son or daughter to such a programme as is above referred to, point out certain details about the rendering of music as exemplified in the orchestra's playing and then ask the pupil to strive for similar results in her practising.

Another great advantage to be derived from such series of recitals, though perhaps more indirect, is surrounding the children with this musical environment, the good and far-reaching influence of which requires no dwelling upon.

Self Sacrifice.



"Your husband has to be out of town on business a great deal, doesn't he?"

"Yes; I don't suppose he is at home more than ten days a month on the average."

"I should think you would find such a state of things very unsatisfactory."

"It isn't as pleasant as it might be, but he tells me that he would have to accept $25 a month less than he's getting if he stayed at home, so what is one to do? Of course if he were a younger and handsomer man than he is I shouldn't put up with it even for the money it brings us."—Chicago Record Herald.

Not an Expert.

"Do you hesitate?" she asked when he had come to remind her that she was engaged to him for that dance.

"Ye-ye-ye-ye-yes," he replied, "bu-bu-bu-bu-but not as w-w-w-w-w-well as I w-w-w-w-wish I did."—Chicago Record-Herald.

What National Cash Registers Do---

No. 8--Tell You the True Worth of Each Clerk.

The New National Cash Registers enable you to estimate the true worth of each clerk in your store.

They have a seperate cash drawer for each clerk which makes him directly responsible for mistakes.

They tell who makes the greatest number of sales by recording the clerk's initial against each transaction. They also tell you who sells the most in dollars and cents.

Thus they show the true worth of each clerk. At the same time they protect them against unjust suspicion and give credit or good work.

They encourage clerks to do their best—which means increased profit for you.

Now is the time to install machines which as an incidental part of the service they perform, tell you the true worth of each clerk in your store.

If you would like to know more about this system write us at once and our agent will call on you.

The Bright Side of The Picture

(New York Sun.)

A splendid tonic is in the words of Major Donald Guthrie of the Canadian overseas forces: 'There's lots of fun over there. There are no more cheerful and contented men on the face of the earth." He was talking, of course, about the soldiers in the trenches, who, some would have us believe, are pitiful, weeping, gray-haired wrecks after a tour of duty.

There are societies and committees for nearly everything nowadays. Not the least useful among them would be a committee for printing the Canadian major's words, bracketed with Brigadier-General Hoyle's hearty classic, "A soldier's life is a bully one," to be given to every man of draft age.

It would serve as an antidote for much depressing drivel.

MAKING READY FOR CURLING

A meeting of the Committee of Management was held at the rink, on Monday evening, and arrangements made to open the rink on Monday next.

Angus McIntosh will again be on hand to see that the ice is the best ever, and he will extend the glad-hand to all newcomers.

Chas. B. Banks has already vacated that part of the rink occupied by him during the summer months, so that everything is now ready to make ice as soon as the weather permits.

The members are reminded that the fees are payable on December 1st.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

Mr. L. J. Pettit, of the Collegiate, will address the High School Club this (Friday) evening at 6:15 o'clock his subject being "The School." This is the fifth of a series of studies on the city in connection with the life problem course now being followed by the High School Club this winter. Every older school boy should be present.

On Saturday evening at 7:15 a treat has been prepared for the "B" and "C" Employed Boys and School Boys. A series of views showing Y. M. C. A. work throughout Canada and overseas will be shown, with the assistance of Vernon Fiske and his lantern. On Sunday evening at 8:15 these views and a few others will be shown to the older boys and men, this service to take the place of the regular Sunday afternoon meeting. Every man and older boy is cordially invited to attend the Sunday evening service, when an enjoyable time will be had by means of the Association views and the use of appropriate song slides.

We would call the attention of the parents of Peterborough to the fact that now is the time when a boy would appreciate a Y. M. C. A. membership more than at any other time of the year. All Y. M. C. A. activities are now at their height, and gymnasium, plunge and game rooms are being largely used by the boys. The six classes of the Boys' Department are engaged in a membership campaign for a supper and a pennant, so as these boys seek to persuade their chums to join the Association, we trust that the parents' consent may readily be obtained, for it means much to a boy to be given a Y. M. C. A. membership early in life.

The Brantford Park Board have filed a complaint that boys are endangering the Bell memorial.

Couldn't Undestand It.

"Ma, where's your grandpa?"

"In a heaven a long time, dear."

Silence and apparent absorption in dollies for ten minutes.

"Mamma, didn't I come from heaven "

"Of course."

"Then it's funny I don't remember meeting grandpa there."

R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

I have the honor to accept the unamious nomination of the Liberal Party to contest the election as a Candidate to represent the people of West Peterborough in the House of Commons.

MASSES REQUIRE JUSTICE

Now is the time in the history of this country when we should be guided by true Liberal principles and stand by the masses as against the classes; stand by the people who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow and against the classes who exact unjust profits and extortionate tolls out of even the very necessities of life.

WAR POLICY

Today we are engaged in a great War with the Germanic powers in defence of Canada and the Empire. In the great struggle is involved the very existence of the freedom and liberty of mankind.

Our duty is plain. Our course is clear. We must prepare for any sacrifice of blood and treasure. We must fight Germany until we secure a just and a lasting peace. In this resolve all Canadians are united from Lake Champlain to the North Pole and from our furthest East to our furthest West.

Such being our Nation's resolution I pledge myself to support any effective war measure no matter from what source it may come. We must give immediate and constant support to our noble Canadian armies who have covered themselves with glory. We must support them with men. We must feed them. The rich and poor alike must serve. Our only difference is in how to serve but serve we will.

FOOD PRODUCTION

Great Britain has appealed to Canada to send her 300,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed her teeming millions and those of Italy and of France.

This enormous quantity of wheat would feed 40,000,000 people for a whole year. This shows our Allies want food.

Let the Government encourage the Farmer to produce more. Give him agricultural implements duty free. Supply him with suitable labor on fair terms to till the soil. Use our banks and Loan Companies to lend him money on fair and easy terms of payment to assist in every possible way to plant and produce food stuffs. Supply the farmer with steam or gasoline tractors to enable one man to do the work of five. Shield us from the profiteer who plunders the farmer and robs the consumer, makes a profit of a million a year and supports Sir Robert Borden and his hypnotizer Sir Joseph Flavelle.

A forward policy on these lines would be a double blessing. It would reduce the cost of living at home and would help supply the necessities of our Allies overseas.

Remember one single North West farmer produces 2000 bushels of wheat per year when well directed and equipped. 100,000 men would produce 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. Those already on the ground in the North West properly equipped and manned could produce 200,000,000 bushels more.

I pledge myself, if elected, to support prompt and immediate efforts to reduce the high cost of living.

BORDEN DISCRIMINATES AGAINST ENGLAND

Since the war began the Borden Government imposed an increased duty of 5 per cent. on British made goods entering Canada. This should be removed at once. Our great Mother of Nations has troubles enough without the Borden Government thus increasing them.

PROFITEERS AND SOLDIERS

The profits made by War Profiteers should be investigated. The profiteer should be made to disgorge his excessive profits to be used to increase the pay of our soldiers and to increase the pensions or allowances to our soldiers, their mothers, wives, sisters and dependents. None of them should ever be subjected to the indignity of "cold charity" by this grateful Nation on whose behalf they have suffered or died.

NO CONFIDENCE IN BORDEN

Sir Robert Borden has been for six years and is now the Prime Minister of this Country. Its chief head and front with full power to choose and remove his Ministers. He is appealing to this Country under an assumed name, but the policies and methods of his Government remain.

I cannot stop to repeat the well known charges of grafting proved on sworn testimony from the mouths of unwilling witnesses respecting the purchase of motors, of horses, of binoculars, of bandages, of drugs, of boots, of shells of gauze fuse and of all the implements of war

These unseemly transactions have taken place under the nose of Sir Robert Borden who now seeks to stifle and conceal further investigation with the hollow pretense of so called Union Government which in no sense whatever represents true believers in the principles of justice, truth and liberalism.

BORDEN CONDEMNED FOR SUPPLYING DEFECTIVE AMMUNITION

I have no confidence whatever in Sir Robert Borden who supplied our troops for many months with the Ross Rifle and defective ammunition which he must have known would jam and become a useless weapon after our Canadian boys had nobly entered the battle. The Ross Rifle was used by our troops at the six battles of St. Julien, of Givenchy, of Festubert, of St. Floi, of Zillebeke and of Sanctuary Wood. In each battle the rifle jammed and many a Canadian soldier was needlessly killed or wounded and some of them today languish in German prisons justly cursing the Borden Government without a chance of voting against it.

GRAFTERS

We must destroy the parasite, the profiteer, the grafter and camp follower, who are our worst enemies and fight our common foe with all the resources at our command.

TO OUR NOBLE WOMEN

I appeal to the women of this Riding who are casting their vote for the first time to act on the pure impulse of your heart alone and vote according to the dictates of your own conscience. My heart goes out in sympathy for you in these anxious times. I know your "beloved is white and ruddy; the chiefest among ten thousand. His countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars" and by him and his I pledge myself to stand.

UNITY OF ACTION AND SENTIMENT

Let us unite our people in this Great War as the armies of Great Britain and of France are united, marching and fighting side by side, the parents and guardians of Freedom and Justice.

"With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right" I appeal to you fellow electors to press on to finish the great war in which we are engaged "to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, his widow and the orphan to do all which we may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace with all nations."

For these reasons I appeal to you my fellow electors for your vote and influence in the pending election.

Your Obedient Servant.

SAVE YOUR ARTERIES IF YOU WOULD KEEP YOUNG

Prominent Doctor Recommends the Turning of Six Somersaults Every Night and Morning.

We promised to tell you how to conserve the arteries, how to stay young. Here is how—and we mean this seriously. Any old fossil who thinks we are joking about it is hopeless, that's all.

If you want to stay young forever turn six somersaults every night and every morning.

Not so fast, not so fast. It does sound foolish, we must admit. But it isn't anything of the kind.

Turn six somersaults every night and every morning. If you can do it you are young. If you can't, get young as soon as you can. Any 4 year old child will show you how to turn a somersault. Any dodering old fellow will laugh at the very notion. We old folks love to laugh at the ways of youth after we have departed from those ways forever. Nevertheless, six somersaults night and morning constitutes the most effective prescription we know for the prevention of arteriosclerosis. We are not going to try to tell why. Suffice to say that this silly ceremony makes folks young. If you don't believe it, try it. If you are not younger after the first month's trial, if your stomach doesn't behave better, if your liver isn't less troublesome if your temperature doesn't improve if you don't feel more pep and ambition and everything, then send back the somersaults and we'll use them ourself. And we don't mind admitting that somersaults improve metabolism, not to drag in the circulation, digestion and a lot of other handicaps. Methabolism is what makes the machinery go. When the machinery is working beautifully a doctor would say the metabolism is well balanced or the individual has a normal metabolism. Every household should have a somersault hall, long enough to allow six in a row. If your house is cramped for room, turn them in a circle around your bedroom. There is only one place where it is really inconvenient to turn them, and that is the aisle of a Pullman sleeper, though there are also other reasons why traveling men wear out so many arteries.

WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

MOUTHS AND DISEASE.

More and more insistently members of the medical profession as well as dentists are affirming the relationship between unclean mouths and serious diseases.

The latest utterance on this important subject is made by a New Haven physician, Dr. Oliver T. Osborne, professor of therapeutics at the Yale University school of medicine. Dr. Osborne reports, writing in the Journal of the American Medical Association:

"For nearly two years, now, at a public tuberculosis institution of which I am chairman of the medical board, we have examined the mouths, corrected the teeth and removed sources of infection of every patient who entered the institution.

"Owing to this preventive treatment we have had less tonsillitis, fewer sore throats, less indigestion, less influenza and fewer colds than we had before we began these mouth investigations."

I have already stated in this column the elementary facts in mouth infection. But they will bear repetition, as they are facts which cannot be too well remembered.

In and around the mouth are various structures—the teeth, the tonsils, the antrums and sinuses—where disease germs may gain entrance, secure a foothold and multiply.

Unless the mouth is kept clean and frequent visits paid to a good dentist, these germs soon or late attack the surrounding tissues, causing inflammation, tooth decay, dental abscesses, bone necrosis and so forth.

Their presence may long be unsuspected. Dental abscesses, for example, often are quite painless.

But from the infected areas absorption of the disease germs into the blood stream follows. Then will result symptoms of general ill health or acute disease, according to the character of the germs absorbed.

"Chronic invalidism may be caused by mouth infection.

"The blood pressure may be raised or lowered by mouth infections.

"The thyroid gland is frequently enlarged and may hypersecrete or hyposecrete in these infections.

"Serious disturbances of the blood, heart, kidneys, stomach, intestines and joints are frequent from mouth infections.

"Glycosuria can be, and perhaps true diabetes mellitus may be, caused by mouth infections.

"Serious distant focal infections may occur from mouth infections.

"Serious brain and nerve disturbances, as well as neuritis, may occur from mouth infection.

"Ulcer of the stomach, pyelitis, appendicitis and chronic colitis may be caused by pyorrhea alveolaris and mouth infection.

"Pneumonia, especially that which follows influenza, may frequently be caused by pneumococci long carried in the patient's mouth."

Dr. Osborne adds:

"No treatment of these conditions will be of any avail until the mouth is made clean."

Even then, if the infection has been of long standing, a complete cure may not result. Prevention is pre-eminently to be desired.

For prevention the chief measures to be taken are frequent cleansing of the mouth by some simple wash, regularity in the use of the tooth brush, and dental examinations at intervals not exceeding six months.

MR. HALL'S ADDRESS

The Wrongs to the Soldier and His Family Must be Righted.

THE WAR MUST BE WON

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

The following are some of the many reasons why the Electors of West Peterborough, and more particularly the women electors, are appealed to not to vote for Sir Robert Borden and his candidate, Mr. J. H. Burnham:

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden armed our Canadian soldiers with the Ross rifle, which he knew would jam in the front line trenches and would become a useless weapon when the enemy was pressing them the hardest.

BECAUSE facts are coming to light which give grounds to believe that our Canadian soldiers are now and have been forced by Sir Robert Borden to do duty overtime to induce them to vote for the Government in order to get a rest.

BECAUSE there are over 100,000 Canadian Soldiers in England who have not been utilized by Sir Robert Borden to give a rest to our weary-worn warriors on the firing line.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden sent our soldiers overseas to fight for $1.10 a day while the men who remained at home in safety received from $3.75 to $11.00 per day and recruiting was discouraged on that account.

BECAUSE the pay of our soldiers has not been increased by Sir Robert Borden with the increased cost of living, and he does not increase their pay, although he knows they are worthy of it.

BECAUSE our soldier's family is suffered by Sir Robert Borden to live on assigned pay and separation allowance of only $35.00 per month, when he knows that owing to increased cost of living $1.67 will not go as far as $1.00 did three years ago.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has compelled the soldiers' dependents at home to live on starvation wages; and to answer questions which independent womanhood resents to share in the patriotic funds.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has permitted the Food Barons to bleed our country while our soldiers bleed for it.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has failed to justly reward the soldiers who have returned, has failed to establish technical training schools where their talents and ability could be trained to the best advantage of themselves, and has failed to support and maintain our returned soldiers in any way worthy of the great sufferings they have endured.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has allowed the dependents of soldiers to be made the objects of public subscriptions when their dear ones are making such noble sacrifices for Canada.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden has failed to co-operate with the United States to assist her to send France millions of men from the United States who are only too anxious to take their place in the firing line and give the trench-tired Canadian, English and French soldiers a period of rest.

BECAUSE Canada has already 400,000 men in arms. The United States should have 5,500,000 men under arms before she has done as well as Canada. She only lacks ships to carry her soldiers to France, and Sir Robert Borden has really done nothing to provide these ships.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden, through his Quebec Nationalist Ministers Blondin and Sevigny discouraged recruiting in the Province of Quebec, and now seeks to take, under the Military Service Act, only about 5,000 men from the Province of Quebec and to take the remaining 95,000 men from the rest of English-speaking Canada.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden, through Food Controller Hanna, tells the soldiers' dependents to eat less, instead of assisting the Farmers to produce more.

BECAUSE the British statesmen have appealed to Sir Robert Borden for food to feed the British people, but he neglects to take any steps whatever to assist in food production. The Allies ask for bread. Sir Robert gives a stone.

BECAUSE Sir Robert Borden is feeding the enemy with the false news that we in Canada are divided; and thus the enemy are encouraged to fight on.

BECAUSE the foreigners from enemy countries can stay at home in safety and draw big wages, but our Canadian boys have got to go overseas to fight for $1.10 per day, and see their families come to want, while the foreigner's family lives in comfort.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will right these many wrongs and help to win the war.

I SHALL SUPPORT any effective war measure that will bring immediate and constant relief and assistance to our boys at the front.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will increase the soldier's pay and pension.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will increase the allowance to the soldier's family.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will rid this country of the profiteer and grafter and make him disgorge his ill-gotten gains for the benefit of the soldier and his dependents.

I SHALL SUPPORT any measure that will reduce the high cost of living, and will secure increased food production and that will give full value for every dollar paid.

These are some of the many reasons why I confidently appeal to you for your vote and influence in the pending election.

Your obedient servant,

R. R. HALL

WHEN the clock has struck that hour the fighting men of Canada who are forcing back the Hun in France and Flanders will be waiting to hear what you have done.

And what have you done?

Is your name enrolled among the thousands who have responded to the call?

Have you sacrificed some chosen desire so that you could put money into Victory Bonds?

Are you standing behind a soldier?

Rush into the fight while the Door of Opportunity is open.

Cancel every other engagement; sweep away every lingering doubt; only a few hours remain.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

NEED TONNAGE CONTROL.

London Papers Urge a More Systematic Use of Allied Tonnage.

London, Dec. 1.—The Daily Chronicle, in an editorial on the shipping tonnage problem, says that the Germans are right in supposing that their least hopeless prospect of victory is that offered by submarine warfare. To the latter end the Chronicle urges more controlled and serviceable use of all tonnage which the Allies already possess.

BRYAN QUITS PACIFISM.

"We should All Get Together and Fight Like the Devil."

Chicago, Dec. 1.—"I believe there is only one way to get lasting peace in the present crisis, and that is to fight for it. We should all get together and fight like the devil." That was the advice of William J. Bryan speaking at the Swedish Methodist Church in Evanston.

"I have been a pacifist in times past, and I still believe in peace," said Bryan, "but the sort of peace I want is lasting peace."

SHERBROOKE CASUALTIES.

Nine Unionists in Hospital, One With Broken Leg.

Sherbrooke, Que., Dec. 1.—Nine Union supporters were under medical treatment today as a result of the fracas at the political meeting here last night, when an anti-Government mob attempted to prevent Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Marine, and Hon. C. J. Doherty, Minister of Justice, making addresses in support of local Union candidates. One man has a broken leg and the others are suffering from bruises and scalp wounds. No report is available of the injuries to the anti-Union element.

No arrests have been made. Unionist supporters today were arguing that had more adequate police arrangements been made the trouble very probably would have been avoided.

FROM New York to San Francisco; from Toronto to San Antonio; in towns, cities and Metropolis, professional music-critics, modest and famous, from over 500 of the largest to the smallest daily papers on this continent have attended "Re-Creation Concerts," given by famous artists from the Edison Laboratories, at which these artists would sing in direct comparison with their re-created voices on the New Edison Diamond-Disc Phonograph.

All of these critics have confessed, in their own columns, over their own signatures, that it is impossible to distinguish the real voice or instrument from its re-creation on

The weight of this amazing verdict can best be realized by remembering that in a case on which a human life depends our courts consider a jury of twelve men, carefully selected, competent to render justice on evidence submitted. Yet here are enough men to constitute over forty separate juries of the most critical, capable calibre, who render forty unanimous verdicts, from the evidence submitted to them.

Only the New Edison could sustain such a test—would dare make the attempt.

The National Y.M.C.A., whom the Ontario W.C.T.U. is aiding, will need $50,000 to cover their free drinkables.

The W.C.T.U. has already sent to France, mainly for this purpose, about $11,000—but the need grows more insistent.

In addition to the free drinkables, the Ontario W.C.T.U. has become responsible for the cost of printing a weekly leaflet of cheer and spiritual help, which is being sent through the mails to all the soldiers in the forward trenches, who express a desire to receive it. The appreciation of the men for this bit of comfort can be judged by the fact that, in one division alone, and within one month after the issue began, 15,000 soldiers asked that their names be entered on the "Pay book Leaflet" list, the leaflets being so named from the fact that they are designed to fit into the soldiers' pay book.

To aid in raising the necessary funds the W.C.T.U. of this city will shortly hold a

"The Princess Pat" Light Opera With Vic. Herbert Music

On Wednesday next, Dec. 5, at the Grand the original Cort Theatre, New York production of Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom's greatest musical play, "The Princess Pat," will be presented. From its opening in New York, it played with unabated success for over six months and after a short road tour, it will return to the metropolis where it is safe to assert it will prove as great a favorite as during the original run. For "The Princess Pat," Mr. Blossom has, it is said, written a book that is very bright and humorous and, what is more, has given to it a consistent and interesting story of the manner in which a flirtation may be employed to win back the warm love of a husband by his charming, but neglected little wife. In evolving this plot to its satisfactory conclusion, an almost continuous chain of odd complications are met with.

Combined with a book that fairly scintillates, are a score of numbers in Mr. Herbert's characteristically happy style. There is rather wide range of music going from the whistleable kind to that which borders very closely to his grand operas, "Natoma" and "Madeleine." An unusually elaborate scenic equipment from the studio of Homore F. Emens, America's foremost scenic artist, is promised.

The play has three scenes all laid on Long Island. The first shows a beautiful garden, the second a living room, while the third is the smoking room of the Westmoreland Hunt Club, all perfect specimens of the best there is in that particular art.

The cast of well known singers includes Annette Ford, Geneveve Vernard, Peggy Johnson, Will H. Sloan, Neil Moore, Charles Coghlen, Overton Moyle, Augustus Buell, John Reinhard, Andrew Bixby and others of note. A large singing chorus, under the direction of H. H. Hamilton completes the organization.

Can a Britisher Be Neutral in War?

To Editor of The Mail and Empire:

Sir—What is a neutral? A person who, for reasons but known to himself, sides with neither one of two combatants. But supposing that members of that person's own family were engaged in the fray and he took no side, would he be considered a neutral? No. What then? Either a moral degenerate, a selfish beast, or a coward. What does the term "pro" signify? A leaning towards one of two combatants. In what is that leaning reflected? In anything favorable to one of the two combatants. Is conscription favorable to one of those combatants? Yes. Which one? The allies. Is anti-conscription favorable to one of them? Yes. The enemy. Then as one who took no side when his own family were engaged in combat, is either a moral degenerate a selfish beast or a coward, and one who places obstacles in the way of one combatant to the advantage of the other, is a "pro", what shall we call a British subject who takes sides with anti-conscription? What is a traitor? One who works or incites others to work in the interests of the enemy. Is working for anti-conscription in the interests of the enemy. Yes. Then what shall we call leaders of a political party who have for their "platform" anti-conscription?

Think it over. You are either for or against your country. You are either a true British subject or you are not. There is no compromise.

CANADIAN.

You may think you can be unnecessarily disagreeable and get away with it, but you can't.

LULL IN FIGHTING AT CAMBRAI

MR. HALL TURNS LAUGH ON HIMSELF BY CHARGING THAT GEN. CURRIE IS BORDEN PET

Commander - in - Chief Canadian Army a Life Long Liberal Not The Conservative Ward Heeler Mr. Hall Says He Is -Serious Accusation Came to Naught.

At Buckhorn last night Mr. R. R. Hall flew off the trolley completely and eclipsed al his previous records in his wildness of statement and bitterness of assault upon his opponents. His line of attack last night was to assail General Currie, the commander-in-chief of the Canadian overseas army, and who has recently been granted a short leave of absence on account of ill-health.

After he had discussed his favorite theme, the production of food, Mr. Hall cut loose with all the vehemence at his command.

"It is well known," he said, "that Sir Arthur Currie was a real estate dealer in Vancouver and Victoria and that he had no military experience and was only a ward heeler in these cities."

Before the war, General Currie, who was with the Militia in the West, was recognized as one of the leading artillery officers in Canada. He went overseas in the early months of the war. He did not crawl into his present position, as Mr. Hall so ungenerously insinuated, but reached it by the stepping-stones of weeks of strenuous service at the front.

Mr. Hall brings his own little house of cards in ruins about his own ears when he goes on to say that General Currie owed his promotion at the head of the Canadian army to political pull.

It so happens that General Currie is a Liberal and has been all his life. Hence the laugh is on Mr. Hall. The break is inexcusable. He has been led into error either through lack of information or by an excess of malice toward Sir Robert Borden. Even a tyro in politics—which Mr. Hall is not—knows that it has never been the custom for a government to select men from the opposite party and reward them for their political services by appointing them to high place.

The deductions that Mr. Hall makes from these charges, of course, fall flat. He is laughed out of court. His appeal to the women friends of soldiers crumbles into dust. Lawyer that he is, he knows something of that old legal maxim about a case being as strong as its weakest link.

Mr. Hall says that General Currie has been relieved of his command. An official statement from Ottawa denies this. General Currie has been granted sick leave, and the wonder is that, with the load of responsibilities he has carried, he did not break down long ago.

It is too bad that the present campaign is being dragged down to the present level. It is to be regretted that Mr. Hall cannot refrain from attacking an officer who has faithfully earned his spurs. Is the man who has done for his country what General Currie has done not to be spared the shafts of the designing politician?

Mr. Hall says that the casualties among the Canadian soldiers have been higher than among the French and English. He is probably right. The records show that too often the Canadian boys have been valorous without being discreet. That is to their credit, the highest compliment that can be paid them. They hesitate at nothing, pause at no danger.

NO PEACE TILL GERMAN RULERS CAN BE TRUSTED

President Wilson Delivers a Ringing War Message to Congress.

UNITED STATES TO STAY TO END

Copies of Address Have Been Sent To Every Capital in the World.

Washington, Dec. 4.— President Wilson delivered to Congress today an address considered so important in its relation to international affairs that it has been transmitted in advance by the Government to practially every other capital in the world.

In ringing definite terms the President declared that nothing shall turn the United States aside until the war is won and Germany is beaten. All talk of peace he pronounced out of the question. Peace, the President declared, could come only when the German people made it through rulers the world can trust, when they make reparation for the destruction their present rulers have wrought and when Germany receded from all territory acquired by armed conquest.

War With Austria

The immediate declaration of war against Austrian-Hungary was recommended to Congress by President Wilson. The President did not, however, recommend the declaration of war against Turkey and Bulgaria at this time.

W.S. MAGUIRE FOR BRANDON

ACCEPTS GENERAL SECRETARYSHIP OF THE Y.M.C.A. IN WESTERN CITY

Walter S. Maguire, a Peterborough graduate in Y. M. C. A. work, who for the past six years has been at the north branch of the Y. M. C. A., Montreal, has accepted the position of general secretary of the Brandon (Man.) Y. M. C. A. He will commence his new duties on Jan. 1.

Mr. Maguire has had splendid success in his work at Montreal. At Brandon the institution has been in somewhat low water for some time, and Mr. Maguire is going there to put his energy into the work and make a big effort to continue his success. His numerous local friends will extend best wishes.

TRIAL BEGINS IN DETROIT TODAY

OF ALLEGED DYNAMITERS — TWO CANADIAN CONVICTS ARE WITNESSES

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Detroit, Dec. 4.— Two convicts from a Canadian prison are to be the principal witnesses for the Government at the trial which begins in the federal court here today of Albert Kaltschmidt and several others on charges of conspiring to dynamite numerous Canadian factories and bridges. They are Charles F. Respa and William Leffler, convicted of dynamiting the plant of the Peabody Overall Company, Limited, at Walkerville, in June, 1915.

Respa under sentence of life imprisonment and Leffler sentenced for ten years were brought here from Kingston peintentiary. According to the Canadian authorities Leffler in a confession charged that Kaltschmidt, who has lived in Detroit for a number of years, was the instigator of a far reaching dynamite conspiracy. Respa's father, Frank Respa, 70 years of age, is one of those to be tried with Kaltschmidt. The others are Maria Schmidt and Mrs. Ida Neef, respectively Kaltschmidt's daughter and his sister and their husbands, Carl Schmidt and Fritz A. Neef.

WILL PETERBORO RETURN TO GENERAL VOTE IN ELECTIONS?

A Bylaw Asking This Question to be Submitted to the People This Year.

A large deputation fro mhte Trades and Labor Council asked the City Fathers last night to take the necessary steps toward changing the method of municipal election from the ward system to that by general vote.

Aldermen McIntyre and Duncan moved that a bylaw be prepared to submit to the people the question of election of Aldermen by a general vote.

Ald. Smith contended that the fact that so many towns and this city had tried this system and returned to the ward method points to the conclusion that there was cogent reason for such a change. He personally could state that under a general vote East City had no representation in Council at all, and citizens and parties plumped together for their own ends. He declared the Trades and Labor were mainly concerned because elections by acclamation had shut them out from the privilege of voting and though it is up to them to see that there was competion for aldermanic seats. He would like to ask the deputation their reason for requested change.

Mr. Dillon—"Our main object is to have an opportunity to use our vote against a council which does not treat us fairly, and to secure one which will legislate in our interests.

Ald. McIntyre expressed himself strongly in favor of a general vote, by which the whole city would be given opportunity of voting for a desirable candidate, and vice verse. He thought it the only way to get the best possible representation in the city's general interests.

His Worship could never understand why aldermen should be elected by the ward system and members of the School Board, City Trust and Utilities Commission selected by a general vote.

The ayes and nays on the motion were here taen, resulting in the following division:

Ayes—Aldermen Taylor, Dobbin, Stratton, Duncan and McIntyre.

Nays—Aldermen Saunders, Wortr Langford, Weir and Smith.

This showed a tie, and His Worship casting his vote in the affirmative the motion carried.

A bylaw asking the people to vote on the proposed return to a general vote system will be submitted in time for the result of the poll to be put into effect at the elections in January next.

GRAND RALLY PLANNED BEFORE POLLING DAY

A movement is on foot to hold a great popular rally, independent of candidates, in the Armories the night before the election. It is rumored that this matter will be taken up by the various congregations in Peterborough.

Trades and Labor and City Council Confer on a Vexed Problem.—Strong Objection to Raising $60,000 on the Taxes.

A strong deputation from the Trades and Labor Council waited upon the city fathers last night, and President J. J. Hartley explained that they were opposed to the proposition that $60,000 for Patriotic purposes should be levied on the tax rate in one year. This would be unfair to the small property owner, and the large owner of property would take the tax out of his tenants in rent. The government, he thought, should raise and distribute the patriotic fund with its separation allowance to soldiers' dependants. In this way the recipients would not feel that they were taking charity, as they do under the present system of local distribution.

Mr. C. E. Adams urged that the patriotic fund should be shouldered by the government and paid with separation allowances twice a month instead of once a month

Mr. Jas. Dillon thought council might use their influence in this direction. The government, he thought, should be responsible for the partiotic fund throughout the whole country, and so grade their cheques for separation allowance as to include the patriotic fund distribution, and cover the same ground as under existing conditions. The Peterborough Patriotic Fund Committee should unite with the city council in petitioning the government to adopt this method.

The Mayor did not think the Patriotic Fund should be considered as charity; it is a means of giving opportunity for voluntary subscription toward the end in view. Were it put in the government's hands it might create another job for patronage favorites. In any event it would certainly cost more for distribution than by local agency. However, were the government to collect the patriotic fund by an equalized assessment the city and county of Peterborough would be in pocket, as Peterborough raises a far larger amount than more than one wealthier county. Government distribution, as a whole, would be the most equitable way. His worship would not like to see the fund raised from the taxes, as a high tax rate would deter people and industries from locating here. Neither did he care to see it distributed over a long term of years by debentures, which would swell the cost of the fund to almost twice its original amount by the time it was paid. He advised a campaign for voluntary subscriptions and thought that were the city clerk, the assessor, Mr. Dobbin and perhaps himself to get from the roll an idea of what each should pay on an equitable distribution of the burden, the citizens might fall in line and agree to that method of being collected from without recourse to the tax scheme.

Ald. Dobbin did not favor asking the government to assume responsibility for the Patriotic Fund in the face of the growing cost and duration of the war. He urged another collection to get as much toward the fund as possible voluntarily and then devise some scheme for raising the remainder. Throughout the whole Dominion collections are largely by voluntary contribution, and Peterborough stands fifth on the list in regard to the proportionate amount raised, and is commended generally for its economy in distribution, which only costs one half percent on the dollar.

As to the [illegible] question Ald. Dobbin said he would attend the Trades and Labor Council meeting next

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1917

A REFERENDUM ON THE WARD SYSTEM.

WHEN AN influential body like the Trades and Labor Council ask for a referendum on the question as to whether the city is to abandon the ward system for the general vote plan, the aldermen adopted the wise course when they decided to take a vote at the coming civic election. If the bylaw carries, however, no change can be made for another year.

The general vote plan for the election of aldermen was in force in Peterborough up to 1910. At the municipal elections of that year it was voted out by a vote of 1,170 for to 1,878 against, and the present ward system was adopted and put into effect at the election one year later.

Of all Ontario cities, St. Thomas and Belleville are about the only places where the general vote plan prevails. A number of municipalities have abandoned it for the ward system within the past few years.

The workingmen desire the adoption of the general system, as they hold that under its operation they will be able to concentrate their voting strength on Labor candidates for civic office.

The workingmen complain that they have no representation on the Board of Education or on the Utilities Commission. They have the general vote for the election of both of these boards, and have so far failed to avail themselves of the advantages they claim for that plan. When Alderman Smith was a member of the School Board two years ago he was regarded as a representative of Labor. He was an active and useful worker in the interests of education, and his technical knowledge was especially valuable in the construction of new schools. Yet Alderman Smith failed of re-election by reason of a combine against him, and the East Ward had no representative on the School Board until Mr. Fowler was elected a year ago.

The ward system has its advantages and defects, but there can be no objection offered to the proposition to have the people pass upon it after a trial of six years.

PRAYING AND VOTING.

IN FORMER DAYS, during an election in which a moral question was at issue, the women of Canada were in the habit of gathering in the churches and praying for the success of the right. This custom was followed in every local option contest, only a small percentage of the women having the right to vote.

Thanks to the Dominion Government, the women who have friends at the front can vote as well as pray at the coming election. And pray they will, beyond all doubt, the mother for her son, the wife for her husband, the sister for her brother, the maiden for her sweetheart, that help may be sent them in their hour of need. And best of all, they can vote as they pray, not merely send up petitions that are crossed by the men who think women should have no part in politics.

AN IDEA FROM THE WEST.

OUT IN THE WEST they are always starting something that arouses the interest of the slower going population of the East. The people on the prairies are intensely practical. Just now they are discussing a proposition to have the school children help out in the production campaign without detriment to their education. It is suggested that from now until next seed-time all the schools be kept open six days a week. When the ground is ready for planting, the children can turn to and help put in the crops, a holiday being declared equal to the number of extra days put in by the schools. When the crop is in, the schools will run overtime again. At harvest time, another holiday will take up the extra days that have been put in.

It must be conceded that this plan has more commendable features than any yet devised in Canada. To grant a pupil leave of absence on the understanding that his class standing will not be forfeited does not really supply him with the training he will miss while out of school. The Western plan provides for this. Whatever is done, the rising generation of the country, the future hopes and assets of the nation must not be neglected in their intellectual any more than in their physical development. Their minds as well as their bodies must be saved from starvation.

THE PATRIOTIC FUND.

THERE ARE FEW beneficiaries of the Patriotic Fund who would not prefer to receive this assistance directly from the Government rather than from a private source. The change in the administration of the Fund suggested by members of the Trades Council wolud free this service of its greatest objection—its resemblance to the work of a charitable organization.

The delegation of Labor men who waited on the City Council last night offered the most practical solution of this problem. The local Trades and Labor Council is the first organization of any kind in Canada to arrive at such a conclusion. They recommend that the Patriotic Fund be abolished altogether and the separation allowance increased and graded to take its place.

As regards expense, the proposed change has everything to recommend it. If Peterborough County, under the present system, raises by a tax levy the $100,000 required for one year, this would mean an additional rate of nearly five mills. If the money required by the Dominion at large were so raised, Peterborough County's share would be half, or less, of that figure.

As an offset to this it is urged that the local administration of the Fund would cost more if the work is done by the Government. Inspectors would have to be maintained in each county to prevent imposition on the Government. Besides, it is urged, the Government would require an additional clerical force in order to take care of the new work.

The various paid executive officers are sufficient to guard the Fund from impostors. They could be continued in that capacity with no additional expense to the public. The Government would require no more clerks to pay out say $50 to the dependents of a soldier than the $25 a month which is now allowed for separation allowance. It will be found that the majority of those who receive assistance from the fund are also paid Patriotic allowance.

As between raising the Patriotic Fund by voluntary subscription and taxation the latter plan is all to the good. The only question is as to method, whether to raise the entire amount in one year or to add to the debenture debt of the city. If the plan advocated by the Labor men is adopted by the Government, all these objections will disappear. The money will be raised fairly from every section of the country.

Premier Borden has promised to give this matter official consideration. It will have to be taken up in Parliament, so that no change is likely this year. However, a start has been made in the direction of improvement. The City Council of next year will in all probability have to settle the question as between subscription and taxation, and, if the latter plan is followed, whether the money is to be raised in one year or by the issue of debentures.

Separation allowance will be paid for a year or more after the fighting in Europe has been stopped, for it will require that time to get the men back from Europe. The present problem is one likely to engage the attention of the public for years to come.

CO-OPERATING WITH THE AMERICANS.

MR HALL PROFESSES regret that the Government of this country does not co-operate to a greater extent with the Americans in sending foodstuffs to the Allies. To what greater extent could this be carried out?

When the United States declared war on Germany the entire situation in this country took on a new aspect, and restraint between the two nations was at once replaced by an exchange of effort. In the first place, the trade relations of the two countries were modified. The Canadian duty on wheat and flour from the other side was removed, and this automatically provided for the free entry of Canadian wheat and flour into the United States. The idea was to get the food overseas as quickly as possible, and, owing to the war, the Americans had unusual shipping facilities.

A small fleet of German vessels had been interned in American ports. These were commandeered as soon as war broke out, and became part of a merchant fleet. In order to get the benefit of these carriers for Canada, the unrestricted export of wheat and flour across the boundary line was permitted.

Mr. Hall appears to exaggerate the transportation problem and the necessity for more ships. They are needed beyond all doubt, but they are being constructed both in the United States and in Britain. When the war is over Canada will have an excellent opportunity to engage in shipbuilding. In the meantime the call is for men to strengthen the fighting line at the front.

WHY KNOCK BOURASSA?

WHY SHOULD The Examiner knock Bourassa and clamor for the suppression of his newspaper? Is professional jealousy at the root of its tirade of last evening. Mr. Bourassa and his paper are just now striving for the same end as our contemporary—the election of the Liberal party and the Premiership for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Why not be fraternal instead of spiteful?

BILLIONS FOR THE WAR.

THE UNITED STATES Congress, all the members of the lower branch of which, and one-third of the members of the Senate, were elected a little over a year ago, began their December session yesterday. The Treasury Department asked for a total grant of thirteen and a half billion dollars, eleven billions of which is to be expended on the army and navy for the prosecution of the war, the rest to be devoted to meeting ordinary government expenditures.

This tremendous sum is sure to be granted, as the Congress has from the time war was declared freely responded to every claim made upon it. The estimate shows the spirit of the American nation and their determination to use every national resource in the winning of the war. The construction of airships, submarines and ordinary carrying vessels will be undertaken on a gigantic scale. Mr. R. R. Hall to the contrary notwithstanding, the United States is not likely to find itself required to call upon Canada for assistance in this regard. The Government of this country can collaborate in war work in other ways.

ARE THESE QUITTERS?

MR. HALL DENIES with some heat that there is a party in Canada in favor of drawing out of all further participation in the war.

Are the Liberal candidates in Quebec, who are signing a pledge to work for that object if they are elected, to be classed as quitters? And these are the men with whom Mr. Hall will be associated, with whom he will join in supporting Sir Wilfrid Laurier, if he is elected to Parliament on December 17th.

IF RUSSIA QUITS.

IT WILL BE A SERIOUS blow to the Allies if the faction that now appears to be in control in Russia manages to hang on to the reins of government and a separate peace is made with the Germans. The loss of the military assistance such a step would entail is not the only consideration. Such a flagrant breach of treaty obligations would tend to prolong the war for years, because with Russia out of the ranks of the belligerents it would be impossible to starve Germany into submission. The vast wheat fields of the new republic, and the granaries that are said to be filled to overflowing with grain for which there has been no outlet to speak of for the past three years would be at the disposal of the Germans.

That is the great reason why the Allies watch with intense interest developments in Russia.

SUPPLYING THE SOLDIERS' NEEDS

Military life operates against the frills and ornaments of effete civilization. Almost the moment the soldier lands in camp he goes unconsciously back to the fundamentals—the things that either express what he feels and longs for or that furnish him a means of expressing these things himself. The work of several hundred secretaries and workers of the Y. M. C. A. on the battle fields or at the base towns of Europe has developed a number of interesting facts with regard to the elemental desires and needs of the soldier.

One of the biggest demands of Canadian troopers in France has been for sheet music and portable musical instruments. The most recent consignment of this character consisted of 3,000 sheets of music, including some thirty different titles. Folk songs, popular melodies, "hits" of the season, solos and quartets are in order with the expeditionary forces. In the realm of instrumental music the choice ranges from the classic to the very latest "rag." Orchestras, glee clubs and minstrel troupes are either being or very soon will be organized among the soldiers by the Y. M. C. A. secretaries, so that they may become self-entertaining during their leisure. But the instruments themselves must be furnished by the people of this country and may consist of guitars, banjos, mandolins, ukuleles, accordions and mouth organs. The international committee of the Y. M. C. A. is prepared to forward such instruments to the boys in France.

Music is actually proving itself a curative in the French hospitals. Lena Ashwell, an actress who has established thousands of concert companies throughout Europe for the soldiers, relates that she has seen many a wounded, trench marked soldier cry for a song even before he thought of food or drink or a bath or relief from physical suffering.

Letters from home—what a tremendous force they are, and how simple and elemental, too! If people at home could only realize how much of a force for good the short or long or badly penned or hard to read letter is in the life of a far away soldier, our soldier boys would be flooded with correspondence, so anxious would every one be to exert some of that force. It seems impossible to lay too much stress upon the importance of keeping the soldier boy in as close touch as possible with the home and his loved ones.

The third elemental instinct developed rapidly by the soldier boy away from home is represented by his interest in and study of the bible—a book that, perhaps, he never looked inside of while at home. Thousands of soldiers have been supplied with small pocket testaments, but the supply has never equaled the demand, although the American Bible society has been turning out new testaments at the rate of about 100,000 or more a month. The Y. M. C. A. has an order with the society for 1,000,000 pocket testaments.

TODAY'S STORY

"Ira Pepperdew always looks like a fugitive from justice," observed Handy. "I wonder why he always goes around in such a furtive way, like a scared jack-rabbit."

"Because a lot of people are looking for him with the idea of punching his head," explained Gangling. "You haven't lived long in this neighborhood or you would be carrying a brick, hoping for a chance to heave it at Ira.

"You see, he's a sort of half-baked inventor, and he's always getting up some labor saving device or other contrivance, and his inventions never work out. If he had any sense he would go to other towns when he has things for sale, but he's so blamed fatuous that he peddles his wares right around home among his neighbors, and they know where to look for him when something disagreeable happens.

"Last spring Ira invented a new kind of varnish for floors. He said it was everlasting, and when once it had dried nothing could affect it. Dan Filigree had just moved into our neighborhood and was a candidate for Probate judge and the indications were he'd win hands down, for all the women were for him, and when the women back a man in earnest he generally lands with both front feet.

"Well, Mrs. Filigree bought a quart of Ira's new floor varnish while Dan was out of town campaigning, and she put it on the sitting room floor at night, supposing it would be dry when her husband got home. Next day when she was away from the house Dan arrived home with several political leaders, and he took them into the sitting room for a consultation. They held a council of war and then rose to depart and found that their feet were stuck to the floor.

"They pawed around like a lot of flies on sticky paper and old Col. Weatherwax lost his balance and went down, and they had to pry him off the floor with fire shovels and things, and when those eminent statesmen finally got outdoors they were all shaking their fists under Dan's nose and telling him they'd see him planted a mile deep on election day. They thought it was a put up job of some sort.

"Dan had to blow himself for two or three gallons of wood alcohol to wipe the varnish off his floor and when he got through the job he just naturally stood out in the front yard and expressed his sentiments in language that killed all the grass on his front lawn, and a lot of women heard him, and they concluded at once that a man of his stamp wasn't fit to be Probate Judge, and it was pitiful the way he was slammed into the ground on election day.

"He's been looking for Ira Pepperdew ever since, but Ira has managed to sidestep him so far. That's one reason why he's always looking over his shoulder and dodging into alleys. He flees from the wrath to come.

"There are 987 similar reasons why Ira looks like a fugitive from justice."

"Well, if it's an odd number, put her down at 39."

How True?

A minister, like his father before him, he had often officiated at marriage ceremonies, but this was his first experience at giving away the bride.

He was in a devout mood; his church was small, his salary meagre, and his family numerous. This daughter had been especially expensive.

"Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" droned the preacher.

Gently the father placed the slender hand of the bride in that of the embarrassed groom.

"Take her, my boy," he exclaimed, his face aglow. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

Objective and Subective.

"Has Gladys improved in her piano playing?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Cumrox. "Sometimes I think she has improved, and other times I suspect that maybe I am getting used to it."

Genuine Hero Worship.

"A great deal depends on opportunity."

"Yes," replied the woman who admires her husband; "if John could have seen the Kaiser in time and could have persuaded him to take a little friendly advice, all this terrible trouble never would have happened."

CAMPAIGN STORY NAILED

Editor Review:—I have been creditably informed that a report has been circulated to the effect that my son, Major Garnet Greer, has written to me from France advising me to vote and work against the Union Government in this election. On the contrary my son has written that reinforcements are urgently needed at the front and strongly favors conscription, as the best and fairest means of securing the necessary men.

Editor Review:—The season of the roorback has arrived. Look out for it. Any statement made against either candidate, where the candidate criticized is not given a chance to reply, may be put down as a fake.

I am accused by a woman with a wooden leg of having spoken rudely when she asked for exemption for her son. I am not aware that I spoke rudely to any such woman. I do not think that any woman with a wooden leg has addressed remarks to me.

It must be plain that I cannot investigate and see whether women have wooden legs or not, but in any event beware of certain statements about either Mr. Hall or myself.

Help the Sailors!

The strong, right arm of human civilization—the unconquerable sailor of the British Navy and Mercantile Marine—

He stands before you and asks your help on Sailors' Day, December 8th. Why does he do this?

Because millions have been given to the Army by public and private subscriptions—worthily so—but practically nothing to the Navy and Mercantile Marine.

Think of the superb bravery of the men who defy the perils of mine-sown, submarine infested seas and, with songs on their lips, cheerfully give up their lives for the Great Cause.

So that the great arteries of the Empire—the High Seas—may be kept alive with British traffic—carrying food, munitions, aeroplanes, artillery and the thousand things our boys need at the front to fight the barbarous Hun.

What happens—think you—to those poor fellows, maimed at their calling, or to their humble loved ones when the breadwinner is killed or drowned?

No pensions—no "allowances"—cold charity and little of that.

Is this fair—is it just—is it RIGHT?

Let your answer be expressed in a generous contribution on SAILORS' DAY, DECEMBER 8th, through the Daughters of the Empire who are seeking to increase Canada's contribution last year of $700,000 "for the relief of British and Canadian Sailors and their dependents, for Sailors' Homes, Institutes and Hospitals in Canada and throughout the Empire" and for the full work of the Navy League. Won't you be generous on

SAILORS' DAY, Dec. 8th

SATAN WRITES TO THE KAISER

Praises Him for His Co-operation and offers Him Throne Down Below.

To Wilhelm von Hohenzollern, King of Prussia, Emperor of All Germany and Envoy Extraordinary of Almighty God:

My Dear Wilhelm:

I can call you by that familiar name, for I have always been very close to you, much closer than you could know.

From the time that you were yet an undeveloped being I have shaped your destiny for my own purpose.

In the days of Rome, I created a rough-neck known in history as Nero; he was a vulgar character and suited my purpose at that particular time. In these modern days of classic demon an efficient super-criminal was needed and as I know the Hohenzollern blood I picked you as my special instrument to place on earth an annex of hell. I gave you abnormal ambition, likewise an over-supply of egotism that you might not discover your own failings; I twisted your mind to that of a madman with certain normal tendencies to carry you by, a most dangerous character placed in power; I gave you the power of a hypnotist and a certain magnetic force that you might sway your people. I am responsible for the deformed arm that hangs helpless from on your left, for your crippled condition embitters your life and destroys all noble impulses that might otherwise cause me anxiety, but your strong sword arm is driven by your ambitions that squelch all sentiment and pity. I placed in your soul a deep hatred of all things English, for of all nations I hate England most; wherever England plants her flag she brings order out of chaos and the hated Cross follows the Union Jack; under her rule wild tribes become tillers of the soil and in due time practical citizens; she is the great civilizer of the globe and I hate her race. I planted in your soul a cruel hatred of your mother because she was English, and I left my good friend Bismark to fan the flame I had kindled. Recent history proves how well our work was done. It broke your royal mother's heart, but I gained my purpose.

The inherited disease of the Hohenzollerns killed your father, just as it will kill you, and you became the ruler of Germany and a tool of mine sooner than I expected.

To assist you and further hasten my work I sent you three evil spirits, Nietssche, Tdeitschke, and later Bernhardi, whose teachings inflamed the youths of Germany, who in good time would be willing to spill their blood and pull your chestnuts, yours and mine; the spell has been perfect—you cast your ambitious eyes toward the Mediterranean, Egypt, India, and the Dardanelles and you began your great railway to Bagdad, but the ambitious Archduke and his more ambitious wife stood in your way. It was then that I sowed the seed in your heart that blossomed into the assassination of the Duke and his wife, and all hell smiled when it saw how cleverly you saddled the crime onto Serbia. I saw you set sail for the fjords of Norway and I knew you would prove an alibi. How cleverly done; so much like your noble grandfather, who also secured an assassin to remove Old King Frederick of Denmark and later robbed that country of two provinces that gave Germany an opportunity to become a naval power. Murder is dirty work, but it takes a Hohenzollern to make a way and get by with it.

Your opportunity was at hand; you set the world on fire and the bells of hell to ringing; your attack on Belgium caused much joy, it was the beginning, the foundation of a perfect hell on earth, the destruction of noble cathedrals and other infinite works of art was hailed with joy in the infernal regions. You made war on friend and foe alike and the murder of civilians showed my teachings had borne fruit. Your treachery towards neutral nations hastened a universal upheaval, the thing I most desired. Your undersea warfare is a master stroke from the smallest mackerel boat to the Lusitania. You show no favorites, as a war lord you stand supreme for you have no mercy, you have no consideration for the baby clinging to the mother's breast as they both go down into the deep together only to be torn apart and leisurely devoured by the sharks down among the corals.

I have strolled over the battlefields of Belgium and France. I have seen your hand of destruction everywhere, it's all your work, super-friend that I have made you. I have seen the fields of Poland, now a wilderness fit for the prowling beasts only, no merry children in Poland now, they all succumbed to frost and starvation. I drifted down to Galicia, where formerly Jews and Gentiles lived happily together, I found but ruins and ashes, I felt a curious pride in my pupil, for it was all above my expectations. I was in Belgium when you drove the peaceful population before you like cattle into slavery, you separated man and wife and forced them to hard labor in the trenches. I have seen the most fiendish attacks committed on your women and those forced into maternity were cursing the father of their offspring, and I began to doubt if my inferno was really up to date.

You have taken millions of dollars from innocent victims and called it indemnity, you have lived fat on the land you usurped and sent the real owners away to starvation. You have strayed from all legalized war methods and introduced a code of your own. You have killed and robbed the people of friendly nations and destroyed their property. You are a liar, a hypocrite, and a bluffer of the highest magnitude. You are a pupil of mine and yet you pose as a personal friend of God. Ah, Wilhelm, you are a wonder. You wantonly destroy all things in your path and leave nothing for coming generations.

I was amazed when I saw you form partnership with the impossible Turk, the chronic killer of Christians, and you a devout worshipper in the Lutheran Church. I confess, Wilhelm, you are a puzzle at times. A Mohammedian army commandered by Prussian officers assisting one another in massacring Christians in a new line of warfare. When a Prussian officer can witness a nude woman who, disemboweled by a swarthy Turk, committing a double murder with one cut of his saber, and calmly stand by and see a house full of innocent Armenians locked up, the house saturated and burned then my teachings did not stop with you, but have been extended to the whole German nation. I confess my satanic soul grew sick and there and then I knew the pupil had become the master. I am a back number and my dear Wilhelm I abdicate in your favor. The great key of hell will be turned over to you. The gavel that has struck the doom of dammed souls since time began is yours, I am satisfied that my abdication in your favor is for the very best interests of hell—in the future I am at your majesty's service.

Affectionately and sincerely,
LUCIFIER H. SATAN.

Change So Great Her Friend Hardly Recognized Her

Mrs. Hooper Tells of Her Wonderful Improvement by Taking Tanlac

"One day last week I met a friend on the street and she hardly knew me at first. This shows how I have improved since I began taking Tanlac," said Mrs. Nellie Hooper of 281 Oakwood Avenue, Toronto, in an interview recently.

"I have suffered so much from nervousness and indigestion during the past six months," she continued, "and had become so pale and lifeless that I was very blue and despondent. My appetite left me entirely and I had no relish for food of any kind. What I did eat seemed to fill me with gas, causing a tight feeling in my chest and almost cut off my breath. I was constantly belching up sour gas and I could taste my food for hours after eating it. My nerves were so upset that I could hardly rest at all. Some nights it was three or four o'clock before I would doze off to sleep and then I would get up in the mornings all tired and wornout, like I hadn't lay down at all. My face hardly had the color of life in it and I had no energy or strength scarcely.

"I had lost over twenty pounds of flesh and was getting thinner and weaker every day when I read about Tanlac and decided to try it. I have been gaining weight and strength ever since I began taking it and while I have used only two bottles so far the results have already been astonishing. My stomach trouble has disappeared entirely, my appetite is wonderful and I can eat big hearty meals now without having a sign of indigestion. My color is better, I have more life and energy and, in fact, I have improved until I feel like a new person and my friends often speak of how much better I look. My nerves are now perfectly calm and my sleep is as sound and peaceful as a baby. Tanlac has certainly been a great thing for me and I take pleasure in recommending it to everyone."

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle-front; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,
JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

RESERVES NOW NUMBER 35,000

MR. HALL OFF IN ESTIMATE OF CANADIAN TROOPS IN ENGLAND

"There are over 100,000 soldiers in England," says Mr R. R. Hall, in his recent address to the electors, "who have not been utilized by Sir Robert Borden to give a rest to our weary-worn warriors on the firing line."

Another campaign statement that fails to stand investigation. In his address at Renfrew last Saturday Mr Rowell said:

"On the 7th of November we had a total available reserve for infantry reinforcements in Great Britain and France of only 35,000 men, and of these a substantial number had not completed their training. Since the 7th of November we have sustained serious casualties, so tonight we have not got even 35;000 men available as infantry reserves. Previous to the victory at Passchendaele Ridge it was estimated that those reserves would be sufficient to provide reinforcements up to April next, but since that estimate was made they have been heavily drawn upon to fill up the gaps. My grave fear is that before even the first draft under our selective draft system is ready for the firing line our available reserves will be depleted and exhausted. With such a situation confronting us a referendum is useless, and we should not delay in calling the men up for service and sending them overseas, as this is no time to falter."

In the face of these conditions, the party with which Mr. Hall is associated would waste a year taking a referendum as to whether or not reinforcements be sent overseas.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden UnionAdministration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

PUBLIC BATHS PROPOSITION

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO ENQUIRE FURTHER INTO MR. PETER'S PROJECT

The question of allowing Max Peters the use of the three islands just above the C.P.R. on which to erect bathing houses, he to charge a fee for the use of same came up before the City Fathers last night. Peters proposes to connect these islands with the main land by means of a rustic bridge.

In this connection the City Solicitor reported that these islands are city property, but the Crown holds all rights to the water around islands, and over and under the water. Such being the case the Crown's consent to a bridge would be needed.

Ald. Weir, chairman of a special committee, reported against this proposition on the grounds that for a proposed expenditure of $500 proper arrangements for bathing could not be consummated; and that such bathing houses with entrances off Engleburn Avenue would be a detriment to the scheme. Ratepayers are strongly objecting and even now residents on Engleburn avenue complain that people crossing the C.P.R. bridge trespass on their property to reach the river front. He also advanced that a capital spot for bathing in East City is at the Vermont Marble Works.

Ald. Smith—"The money Mr. Peters proposes to spend would not clean up the island. As to objections from citizens, you'll hear them no matter what bathing spot is proposed."

Mr. Peters being present, replied that the $400 or $500 expenditure proposed would be spent on the bathing houses, and he, being a carpenter would do most of the work himself.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and McIntyre this matter went back to the committee to enquire if entrance to the spot could be made from the C. P. R. bridge without infringing on private property rights, and also to see if sufficient investment would be forthcoming to assure approved bathing accommodation.

Mr. Peters replied to Ald. Weirthat there is no truth in the report that he intended introducing a floating barge and dancing pavillion at the islands in question.

Wm. F. Sutch, superintendent of Brantford city sewers, has practically refused to accede to the request of the city council that he resign.

Referendum Would Leave Our Fighters in the Lurch!

Hon. N. W. Rowell said in Toronto—"On Dec. 17th you must choose a real Union Government, or you must choose a Government that will abolish conscription and leave our men in the lurch!"

IT is imperative that the Canadians at the front be reinforced at the earliest possible moment. Union Government asks for your support that it may continue raising the necessary 100,000 reinforcements from CLASS ONE.

Laurier and his adherents propose delaying the sending of those reinforcements about a year to tinker with a referendum. Modern warfare is a matter of hours and minutes. Armies cannot wait!

Therefore

RESTORE THE NATURAL SIGHT

Scene from "Lilac Time" at The Grand next Friday and Saturday, Dec. 7 and 8 with Saturday Matinee at 2.30.

Jane Cowl's play "Lilac Time" which is now making a short tour of the leading cities in Canada, bids fair to establish a record for all dramatic road companies in the future. In the first two weeks of the play on tour it succeeded in breaking all records for total attendance at both theatres in which it was produced.

Some idea of the reception accorded Miss Cowl's "Lilac Time" may be gathered from the fact that the most successful plays that are produced in New York are witnessed by from ten to twelve thousand people a week. The actual number of persons who attended the performances of "Lilac Time" its first two weeks on the road was over 40,000. To be exact, the first week out it was seen by 20,997 people, and in it's second week by 21,112.

The local seat sale opens tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Hon. W. J. Hanna, through a New York Herald interview, has been advising everyone to practise economy for three months.

There is a rumor that there is a possibility of Sir Wilfrid Laurier visiting Oshawa.

NEW FUEL MADE FROM GARBAGE CANS, RAGS AND OTHER REFUSE

One Ton of Fuel For Each 1000 Persons Produced at Half the Cost of Coal---Routine Business of City Council.

The City Fathers met in their last regular meeting for the year 1917 last night. There were present, Mayor Duffus, Aldermen McIntyre, Langford, Weir, Worth, Duncan, Stratton, Dobbin, Smith, Taylor and Saunders.

The reports by the several committees for the month were adopted as submitted.

Bylaws

Ald. Worth fathered a bylaw authorizing the execution of a contract for garbage collection with Messrs. Geo. Mitchell and Frank Turner for the ensuing year at $7,500. The measure passed its several readings.

Ald. Langford fathered a bylaw providing polling places and officials for the municipal elections. This passed Council.

A bylaw to convey part of the Laval Street to the De Laval Co., Limited passed its first and second readings. This will go to the people at the elections in January.

In this connection Ald. McIntyre and Langford moved that notice be given of the bylaw to close the southern forty feet of De Laval street, between Park street and the Grand Trunk Railway, and that at a council meeting on January 14th, 1918, the objections of any person whose lands may be prejudiced thereby will be heard.

Ald. Weir fathered a bylaw authorizing the execution of snow ploughing contracts.

Ald. Dobbin submitted a bylaw to authorize the construction of an eight inch water main in East City, as recommended by the Board of Health and to provide for the issuing of debentures for $13,200 to pay for same. This passed its three readings.

Ald. Weir's bylaw to construct cement sidewalks on certain streets under the local improvements act passed council.

Motion of Condolence

On motion of Ald. Taylor and Saunders, Council expressed deep regret in the death of the late Mr. J. B. McWilliams, a highly respected and esteemed citizen, one-time councillor of the Town of Peterborough and father of ex-Mayor Roland McWilliams, now of Winnipeg.

This was carried in a standing vote.

A New Fuel

Council was in receipt of a communication suggesting that this city unite with Montreal and other communities in sending a deputation to Colorado on the 9th instant to inspect a plant for producing a new fuel named Okal from garbage, rags, bottles, cans and other refuse. The communication was from the Canadian Neu Fuel Co., Toronto, and declared that by this new method a ton of fuel for each 1000 persons can be produced at half the cost of coal.

The aldermen were somewhat skeptical of the scheme and Ald. Stratton who is going to Toronto will bring back a report next Wednesday.

A Question of Banners

Rev. W. J. McCall was granted permission to extend a streamer advertising the bazaar in connection with the church of the Immaculate Conception across Simcoe street from the St. Alphonse Lyceum.

Mr. R. R. Hall was granted permission to extend a streamer across Hunter street, advertising his committee rooms.

The Women's Union Government League was granted a similar privilege.

Band Instruments

Lieut.-Col. Mills asked the use of the 93rd battalion band instruments by the 57th regiment. Some of the latter's instruments being thirty years old, and none less than fifteen years in use. The most of them are practically worn out.

On motion of Ald. Langford and Worth, this will be acquiesced in providing an agreement is entered into by which the ownership of the instruments by the city is secured, for their return if needed, and that the band shall be at the Mayor's call for public occasions.

Municipal Canada

Council definitely decided to take a page in municipal Canada at $200, advertising the city. The book will contain write-ups of Canadian municipalities and resources, etc. A circulation of 5,000 copies, mainly out of Canada, is guaranteed, and the city is to have 500 copies of its write up in pamphlet form.

Free Skating Rinks

Mr. Cranfield presented a petition that an open air skating rink be maintained at the corner of Homewood avenue and Walton street, West Ward.

Dobbin favored two rinks in the West Ward and two in the South Ward.

To Ald. Smith, Ald. Dobbin replied it would cost so very little to run two rinks that it would not be worth splitting hair over.

Ald. Stratton was quite agreeable that two rinks should be maintained in the West Ward.

On motion of Ald. Worth and Duncan, the two rinks in the West Ward above mentioned will be maintained, and the South Ward will have a similar privilege.

ABSOLUTE DISALLOWALS NOT MORE THAN 250 AT TWO LOCAL TRIBUNALS

Over 1300 Claims for Exemption on Lists.

The local tribunals have completed their lists of exemption applications and are now engaged in dealing with applications which for various reasons were laid over. There are a number of cases where the applicants for exemption have failed to put in an appearance. These men are receiving very lenient treatment, and in the case of one applicant today, the tribunal at the Judges Chambers stretched a point to give the delinquent another warning to appear.

The local tribunals have had to deal with approximately 1320 applications for exemption. The number of absolute disallowals will not be more than 250.

This morning before Judge Huycke, Bernard C. Hale, working on the farm of Sam Armstrong, near Indian River changed his plea of ill-health to importance of occupation. His employer's son is overseas. Ninety acres are cultivated.

As Mr. Armstrong had not supported the exemption claim, the tribunal was disposed to disallow the claim, but finally decided to give Hale a chance to strengthen his case by bringing his employer before the tribunal.

Andrew Brotherson, Concession St. was given exemption until May 1st. Two brothers are overseas. "It's a pity the boy who has been overseas 2½ years could not be brought home on furlough. The father has been trying to get him home, and if it could be arranged this boy could go," said Judge Huycke.

Frank Bonness, draughtsman at the Canadian General Electric Co. was exempted so long as he remains at his present important work.

In the case of Cecil Bernard Ryan, it was decided to accept his story that he is an American citizen, and exempt him.

ADAMSON AND DOBBIN THE HOLDER OF WINNING TICKET

On a deer which was donated to the Red Cross Society at Young's Point by Mr John Johnston, the branch realized the handsome sum of $90. This was made possible by selling tickets. The drawing was held last night at the home of Mr. Johnston, and Adamson & Dobbin of Peterborough were declared the winner on ticket No. 453.

The ladies of the Society wish to express their gratitude to all those who purchased tickets and to Mr. Johnston for his untiring interest in helping to raise funds, and also for his generous donations on previous occasions. Proposition That

Wednesday, and explain the whole situation.

Got It From the Taxes.

Ald. Langford did not favor voluntary collection as under such a system many evade their duty, and he approved of the taxation method. Even were the patriotic fund raised and distributed by the government the money would be secured by taxation. If possible, he contended, the fund should be raised from the municipal taxes this year.

Hard on Poor Man.

Ald. Stratton said that to raise the $60,000 this year on the taxes would mean an additional five mills on the dollar, which would be a hardship on the poor man who is paying for his home. He would agree that the government should look after the patriotic fund and embody it in the separation allowance on a graded basis according to the needs of each soldier's family. As it is now, the small family is getting an equal amount with families of four, five and six children. Besides, the number of dependents is being constantly reduced by members of families entering employment, and by other means. The government could strike an equitable grading rate starting, say, at $25. He was of the opinion that a local tax is not the fair way, and agreed with Ald. Dobbin's suggestion to raise as much as possible by collections and put what remains on the rate. Were long term debentures issued the soldier on his return, after three years fighting, would find himself burdened with 17 years' taxation for a fund raised in his benefit. Ald. Stratton could not see the justice in such a proposition.

Ald. Weir thought the amount raised on taxes in one year would prove a hardship to many. He favored long term debentures, and did not think many soldiers would on $1.10 a day save enough to acquire property on their return, and thus be burdened with taxation for the debentures.

Ald. Dobbin pointed out that $60,000 raised on long-term debentures would mean a tax of $5 on every $1000.

Ald. Worth did not think this would prove a hardship. As to the government handling the money, there are now many well to do families with boys overseas not drawing a cent from the patriotic fund, who would then come automatically in for their share, which they do not need and are not looking for. Then government distribution would cost far more than at present.

Ald. McIntyre favored the government proposition first; failing that, then the issue of twenty years' debentures.

Ald. Smith advanced that were it announced that a collection was to be made, and the lacking amount placed on the taxes, many people would not subscribe with a view to letting the other fellow pay. In any event some would be paying twice—first by subscription and then in their taxes.

Ald. Saunders—"Raise it on the taxes in one year and be done with it."

Ald. Taylor would like to see the amount collected principally by subscriptions.

Much Scratching Now.

Mr. Hartley here said that increased wages are not commensurate with the everlasting jump in the cost of living, and with many there is now a good deal of scratching to raise their taxes. It might eventually cost more to raise the $60,000 by long term debentures, but payments would be in small amounts and consequently not missed. "If the government does not take the burden over, it occurs to me that were you to spread it over ten or twenty years the debt would be easier for many to pay."

Mr. C. E. Adams said many had subscribed to the fund who were rather in a position to receive aid from it. Some men in factories had contributed more than people of wealth. Where the amount placed on the taxes, the man who owned his own home would be all right, but large property owners would take their share out of their tenants. The better way would be for the government to handle the patriotic fund, and distribute it with separation allowances according to the size of families dependant thereon.

He attributed the high cost of living mainly to the cost of feed — bran and shorts, etc. Millers get what flour they can out of wheat, for instance, and then charge three times for the refuse.

As this is a question for next year's council the matter was left in abeyance.

FAMILY IN DANGER

Fire Chief Grange advises the public to exercise precaution when leaving coal fires for the night. Precautionary measures may be the means of preventing tragedies.

Early Monday morning a verbal alarm was received at the fire station by Lieut. Ward who was on watch duty, from Police Sergt. Reid, who reported an accumulation of coal gas in the grocery store at the southwest corner of King and Bethune Sts., occupied by H. M. Dobbin; and the apartments above the store by Melville Pimmett. The gas came from a coal heater in the store. Mr. Pimmett had complained to the police officer that the coal gas was so offensive that the occupants of the apartment could not sleep.

Lieut. Ward and Sergt. Kidd went to the premises and found a very heavy odor of gas. An unsuccessful effort was made to open the store door with a key, and also a window but by the use of a door-opener entrance to the store was made. The room was filled with coal gas, the damper in the stove-pipe having been turned so that the gas could not escape by legitimate means. All the drafts were turned off.

For the safety of occupants of flats above stores having coal heaters, the fire chief advises leaving a window open, one in from the top, when the store is closed for the night.

No person or corporation within the municipality of the city of Peterborough, shall place or shall have, allow, suffer or permit to remain or be in any yard or near any building, any barrels, boxes, paper, straw, shavings and sawdust, or other inflammable waste or refuse material; nor shall such barrels, boxes, paper, straw, shavings and sawdust or other inflammable waste or refuse material be allowed, suffered or permitted to remain or be within any building, cellar or out-house within the municipality.

WITH THE FIRST vice-president of the O.H.A. in our midst, it is hardly likely that Peterboro will be without O.H.A. representation on the ice this coming season. True the old guard have departed—the majority to take part in the big game 'over there,' but as Joe Picard would say "There's life in the old dog yet," the rink remains intact, there'll be plenty of ice—and plenty of material to be produced at the proper moment.

R. R. HALL MAKES FIERCE ATTACK ON GEN. CURRIE

Exceeds in Bitterness Anything He Has Yet Said in Campaign---Charges, to General Currie With Incompetency.

Mr. R. R. Hall addressed a large meeting at Buckhorn last night. The roads were good and the attendance was unusually large and enthusiastic.

Mr. A. Wilson of Harvey occupied the chair. Mr. Wilson stated that in the conduct of this great war there were three vital necessities — men, ships and food. The British Government ought to be the best judge of her greatest necessities. Great Britain and her Allies have never appealed to Canada for men. The men have voluntarily enlisted as fast as Great Britain could use them, and there are now over 100,000 men in England who are waiting to go over to France.

Great Britain has appealed to Canada to furnish ships, but Sir Robert Borden and his government have inaugurated no forward policy with proper government assistance to supply these ships, which are one of Great Britain's necessities of the war.

The British Government have appealed to Canada and the United States to supply them with food at the rate of four millions a day, but Sir Robert Borden during this last three years has given no assistance to farmers to produce this food.

Our common sense teaches us that if the people of England, France and Italy are not constantly and continuously supplied with this food, thousands, nay, millions, may go hungry and starve.

If foodstuffs are not produced in sufficient quantities in this country, then prices of foodstuffs are bound to go higher, and the sooner the people living in our cities and towns understand that, the better it will be for themselves. The people living in our cities and towns should be given to understand very plainly that if farmers are taken from the land in large numbers, then there will not be labor enough on the farms to produce the foodstuffs they require, and even people living in our own cities may find themselves going hungry. It seems to me, said Mr. Wilson, that the policy pursued by Sir Robert Borden, as far as production of foodstuffs is concerned, is one of national suicide.

Mr. Hall's Address.

Mr. Hall stated that he agreed with every word that had been uttered by the chairman. He had very briefly outlined the necessities of Great Britain and her Allies.

When we find Sir Robert Borden, the Prime Minister of this country, laughing in the Peterborough Armories at the idea of Great Britain wanting foodstuffs, it certainly is time for a change.

The British Food Controller has made known to Sir Robert Borden for many months that a constant and continuous supply of food is one of the greatest necessities of the war, yet Sir Robert Borden is so busily engaged in playing politics that he will not listen to Great Britain's appeal.

Indeed, good grounds for belief are growing daily that he is even playing politics with our soldiers in the front line trenches and that he is a party to keeping our troops in the front line trenches longer than the necessities demand.

It is also well known that Sir Arthur Currie, the commander-in-chief of the Canadian forces, was a real estate dealer in Vancouver and Victoria, and that he had no military experience and was only a ward heeler in these cities.

He never had the experience or the ability to command our Canadian forces, and owed his position as commander-in-chief to his political pull.

It will be a relief to the Canadian people to know that General Currie has been relieved of his command, but I am sorry to say that it was only after unusually large casualties in killed and wounded among our Canadian soldiers had taken place.

General Currie has for many months been sending telegrams from France to Canada of a highly inflammable political character, while all this time the casualties among our Canadian soldiers have been far higher per head than among the French and English soldiers.

What has the soldier's wife, mother, sister or daughter to say as to the conduct of Sir Robert Borden in being a party to the placing of this real estate dealer and ward heeler at the head of our Canadian forces?

What has the soldier's wife, mother, sister or daughter to say as to the conduct of Sir Robert Borden in allowing this incompetent General Currie to be placed in a position to needlessly and recklessly sacrifice the lives of those who are dearest to them?

Sir George Foster is to tour Ontario until after the election.

RAISE PIGS IN YOUR OWN BACK YARD BY LEAVE OF BD. HEALTH

Sanitary Bylaw to be Relaxed Somewhat —Jos. Steinberg now on List of Dealers Selling Government Fish.

Ald. Dobbin suggested to the City Council last night that in face of the high cost of living the Sanitary bylaw be amended to permit pigs being raised on premises not too restricted, nor in congested residential districts.

Ald. Duncan pointed out that the Medical Health Officer has authority to grant such permission, which he has done in many cases.

Ald. Smith did not think such authority should be vested in one man; he had heard of cases of alleged discrimination. The Board of Health itself is the proper body to act in such matters.

Ald. Duncan, chairman Board of Health, was agreeable to this, and Council wish it distinctly understood that no objection will be offered to pig raising where such will not be a nuisance. And any person desiring such a course, and having a reasonable amount of room on their premises, may get permission to invest in the hog business on a small scale by applying to the Board of Health.

May Sell Fish.

Jos. Steinberg wrote council to be put on the list of dealers in government fish. He offered a marked cheque for $300 as guarantee of good faith and that he can handle a thousand pounds a week.

Ald. Dobbin, chairman of the Fish Committee, had no objection other than he had been strongly advised by Mr. Squires of the Sales Department of government fish against putting too many dealers on the list. The tendency, he said, had been to reduce the number if anything. Many would handle the fish in cool weather and refrain from doing so in the hot months. Then Mr. Squires says that the catch of fish varies considerably. One day for instance 17 tons was caught, the next but three boxes, and sometimes none at all. And should too many be listed for government fish it might be necessary to reduce the amount supplied to each dealer.

Mayor Duffus—"Steinberg sold 1000 lbs. of fish this week and he continues in the business all summer."

Ald. Stratton—"Are the men now handling government fish taking a fair supply."

Ald. Dobbin—Dourous is handling 250 lbs.; Prignle 250 lbs., and R. C. Braund 100 lbs. a week.

His worship thought Steinberg should be included.

On motion of Ald. Worth and Smith Joseph Steinberg's name was listed as one of the city's dealers in government fish at 14c a pound.

GOOD TIME AT ARMY TEMPLE

About 400 adherents of the Salvation Army gathered at the Temple last evening. Tea was served from 6.45 to 8 and then the crowd gathered and packed the Temple to the door, to enjoy a most profitable and enjoyable entertainment of instrumental and vocal music and recitations. About 300 slides shown on the canvas for the Children's benefit. These were enjoyed by the older folks as well.

The ladies who had charge of the refreshments did exceptionally well and a good deal of credit is due them for the success of the affair generally.

WOMEN'S MASS MEETING IN MAY'S SCHOOL ON FRIDAY EVENING, DEC. 7, AT 8 O'CLOCK

PRINCIPAL'S TRIBUTE TO THE SLAIN FEATURES COLLEGIATE EXERCISES

Eulogyon Gallant Lads Gone on Holds Audience in Silence.

Scholarships, prizes and other laurels won by the pupils by diligent application to their studies, or by prowess on the field of sport—all these yes, everything else was forgotten, when at the commencement exercises of the Collegiate Institute, held in the assembly hall last night, the principal of the Collegiate, Mr. H. R. Kenner paid tribute to the slain in battle. His elegy held the large audience, completely, and at the conclusion of the exercises, many of the gathering thanked Mr. Kenner personally for his words.

Under the spell of his beautifully-expressed tribute, the audience saw again, many of those splendid fellows, on their way about the streets, bound for school studies or to the athletic field, full of life—just such young fellows who would be expected to hurry to the colors when the country called. They saw many of them march down the street to the station, saw the last wave of the hand from the passenger coach window, and they pictured the little mound of sod and the wooden cross in far-off France, where these gallant fellows sleep, having made the greatest sacrifice, a human life can make. The audience remained standing, the pupils of the institute came to attention, when Cadet Stanley Braund sounded The Last Post.

Mr. Vincent Eastwood, chairman of the Board of Education, presided. The presentation of a gold watch, the high school entrance prize, won by Bertie Giroux, son of Mr. G. H. Giroux, was made by Mr. J. H. Burnham. The Nicholls Scholarships were presented by Rev. Robert Pogue and Rev. J. R. Webb, and Mr. S. J. Graham made the presentation of athletic prizes, the staff cup and senior championship medal to Jack Thirnbeck, son of Mr. John Thirnbeck, and the H. S. MacDonald cup and junior championship medal to Jack Porteous. It is interesting to note that a former holder of the staff cup Douglas Macdonald, won the military medal in France, and another, Harold Hill rose to the rank of Captain-Adjutant.

The following poem was recited by Principal Kenner when he paid tribute to The Heroic Dead, at the commencement exercises of the Collegiate Institute last night:

IN FLANDERS FIELDS

In Flanders fields the poppies blow,
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place, and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly,
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead; short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe;
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

SAYS GERMANS ARE AS GUILTY AS THE KAISER

London Times Discusses Message of the President To Congress.

PEOPLE ARE ACCOMPLICES

Message Gets First Place in the Leading Newspapers of England.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 5.—President Wilson's message to Congress has the fullest possible prominence in the morning newspapers but it reached London too late for much considered comment.

The Daily News receives warmly the President's declaration that peace should be based on generosity and justice to the exclusion of selfish claims. It adds, "It would be affectation to pretend that this language echoes the declarations of the European spokesmen of the alliance. It is the voice of a statesman whose vision comprehends the world while theirs comprehends only half the world."

The Times comments that there are no half tones in President Wilson's address and adds: "With this straightforward and logical statement of America's war aims the last hope of the pacifists must founder." At the same time The Times dissents with Wilson as it did before in his distinctions between the German rulers and the German people. In The Times' opinion the German people are willing accomplices of their rulers.

PRINCIPAL GRANT VERSUS MR. R. R. HALL

That England is almost cleaned out of reinforcements for the Canadian corps is the statement of Major W. L. Grant, who has returned from overseas to assume new duties as Principal of Upper Canada College.

Mr. Hall tells his audiences that there are 100,000 soldiers idling overseas. Mr. Hall has not been in England to see for himself. Principal Grant has. As a lawyer Mr. Hall must admit that the testimony of the eye-witness has the preference over that which is merely hearsay.

The net earnings of U. S. national banks reached a new high level in the past fiscal year, totalling $194,321,000.

MR. HALL DRAGS THE DISCUSSION OF PUBLIC QUESTIONS TO LEVEL OF SCHOOL BOY DEBATE

Beyond all question Mr. Hall would do better, he would perpetrate fewer lamentable blunders, if he had any kind of a cause. Desperate indeed is the case of any candidate for Parliament who finds it necessary to assail the officers of the army in which Canada has so much pardonable pride, in an attempt to make votes for himself.

At May's school house last night, Mr. Hall, let it be said to his credit, did refrain from any contemptuous allusion to Canada's fighting force. He did, however, drag the discussion down to the same level as a juvenile debate. If the pupils of that school had been speaking on public questions they could hardly have regarded the issues from a narrower standpoint.

Mr. Hall blames Capt. Burnham and the Government because the Metal Products Company have removed from this city to Montreal, where their headquarters have already been established. This is a purely juvenile line of talk, and Mr. Hall, himself, must recognize it as such. The Government and the individual members of Parliament have nothing to do with the location of manufacturing firms. The Metal Products Co. were induced to come here by the civic authorities. Those authorities were unable to prevail upon them to remain, and there is no record of any attempt to do so. It was the labor question which brought about the change, and a large percentage of the company's working staff were French-Canadians, who will return home with them. Of course the removal means a considerable loss to Peterborough. So did the destruction of the Quaker Oats plant, and the Government had as little control over the one as the other.

The Metal Products Co. occupied the building which formerly housed the Canada Cordage Co., a corporation which Mr. Hall promoted, but which went to the wall notwithstanding his connection with it. Capt. Burnham and the Government, be sure, had no power to prevent that disaster. They were as helpless in the one case as in the other. Why cannot Mr. Hall strain a point occasionally and be fair?

Mr. Hall charges Capt. Burnham with inactivity in this campaign. There is really no necessity for political speakers going from one end of the riding to the other stirring up party and other forms of strife at a time when all should be harmony, when the masses of the people are united in a common purpose as they never have been before. If Mr. Hall could only be prevailed on to say less he would work less damage to the cause he is pleading.

More far fetched even than the Metal Products election cry was Mr. Hall's reference to the coal question. "The people," he said, "who have money to buy coal are forced to beg it from the dealers, who would be only too glad to supply it if the Government furnished them with cars that would enable them to meet the wants of the people."

If the Canadian Government commandeered every box car in Canada and mobilized them at the American border, that would not relieve the coal situation one particle, for the simple reason that the coal is not available. The supply depends on the American mines and the American railways, over which the Canadian Government has no jurisdiction. Mr. Hall in his desperation is simply talking electioneering bunkum.

THE FARMERS AND FARM HELP

Last evening Mr. Burnham received a further wire from the Government notifying him that the Warden of the County of Peterborough had been appointed to look after the interests of the farmers in connection with appeals re-exemption. This will prove eminently satisfactory to the farmers here as elsewhere and may be put down to the visit of the deputation of Peterborough farmers to the Prime Minister last Friday night here. The wire to Mr. Burnham further requests that if the warden needs assistance it will be left to the Warden to name it. The Warden and Reeves were recommended by Capt. Burnham as the most suitable people to represent the farmers.

The whole difficulty of farm help and food production will now be settled fairly and no doubt satisfactorily.

WARDEN M. BROWN IS APPOINTED BY DEPARTMENT TO AID FARMERS

Mr. Burnham received the following this afternoon:

"Your fourth wire received. We have appointed Maxwell Brown, warden, and wired him as follows:

"It has been brought to the attention of the Minister of Agriculture that in some cases, tribunals appointed under the Military Service Act have selected farmers' sons and men employed as help on the farm whose services could not be spared, and would be the means of causing a reduction in the production of foodstuffs. In order that such results might not happen and as a protection to agriculture the Minister of Agriculture has selected you to represent the department and to look into such cases in West Peterboro, and to take up the same, and to communicate with the district military representative, Military Headquarters, Kingston, and to report to such military officer your objection and reasons why such person so selected should be relieved from Military service in order that he may remain on the farm.

"Arrangements are being made for pay and expenses in connection with your services.

"Have wired duplicate to County Clerk."

GEORGE HALLORAN,
Deputy Minister of Agriculture

WARDEN M. BROWN

Appointed by the Department of Agriculture to take up appeals of farmers sons and other help employed in the production of foodstuffs, with Military Headquarters, Kingston.

MORE MEN THE NEED

Peterboro Soldiers are Home From Firing Line.

"There can be no doubt about it. Reinforcements are urgently needed," was the declaration of Sapper W. A. Robertson, who returned to Peterborough last evening, after having served in France for thirteen months. Sapper Robertson became unfit for service and was invalided home. He lives on Queen street.

Mayor Duffus and Ald. Dobbin welcomed the invalided men when they arrived at the G. T. R. depot last evening. Besides Sapper Robertson, there were Pte. Hugh Carmichael, son of Dr. Carmichael, Pte. C. W. Forsythe of Bridgenorth and Pte. Lewis.

Pte. Forsythe was injured when buried by a shell explosion. He went to England with the 93rd. Pte. Carmichael has been 'over there' for nine months. He was taken ill with appendicitis and peritonitis.

UNITED STATES DECLARES WAR ON AUSTRO-HUNGARY BY RESOLUTION IN CONGRESS

Entire Naval and Military Force to be Employed to Carry on War Against Dual Monarchy--Alien Enemies See Strength in Wilson's Message--Roumania May drop Out of the Conflict.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Dec. 5.—A joint resolution, drafted in accordance with the views of President Wilson and the State Department, declaring a "State of War exists and to have existed since noon today between the United States and the Austro-Hungarian Government and directing the employment of the entire naval and military forces to carry on war against that Government was introduced today by Chairman Flood of the House of Foreign Affairs Committee.

FOREIGN PAPERS ON THE MESSAGE

New York, Dec. 5.—Complete agreement is shown by the Foreign press of the city, whether serving the Germans and Hungarians or written in the tongue of the foreign languageallies, and that agreement is that President Wilson's message is a powerful war document, not a peace message, a confident expression of strength and not a hesitating statement of weakness.

CORP. J. MILLS PAYS THE PRICE

ANOTHER NEPHEW OF LT.-COL. MILLS IS KILLED IN ACTION

Corporal Jack Mills, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mills, Kingston, and nephew of Lieut.Col. Jos. Mills, Peterborough, was killed in action on October 20th. Charles Mills, of Toronto, another nephew of Lieut.-Col. Mills, was killed in action a year ago.

Corporal Mills was 22 years of age. He enlisted at Kingston over three years ago with the first reinforcing draft of the Princess Pats Light Infantry. At the time of his death he was attached to the Divisional Engineers of that battalion and was engaged in wiring work. Prior to enlisting Corporal Mills was a student in Queen's University in his first year in Science. He was favorably known in Kingston as a hockey player, being for some time goal-tender for the Frontenac Juniors.

A letter from an officer at the front declares that Corporal Mills had been most popular among the boys of the battalion, who deeply mourn the loss of their gallant comrade.

GOES TO MONTREAL TO SEE HIS WARRIOR SON

Mr. T. Spencer of Smith was in the city last evening en route to Montreal to see his son, Dan Spencer, of Nelson, B. C., who enlisted in the 21st Railway Construction Battalion, and could not make arrangements to visit his home before going overseas. Mr. Spencer received a wire from his son at Montreal and left immediately for the East.

Fully twelve hundred Germans attended a "benefit" given for the dismissed German members of the Metropolitan Opera Company in the Hotel Astor, New York.

SOLDIERS VOTING OVERSEAS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Dec. 5.—In a special cable today Walter Willison, staff correspondent of the Canadian Press with the Canadian armies in Flanders, says that political interest overshadows almost everything else in the Canadian corps at present. Thousands of men have already cast their ballots. Pre-election developments in Canada are being closely followed, although there is a striking dearth of Canadian newspapers to give the views of the candidates and the feeling of the constituencies.

Mr. Willison says the army is subscribing with splendid spirit to the Victory Loan. One enthusiastic soldier bought a bond for his youngster some time before it was born.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 5, 1917

SCORING THE SOLDIERS.

ARE THE PEOPLE of Peterborough yet to learn that Mr R. R. Hall is a stupendous military genius in addition to his multiplicity of other accomplishments? The man who criticizes should be able to perform, and Mr Hall certainly does the first in no unstinted measure. He loves a shining mark, even as death does. The higher the officer, the fiercer his tirade against him. Even the distinguished leader who has led the Canadian troops to so many brilliant successes is not spared by Mr. Hall.

If Mr. Hall has the idea that nature designed himself for high military exploits, according to his own line of reasoning, the way for him to preferment should be easy. He says that General Currie in private life was only a real estate dealer and a ward heeler. The General was always a Liberal, so that if his political status was what Mr. Hall says it was, he must have been a Liberal ward heeler. Mr. Hall has done considerable in the real estate line himself. In other particulars he can be put in the same class as he places General Currie. If Canadians get high places in the army for the reason cited by Mr. Hall, what is there to prevent him climbing up in the service himself?

The Canadian people have become almost sinfully proud of their men in khaki, of the officers who have led and of the privates who have so dashingly followed. It has been given to Mr. Hall to attempt to humble that pride by alleging that the officers have been promoted because they were ward heelers, that they had no military efficiency, and that they have led their men into traps of death.

But Mr. Hall does not even spare the privates. He is prone to draw pictures of 100,000 soldiers loitering in the training camps in England while their comrades in the trenches are doing double duty. Even if the soldiers were held back by their officers, what Mr. Hall says is a reflection upon the entire service and every man in it.

But Mr. Hall's figures are as inaccurate as his deductions. There are not 100,000 men, nor one-third of that number, in England today. They are being sent over to fill the gaps just as soon as they can be got ready.

Mr. Hall falls down when he overlooks the fact that when the Canadian troops reach England they are subject to the Imperial authorities. He may rest assured that in the British service in time of war no man is given a position of trust simply because he has been a real estate dealer and a ward heeler. That is one place where merit counts. Officers from Canada who have had to revert in rank in order to get to the front understand this, even if Mr. Hall does not.

CORPORATION LAWYERS.

MR HALL APPLAUDED when, at the meeting Saturday night, Mr. Lee scored corporation lawyers. Why not be consistent? Mr. Hall belongs to that category himself. All his wealth has been accumulated as a corporation lawyer, and this does not prevent his aspiring to a seat in Parliament. If corporation lawyers are to be avoided, then what is to be done with Mr. Hall?

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION.

MR. HALL SAYS that Premier Borden sent the Canadian soldiers to the front armed with the Ross rifle, knowing it would jam, and so cause the death of many a brave man who could have saved himself had he been equipped with the proper weapon.

On this subject Mr. Hall is at variance with his leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The latter believes that the Ross is the best service rifle ever manufactured, provided the proper ammunition is used. Speaking in Parliament on July 17 last, when the Ross rifle was being debated, Sir Wilfrid said, according to the Hansard report, after Gen. Sir Sam Hughes had spoken in favor of that weapon:

> "I said I believe the hon. gentleman was right. I believe the Ross rifle was the better of the two, but I have to say to my hon. friend that for some reason or another they came to a different conclusion. And I have to say further, and in this he will agree, that the test which was asked of the rifle with proper ammunition never was made, and therefore it is no wonder the rifle was condemned."

WHAT LAURIER'S ELECTION WOULD MEAN

OUT WEST all the leading newspapers are supporting the Union Government, no matter what their affiliation may have been in the past. The Saskatoon Star is especially vigorous in fighting the cause of Laurierism. It says that the election of a Laurier Government means that Canada gets out of the war.

The statement isn't too strong. It tells fact—fact there is no getting away from.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has endorsed the candidature of Mr. J. C. Ethier, of Two Mountains. He is a Laurier candidate. Mr. Ethier has a campaign slogan. It is: "Canada has done enough in this war!" That is the campaign cry which Sir Wilfrid Laurier tacitly endorses.

Mr. Lucien Cannon, of Dorchester bye-election fame, is also a candidate in this election. His candidature, too, Sir Wilfrid Laurier has endorsed. Mr. Cannon has a battle-cry, too. His slogan is: "Are we going to ruin ourselves for England?"

Mr. Armand Lavergne, a sneaking lieutenant of Bourassa, who, if it were possible, is more vehement in his protestations against Canada's part in the war than his chief, is a candidate in this election. He has not been endorsed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In his case the situation is somewhat different. He has endorsed Sir Wilfrid Laurier—and Laurier has endorsed no candidate in opposition to him.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is the chief director of the Laurier campaign in Quebec. His statements — such statements as can hardly be credited to a responsible public man—have frequently been quoted in despatches. It is hardly necessary to repeat any of them here. But it is perhaps worth pointing out that Mr. Lemieux took legal steps to have the nomination papers of Major Gauthier, Unionist candidate in Gaspe, declared out of order because that officer and gentleman was overseas. A judge in the Superior Court promptly threw out Mr Lemieux's application. The deed is worthy of note.

It is true that Sir Wilfrid is hardly personally to be blamed for the selection of candidates he has had to make. He has had little choice in most of the constituencies. Only a few of the reputable Liberals who supported him in the last Parliament remain behind him. He has had to endorse what candidates he could — a rag-tag and bob-tail list. That is why Sir Wilfrid has endorsed the views of dozens of candidates with which he was not personally in sympathy—but that doesn't alter the situation. The kind of candidates he has had to endorse represents the kind of members which would be supporting and comprising his government—if by any unfortunate chance he has the opportunity to form one.

MR. HALL IS CAUTIOUS.

MR. HALL CONTINUES to quote Lord Northcliffe's views on the food and transportation problems. He carefully refrains, however, from even a remote allusion to that nobleman's expressed opinion that if Sir Wilfrid Laurier wins the election, Canada must drop out of the war. If Lord Northcliffe is an authority in one case he should be in another.

BANG GOES ANOTHER DELUSION.

MR. HALL SAYS that the officers in the Canadian army are appointed for their political pull rather than by reason of their efficiency.

The Review stated yesterday that General Currie, Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Army, is a Liberal, not the Conservative ward heeler Mr. Hall insinuated he was.

General Turner, Commander of the Canadian troops in England, is one of the most prominent Liberals the Province of Quebec has ever produced.

The late General Mercier, who took overseas the first brigade, in which was Peterborough's first contingent, was a leading Liberal.

Mr Hall's attack on General Currie will work harm on no one but himself. It is regarded by all classes of the voters as unwarranted, ungentlemanly and brutal.

OF COURSE IT IS HARD.

"IT IS HARD," says Mr. Hall, "for a mother to have her son torn from her and sent to the war, perhaps never to return."

Of course it is hard, but not more so than it was for the Spartan-like mothers whose sons enlisted and whose eyes, dimmed as they were with the tears of parting, still shone with maternal pride at the thought that they had raised such boys.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

IT IS ALL A QUESTION of getting out the vote.

• • • •

ADVICE to the local Liberals—Stop, look, listen. The avalanche is on the way.

• • • •

PEACE NOW would simply mean making the world safe for autocracy instead of democracy.

• • • •

MR. HALL WOULD set men at almost any kind of duty except that of fighting for their country.

• • • •

THE WOMEN of Peterborough cannot go out and fight with the soldiers in the trenches, but they can vote with them on December 17.

• • • •

EVEN THE LIBERAL brand of politics will not han[illegible]cap the war. Politics of all kinds have been elevated [illegible] this world-wide conflict.

• • • •

THE SUPPLY of foodstuffs cannot be increased fo[illegible] least a year. The reinforcements that are needed [illegible] be sent in less than two months.

• • • •

THE NATIONAL EMBLEM floats proudly from [illegible] Liberal committee rooms. Now, if Mr. Hall would o[illegible] turn in and help keep the flag flying on the battle li[illegible]

• • • •

IF MR. HALL cannot get an audience at every place in the townships, he should change his stamping ground. Any rural constituency in Quebec would hear him with enthusiasm.

• • • •

LEAVE IT TO the Veterans. They have the right idea when they suggest that the aliens, who cannot be conscripted, be set at work, and that they be paid at the same rate as the soldiers at the front.

• • • •

WHERE'S THE SENSE in building transports for reinforcements, if there are to be no reinforcements?

EVEN IF YOU neglected to subscribe to the Victory Loan, you can make amends by voting for the Union Government.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

Mr. Rowell Has Proper Spirit.

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review, Lib.)

Some of the candidates seem to have considerable difficulty in classifying themselves. So we have straight Liberals, Independent Liberals, Laurier Liberals, Win-the-War Liberals, Laborites, Win-the-War Laborites, Independent Laborites, Straight Conservatives, Win-the-War Conservatives, Conservative Unionists, and others. Mr. Rowell's style commends itself. "You can call me what you like," he says. "I don't care whether you call me Grit or Tory or Unionist. For the sake of the men who have been fighting for Canada and pouring out their very lifeblood on the fields of France and Flanders, I am willing to be called anything if I can help them." That's the proper spirit.

Veneer Wears Off.

(London Free Press.)

Hon. Rodolph Lemieux says there is too much British sentiment in Canada. More and more the veneer wears from the Quebec politician.

Record Oats.

Mr. Elias Jones of Garden Hill bought an ordinary bag of Borden Sensation oats from Mr. Jno. Zealand of Port Hope, which tipped the scales at 133 lbs., four bushels, less 3 lbs. This is exceptionally good, and no doubt Mr. Zealand will have great demand for this extra quality of oats.

Sergt. George Dawson arrived home from England on the 5.02 p. m. train, Tuesday.

The Epworth League meeting last Monday evening under the direction of the Devotional committee was very interesting and instructive. Miss Jennie Widdis presided. The topic, "The Master's Fearlessness," was taken by Mr. Irwin Hatherly. During the program Miss Anna Russell sang a solo "Almost persuaded."

Mrs. George Hetherington was a visitor to Peterborough on Saturday.

Mrs. G. W. McKim of Peterborough visited friends in town on Saturday.

The Late Alfred Winslow.

The death of Alfred Winslow, son of the late Blaney Winslow, of Cavan, took place at Nicholls' Hospital, Peterborough, on Thursday, Nov. 29. Deceased had been ailing for a long time, but had been working with the Bell Telephone Co., up to a few weeks previous to his death, when he was taken seriously ill, and went to the hospital, where an operation was performed; but owing to his weakened condition he was unable to rally, and passed away on the above date.

Deceased was a young man of sterling honesty, highly respected by many friends who will regret to learn of his untimely death. In religion he was a Methodist and politically a Conservative.

The funeral on Saturday to Gardiner's cemetery, was under the direction of Ballieboro Orange Lodge, and was largely attended. Orange Lodges of Millbrook, Cavan and Manvers were well represented. Rev W. Higgs conducted the church burial service and H. Gainer, W.M., and H. Kerr, Chaplain, conducted the Orange burial service. The brethren gathered in a circle around the grave and gave the Order's honors and dropped their bit of orange ribbon in the grave.

Four brothers and eight sisters are left to mourn the loss of an affectionate brother, to whom we extend sympathy.

USE CARE IN DECORATIONS

TO PREVENT FIRE IN STORES AND HOMES

Fire Chief Grange has been requested by the secretary of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association to draw the attention of Peterborough business houses and the public in general to the danger of fire attached to the indiscriminate and careless use of inflammable materials used in Christmas decorations.

Highways of happiness are sometimes cut through with pain and tears.

When a woman writes a letter she puts in all the useless words she can think of.

Wit and Wisdom

Crazy for Jazz.

"Yes, I was out on the reservation."

"See any Indian dances?"

"No, but I found them anxious to learn the new steps.

The Suitable One.

"Whom can we send to the zoo to write up the bear story?"

"Why not send one of the cub reporters?"

Far Enough.

Genealogist—You want me to go back to your first ancestor?

Cholly—Oh, not at all—when you get a title, stop!

A Matter of Bulk.

Bill Nigh knows a gallant who went for a walk with two young women in Belleville.

They passed on a corner four young men of great breadth and weight.

One of the four, regarding himself as in favor, called out after the young women in this fashion: "Oh, You! Maggie!"

The one addressed expressed resentment. "Did you hear that?" she said to her escort. "Why don't you go back and fix him for it?"

"Well," said her gallant, putting out his chest, but keeping right on walking, "you noticed he didn't say anything to me, didn't you?"

Pea, Nut or Egg?

Mrs. Bridley—I want to order some coal.

Dealer—Yes, madam, what size?

Mrs. Bridley—I said coal, not shoes.

She Economized.

"Tom, dear," said Mrs. Youngbride as they sat down to dinner, "I did just as you told me to."

"You mean about economizing?"

"Yes. Instead of buying sirloin steak I bought a porterhouse. It isn't nearly so large, you know."

A Surprise.

"One never knows what a woman is going to do next."

"That's true. My wife told me last night when we were going to the theatre that she would be ready in a minute, and she was."

The Final Authority.

John D. Wells, whose "Rhymes of Our Home Folks" was published recently, does not mind a joke on himself.

"It is difficult to remember all the children of one's own pen," he explained, when relating the following anecdote: "I've written a verse a day for 15 years and oftentimes a forgotten one comes home to chide. Not long ago my little daughter Annette came home from school reciting a bit of verse.

"Did your teacher waste time memorizing that verse?" I asked.

"Yes, father."

"Well, it's doggerel; it has neither rhyme nor reason, and you may tell your teacher your father said so."

"The next evening at dinner my little daughter said:

"I told my teacher what you said, father—that my rhyme was doggerel."

"She said, 'Your father ought to know. He wrote it.'"

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Love is the only sure cure for coquetry.

Courage and caution make a splendid working team.

Love is always sweeter when flavored with just a little discord.

You will never know what people think of you by what they say.

Your ship will never come in unless you go out with a tug to meet it.

It is easier for some good musicians to compose a wedding march than a crying baby.

You can't train up a child in the way he should go by throwing cold water on his ambitions.

With men it's wine, women and song; with women it's ice cream soda, men, grand opera and chicken salad.

People who use religion as a cloak in this world will doubtless manage to keep warm in the next without a cloak.

It takes a wise man to write a letter to a woman that doesn't mean anything.

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE CHERNIAVSKY TRIO.

Editor Review: I have been asked repeatedly if it is I who am bringing the above trio again to our city. I wish to state that I am not responsible in any way for their coming. Last year, at their urgent request, I undertook to manage their concert, and both my pupils and myself worked hard to make it a financial success, as they had lost money on their previous visits. We managed to accomplish this, but to my great regret I was obliged to inform the assembled audience in the Conservatory Hall they could not fulfil their engagement.

I did not receive one cent from them for all my work in connection with the concert, but on the contrary, experienced the doubtful pleasure of being out of pocket over the refunding of the ticket money, in addition to the regret I felt, for the first time in my experience, failing to keep faith with the public.

Therefore, when they wired me from Chicago on the 15th of last month asking me to again manage their concert on the 11th of this month "on the same terms as before" I naturally wired back declining.

I feel this explanation is due both myself and the musical public.

Yours faithfully,
JOHN ALLAN.

HOW WOMEN ARE TRAINED FOR RED CROSS WORK BY UNCLE SAM

Schools Have Been Established all Over the Country — Women Take Their Duties Seriously.

War plays queer tricks on people, both men and women. It has sent thousands of English women into shipyards to build ships and into factories to make guns and ammunition; it has made motormen and cab drivers of them and sent peasants to palaces and patricians to the fields, but it has done nothing so radical in its ways as the crowning achievement of the last few months in America—it is teaching rich women of leisure to make beds.

It has required the greater part of three years and the combined efforts of surgeons, nurses and government officials to persuade the women of the world that "pillow patters" are not needed or wanted in military hospitals, but at last the message has got across. Yet of all war work that of nursing the sick and wounded has the greatest appeal, especially for women who are financially able to do volunteer work. Nursing has the close contact, the personal touch which is conspicuously lacking in the making of munitions or even in the providing of hospital supplies. Women with a certain amount of training are needed to work in the convalescent homes which will certainly be established here when the war has been going on for some months to receive men who can stand the journey home, leaving the hospitals abroad for the more seriously disabled.

Red Cross Schools

All over the country the Red Cross has established schools for teaching women to do this work, and women are paying to learn the things that our grandmothers knew as a matter of course. To be sure, our grandmothers didn't know quite so much about hygiene, dietetics and sanitation, but sick people were sent to hospital and time was when every woman was a nurse for her own family. Very few trained nurses were brought into homes. Every woman nursed her own sick to the best of her instinctive motherly ability, and death or recovery was "the will of God."

Yet the women of today who hesitate to can beans without consulting the state of agricultural reports have little right to sneer at the knowledge of their forbears. Grandmother didn't talk much about dietetics, but long experience had taught her a good bit about what an invalid should or should not eat. She wasn't always aware that her comfortable feather bed was not the best thing for a fever patient, but she did know how to make a bed.

The Red Cross classes in home nursing and care of convalescents are both instructive and amusing things to watch. Here come women of all ages, wearing expensive furs and high heeled shoes, eager to be of service to their country and to do something for "those poor wounded soldiers." They are very much in earnest and very awkward and ignorant at first.

Before them stands a Red Cross nurse. The pink and white gravity of her wholesome countenance is not marred by any waste smiles. Energy must be conserved. She takes the names and addresses of her pupils. She is not a constant reader of the social register and the names mean nothing. They are just names.

Before their fascinated eyes she denudes a hospital bed, carefully folding each blanket and sheet as she removes it and placing it on a chair at the side of the bed.

"Soiled linen should be dropped in a basket by the side of the bed," she explains. "Never throw anything on the floor."

"To avoid germs," the women whisper to each other, nodding wisely.

When the bed is finally uncovered and the mattress turned the nurse begins to make it, explaining detail by detail as she works. Then comes a thrilling moment. There are half a dozen beds in the room and the nurse asks the pupils to repeat her performance.

Each woman has a text book in which the intricate operation is carefully explained in simple language that even a modern club woman can understand. Partly by consulting the book, partly by remembering what the nurse has said and done they struggle through.

The nurse does not treat them with all the respect to which they are accustomed. She frankly explains to Mrs. Van Blank that her corners are very badly squared and that the bed will have to be remade. One woman has a luncheon engagement and is surprised to hear that she cannot be excused early. By some strange school room psychology whatever the nurse says is obeyed without question by women who have never before known what it was to receive a command.

There is general consternation when it is discovered that any one who is absent more than three times from class during the course will not be permitted to take the final examination and win the coveted diploma.

College Girls Studying

It must not be thought that all of the women are what Americans call rich, or even conspicuous socially. There are a few college girls. They get on fairly well because they are accustomed to study. Then there are a few professional women. theirs is perhaps the saddest fate. They may be very fair lawyers or journalists without knowing anything about making a bed, and most of them have never even watched a maidservant making a bed, as have the women who pore over their text books, remembering every word, but whose fingers refuse to coordinate with their brains. They are all very nervous and not a little afraid of the nurse.

"I always had to make my own bed in convent," says one woman, "but I just smoothed it over, until the mother superior made an exhibit of it to all the other girls and the nuns. I had to make it right after that, but it was some years ago, and I've forgotten."

The nurse smiles tolerantly at this story but does not speak. She does not encourage conversation except questions.

They come thick and fast when the class progresses to the use of dummies in the beds. The dummies look something like unpainted wax window figures. When one class first entered the room where several of these lay figures were reposing in the beds some of the women almost fainted. "It was so startling," they said.

Do Not Like Dummies

"If it had been a real person I wouldn't have minded a bit—but that!" It was indeed terrible, but not half so terrible as some of the questions the nurse had to answer.

"Suppose the patient has a broken arm."

"You're not supposed to be a doctor or even a trained nurse; just an assistant. You will always be working under the direction of some one else."

The questioner was crushed, but only for a moment.

"What if this dummy were a big heavy man; I couldn't move him about like this!"

"No; the orderly would help you."

"Suppose the patient doesn't want pillows? You know, I never sleep on pillows myself—to avoid double chin, you know."

"Never offer opposition to a patient about trifles. If the patient objects to pillows, by all means take them away."

Each day the nurse gives out a chapter from the text book to be studied for the next lesson. The first day when she asks questions about the lesson there are no answers except from the college girls.

"I thought we were to study it here in class."

"I really did read it over, but of course I didn't learn it."

"What size should a bed be? I don't know. I never could remember figures; it was the same way when I was a little girl in school— but I wrote the sweetest compositions. I always was so imaginative."

About this time the nurse turns a cold sterilized, antiseptic blue gaze upon the women.

"I shall expect you to know all these questions and answers perfectly next time, as well as the following chapter," she remarks, and all the women become 10 years old and frightened because "teacher is mad." They decide to study next time.

And the best part of it is they do study. They're really learning a lot of things about air mattresses, bandages, pillows, ice packs, baths, invalid dietaries, fresh air, alcohol rubs and, best of all, are acquiring a comprehensive knowledge of what may be called plain common sense. They've got to study or they won't pass their examinations, and if they don't pass the examinations they can't help care for the soldiers.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battlefront; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences —now stand together— strong to battle for the right united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

Durand, Wis.—"I am the mother of fourteen children and I owe my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I was 45 and had the Change of Life, a friend recommended it and it gave me such relief from my bad feelings that I took several bottles. I am now well and healthy and recommend your Compound to other ladies." —Mrs. MARY RIDGWAY, Durand, Wis.

A Massachusetts Woman Writes: Blackstone, Mass.—"My troubles were from my age, and I felt awfully sick for three years. I had hot flashes often and frequently suffered from pains. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now am well." —Mrs. PIERRE COURNOYER, Box 239, Blackstone, Mass.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness, should be heeded by middle-aged women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has carried many women safely through this crisis.

R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

I have the honor to accept the unamious nomination of the Liberal Party to contest the election as a Candidate to represent the people of West Peterborough in the House of Commons.

MASSES REQUIRE JUSTICE

Now is the time in the history of this country when we should be guided by true Liberal principles and stand by the masses as against the classes; stand by the people who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow and against the classes who exact unjust profits and extortionate tolls out of even the very necessities of life.

WAR POLICY

Today we are engaged in a great War with the Germanic powers in defence of Canada and the Empire. In the great struggle is involved the very existence of the freedom and liberty of mankind.

Our duty is plain. Our course is clear. We must prepare for any sacrifice of blood and treasure. We must fight Germany until we secure a just and a lasting peace. In this resolve all Canadians are united from Lake Champlain to the North Pole and from our furthest East to our furthest West.

Such being our Nation's resolution I pledge myself to support any effective war measure no matter from what source it may come. We must give immediate and constant support to our noble Canadian armies who have covered themselves with glory. We must support them with men. We must feed them. The rich and poor alike must serve. Our only difference is in how to serve but serve we will.

FOOD PRODUCTION

Great Britain has appealed to Canada to send her 300,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed her teeming millions and those of Italy and of France.

This enormous quantity of wheat would feed 40,000,000 people for a whole year. This shows our Allies want food.

To this appeal the Borden Rowell Government only answers, eat-less; slay and eat the calf and the lamb and prepare for meatless days.

Let the Government encourage the Farmer to produce more. Give him agricultural implements duty free. Supply him with suitable labor on fair terms to till the soil. Use our banks and Loan Companies to lend him money on fair and easy terms of payment to assist in every possible way to plant and produce food stuffs. Supply the farmer with steam or gasoline tractors to enable one man to do the work of five. Shield us from the profiteer who plunders the farmer and robs the consumer, makes a profit of a million a year and supports Sir Robert Borden and his hypnotizer Sir Joseph Flavelle.

A forward policy on these lines would be a double blessing. It would reduce the cost of living at home and would help supply the necessities of our Allies overseas.

Remember one single North West farmer produces 2000 bushels of wheat per year when well directed and equipped. 100,000 men would produce 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. Those already on the ground in the North West properly equipped and manned could produce 200,000,000 bushels more.

I pledge myself, if elected, to support prompt and immediate efforts to reduce the high cost of living.

BORDEN DISCRIMINATES AGAINST ENGLAND

Since the war began the Borden Government imposed an increased duty of 5 per cent. on British made goods entering Canada. This should be removed at once. Our great Mother of Nations has troubles enough without the Borden Government thus increasing them.

PROFITEERS AND SOLDIERS

The profits made by War Profiteers should be investigated. The profiteer should be made to disgorge his excessive profits to be used to increase the pay of our soldiers and to increase the pensions or allowances to our soldiers, their mothers, wives, sisters and dependents. None of them should ever be subjected to the indignity of "cold charity" by this grateful Nation on whose behalf they have suffered or died.

NO CONFIDENCE IN BORDEN

Sir Robert Borden has been for six years and is now the Prime Minister of this Country. Its chief head and front with full power to choose and remove his Ministers. He is appealing to this Country under an assumed name, but the policies and methods of his Government remain.

I cannot stop to repeat the well known charges of grafting proved on sworn testimony from the mouths of unwilling witnesses respecting the purchase of motors, of horses, of binoculars, of bandages, of drugs, of boots, of shells of gauze fuse and of all the implements of war

These unseemly transactions have taken place under the nose of Sir Robert Borden who now seeks to stifle and conceal further investigation with the hollow pretense of so called Union Government which in no sense whatever represents true believers in the principles of justice, truth and liberalism.

BORDEN CONDEMNED FOR SUPPLYING DEFECTIVE AMMUNITION

I have no confidence whatever in Sir Robert Borden who supplied our troops for many months with the Ross Rifle and defective ammunition which he must have known would jam and become a useless weapon after our Canadian boys had nobly entered the battle. The Ross Rifle was used by our troops at the six battles of St. Julien, of Givenchy, of Festubert, of St. Eloi, of Zillebeke and of Sanctuary Wood. In each battle the rifle jammed and many a Canadian soldier was needlessly killed or wounded and some of them today languish in German prisons justly cursing the Borden Government without a chance of voting against it.

GRAFTERS

We must destroy the parasite, the profiteer, the grafter and camp follower, who are our worst enemies and fight our common foe with all the resources at our command.

TO OUR NOBLE WOMEN

I appeal to the women of this Riding who are casting their vote for the first time to act on the pure impulse of your heart alone and vote according to the dictates of your own conscience. My heart goes out in sympathy for you in these anxious times. I know your "beloved is white and ruddy; the chiefest among ten thousand. His countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars" and by him and his I pledge myself to stand.

UNITY OF ACTION AND SENTIMENT

Let us unite our people in this Great War as the armies of Great Britain and of France are united, marching and fighting side by side, the parents and guardians of Freedom and Justice.

"With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right" I appeal to you fellow electors to press on to finish the great war in which we are engaged "to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, his widow and the orphan to do all which we may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace with all nations."

For these reasons I appeal to you my fellow electors for your vote and influence in the pending election.

Your Obedient Servant.

R. R. HALL.

Inheritance Tax Argument

Inheritance taxes are very heavy. Unlike Fire hazard, they are not merely possible, they are absolutely certain.

They deplete your estate at once, and to your heirs represent a specific and definite loss of money.

In New York a $250,000 estate would pay a combined federal and state tax of about $12,000. If left to a friend or distant relative, about $22,000. The John Jacob Astor estate paid $3,150,000. J. P. Morgan has insured his life for $2,500,000 to cover a similar loss.

Thus the estate is provided promptly with the ready cash to pay this tax and other expenses without the need of hurriedly disposing of securities or other assets, perhaps at a loss, to meet such needs. The logic of the situation urges immediate action. Premium rates, however, low, advance with age, and so does the possibility of entering the physically impaired group and losing the opportunity to secure this protection.

Knowing that this loss is actually coming, it is simply a matter of ordinary business prudence to guard against it. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada offer you a plan to do so at very low cost.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden UnionAdministration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

THE "RAILWAY TROOPS"

CONSTRUCTION BATTALIONS DO GOOD WORK IN FRANCE.

Germans Pay a Great Deal of Attention to the Men at Work Just Behind the Front Lines, and Many Deeds of Heroism Are Performed by Canadians Facing Artillery Fire.

In the present phase of warfare on the western front, when trench lines have practically disappeared and advanced posts have taken their place, the German artillery does not attempt the old front-line barrages that made life in the trenches so uncomfortable. It is that section immediately behind these new posts that comes in for the constant attention of the enemy, and it is in this area that the Canadian railway troops have been winning great praise from all sections of the army.

In this devastated country, where a pile of broken bricks, overgrown with weeds, and a sign with a map location designate a former village, where roads have altogether disappeared and even cross-country trails melt in a single night, the Canadian railway men construct and maintain their lines. They are shelled by the Germans, if anything, more persistently and in greater volume than the infantry, yet night and day tons of ammunition and rations and men go forward over repaired lines, feeding guns and men alike. The experiences of the railway troops are not lacking in excitement.

A colonel of Peace River fame, and his battalion from Alberta, have one of these areas to look after. In a district which can be compared in size with Hamilton and Dundas they have constructed nearly one hundred and fifty miles of light railway. It has been planned so that if one line is suddenly destroyed by shells, traffic can be sent around another way. The men and guns ahead never want for anything. They are not supposed to be operating troops, but when the hot times come they are always found running trains and loading cars, in addition to doing their own jobs. They are the 'trouble-hunters' of the first lines of communication.

During one of the recent attacks Sergt. Oscar Samson, of Alberta was seriously wounded in the arm. Instead of trecking for medical assistance back in the rear he attempted to 'carry on' at his job of mending lines destroyed by the German shells, so that more ammunition could be rushed up. Finally his arm got so painful he decided to go forward, on the track that had been mended, to an advanced dressing station he knew of. His wound had been fixed by a comrade, and his arm was tied up in an improvised sling. Samson climbed on a tractor which was hauling a trainload of gun ammunition. When they got to a junction near the front line, both guard and driver were wounded by splinters from a high explosive shell. The little train had made the crest of the grade and was gathering momentum every second with the driver of the tractor hanging limp and unconscious from his seat. Samson pulled him up to a place of safety and shut off the engine, but the heavy train had too much headway to be stopped and in addition the brake gear had been blown away by another shell. Climbing back to try and set the brakes on the cars Samson came across the wounded guard. He had been knocked off the top of the truck, and his foot catching in the framework of the car he was being dragged along with his head and shoulders bumping on the ballast. The Canadian sergeant released his foot, but failed in his attempt to gather him up into the rapidly moving car. About one hundred yards ahead was another ammunition train, its cargo of high explosive shells being unloaded at a battery position. By good luck and a knowledge of braking learned on the grades in the Rockies, Samson managed to slow down his train just as it reached the standing trucks, and a serious collision and explosion was avoided. Then, although the shell fire was extremely heavy, the sergeant went back and rescued the wounded guard. Samson won the Military Medal for this splendid exhibition of pluck.

Three Hundred Each Year.

G. W. Stark, writing in the Outlook, finds that the Great Lakes are peculiarly rich in records of shipwreck. He says:

"It is interesting to note that no similar area of any ocean, if suddenly stripped of its volume of water, would expose to human gaze a larger number of sunken ships or more valuable cargoes than lie at the bottom of these inland waters. A record kept between the years 1878 and 1898 reveals the startling fact that in that period 5,999 ships were wrecked on the Great Lakes, and 1,093 of these were total losses. The loss of cargo during the score of years was nearly $8,000,000.

Modern Gaza.

In almost every particular the modern Gaza is an Egyptian rather than a Syrian town. It is full of rich vegetation, and its many glistening minarets show up against the dull green of innumerable olive-trees. Gaza is still, as of old, a place of trade, of camels and caravans, and its bazaars are loud with traffic and filled with mo

Who Will Lead Drafts?

Who will command the drafts raised under the terms of the Military Service Act of 1917? Of company commanders and senior officers there is no dearth in Canada and England to-day, but subalterns are said to be decidedly scarce. The original recommendation was that subalterns who had served a year or more overseas be allowed to come home to take appointments in the drafts secured when conscription was enforced. This recommendation has not received the sanction of Ottawa and it is even stated that General Sir Arthur Currie found it impossible to sanction the release of any junior officers now with the Canadian forces in France.

The Marechal Niel Rose.

When General Niel returned from the scene of his achievements in the Franco-Austrian war a poor man gave him a basket of lovely pale yellow roses. In remembrance of this gift the general had a cutting struck from one of the blooms, and when a charming rose-tree had grown up took the plant to the Empress Eugenie. She was delighted both with the gift and the gallant donor, but was surprised to learn that the rose had no name. "Ah," she said, "I will give it a name: it shall be the Marechal Niel!"—thus informing the gallant soldier of his elevation to the coveted post of Marshal of France.

MR. HALL AT MAY'S SCHOOL HOUSE DISCUSSES METAL PRODUCTS CO.

Charges Government and Capt. Burnham with Negligence in Permitting the Firms Removal to Montreal—Makes Bogey of Coal Question.

Mr. R. R. Hall addressed a fair attendance of the electors at May's school house last evening.

In the course of his address he referred to the "do nothing" policy adopted by Mr. Burnham. Mr. Hall said, "Read for yourselves Mr. Burnham's address to the electors which you will find published in the Daily Review and you will find a "do nothing" policy.

We all know Great Britain has appealed to Canada for ships and food. To this appeal of the British Government Mr. Burnham adopted a "do nothing policy."

The Metal Products Co.

The Peterborough Metal Products owed its existence to Government contracts which it had received while located in Peterborough and which should have been carried out in Peterborough.

The Company gave employment to a large number of men. It had a pay roll of $30,000 a month. This Company never should have been allowed to carry away these Government contracts to the Province of Quebec.

The working men of Peterborough and their families should not have been thrown out of employment to suit the selfish purposes of this Company with the winter approaching.

Consider the loss and inconvenience that has been needlessly inflicted upon this Company's many employees by reason of this Company carrying away from this city these large government contracts.

Consider the loss that has been inflicted upon this city by losing the benefit of a pay roll of $30,000 a month.

Consider the fact that a large number of these employees have been forced to go to the Province of Quebec at their own expense to hold down their jobs with this Company.

Had Mr. Burnham exercised the influence which a member of Parliament could exercise with the Government this industry would have been saved to Peterborough.

But what can the electors expect from a candidate who adopts a "do nothing" policy.

Mr. Burnham does not even think it worth while to address the farmers of this riding and to ascertain their views how food production can be increased nor has Mr. Burnham even advocated how food production can be increased. He simply adopts a "do nothing" policy.

If food production is not increased then the people of Peterborough must expect that the cost of living will still go higher. Food will become scarcer and the workingmen of Peterborough will be forced to adopt a lower standard of living and eat poorer food.

Mr. Burnham advocates no policy which will bring relief but simply adopts a "do nothing" policy.

It is known that many families in Peterborough are at their wits end to know where they are going to get the next bag of coal to keep them from freezing. Mr. Burnham knows that the Government should see that the Railways furnish the cars and make provision for a prompt and immediate supply of coal.

The Coal Bogey Man.

The people who want coal, and have the money to buy coal are forced to beg for coal from the dealers who would only be too glad to supply it if the Government furnished them with the cars that would enable them to meet the wants of the people and here again we find on the coal question Mr. Burnham adopts a "do nothing" policy.

The Monks and the Silkworm.

About the year 552 two Persian monks stole furtively out of China with scanty luggage, but treasuring an ordinary bamboo cane. They set out on foot and made their way from China into Europe. In that cane were a multitude of the eggs of the silkworm moth, which the monks had stolen. They carried them to Constantinople.

When the time came for the hatching of the eggs the monks tended the little caterpillars, fed them on the leaves of the mulberry, took their cocoons when they spun, and from them derived the first silk produced in Europe. Silk had for centuries before been a treasure of China, and its manufacture, like the insects which produced it, was jealously guarded. The monks, while on a missionary enterprise to China, had witnessed the whole process of silkworm-rearing and the manufacture of silk.

Tasmanian Mammals.

There is a species of mammals in Tasmania the females of which lay eggs, from which the young are hatched like the young of birds. This mammal, the echidna, is perhaps of the lowest order of mammals, and is a kind of connecting-link between mammals and reptiles. They are about the size of a baby porcupine, and covered with strong spines set thickly all over their skins, and by way of a nose they have a slender and narrow beak of white horn. The echidna has very long sharp claws, with which it digs a deep burrow. In this burrow it builds a nest for its young and deposits one or two eggs, which are enclosed in a strong flexible shell three-fourths of an inch in length and two-thirds of an inch in diameter.

Poison Gas.

Poison gas, which for some time has been used in Europe with such deadly effect, is to be tried on one of the world's most unpopular insects—the African tsetse fly. An English officer stationed in a region that was once part of German East Africa, is responsible for the experiment. The gas to be used will be either of a nature destructive only to insect life and harmless to man, or else of a more deadly character, which must be handled by operators wearing gas masks.

LANSDOWNE LODGE SONS ENGLAND HAVE PROGRESS

Fifth of Membership Responded to Call to War

Encouraging reports were presented last night at the Annual meeting of Lansdowne Lodge. No. 25, S. O. E. B. S., and the members were very enthusiastic over the results of a most successful year in spite of the extraordinary conditions, due to the great war.

The report of the Financial Secretary showed that during the past year Lansdowne Lodge has paid out in sick benefits, and superannuation approximately $600; in funeral benefits $1070; in insurance claims $4,500; a total of more than $6,200. In addition to this, the Lodge is keeping in good standing over 50 members who are serving, or have served either in the Canadian Army, Imperial Army or the British Navy.

The record of the Son's of England throughout Canada in this Great War in which the Empire is engaged is a glorious one, and Lansdowne Lodge can claim as her record, that one member out of every five is a volunteer. and not a single member has been called up under the Military Service Act. Every eligible man has enlisted.

The Lodge has also invested a large portion of funds in the Victory War Loan.

The Juvenile Lodge recently formed is also progressing most favourably and is the pride of the Senior members.

The Lodge enters upon another chapter in its history in the most optimistic manner, feeling that it is performing a valuable service to the members, and also the City at large.

PICKS UP GLOVE FOR GEN. CURRIE

GUNNER SMITH COMES TO THE DEFENCE OF FORMER COMMANDER

A number of returned soldiers called at The Review office today to register a protest against Mr. R. R. Hall's unwarranted attack upon Gen. Currie, whom Mr. Hall charges is inefficient as a military officer and was given his present high position in the Canadian army solely on account of his political pull.

Gunner J. C. Smith, formerly with the 4th Battery, was spokesman. He fought in France under Gen. Currie. Gunner Smith says the General was promoted for merit alone and that he had the full confidence of the men whom he led into action. The Canadian line has recently been extended, and if there is a greater percentage of casualties among the soldiers from this country than in other branches of the Allied service, this accounts for it.

Col. T. J. Johnston, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, in conversation with Gunner Smith and other returned soldiers today, characterized Mr. Hall's charge as an insult.

Gen. Currie won his first promotion at the first battle of Ypres, when it is safe to assume his politics were never for a moment considered.

The soldiers resent Mr. Hall's charge, not only as it applies to Gen. Currie personally, but consider it a reflection on every man who has been in active service, especially those who have won promotion.

JOKE LED TO INJURED OPTIC

AND STORY OF THE FRAY WAS UNFOLDED IN POLICE COURT

At the police court this morning Frank McKnight was charged with having assaulted C. F. McDougall, yesterday noon, and damaged complainant's left eye to such an extent that medical attention was necessary.

According to complainant's evidence the trouble arose in the Auburn Woolen Mills, over jocular remarks made in a friendly way by McDougall when defendant got mad, and threatened to lay for complainant down town on Monday night. Meeting outside the mill gates at noon hour, yesterday, accused wanted to fight, and on his refusal, hit him in the left eye, knocked him down and again struck him in the eye twice.

In cross-examination by Mr. V. J McElderry for the defence, complainant swore that when at a party McKnight had asked him why two girls had left so early and had taken offence at his reply in a friendly way, "because you are here." He had meant nothing by this remark more than a joke, but could not appease McKnight, who held hard feelings culminating in his assault on him yesterday.

The case was adjourned until four o'clock this afternoon, to get a report from Dr. Neal as to how seriously the eye is injured.

FRACTURES LEG IN FALL FROM ROOF OF BARN

When working on the roof of a barn at the farm of Percy Edmison, on the third line of Smith, this morning at ten o'clock, Sandy Young, a farmer whose home is on the fourth line of the township, lost his footing and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet. He sustained a compound fracture of the left leg. Dr. Scott attended and Belleghem's ambulance brought the injured man to Nicholls' Hospital.

Lost Arms of Venus.

Miss Florence B. Jack, administrator of the unit of the Scottish Women's Hospital attached to the Serbian army, relates how when visiting the Island of Milo (or Melos) she came across an old woman who claims to be a granddaughter of the man who originally unearthed the famous Venus of Milo, which was found on the island in the early part of the nineteenth century.

According to her, when the statue was found its arms were found with it, though they broke off upon the unearthing of the figure. At first they were carefully preserved, but a dispute arose between her grandfather and some Greeks and Frenchmen in regard to the possession of the Venus, and as a result of the quarrel he took away the arms at dead of night and threw them into the sea.

Whatever may be the truth of this story, theories as to the correct position of the missing arms have given rise to much speculation and controversy between artists and sculptors since that day, and there are no records in existence to give any definite enlightment in this respect.—Pearson's Weekly

INSPECTION OF CITY HOTELS BY FIRE CHIEF

CLEAN PREMISES.

In his annual report to the chairman of the License Commissioners, on the inspection of licensed hotels, Fire Chief Grange says:

On the occasion of my first visit since I became Chief of the Fire Department, I was accompanied by Mr. Jos. Stewart, License Inspector for this district. We went through all the buildings and premises in connection with the ten hotels, commencing at the top floor and working our way down through each floor into every room, and also testing the efficiency and strength of the permanent fire escapes of which I found to be in perfect order in every respect. We found that the bed rooms of all the hotels, for guests and servants, were provided with the regulation rope for fire escape. In Mr. Hogan's hotel, East City, the rope had been removed from one room. Ropes also were removed in the Montgomery Hotel from four rooms and from one room in the Montreal House, one room in the Grand Hotel, in the Empress Hotel ropes were removed from two rooms in the White Hotel from one room. I notified the proprietor of each hotel who had ropes removed from their different rooms that I would give them two days to replace the ropes. On my second visit I found that ropes had been replaced except in the Empress Hotel. The proprietor. Mr. Graham, informed me that the ropes had been ordered and as soon as they were delivered Mr. Graham would see that they were properly placed. We also inspected the storm windows on the different hotels and found them to be fitted with hooks and eyes fastened on the inside. We did not insist on having hinges placed on outside as it was an easy matter in case of fire to open these windows from the inside and let them fall out. The Hogan Hotel, East City, had storm windows fastened with a button on the outside which was danagerous in case of fire. We had the windows fitted with two hinges on one side and hooks and eyes on the other side on knobs to fasten on the inside of the window so that in the event of a fire it would be an easy matter to unlock the windows from the inside and allow them to swing outwards.

I have much pleasure in reporting that on the occasion of my visit, nothing of an offensive nature was found to exist. The premises were clean and no combustible rubbish was found in any of the hotels.

I may further ad dthat no person was advised ahead of time of our visit. The hotel-keepers seemed to take kindly to the Inspector and assisted us in every way possible.

HUN DECORATION NOW RETURNED

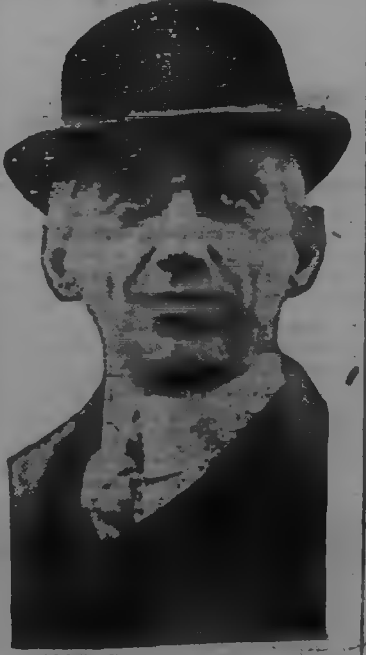
Captain Roald Amundsen Will Not Retain Trophy.

HERO MAKES HIS PROTEST

This Chivalrous Norwegian, Whose Courage Has Been Tested, Personifies the Horror of Brave Men Who Watch the German Campaign of Murder and Brutality.

CAPTAIN ROALD AMUNDSEN, the Norwegian explorer, discoverer of the south pole, has returned to the German Government, through its legation at Christiania, his German decoration, as a "personal protest against the German murder of peaceful Norwegian sailors in the North Sea on October 17."

A chivalrous man, whose courage has been tested under the most trying conditions, Captain Amundsen, personifies the horror with which brave men of every race regard the bloodthirsty acts of a government that has lost its reason and perpetrates outrages merely to gratify its lust for blood and to appease its consuming appetite for revenge.



CAPT. ROALD AMUNDSEN

Not only have the governments of practically every civilized State been compelled to recognize the mania that possesses the German Government and defend themselves and their populations against it, but their people themselves and as individuals have been forced to acknowledge the terrible degradation Prussia has brought its Teutonic subjects to; and the world will be far older than it is before the dreadful wounds she has made in men's minds have healed.

Chinese Farming.

Nothing goes to waste on the Chinese farm—not even the weeds. According to the farmer's ideas there are good weeds and bad weeds. The good weeds are put into compost heaps and return fertilization to the soil. The coarse weeds with woody stems which will not easily rot are cut down and allowed to dry until the son of the family has time to rake them up for use as winter fuel.

Nowhere as in China do the dead rob the living. Millions of graves are scattered over the fields, their location directed by the complicated rules of feng shui. In some sections of the country more than one-sixth of the tillable area is covered with graves of estimable but now useless ancestors and sometimes when a young man falls heir to a farm he finds that it is a farm full of graves and his biggest crop is a crop of duty to dead and half-forgotten ancestors.

Chinese women didn't wait for the outbreak of the war to put on trousers and volunteer for work in the fields. They have been wearing trousers for many centuries and for many more they have been helping the beans and potatoes to do their bit for their country. The Chinese sages have had a great deal to say about the inferiority of women, but when it comes to digging in the fields the Chinese woman is equal to any man. —World Outlook.

The eight woman suffragettes who picketed the White House a week ago, and were arrested, have entered suit for $400,000 damages against Washington officials.

LONG-BURIED OCEANS TAPPED.

Salt Water Found When Sinking Deep Wells.

Among the many unsolved mysteries concerning the interior of Mother Earth few are more fascinating than those brought to light by certain surprising experiences of drillers of deep wells. Although many people are not aware of the fact, a large proportion of the wells sunk to depths below 1,000 feet encounter large bodies of salt water, the flow of which may be so great that the driller remarks that he has struck the Gulf of Mexico or some other immense body of salt water. The salt water may even flow up out of the mouth of the well, but more commonly it rises in the well to a height of several hundred feet above the bottom, and its supply is so great that only a pump of enormous capacity can keep the well empty.

Where does the salt water come from? It is often assumed that it fills some immense cavity or system of crevices, but in fact it is generally contained in some bed of unusually porous rock, like sandstone, in which the pores, though minute, have an aggregate volume or capacity of millions of cubic feet.

But one question is no sooner answered than another one, more difficult, arises, and the question now is: How did the salt water get into the porous rock? Has rain water soaked far down in the earth and found some bed of rock salt which it dissolved and thereby became salty; or had the salt water some source far within the earth, from which it has arisen toward the surface, or is it the water of some ancient ocean that filled the pores of the sand and mud of its bed, which in ages gone by became buried under sand and mud that gradually accumulated on the ocean bottom?

The shells of sea animals found in limestone and other hard rocks at the heart of the continent show clearly that the ocean, in some or several remote ages, covered a large part of the country, and it appears extremely probable that the salt water found in the deep wells is really fossil sea water entombed in the sands and muds of former eons and now brought to the surface by the drill, which in innumerable places in this and other countries is being sunk to depths of 2,000, 3,000, and 4,000 feet, and even down to depths of nearly 7,500 feet.

Russian Villages.

"Although they naturally differ as to prosperity, size, and neatness," Russian villages, Harry deWindt says in his recently published book, "Russia As I Know It," present a uniform appearance, whether they be situated in Europe or the wildest part of Siberia. All are built of wood . . . and have one straggling street formed by detached cottages of various sizes, which are either thatched, or roofed with wooden slats or sheet iron, according to the means or taste of the owner."

"Two prominent objects are the wooden church, with its sky-blue or apple-green domes, and the other the granary, a spacious black barn, where grain is stored for public use in case of a lean harvest. The wells are also a distinctive feature, each having two lofty poles (like the Egyptian shadoof) for drawing purposes, which impart a quaint oriental touch to the landscape, while at the entrance to each village is a wooden signpost bearing the name of the place, the number of men, horses, and cattle which it contains, and in some instances the number of versts separating it from the capital.

"The moujik generally builds his house himself, end on to the street, and although his tools are very primitive, he uses them with wonderful dexterity. Thus, an ordinary axe is made to serve as plane, saw, chisel, and mallet, and is also occasionally employed as a weapon of self-defense, or to cut a track, in winter, through the snow. Indeed, there is very little which a moujik cannot accomplish with his instrument, which in the hands of even a skilled British workman would probably be useless."

"A Russian village looks its best on a fine summer's evening, especially if it be on a high-day or festival, when everyone wears the national costume, and there are athletic sports, perhaps a traveling shooting gallery or merry-go-round, and much singing and dancing to the accompaniment of the accordian and balalaika. The moujik is passionately fond of music, especially of a mournful description, for even his merriest choruses have a strain of sadness."

"Gayety never lingers long in either the moujik's mind or melodies, and when sunset has deepened into dusk the villagers, young and old, always assemble before retiring, to join in some simple hymn of the Greek Church, or one of the old Russian folksongs so typical of the great and gloomy land which gave them birth."

The Value of Fisheries.

The food yield of an acre of the English Channel or the North Sea—at least in times of peace—is equal to the yield of a hundred acres of the best grass land.

A cod produces some 8,000,000 eggs, and when the poultry farmer is giving himself sleepless nights to get one a day per pullet, the wonder of it is the greater. A lobster produces 10,000, whilst salmon take the river with a thousand eggs for every pound of their weight. No wonder the rivers of Western Canada are nearly solid with them!

Just before the war it was computed from good statistics that the North Sea fishermen handled during one year 9,800,000,000 fishes of all sorts and sizes, and the two ports of Lowestoft and Yarmouth alone have received 850,000,000 herrings in a single season.—Tit-Bits.

Clear Spruce for Airplanes.

The recent demand for clear spruce for the construction of airplanes and the sharp advance from $50 to $90 per thousand feet of this lumber have created great activity in the timber districts of Northern British Columbia, and especially on the Queen Charlotte Islands, where spruce is found in large quantities. A new sawmill is being erected by the Emerson interests at Prince Rupert, B. C., the intention being to supply it with logs rafted across Hecate Strait. The old sawmill plant at the mouth of the Kheyex River has been acquired by Vancouver capitalists, and its capacity will be increased to 75,000 feet per day. Improvements are being made at other sawmill properties that have either been idle or working on half time, and every effort is being made to push production as rapidly as possible. The new mill at Prince Rupert and the one at Kheyex River are expected to employ about 100 men each.

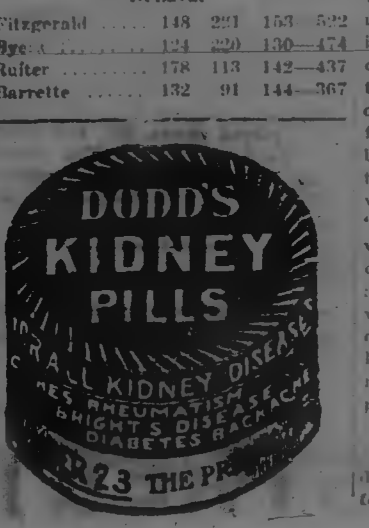
Tomorrow night, High Rollers vs C.G.E.

Of the recent games here with the Toronto bowlers the News says:

"Billie" Baker's all-star five pin team from the Toronto Bowling Club journeyed to Peterboro Saturday to play a return engagement with the Quaker Oats champions, who won the first half of the series on the local drives in the early part of the fall, when the Easterners finished 66 pins up, and with that margin to work on in the final with total pins counting on the round, Peterboro had it all the way, rolling up the record total of 2,814 on the home alleys to 2,481 for Toronto and won on the round by 399 pins. The concert following the banquet was the feature of the visit, at which "Skin" Abel and "Bud" Thorne did a black-face turn, while Jack Hallman and "Billie" Baker did a song and dance act to the accompaniment of a local orchestra who helped to make the evening one of real enjoyment, and the visit one long to be remembered by the Toronto team and the friends accompanying.

There are men who will pay their debts with promises and then ask for a receipt in full.



SPORTING NOTES

BOB PARKER'S TRIBE have passed up the invitation to enter the senior series of the O. H. A., or in other words, hand the championship to Toronto. To the conquerors of the Petes a hockey championship is such a novelty that the charm will not wear off till somebody takes it from them this season.

LET KITCHENER join with the Toronto clubs, says the Hamilton Herald. The Dutch settlement has a team this season that is well fit for senior company, much more so than Hamilton. Sarnia is another town that has corralled a big slice of the hockey talent in the province, and would fit nicely in the senior ranks. Hamilton has no imports, and, in fact, hasn't any new material to speak of.

JERRY COUGHLIN the hero of many hard fought games on the Brock street ice, will be given a chance to show his worth with the Toronto professionals. He will leave for Toronto this week.

NEW WINNIPEG TRAINS.

Travel between Eastern and Western Canada is always heavy in the winter months, particularly during December with its holiday season. To meet the requirements of the public, therefore, a special daily service between Toronto and Winnipeg is announced by the Canadian Northern Railway; Westbound, December 3rd to January 2nd, 1918, only; Eastbound, December 1st to January 5th, 1918, only. Thereafter, regular tri-weekly service will be resumed. A through tourist sleeping car will be operated between Toronto and Calgary as part of the above special service, and connection will be made with regular daily trains between Winnipeg and Edmonton. Service between Toronto and Vancouver remains tri-weekly, leaving Toronto Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, as at present.

For further particulars apply to Thos. Mark, Town Agent, or write to General Passenger Dept., Canadian Northern Railway, Toronto.

'TIS A TALE OF SORDID GRAFT

Moses Harper, Who Isn't In on It, Inveighs Against the Baleful Influence of the Circus Poster, but He Takes Back All He'd Said.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, [illegible], by Associated Literary Press.]

MY Dear Mr. President—As the town of Jericho elected you by a majority of seven votes and as it will have much to say whether you get a second term or not, it will be wise for you to post yourself a bit about the people.

It was Moses Harper who begun it. Some one told him that a circus advertisin' wagon was slowly but surely approachin' the town of Jericho, and he let it be known that he would show up at the postoffice in the evenin' and have sumthin' to say to interest the hull United States. The crowd was holdin' its breath when he showed up. Moses put his spectacles on and said:

"Citizens of Jericho—The tocsin has sounded, and we are here tonight to counsel together in the cause of morality. Last year, as most of you know, Jonas Teachout, whose barn faces the highway a mile outside of this town, allowed the circus wagon to paste up pictures on three sides of the buildin'. How many tickets for the circus he got has nothin to do with the question. What I'm sayin' is that them pictures, in my solemn belief, shocked the morals of this community far worse than if ten saloons had been opened. The circus wagon is again creepin' along its insidious way, leavin' the blight of destruction in its path, and if sumthin' ain't done Jonas Teachout's barn will ag'in be wrapped in the allurin' colors of vice and degradation."

"It appears to me," said Deacon Spooner, "that a p'int has bin made. I'd like to hear from Silas Lapham."

"I ain't blamin' Jonas 't all," said Silas. "He got twelve deadhead tickets fur the use of his barn, and I don't believe anybody was the wickeder fur it. Did my wife run away from her husband because of them pictures?"

"That's a p'int, I says; it's a p'int!" exclaims the deacon as he bustles about

"CITIZENS OF JERICHO!"

"I ain't sayin' that any fam'lies was busted up," continues Moses, "but I'm talkin' 'bout the gineral influence on gineral morality. A circus picture suggests lemonade and peanuts and whisky and poker and bein' out late nights. They are like pizen ivy. I hope this meetin' and this community air with me."

"Enos Williams," says the deacon, "you driv by that barn twice a day all summer. How did them pictures affect you?"

"Not much different from a huskin' bee," said Enos. "I didn't feel no feelin's of wickedness stealin' o'er me. I'm thinkin' that hard cider has more gineral influence than circus pictures."

"It's a p'int!" shouted the deacon. "It's a p'int nobody kin git over. Moses, have you got any more arguments?"

"Of what use?" says Moses. "Wasn't Sodom warned? Did Sodom heed it? When vice stalks rampant through every household in Jericho and innocence is driv' to the fields to sit under a blackberry bush and weep, then remember what I have said here tonight."

"I'd like to hear from Lish Billings on this matter," says the deacon.

"It's purty late," says Lish.

"How purty late?"

"Jonas has rented his barn ag'in and got twenty-one tickets, and here's one he give me."

The meeting stood appalled, and then Deacon Spooner says:

"Jonas has got twenty tickets left and that means he has sixteen more to give away outside his fam'ly. Fellow countrymen, do you take it this meetin' has pledged itself?"

"No, no, no!" shouted the crowd.

"Then I'm offerin' the followin' resolution: Resolved, That circus pictures on a barn may or may not affect the moral standard of a community, but we are willin' to chance it this year. All in favor or agin will manifest it in the usual way."

The resolution was carried with a whoop, and the crowd piled out to look for Jonas Teachout and beg fur deadhead tickets, and Moses Harper wasn't one of the last!

DISH WASHING.

How to Do This Drudgery Fairly Easily.

Save up your soiled dishes and wash them only once a day. By so doing you can save something like an hour and a quarter a week. Eleven minutes per day was the actual time saved in a recent experiment.

Piles of dishes waiting to be washed three times a day year in and year out throw a damper over the finest of housekeepers. If only the drudgery of dish washing could be disposed of once a day instead of morning, noon and night kitchen work would be in greater demand than it is.

The careful housekeeper will always resent the suggestion that once a day is often enough to wash dishes. She cannot train herself to allow soiled plates and silverware to stack up from one meal to the next, for she has been taught that such actions are the evi-

ARTISTS GAVE PLEASURE TO BIG AUDIENCE

AN EVENING OF ENJOYMENT IN MARK STREET CHURCH.

From the anniversary services and concert at Mark Street Methodist Church the congregation and friends derived much benefit and enjoyment. The occasion proved to be one of the most successful anniversaries in the history of the church, and pastor and people owe a debt of gratitude to Rev. T. H. Mitchell, of Toronto, who preached the anniversary sermons and lectured at the concert Monday night, and to the artists who contributed to the musical program.

Miss Margaret Bryce of Keene, a former soloist at St. Andrew's Church and a great favorite in Peterborough, gave a stirring rendition of the patriotic song, "There's a Corner of the Flag for You to Hold." Mrs. George King, recently come to the city with her husband, who is organist at Trinity Church, was heard in several vocal selections that proved her versatility as a vocalist. Mrs King sang "Angus Macdonald," a Scotch piece, "Nora," a pretty Irish song, and as encore numbers sang "Grandmother Brown," and a lullaby. Mr. King played the accompaniments.

Miss Etta Kemp and Miss Myrtle Sucee contributed vocal numbers to the enjoyment of the large audience, and Miss Parker, of the Y.W.C.A. staff, gave readings in her inimitable and charming manner. Mr. Frank Whitehouse added to his popularity in Peterborough when he contributed a violin number of high excellence. Mr. A. Nicholls, organist at Park Street Church, accompanied him.

A Babble of Tongues At Royal Theatre

Another first quality show at the Royal tonight and tomorrow, matinee and night. Stupendous productions produced at fabulous cost. Wm. Morrison, who will be seen in the "Babble of Tongues," is the same great star who featured in "The Battle Cry of Peace." We invite our audiences to judge for themselves if our shows are not the equal of any 50 and 75c programs offered elsewhere. Our policy is to give the highest grade screen pieces on the circuits at the Royal's standard prices. And remember, our prices never change, but always remain at 10c for matinee and 15c for night. Also bear in mind, we show nothing but the best, which we will have regardless of cost. Drop in tonight or tomorrow, matinee and night, and be convinced that the Royal Theatre is giving an extraordinarily high grade program at prices unheard of in any other town—matinee 10c, evening 15c, and same show in afternoon as at night.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

STILL HAVE HOPE OF RUSSIANS

MAY PUT A BIGGER AND BETTER ARMY THAN EVER IN THE FIELD.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 5.—The situation in Russia is unique in history, according to the Petrograd correspondent of the Morning Post, writing Saturday, but it is not yet advisable to attempt to raise the curtain upon the "mysteries of the tragi-comic drama." The correspondent insists that "Russia will right herself if generously allowed the necessary latitude by the puzzled Allies and next spring it will put new armies in the field to fight the invader with the success that marked the Russian efforts earlier in the war."

FLEET OF GERMAN AIRPLANES SWEEP OVER ENGLISH TOWNS

Six Reach London and Drop Bombs on that City but Casualties are Few--Two Are Brought Down---Gains Reported on Cambrai Front.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 6.—About twenty-five airplanes raided England today, it is announced officially. Of these, six reached London; two of the raiders were brought down, the crew of three men on each machine being captured.

It is believed the casualties in the raid are few. The first group of enemy machines appeared shortly after 1 a.m. over the east coast, and other groups reached London at 3 o'clock. One or two explosive and a large number of incendiary bombs were dropped in various districts about 5 a.m. A number of fires occurred in London, but were speedily got under control by the metropolitan fire brigade. A number of British airplanes went up. They all landed in safety.

Slight Gain at Cambrai.

The British have advanced slightly their line south-west of Levacquerie on the Cambrai front, it is announced officially.

Italian Battles Resumed.

Italian Headquarters in Northern Italy, Dec. 6. — Heavy fighting around Asiago has developed rapidly. The enemy assaults began with intense artillery preparations followed by liquid gas and waves of infantry. The fighting continued throughout yesterday and last night along the heights back of Asiago marked by the zone between the heights of Monte Sisemol and Monte Lalotte. This line extends nearly ten miles. Attacks and counter-attack are going on, leaving the final outcome still open.

Enemy Posts Raided.

London, Dec. 6.—The British Admiralty report that British machines raided various German military posts in Belgium yesterday, doing immense damage. All the machines returned safely.

PETERBOROUGHS VICTORY LOAN REACHED HIGH MARK OF $1,746,600

And Only Touched the Fringe of Money Available.

A Presentation

The Victory Loan campaigners celebrated at Hooper's last evening, the victorious conclusion of the canvass, and a mighty roar went up when Mr. Felix Brownscombe announced a grand total of $1,746,600 for the city and county, an amount which when the work opened was far beyond the expectations of any bond-seller, amateur or expert. And to make it sound better, Mr. Peter Campbell, said that the campaigners had only touched the fringe of the money in Peterborough.

It was an occasion for congratulations on all sides. During the evening, Mr. G. O. Cameron presented a purse of money to Mr. Brownscombe, who was in charge of the clerical staff at headquarters, and who proved a veritable "gold mine" for the work in hand. In his reply, Mr. Brownscombe disclaimed his right to all the praise, and said it should be shared by Mr. Charlie Seymour, and the young ladies.

Votes of thanks were tendered to Mr. R. L. Warren, the organizer of the Loan for the city and country, Mr. W. H. Bradburn, the teams' chairman, Mr. Joe. Wearing, publicity man, and Mr. Walter Stocker, who posted all the advertising displays without charge.

HALIFAX IS IN RUINS; SCORES ARE KILLED; FIRE MENACES LIVING

HURRY CALLS SENT FOR AID

All Wires Leading to City are Down--Ruins are on Fire---Food Destroyed and Famine Threatens.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

TORONTO, DEC. 6.—THIS AFTERNOON WORD FROM HALIFAX GAVE THE NUMBER OF DEAD FROM THE MUNITION SHIP EXPLOSION AT THREE HUNDRED.

Truro, N. S., Dec. 6.—It is stated here that the ship which collided and sank with the munition boat was a Red Cross liner.

Communication with Halifax was established by the Canadian Pacific Telegraph Co. this afternoon. It was learned that nearly one-half of the north end of the city is flat, that a great fire is raging, that the dead are lying thick in the streets, and all hospitals are full to overflowing, so that many of the injured are compelled to walk about untreated.

Amherst, N. S., Dec. 6.—Scores of people have been killed, hundreds of buildings destroyed, and a portion of Halifax set on fire by an explosion which occurred following the collision of an American ammunition ship and another vessel at Rockingham, according to telephone messages reaching here this forenoon. The explosion was so terrific that it destroyed the installation in the telegraph and telephone offices for thirty miles around Halifax, while it was heard at Truro, sixty-one miles distant.

HOW THE EXPLOSION WAS CAUSED.

It is reported that an American munition stamer was moving out from the pier and was rammed broadside by another vessel. Instantly there was a tremendous explosion which practically destroyed the two ships and killed all their crews. The concussion resulting caused the roof of the railway depot on North street to collapse, while all the warehouses on the waterfront for a mile and a half were damaged. The premises affected in many places caught fire.

FREIGHT CARS BLOWN FROM TRACK.

The force of the concussion was so great that the freight cars were blown off the railway tracks. Messages asking for fire engines, fire-fighting apparatus, doctors and nurses, hospital supplies, etc., were received by a number of localities in Nova Scotia from Halifax. Special trains were made up with everything required that could be secured. At Truro, Windsor and here, the city councils met this morning and decided to take immediate steps to render aid to the afflicted people of Halifax.

It is understood that large quantities of food were destroyed and that the citizens of Halifax may soon be in danger of starving. It was decided that carloads of food must be dispatched at once.

OTTAWA SEEKING DETAILS.

Ottawa, Dec. 6.—Authentic official advices as to the loss of life and the extent of the damage done at Halifax were still lacking at the capital up to 12:30 today. One message states that the boat was backing out of the dock when she was rammed by a boat coming in. Officials of the Naval Department were trying to get into touch with Halifax by wireless after the first news of the disaster was received, but no further details had been obtained up to noon.

It was said at the Department that the wireless stations are situated at some distance from the city itself, and the difficulty was in establishing communication between them and Halifax. Advices of the disaster were also received at the Military Department, but they contained nothing in addition to the meagre details obtained by the newspapers. The opinion was expressed in telegraphic circles that early reports of the explosion were much exaggerated.

FIFTY FIRST ESTIMATE OF KILLED.

Truro, Dec. 6.—It is reported here that the first estimate of the loss of life in the explosion in Halifax harbor this morning places it at fifty, while the number of injured is correspondingly great.

MILE SQUARE IS IN RUINS.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Cables from Halifax via Havana say that hundreds were killed and thousands hurt in this morning's catastrophe there. The north end of the city is in flames. One report says that an area nearly one mile square is a mass of wreckage, while several square miles are more or less affected. The Canadian Government depot, also used by the C. P. R., is utterly crushed, while the repairing plant at Willow Park is wrecked.

BENNETT PAYS THE PENALTY

IS SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR MURDER OF BRUCE LEITCH.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Pembroke, Dec. 6.—Satisfied that he was quite sane, the jury last night returned a verdict of guilty in the case of William Bennett, 20, of Montreal, who shot and killed Bruce Leitch who had just married the girl Bennett loved, at Sandpoint in July last. Bennett also seriously wounded the girl and destroyed his own eyesight in attempting suicide.

When Justice Latchford asked prisoner if he had anything to say he replied, "No Sir, I will die like a man."

He was then sentenced to be hanged April 17th. Bennett's aged father and mother were in court.

The tribunal in the city council chamber adjourned today to December 13.

IS BEHIND IN REMITTANCES

Magistrate Dumble Hears Another Theft Charge

In the police court this morning Magistrate Dumble resumed the preliminary hearing of theft charges preferred against J. S. Knapman by Wm. Lytle, proprietor and manager of the Wm. Lytle Cartage Co. G. N. Gordon, counsel for the accused, declined to plead or elect.

The amount stated in the charge heard this morning was $2,489.43.

Mr. Lytle, on the witness stand, defined the duties of the accused who was bookkeeper and office manager, being in charge of all the books and the banking account. He also received monies for auto licenses, of which Mr. Lytle was the official issuer, and, according to instructions given to him, was supposed to make daily deposits of monies received, make daily reports, and make remittances once a week.

This year 1,200 licenses had been issued for a total of between $11,000 and $12,000. This money was kept in a separate account and deposited at the Royal Bank. On July 6 the department of highways reported a deficit of $2400.

"Did you have anything to say to Knapman as to the shortage?" asked Mr. Hatton, Crown prosecutor.

NEW METHOD TO RAISE MONEY FOR THE PATRIOTIC FUND

Suggested that Citizens be Asked to Subscribe Amount Equal to Five-- Mill Tax--How Tenants May Save Themselves.

The Trades and Labor Council will follow up their proposition to have the Government take up the care of soldiers dependents by abolishing the Patriotic Fund and increasing the Separation Allowance and the soldiers pay in its place. At the regular meeting last night a committee was appointed to consult with the members of the G.W.V.A. and to draw up a schedule of rates. One of the steps to be taken is to find out the scale of rates that has been adopted in the United States.

Ald. Dobbin spoke on this subject as well as on the coal question last night. He contends that the Government has plenty to do as it is without being saddled with new duties. Soldiers wives do not receive the separation allowance and their assigned pay regularly as they do the monthly grant from the Patriotic Fund. Several specific instances were cited to prove this.

The alderman explained that it was not yet settled that the Patriotic Fund for next year be raised by adding five mills to the tax rate. It may be decided to collect it by subscription, an entirely new method to be adopted. It would be a continuation of the subscription and taxation plans.

Suppose a man owns a number of houses. If his tax rate is raised he is likely to boost his rents not for one year but for so long as the traffic will bear it.

What it is now proposed to do is to take the assessment roll and figure out what each property owner would pay under a five-mill tax and ask him to subscribe this amount. The tenant in any house would consult his own interest of having the landlord raise the rent on him for an indefinite period. A man living in a house assessed for $1000 would thus subscribe $5 to the Fund, an easy matter to starting an increase in his rent of that or more per month.

The entire question will be taken up by the Council elected for 1918.

FUEL CONTROLLER MAY TAKE STEPS TO SECURE FAIR DEAL FOR PEOPLE IN THIS CITY

Coal Stored in Excess of Three Tons May Be Commandeered — Mayor Duffus in Ottawa on Fuel Mission — Ald. Dobbin Talks to Trades Council.

Mayor Duffus is in Ottawa, holding a session with the Fuel Controller, looking for something in the way of a solution of the coal question as it affects this city. The municipal yard is up against it, and the city cannot buy another pound of fuel. A car of coal ordered over a month ago has not yet been delivered.

Alderman Dobbin appeared before the Trades and Labor Council last night and occupied an hour in explaining to the delgates the local coal situation, going into every detail of the subject. He showed how the mining of coal has fallen off in the United States, and this is the real cause of the difficulty. Money no longer talks. It is simply impossible to get coal, as none is available.

What is Proposed.

Alderman Dobbin explained that there was coal in Peterborough, but that some consumers had more than their share, while others had none. To overcome this condition is the purpose of the Mayor's trip to Ottawa.

Any quantity of coal above a certain amount can, under the present fuel regulations, be commandeered for the common good. The Fuel Controller has authority to send an official to Peterborough to search every coal bin in the city. Fuel in excess of three tons can be taken and distributed among those in need of fuel. That is the law, but whether or not it will be carried out is another question.

Coal for Soldiers' Families.

Alderman Dobbin explained, too, what the Patriotic Association—or, rather, himself, as executive officer—had done to provide coal for soldiers' families early in the season. Some of those receiving aid from the Fund left money with him to buy coal, and in all something like $4000 was collected for this purpose. Mr. R. Hicks filled the orders, giving up his regular business for two weeks in order to do so. This was altogether separate from the work carried on in the civic coal yard.

A number of the delegates sought further light, asking Alderman Dobbin a variety of questions, which he answered fully. There is no getting away from the fact that the situation

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1917.

DOING AND TALKING.

MR. HALL ASSERTS that Capt. Burnham has done nothing in this campaign, that he has not consulted the farmers as to how food production is to be increased, and the like. This charge, like so many others coming from the same source, falls to pieces when investigated.

The truth is that while Mr. Hall has been rending the atmosphere with whirlwinds of rhetoric Capt. Burnham has been working to some purpose. When it was ascertained that the decisions of the exemption tribunals were likely to demoralize the farm work of the county, Capt. Burnham at once took action. He invited every reeve in the riding to meet Premier Borden here last Friday evening, and the invitation was accepted. The delegates stated their views to Sir Robert Borden, who promised relief. In less than a week these promises have been given effect.

Warden Brown has been appointed to act in conjunction with District Representative McRae on behalf of the Agricultural Department, to see that no harm comes to the farming interest through depleting the rural communities of their working force. Capt. Burnham is the man whom the farmers have to thank for bringing about this order. Mr. Hall's charge is completely refuted. Capt. Burnham, by quiet effort, has done more for the farmers and in the interests of production than all Mr. Hall's bombastic tirades would achieve in a lifetime.

Why should Mr. Hall complain because there is no one electioneering against him? He has opposition enough as it is. The patriotic sentiment in the community is gathering force every day to work his destruction. The very stars in their courses are working against him. Most effective of all are his own campaign methods to bring about his defeat.

THE EXAMINER AND CONSCRIPTION.

THE EXAMINER cannot bring itself to the point of blowing the horn of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but it has no scruples about hurling brickbats at Sir Robert Borden. In an editorial last night it sets out to prove that he is, as a bare-faced dictator, little, if any, better, than the Kaiser himself. One of the reasons it cites in support of this contention is the very Conscription Act which is the issue in this campaign.

If the present Military Act shows the handiwork of an autocrat, what is left to be said about the Militia Law which Sir Wilfrid Laurier enacted in 1904? Under the Borden Act, all who are really needed at home will be exempt from military duty. Only those between the ages of 20 and 34 and who are unmarried and without other dependents will be taken. The men who go into [illegible] service will be selected, just as Sir Robert Borden says, by the exercise of wise judgment.

The Laurier Act would have taken men at random. The youth of 18 and the veteran of 60 would alike be eligible. The fathers of helpless families, the sons with aged parents relying on them for the necessities of life, would not be spared. When men were wanted, all the names of the male residents from 18 to 60 in a community would be dumped into a hat and a person blindfolded would draw the required number.

Who was the autocrat, Laurier or Borden? Which Act of the two is more likely to commend itself to the public? The wonder is that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, after enacting so harsh a law, could not endorse the rational measure which Sir Robert Borden sponsored.

SIR WILFRID NOW AND IN 1914.

THREE YEARS AGO Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved a resolution in Parliament declaring that the Government ought to acquire all the stock of the C. N. R. and setting $30,000,000 as the maximum price. At that time the Government acquired $40,000,000 of the stock without the payment of a cent. It is now proposed to get the balance by arbitration. It is believed that the stock is worth nothing. If so, nothing will be paid for it. At all events, the highest price that can be paid, regardless of any value that may be fixed by Sir William Meredith, the arbitrator, or by a Canadian court, is $10,000,000; one-third the price Sir Wilfrid Laurier proposed to pay to rescue his own creature from oblivion.

And yet Mr. Hall tells his audiences, a banner in his committee room flashes the notice, that Sir Robert Borden set aside $10,000,000 for worthless C. N. R. stock. Verily, politics is a great game, especially when Mr. Hall and those lawyers he brings in from Toronto sit in and take a hand.

NOT DUPES, BUT ACCOMPLICES.

THERE IS LITTLE sentiment about The London Times, and perhaps after all it takes the right view of the matter when it says that in the atrocities of this war the German people must be held equally responsible with the autocratic party. The masses are accomplices in the crimes of their leaders, not the dupes that some charitable people represent them.

On the one hand we see a German army of millions. On the other a ruling party numerically insignificant as compared with the fighting force. No power on earth could compel such a body of men to fight if they once resolved to lay down their arms. The same lust of conquest which obsesses the leaders inspires the soldiers in their every assault against the Allies. The leaders have not devised all these forms of barbarous cruelty. The German soldiers, when they nailed Canadians to a cross, acted, it is to be presumed, on their own initiative. There would have been fewer outrages, less of lawless plundering, in France and Belgium, if the private soldiers had elected to live up to the rules of modern warfare.

In Germany itself it is the non-combatants who spit in the faces of, and otherwise maltreat, the British who are taken to that country as prisoners of war. The entire populace seems insane with hate against the rest of the world. This spirit has not been born of the war, although it may have been developed by the events of the past three years. The truth will eventually be generally accepted that the German race are only yet semi-civilized, and that to trust them with power is like placing fire at the disposal of babes.

The German people can redeem themselves in the eyes of humanity only by rising against the autocracy and abandoning a conflict that has brought grief to a world and eternal shame to themselves.

A BLIND CHOICE.

LIKE MAJOR BAGSTOCK, in Dombey and Son, The Examiner is sly,—sly. It berates the Union Government, but it has the grace—or is it caution?—to refrain from saying anything that can be construed as direct commendation of the party that will have control if The Examiner has its way and the Union Government is defeated.

What can The Examiner offer the Canadian people in place of the Union Government it so bitterly assails, but with a repetition of invective that renders its assaults as ineffective even as the heathen's prayer is weakened by a rehash of phrases?

It must be either Sir Robert Borden or Sir Wilfrid Laurier for the Premiership. Capt. Burnham supports the one, Mr. Hall the other. Sir Robert Borden stands for the steady and effective prosecution of the war. Sir Wilfrid Laurier would quit in the middle of the operations. Even if he was minded to continue in a half-hearted manner for the sake of appearances, the men whose votes would make him Premier would insist upon Canada's withdrawal. The Examiner would take the children's bread and cast it to the winds. It would leave the stricken soldiers in Europe to shift for themselves, after this country had passed its word that they would be supported to the end.

SIR WILFRID'S UNION GOVERNMENT.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER, to give him all the credit that is his due, has done something in the Union Government line himself. The Bourassas, the Lavergnes, the Cannons, and the men of that ilk, are with him now in his new venture, heart and hand.

THE SOLDIERS IN ENGLAND.

MR. HALL TELLS his audiences that there are one hundred thousand Canadians idling the precious hours away in England, while men are needed in the trenches. He has never been overseas to confirm these figures. Reputable men who have been across the Atlantic tell us that the reserves are all but exhausted. We all know that there are no reinforcements to speak of leaving Canada. Mr. Hall is simply talking at random. His charge, too, is a reflection on every reserve in England, be he officer or private, and is of a piece with the insinuation that Canadian officers are appointed solely for their political pull, that they are inefficient, and lead their men into death. Mr. Hall has apparently abandoned all hope of the soldiers' vote. He could not cast it from him more effectually by any other course he might devise.

Mr. Hall has been endorsed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier as his candidate. The Liberal leader in every election address he makes these days reveals his hand more and more. He is firmly opposed to the very principle of conscription. He would submit it to a referendum vote simply in order to gain time and because he believes that it would be defeated. His compatriots at his back would insist that Canada drop out of the war. With those compatriots Mr. Hall would be identified. His vote would help Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the Premiership.

Let the people of West Peterborough combine to save Mr. Hall from his political associations and at the same time save the country from the stigma of a nation that having once set its hand to the plow, not only looks but turns back in the middle of the furrow. Save Canada from the contumely that Russia is drawing to herself every day.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

PEACE IN CANADA will not be worth much if the price paid for it is national honor.

EVEN LAURIERISM has reason to pray for deliverance from its indiscreet champions.

THEN THERE ARE candidates who require nothing quite so urgently as an expert press censor.

• • • •

MR. SPENLOW was a lawyer, too, and he uttered some political maxims that are puzzling the public to this day.

• • • •

THE CHRISTMAS BOX that he soldiers overseas will prize most of all is the emphatic assurance that Canada is set on sending them reinforcements.

THE KING of Roumania assures President Wilson that his little kingdom does not seek a separate peace. Laurierism has not yet invaded Ferdinand's domain.

• • • •

THE UNITED STATES was slow in getting into the war, but it is in now with both feet. That is better than getting in early and giving up before the goal is reached.

THE SENTINEL this week states that Lady Borden is an Anglican and that she is bringing up her children in that faith. Lady Borden has no children. One on The Sentinel.

LORD LANSDOWNE wrote one letter too many. Others commit as lamentable an indiscretion by word of mouth, especially when their duties call them to the political rostrum.

THE DE LAVAL COMPANY'S BYLAW

The De Laval Company, Limited, of Peterborough, Ontario, covers the Dominion of Canada with its manufactures. The general offices and factories are located in Peterborough, with sales branch offices in Quebec, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. The company employs more than fifty travellers, under whose care are over two thousand local agencies, through which its cream separators, silos and gas engines are distributed. Its creamery and milk plant line of manufactures are sold direct to the cheese factories, creameries and milk plants throughout the Dominion, and, as well, some shipments are made to foreign countries.

When the De Laval Co., Limited, came to Peterborough, about five years ago, it agreed to build a modern factory and to employ at least fifty people. The company made plans and erected a factory three times the size of the one agreed upon with the city, and has in its employ four times the number of people agreed upon, with a payroll approximating $200,000 per year.

At the time of the company's removal to Peterborough, the city, under an agreement, provided a site and contributed $3500 towards the moving expenses of the company's factories to this city. The entire block of ground purchased by the city for the company's account cost the city in the neighborhood of $16,000, moving expenses were $3500, and the bylaw and other incidental expenses approximately $500, making an expenditure by the city for the company's account approximately $20,000.

In addition to this provision, the company was exempt from taxation for a period of ten years, with the exception of school and special taxes. By the time of expiry of this first ten years, of which five years are already passed, the company will have paid back in taxes practically all of the city's cost for ground, moving expenses and bylaw incidentals.

The city reserved from the ground purchased on the company's account a strip forty-eight feet wide on the north side of the company's property. They proposed to make a street of this strip. Application was made to the Railway Commission, who refused a crossing permit on the Grand Trunk Railway, pointing out that Romaine street was so nearby that there seemed no justification for another crossing so close to it. A sewer which had been planned to go down the new street has, by its committee, been now planned for Romaine street.

Owing to the development of the company's business in the manufacture of silos and creamery equipment, it needs more room on the north side of the factory building for warehousing purposes, and has applied to the city for a reversion of forty feet of the forty-eight feet, so that it may continue its development in this particular line of manufacture, which cannot be well done on any other portion of the company's property.

The members of the City Council and its special committee appointed to deal with the matter have visited the company's property, and the special committee has expressed itself as satisfied to close the street subject to the favorable expression of the citizens in that regard.

The Henry Hope Company's property adjoins this street provision on the north. The Henry Hope Co. have stated that they are perfectly willing that the street be closed, as they are not interested in having it remain open.

The Council have thought it wise to retain an eight-foot strip, and this, in case of necessity, to be used as a lane, so that if at any time there should be need of access through to the track or across it, this lane provides the way.

The De Laval Co., Limited, would greatly appreciate the favorable vote of the citizens on election day, the 1st of January, and feel sure that the development of the business, which brings forth this request, will be regarded by the ratepayers as a matter of real progress and interest in the city's industrial life and meriting their full support.

OMEMEE

(Special Correspondence.)

Omemee, Dec. 6.—The annual Farmers' Institute meeting was held on Nov. 28th in Coronation Hall and as usual a large audience was present. Mr. Fred Sandy occupied the chair. The program was as follows:

Chairman's address, Mr. Sandy.
Piano duet, the Misses Race.
Address, Mr. Downey. Subject, "Is it worth while."
Solo, Miss Mabel Boyd.
Address, Mrs. Grayton, "Healthful Hints."
Solo, Mr. E. Bushnell with violin and piano accompaniment by Messrs. Hornby and Earl.

God Save the King.

In the afternoon Mrs. Grayton, who has been the matron of different hospitals, gave an excellent address on Home Nursing and Care of the Sick Room. This meeting was held in the Farmers' Club Room and was very largely attended by the ladies of village and country.

Mr. Eli Daucey was a visitor to Lindsay on Saturday.

Gunner Charles McCaffrey of Kingston was in the village for a few days of last week bidding his many friends adieu before leaving for overseas. Gunner McCaffrey sails from Halifax this week and carries with him all good wishes for a safe return to Canada.

Mrs. McIntyre and Miss Sootheran of Lindsay were in our village on Friday of last week and called on the relatives of soldiers overseas in the interest of Union Government and it is understood received favorable answer in all cases but one.

The many friends of Cpl. Fred Cornell will be delighted to learn that he arrived in Halifax about one week ago and is expected home any day now. His brother Pte. Ernest Cornell, who signed for service some time ago, left last week to don the khaki. Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Cornell, parents, may be justly proud of their hero sons.

A packed hall greeted the ever gallant General Sir Sam Hughes on Saturday night when a meeting in the interests of Union Government was held. The meeting opened at 7.45, Reeve Parsons presiding. After the singing of the Canadian National Anthem, Mrs. Loosemore of Lindsay favored the audience with a solo.

Mr. Paul Essery of Toronto then spoke. Mr. Essery is a fluent speaker and delivered a powerful appeal for the Unionist candidate. Miss Lula Parsons rendered a song in keeping with the times entitled "Why can't a girl be a soldier."

The local ministers, Revs. MacInnis, Lewis and James, delivered short and spicey addresses, after which Mrs. Loosemore sang in good voice the old favorite, "Where! Oh where, is my Highland laddie gone."

When Sir Sam arose to speak he was greeted with a storm of applause. He held his audience spellbound for upwards of one hour, at the end of which three cheers and a tiger for Sir Sam led by Rev. McInnis, gave the popular General renewed assurance of just how he stands in Omemee and locality.

Miss Belle Maunder of Lindsay rendered the closing number on the program, "My Ain Folk," after which the singing of God Save the King brought to a close a most successful political meeting.

The pianists for the evening were Mrs. Cecil Cornell and Miss Maunder.

Omemee was well represented at the Borden meeting in Peterborough on Friday night. Among those who attended were R. J. Mulligan, R. Johnston, H. Lamb, Dr. Howden, P. Parsons, J. White, Dr. Earl, T. C. Ivory, C. Ivory, W. Earl, M. Earl, J. M. McCrea, Rev. Mr. Lewis, Robt. Boyd, A. Stinson, L. Windrim, Reeve Parsons, G. G. Williamson.

Inspector Broderick of Lindsay was in Omemee on Monday.

Mrs. Shearer accompanied by Miss McCaffrey of Buckhorn and Miss Ethel McCaffrey of Toronto spent the week-end with their father, Mr. C. McCaffrey.

Mr. Milton Sherin is the fortunate possessor of a silver grey fox which he shot last week. The value of the hide is estimated at $500.

Mrs. A. Robertson spent Sunday in Peterborough.

Mr. Chamberlain and men arrived in the village on Monday morning and will complete the hydro contract.

Mr. Isaac of Fenelon Falls, (the Laurier candidate for this riding) was a visitor to Omemee on Friday.

Omemee, Dec. 6.—Corp. Fred Cornell, who was wounded at the battle of Vimy Ridge and who has since been confined to the hospital in England, received a warm welcome on his return home on Tuesday evening. A message having reached Reeve Parsons from Kingston at noon, stating that he would arrive that evening was all that was necessary to summon an enthusiastic crowd of villagers and many from the country. As the train drew into Sturgeon street station, cheers mingled with "For he's a jolly good fellow," sung by the school children, followed by numerous patriotic songs, assured Corp. Cornell of his welcome. The gallant young hero was greeted with calls of "Welcome home, Fred," all along the line as he was assisted to a waiting car. A torchlight procession through the village, returning to the Commercial House where Corp. Cornell and his father were banqueted by the city fathers.

A monster reception has been arranged by the Ops Council and will take place in Reaboro on Friday night, the Lindsay Citizens' Band taking part.

Mr. Blight and Mr. Westlake of Oshawa were visitors to Omemee last week.

Miss Porter of Stewart street, Peterborough was the guest of Mrs. Cottingham during the past week.

Mr. Elmer Shaw was a visitor to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Wit and Wisdom

She—Papa says he will pay half the cost of furnishing a house for us.

He—But how about the other half.

She — Don't be a goose! Of course, we'll pick out a lot of nice things, get papa's cheque for all of the bill, and then go back and select things only half as expensive.

The son of the well-to-do family had recently joined up as a private and was spending his Christmas leave at home.

Returning from a walk, his mother espied a figure in the kitchen with the housemaid.

"Clarence," she called to her son, "Mary's got someone in the kitchen. She knows perfectly well that I don't allow followers. I wish you'd go and tell the man to leave the house at once."

Clarence duly departed to the kitchen, but returned in about half a minute.

"Sorry, mother, but I can't turn him out."

"Can't turn him out? Why on earth not?"

"He's my sergeant!"

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 590 Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no farther delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly.
J. H. BURNHAM.

Your pity for these

The chubby babies — the hard-working wives — the feeble old folk of the British or Canadian sailor—what can he do for them when he himself is broken or maimed, drowned or blown up, at his perilous calling?

Nothing. His wage is pitifully meagre. His life hard. There are no pensions or "allowances" as in the army.

One hundred and forty five British ships sunk without a trace—"spurlos versenkt" is the infamous phrase—and thousands of other sunken ships have taken their toll of brave sailor men—

Yet never a British sailor has refused to sign on for another ship. They know of the thousands and thousands of tons of supplies that must be kept moving to the boys at the front. They know that cessation of British sea traffic would be the cutting of the jugular vein of our war.

We who sleep safely at night from the Hun because of the heroic work of the Sailor amidst hidden mines and slinking murderous submarines—will we not be generous on when the Daughters of the Empire will ask for our subscriptions for the sailors of the British Navy and the Mercantile Marine. Canada's gift last year of $700,000 "for the relief of British and Canadian Sailors and their dependents, for Sailors' Homes, Institutes and Hospitals in Canada and throughout the British Empire" and for the work of the Navy League—will surely be surpassed.

Sailors' Day Dec. 8th

The Sailor gives his strength, his life, his all for us. What shall we do for him?

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

WHEN CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated wasted, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

LOSES HER BABE AND HUSBAND

ONE OF THE EVERY-DAY TRAGEDIES OF THE GREAT WAR.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—The home of Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald at 90 River street is filled with sorrow. Shortly after her husband, E. P. Fitzgerald, went overseas with the American Legion a baby was born. Seven weeks later it died. Later Mrs. Fitzgerald became ill, and now only a short time after returning from the hospital, word has come that her husband fell in action Oct. 30. Pte. Fitzgerald came from Norwood. He had previously been seventeen years in the United States forces.

MR. HALL TRAINS HIS RHETORICAL GUNS UPON SIR SAM HUGHES

Proceeds to Blow Ex Minister of Militia Off the Landscape For Appearing on Same Platform as Sir Robert Borden.

Mr. R. R. Hall addressed the electors of North Monaghan at the Town Hall in the afternoon and at the Union Sunday School Hall near Brealey's in the evening.

Mr. Hall in his address drew attention to the fact that Sir Sam Hughes appeared on the same platform in Peterborough with Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Burnham.

Sir Sam Hughes is well aware of the fact that the Military Service Act is being most unjustly administered. He knows that exemptions are being granted by the wholesale in the Province of Quebec and that exemptions are being refused by the wholesale in the Province of Ontario on the same state of facts.

Sir Sam Hughes knows that the Military Service Act as enforced in the Province of Quebec will not take 5000 men from the Province of Quebec and that the remainder of the 100,000 men must come from English speaking Canada.

Sir Sam Hughes knows very well that if justice were done between the Province of Ontario and the Province of Quebec that 70,000 men should be taken from the Province of Quebec before one single man should be called to the colors in Ontario.

While Sir Sam Hughes was speaking on the platform in the City of Peterborough he dramatically turned to Sir Robert Borden and told him to his face "I want to tell Sir Robert Borden that it is a matter of importance that Quebec should do her part and come up to an even status with the English speaking provinces but the industries, farms and other places in Ontario are depleted in order to make up drafts for the front. There should be some even-handed justice to compel those gentlemen in Quebec to go to the front."

"And yet," said Mr. Hall, "Sir Sam Hughes knows and so does Mr. Burnham that Sir Robert Borden is now and has been for six years tied hock and heels to the Quebec Nationalists in the Province of Quebec and that the administration of the Military Service Act in the Province of Quebec is really left and will be left in the hands of Borden's Quebec Nationalists.

"This in itself," said Mr. Hall, "ought to be enough to shake the confidence of the electors of Peterborough and Victoria of Mr. Burnham and his supporter, Sir Sam Hughes."

"Both these gentlemen know that rank injustice is being done to the Province of Ontario and both of them are the supporters of the Prime Minister who perpetrates this rank injustice on English speaking Canada.

"I notice," said Mr. Hall, "in the Daily Warder of October 16th, 1917, this interview with Sir Sam Hughes.

"But Laurier held up proceedings for the 'successful carrying on of the war?' "

"Nonsense, Laurier had nothing to do with it. It was Sir Thomas White, Sir Joseph Flavelle, Sir George Perley, Baron Shaughnessy and possible dread of the Nationalist party in Quebec under Bourassa."

"But Laurier forced this war time election."

Sir Sam Hughes answered:

"I do not see how. On three different occasions the Government itself planned an election in war time, once immediately after the session of 1914, again about the time of the sinking of the Lusitania, third after Mr. Rogers made his famous and inspired Montreal address. It is understood that was still another occasion.

"It is evident from this interview that Sir Robert Borden and Sir Sam Hughes were as much concerned about the winning of the election as they were about the winning of the war.

In this same interview in the Warder, Sir Sam was asked the question:

"What do you think of the new Union Government?"

Answer: "It is a splendid triumph for the plans long ago laid by Sir Joseph Flavelle and Sir Thomas White. It is now more than a year since the movement to form a National or a "National Trust" Government as it is sometimes termed was proposed by Sir Joseph Flavelle and his friends."

Sir Sam was further asked the question:

"You seem to think there was no present need for coalition?"

Answer: "None whatever, that is, had the Government 'done its full

Women of Canada:

"Be True to the Boys At the Front"

Sir Robert Borden in his manifesto says: "The franchise will be extended to women, not chiefly in recognition of devoted and capable service in the war, but as a measure of justice too long delayed. If men die, women suffer; if they are wounded, women heal; if they are maimed, women labor."

The franchise is extended to the women relatives of fighting Canadians, in order that they may help hasten Victory and bring the boys back from the trenches covered with the glory they have won.

A Vote for a Unionist Candidate Is a Vote for Reinforcements

The Union Government is pledged to carry on its work of raising the 100,000 reinforcements so urgently needed to support the Canadians at the front. Laurier and his adherents would stop this work, take a referendum, and experiment with voluntary enlistment, the possibilities of which have been exhausted. The most clear-headed, right-minded Liberals have gladly and without coercion helped to form the Union Government; they have weighed the pros and cons, they have not allowed politics to interfere with their patriotism, or their promise to our brave boys in France to "see them through."

WOMEN WHO CAN VOTE

Every woman may vote who is a British subject, 21 years of age, resident in Canada one year, and in the constituency 30 days, who is the mother, wife, widow, daughter, sister or half-sister of any person, male or female, living or dead, who is serving or has served without Canada in any of the Military forces, or within or without Canada in any of the Naval forces of Canada or of Great Britain in the Present War, or who has been honorably discharged from such services, and the date of whose enlistment was prior to Sept. 20th, 1917.

Every ounce of strength in Canada should be exerted to help right a monstrous wrong the Prussian hierarchy would inflict upon the world. That is why the vote is placed in the hands of those most dear to our soldiers, trusting that the wifely love, and motherly devotion, and sisterly care, will vote as the boys would vote to carry on the work begun, and so far continued in the heroic spirit of self-sacrifice.

"THE 13TH CHAIR"

The Most Talked of Play in New York.

Theatre-goers who have waited patiently for the coming of "The 13th Chair," will be rewarded on Thursday next, when New York's sensational melodrama will be presented here by William Harris, Jr., in the same elaborate setting in which it was shown at the Forty-Eighth Street Theatre, New York.

To attempt a description of "The 13th Chair" in a few brief sentences would be well nigh impossible. Suffice it to say that from the moment the curtain descended on the last act of the play on its opening night, it was the most talked of play seen in New York in an entire theatrical season. Its continuous run at the Forty-Eighth Street Theatre for more than a year bears eloquent testimony to the interest taken in the play by those who love the drama.

"The 13th Chair" is by Bayard Veiller, author of "Within The Law" who is known to theatre-goers the world over as a master hand at writing sensational dramatic plays.

Spent Enough To Build a Fine Home

Slater Says Money He Paid Out for Medicines Was Thrown Away—Tanlac Ends Troubles.

"If I had all the money I have spent on useless medicine during the last few years I could build me a fine home," said William Slater of 19 Jillison Avenue, Toronto, the other day. Mr. Slater is a well know employe of the Canadian Pacific Railway and works in the roundhouse at Lambton.

"For the past nine years," he continued, "I had such sharp rheumatic pains from my left shoulder down that I couldn't sleep or even lie on my left side, and sometimes my limbs felt like they were paralyzed. If I sat in one position long I would become so stiff it would almost kill me to straighten up and I was nervous and irritable all the time. I didn't rest well and got up in the mornings feeling so miserable I could hardly drag myself off to work. I fell off in weight, had no life nor energy and was just going from bad to worse.

"One day an old friend said to me, 'Billie, why don't you try Tanlac? I've tried it and I know it will help you if anything will,' so to please him I took his advice, and now I can sleep on my left side with ease, those old pains are going away and I never have that awful feeling in my limbs any more. My nerves don't worry me and I get up in the mornings full of life and energy and ready for any kind of job. I have gained seven pounds and feel in better spirits than I have in years.

"My daughter, who was in a badly rundown condition, has begun taking Tanlac, too, and though she has been using it but a short time her improvement is really wonderful. My wife is simply delighted with the way Tanlac is building us up so well and strong again and the whole family is now boosting Tanlac every opportunity we get.

duty during this last year.'"

Sir Sam therefore charges that the Government of Sir Robert Borden did not do its duty and so does Mr. Burnham and both of them ask the electors to vote for them and support Sir Robert Borden whom they knew did not do his duty by this country at a time when mistakes and blunders might result in national disaster to Canadian arms.

Mr. Hall stated that Sir Sam Hughes in his interview in speaking of Union Government said its works "could not be worse than it has been in the last two years with Perley holding up everything in England and White (Finance Minister) lining up everythig for the benefit of the institutions with which he and Flavelle are allied. One would almost be led to believe that the desire was to prolong the war for the benefit of certain people and institutions in Canada.

"That is putting it pretty strong," Sir Sam was asked and he answered:

"I am merely speaking of the effect of their actions I do not know what their motives were. Their intentions may have been good, but good intentions constitute a pavement to nether regions."

And yet this is the Government that both Sir Sam Hughes and Mr. Burnham ask you to support to guide Canada through a life and death struggle.

Sir Sam Hughes knows full well, said Mr. Hall, and it is not necessary to repeat the well known charges of grafting, proved on sworn testimony from the mouths of unwilling witnesses, respecting the purchase of motors, horses, binoculars, bandages, drugs, boots, shells, gause, fuse, and implements of war and that these unseemly transactions took place under his own eye and under the nose of Sir Robert Borden who now seeks to stifle and conceal further investigation with the hollow pretense of so called Union Government.

Indeed said Mr. Hall, Sir Sam Hughes himself in his letter to Sir Robert Borden on May 13th, 1915, declared that the Government were listening to the grafter and the parasite to such an extent that "the contract branch has been very much hampered and practically blockaded; delays have been very prolonged; the cost has been greatly enhanced and the goods supplied have been in many cases inferior. Indeed the most ardent agents of the German Government could scarcely have been more successful in holding up the proper equipment of our forces had they been in control—it tends not only to the injury and inefficiency of our soldiers; thus jeopardizing the success to British arms but it must seriously reflect upon the Government."

And yet this is the weak and vacillating Prime Minister that both Sir Sam and Mr. Burnham ask you to vote for to keep in office and jeopardize the future freedom of Canada and the Great British Empire of which we are so proud to form a part.

"PRINCESS PAT" MUS. COMEDY REPLETE WITH SONG AND HUMOR

Two Hours and Half of Bright Sparkling Music and Mirth Provoking Situations.

A large and delighted audience enjoyed Fred Mayer and W. B. Seeskind's merry musical comedy, "Princess Pat" at the Grand opera house last night. The piece is full to the top, pressed down and overflowing with sparkling vocal and instrumental music, bright and witty lines and funny situations presented in the most natural manner by an exceptionally clever and admirably balanced company. The attraction is a society picture, charmingly punctuated with irresistible song catches and graceful dances. The plot is of a bright and refreshing nature, afording abundant opportunity for a strong galaxy of male and female principals to offer two hours and a half of wholesome, healthy wit and humor to the accompaniment of exceedingly acceptable music. The piece is prettily staged and costumed, and the chorus can sing, which cannot be said of all so-called choruses. Every song number last night was appreciatively received and encored, while the dance numbers by Stephie Anderson and Edwin Stanley, and Dance Diversement by Annette Ford, Genevieve Vennard, Neil Moore and Edwin Stanley were of a high order of merit and brought down the house. Annette Ford as Princess Pat is a charming soprano of rich full voice, and a vivacious comedienne, who holds her audience captivated the whole time she is behind the footlights. She has splendid support in Genevieve Vennard, as Grace Holbrook. John Reinhard, better known in the comedy as "Toto," sang in splendid tenor voice, both in duet and solo, while his histrionic play was of a commendable character. Will H Sloan and Neil Moore, as James O'Brien, a gay old sport, and Bob Darrow, who wants everybody to wait, respectively, make a jolly pair of high class humorists and comedians, whose concerted action convulsed the audience. They had admirable support in light comedy by Wilbur Cox as Si Perkins. The bass numbers by Overton Moyle in the well-sustained character of General Holbrook, deservedly won their way into the hearts of his hearers. Edwin Stanley, as Toney O'Brien, presents an ideal millionaire's son, and won well-earned recognition as such. In fact, the whole cast is so strong that the weak spots too often glaring in many otherwise first quality companies are conspicuously absent. "Princess Pat" can safely come again if in care of last night's company.

The story of the comedy is that of a gay old widower sport offering his millions or an attractive young wife, with whom his equally gay young son falls in love. The old man's darling-to-be falls in love with the son, and a diplomatic society young bachelor undertakes to put everything to rights, for a price. In this he is assisted by Princess Pat, who, annoyed at the husband's demonstrative affection, flirts with the gay old sport to arouse his jealousy. In this she is successful and wins the old man from his young fiance, who had only consented to marriage with him to save her uncle from ruin, and who is only too eager to change an old lover for a more attractive young and equally as wealthy a one. After keeping the principals waiting until he has lined his pockets, the diplomatic young bachelor marries off the young pair, brings Princess Pat and her husband together in love and amity, and the gay old sport shows that he is a good loser, by bestowing his millions upon his son and the girl who had jilted him.

In comedy songs Will H Sloan as James O'Brien, and Wilbur Cox as Si Perkins, were heard to contagious advantage; they were irresistibly humorous.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle-front; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

Havelock, November 20th, 1917.

Japanese traders are reaching out to all the resources of the South Pacific Islands. The Mitsubishi corporation recently acquired a lease of 1,500 acres of a rubber plantation in North Borneo and Mr. Kuhara secured a similar lease of 1,800 acres. The latter is also seeking an additional 25,000 acres in the same locality. A large Kobe firm has purchased two estates at Sarawak of 2,000 and 1,000 acres, respectively. Another company, with a capital of $2,500,000 for rubber development, has been formed. Japan is taking hold of the sugar industry in Dutch Borneo. Another company with $3,000,000 capital to exploit Sumatra has been organized. The extensive mining fields of British and Dutch Borneo are also largely in Japanese hands.—East and West News.

Public Schools and the War.

Eton, Harrow, and Rugby have between them sent not far short of twelve thousand to the trenches or the navy. Eton alone having to its credit a goodly list of over five thousand. Nearly two thousand have been killed, and almost as many mentioned in despatches. Rugby taking the lion's share of the honors with over nine hundred—approximately one in three of all the Old Rugbeians serving. But Eton stands at the top of the list of V.C.'s gained by the three schools, which number a round dozen, half of which have gone to Old Etonians.

GADSBY'S LETTER

OTTAWA, Sept. 29.—The aggregation of tin-horn sports known as the Borden Government continued to stack the cards to the last minute. A notorious example was the amendment to the War-time Election Act, which Senator Ross of Nova Scotia introduced in the Senate in the dying hours of the session. The amendment was by Senator Ross, but the initiative was from the Borden Government, which put its docile follower up to commit this farewell outrage.

The amendment dealt with the revised lists in Nova Scotia with a view to stuffing them with voters who would vote for the Borden Government. The whole machinery of the War-time Election Act had been discussed in the Commons and not a word had been breathed then about monkeying with the Nova Scotia lists, which have been in the same official hands for practically the last hundred years. No, Premier Borden was reserving this new assault on our liberties for his final coup. Just a week or so before he had been writing to the women of Canada to tell them how pure and non-partisan he was and all the time was revolving how he could debauch the voters' lists of his native province and turn Nova Scotia into a Tory stronghold. He trusted to the hurry to jam it through and get away to go fishing. Friends of Premier Borden explain that it wasn't his fault. It was the Hon. Arthur Meighen who cooked up the job. In short it was a Meighen trick. The end justified the Meighens.

Although the Ross amendment was turned down in the Commons the Liberal candidates in Nova Scotia will still go into the general election under handicaps that no fair-minded opponent would impose. It remains to be seen whether this last crooked scheme will work out satisfactorily for the Borden Government. The scheme to split the West by means of the deft Italian hand of Sir Clifford Sifton, the scheme to split the Liberal party by means of union government, the scheme to split Quebec via Bourassa and the Military Service Act have all gone astray. The scheme to steal Nova Scotia will probably go the same way as its unfortunate predecessors.

It is understood that the Borden Government would have liked to go a great deal further than it did with the War-time Election Act. They wanted to create an exclusively Tory franchise, with test oaths at the polls and fines and imprisonment for voters who said they would vote right and then went in and voted Liberal. Little Arthur Meighen was in favor of having these recreants shot at sunrise. He also advocated a class franchise consisting exclusively of those who took a bath every day and wore seven clean shirts a week. This would have thrown the franchise into the hands of the vested interests who have time for these luxuries. But some of the Government's supporters kicked. They said they didn't want a franchise that would single out Sir Joseph Flavelle for special honors any more than the Government was doing already. It is well known at Ottawa that ever since Sir Joseph made ten thousand dollars a year—and that was a long time ago—he has been in the habit of changing his collars once a day and twice on Sunday, when he gets very hot teaching the Bible class.

It is with Sir Joseph in view that the Borden Government has enfranchised five hundred thousand soldiers' womenfolk. They feel confident that these women will be tickled to death to vote for the Borden Government which stands behind Sir Joseph and the other profiteers who take all their money for food. Sir Joseph is now in the hands of a Royal Commission, which is expected to enamel him until he glitters like a Childs' restaurant. There will be no fly specks on Sir Joseph when the Royal Commission finishes its work. The Borden Government thinks that much of him.

It is absolutely necessary that Sir Joseph should stick around and that the Borden Government should be at his back until he collects all his accounts, twenty-five million dollars for beef stew for the British Government, several more millions from the unhappy Canadian consumer of Sir Joseph's table products, and several more million which make up his share of the $135,000,000 the Toronto looters expect to get out of the infamous C. N. R. deal. No matter where the pork barrel is Sir Joseph is not far away from it. The Borden Government can't lose him. They daren't. He helped to put them in and he's got to get his stake back.

The five hundred thousand women voters who find their dollar shrunk to half its size when they go to market, and all through the efforts of Sir Joseph and his friends in the Borden Government, are no doubt keeping a close eye on the revelations in Toronto, in spite of the best efforts of the Commission some of the facts will crop out. For instance that Sir Joseph makes one million profit on his bacon on this side of the water as the William Davies Company, and another million on the other side of the water as Sheed, Thompson & Co. Also that he avoids the British war tax by labelling half his overseas profit as "commissions" and the Canadian war tax by soaking half a million of his profits away as "Rest fund." Some financier, Sir Joseph!—H.F.G.

William Harris Jr. presents
Bayard Veiller's Mystic Melodrama

"THE 13th CHAIR"

Following a continuous run of more than One Year at the 48th Street Theatre, New York

The record of each theatrical season in New York discloses the name of one piece which, above all others, has exerted a tremendous popular appeal—one piece whose success has been so long sustained and consistently maintained that there can be no question of its right to be written at the very top of the list of the year's theatrical offerings. The play which earned this distinction during the season last past was "The 13th Chair," Bayard Veiller's melodrama of mystery produced by William Harris, Jr.

"The 13th Chair" ran for one entire season at the 48th Street Theatre in New York. Audiences which witnessed it during the height of the summer season—when nine out of ten theatres in Manhattan were closed—were as great in numbers and as unrestrained in their expressions of enthusiastic approval as those which attended its performance in mid-winter. None of the influences or conditions which until then had operated to lessen interest in stage entertainments ever manifested themselves in connection with the engagement of "The 13th Chair." But for the existence of contracts calling for its production in other large cities of the country at specified times and which permitted of no postponement, the piece would yet be playing in New York, adding to that record for popularity which is already unprecedented. As it is, "The 13th Chair" has left Manhattan and begun a tour of the other large cities of the country with every confidence that its reputation and the manner in which it will be presented here, will make of its visit to this city the most emphatically memorable theatrical event of this season.

Bayard Veiller wrote "Within the Law," and hardly anyone with the exception of Mr. Veiller himself, believed that it would be possible for an American author to produce another melodrama which would cause quite as much discussion or approach its measure of popular success. Twenty-one drama critics, representing as many New York publications, acclaimed "The 13th Chair" as not only the equal, but the superior of the first-mentioned piece, as a stage offering that would appeal to every class of playgoers. The record of "The 13th Chair" has very abundantly proven these critics to be right.

"The 13th Chair" is a play of mystery. Its central figure is Rosalie La-Grange, an aged spiritualistic trance medium. Summoned to a home whose occupants are strangers to her, she finds that one member of the dinner party plans to make use of her extraordinary powers to assist him in solving the mystery surrounding the recent murder of his friend. Rosalie conducts a seance in the dark, in which all of the guests take part. When the lights are thrown on, the inquisitive gentleman himself is found to have been murdered in exactly the manner in which his friend was done to death. Every door and window of the room has been locked, and it is absolutely certain that no one has been able to enter or leave during the progress of the seance. It is the working out of this second crime mystery which provides the story of the play, and in doing so furnishes thrills too numerous to be counted.

IS BEHIND

"Yes," replied witness. "It was the day J. P. Bickell, chief clerk of the Motor-Vehicles Branch came to my office. Mr. Bickell informed me that he had sent me a registered letter in which he claimed irregularities in the conduct of the licenses. Knapman withheld that letter till Bickell came."

Remittances Behind.

Witness said that reports of business had been made but no remittances made to cover them, and also that there was money in the safe that should have been in the bank. Knapman made explanation to Bickell who was satisfied and he returned to Toronto. Knapman had stated that there was not sufficient money in the bank to cover the reports, but that the money would be provided.

"I asked Knapman to explain the condition of affairs and asked him how much money was in the safe," continued the witness. He said 'about $600 was in the safe.' I did not ask him why it was not in the bank. I said if only $600 was in the bank he couldn't meet the obligations and he answered he knew that, and that he had dreaded the day when Mr. Bickell would come, as he was nearly crazy and had not slept for three weeks.

"I said 'here does the shortage exist?' [illegible] statement of Bickell's correct [illegible] it is correct where is the money. He said he didn't know; he couldn't understand. He added 'you know there was some money used in the cartage business' and I replied: you're the bookkeeper, [illegible] it in the books and how much is it. He said he couldn't tell, I never knew of money being diverted to the cartage business.

The case is proceeding.

HALIFAX DEAD NOW NUMBER 2000

BISHOP FALLON APPEALS TO ALL CATHOLICS TO VOTE FOR UNION

Says the Great Issue is the War and There Must be no Slackening of Effort—Sympathy Wasted on Quebec.

London, Ont., Dec. 7.—The following is part of a statement issued to the press last night by his Lordship the Right Rev. M. J. Fallon, Bishop of London:

"I am profoundly convinced that what everyone concedes to be a crisis in the world's history has become, by reason of our war-time election, a national crisis in the history of Canada. Therefore, despite the misunderstanding or misrepresentation to which this expression of my view is certain to expose me, I feel it an obligation of conscience and a duty of citizenship to make plain my own personal position, and to influence, so far as my words may influence, those who have any confidence in my deliberate judgment.

"It is no exaggeration to say that the eyes of the world are fixed on Canada today, and that the ears of the world are listening for the message which will be voiced by the Canadian people on the 17th of December next. Nor, when we call to mind the part that Canada has played in the great war, is it surprising that the anxious attention of the world should be directed to that momentous decision which this country will then be called upon to make.

Proportions in Canada.

"In Ontario under the voluntary system the proportion of Catholics enlisted is nearly 10 per cent. higher than that of the largest Protestant denomination in the Province. In Nova Scotia the Catholic voluntary enlistment reaches the extraordinary proportion of 47 per cent. of the whole. I have seen no analysis of the official figures for the other English Provinces, but I am absolutely certain that it would show that Catholics have everywhere done their full duty.

"The purpose of the foregoing digression will become obvious in a moment.

"Under voluntary enlistment Quebec has fallen far behind the other Provinces. Some who speak for Quebec offer explanations for this state of things; others neither deny it nor apologize for it. I am concerned neither with the one nor with the other. What does concern me is that resentment against the Province of Quebec has led to indiscriminate charges against the Catholics of Canada, and the regrettable racial division threatens to cause another and more dangerous cleavage along religious lines.

"And I ask my fellow-Catholics not to be misled either by mistaken sympathy with a Province whose religion must not be confounded with its politics, nor by natural resentment at any insults based on such confusion.

"In the isolation of Quebec we are told there is danger to Canada. I admit it. But the isolation of Quebec is of her own choosing. It will have to cure itself. There is graver danger in needlessly confusing religion with a question purely racial. To avert this graver danger I appeal to my fellow-countrymen, Protestant and Catholic alike.

Not Race or Religion.

"The great issue in the forthcoming election is neither racial nor religious. It is the vital question of the hour and of the age, the question of the war. Some openly say that Canada has done enough; that she has done too much. Canada has done much—too much, if you will. It is precisely because she has done so much that she must not falter now. The military value of the aid which we are asked to send is great; refusal to send it would be a misfortune; but far and away greater than any purely military consideration would be the disastrous moral and political effect of such refusal. Better we had done too little, or that we had done nothing, than now to commit 'the crime of slackening in our purpose.'

Appeals for Support of Government.

"For the reasons here outlined or indicated, I make the definite and unequivocal appeal to my fellow-countrymen of the Catholic faith to support the Union Government and the cause for which that Union was effected. And I make this appeal fully conscious of the vile and indefensible anti-Catholic propaganda that certain supporters of Union Government are conducting in its name; for I am confident, if Catholics do not play into their hands, that the bigots will in the long run injure no one but themselves. Let us meet sectarian malevolence with Catholic good-will. To slanders, the conduct and numbers of our Catholic soldiers offer a definite and concrete refutation. Be ours the duty and the privilege of worthily supporting them at the polls.

"(Signed) M. F. FALLON,
"Bishop of London."

POLICE MAKE ANOTHER MOVE AND ARREST F. J. SQUIRE OF HAVELOCK

Charge is Perjury and Bail of $2000 is Accepted.

F. J. Squire, of Havelock, chairman of the Military Service Tribunal there, and who gave evidence before the fire marshal's investigation into the recent mysterious fires at Havelock, was placed under arrest at the police station late yesterday afternoon. He came to this city on the afternoon express.

Squire is charged with perjury, it being alleged that he made a false statement in his claim for fire insurance when he gave evidence at the investigation.

It is understood that Squire made a signed statement to Detective Newhall, who, with Police Chief Thompson, has been working on the case.

Squire was admitted to bail of $2000, and will appear before Magistrate Dumble on December 13.

U. S. RED CROSS IS SENDING AID

HELP CAME FROM AMERICA BEFORE REQUESTS WERE RECEIVED.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Dec. 7.—The American Red Cross officials here today awaited the details of the Halifax catastrophe, prepared to send additional relief to that despatched by special trains from Boston and New York last night without a formal call for assistance from Canada. Word reaching the Navy Department early today that the dead might reach five thousand caused efforts to meet the situation to be redoubled.

Indians and half-breeds in Alberta, instead of asking for exemption from the tribunals, were eager to be accepted for service.

HEAVY STORM ADDS TO HORRORS OF SCENES OF DEATH AND RUIN IN WAKE OF HALIFAX DISASTER

Wintry Winds and Falling Snow Invade Houses That Were Damaged---All Residences Without Doors or Windows---Relief Parties at Work---Neighboring Cities Send Aid.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 7.—Following in the wake of death and destruction in this city yesterday a heavy snowstorm set in early this morning, adding to the discomfort of the homeless and impeding the work of the rescuers. Fires are still burning in the devastated area, and the fire department is still at work. The fall of snow, however, will assist them in subduing the fires in the ruins.

The devastated area extends from North street to Africville on the shores of the Bedford basin, about two miles, and from the waterfront west to Gottingen street, about three-quarters of a mile.

Special trains from Moncton, Truro and Windsor have arrived here, bringing doctors, nurses and medical supplies. Special trains with the injured have also been sent to Windsor and other points where there are large hospitals. Business is still suspended and will be for days. All schools and colleges in the city have been closed, and will not reopen until after New Year's.

There is wreck and ruin on every side. There is not a building in the city that did not suffer from damage. All are without glass, the plaster is down and the windows and doors shattered. On every side carpenters and property owners are boarding up their premises to keep out the storm. All power plants are still idle.

No new estimate of the dead and injured was available this morning. Bluejackets from an American warship in port did patrol duty on all the streets of the city last night.

WAR HAS TOUCHED STRICKEN CITY.

Halifax, Dec. 7.—The war has touched Halifax. Sorrow and anguish are left in its trail. Where only a few hours ago the most prosperous city in Canada stood secure in her own defences, unafraid and almost apathetic, there are now heaps of ruins. No one can yet estimate the loss of life and property, and words fail to describe the mental anguish of those who have lost home and dear ones by one cruel stroke. The busy and thriving north end from the sugar refinery to Creighton's Corner is just one mass of broken, splintered timbers, of powdered brick and stones, and human bodies crushed to pulp or charred and blackened by fire.

Although the collision of ships is believed to have been purely accidental, it was nevertheless due to and caused by conditions which the war created. The crash came as suddenly and unexpectedly as Zeppelin bombs have fallen upon undefended English towns, and the effect has been the same.

WAR VETERANS ARE DISGUSTED

Speakers for Laurier Both Unfair and Un-British

The Great War Veterans' Association at Lindsay are up in arms to protest against the tone of the addresses delivered at a meeting in Lindsay in support of the Laurierite candidate. The following letter from the Veterans was published in the Lindsay newspapers:

On behalf of the Lindsay Branch of the Great War Veterans' Association we wish to publicly express our disapproval and disgust at the tone of last night's meeting at the Academy.

It is seldom that the courtesy of an invitation to a public meeting is not extended to returned men, but in view of the attitude of most of the speakers, we are pleased that we were not obliged to sit on the same platform with those so absolutely unfair and un-British as the majority of the speakers proved themselves to be last night.

We sincerely hope that the hopes and sublime confidence of our comrades from Victoria and Haliburton now in the trenches will not be shattered or their visions marred through their receiving the report of last night's meeting.

The witnesses were W. H. Lytle, W. R. Morris, chartered accountant, J. P. Bickell, R. H. Fortye and David Fleming.

This afternoon the preliminary hearing of another charge of theft was opened. Ten charges in all were laid.

In view of the fact that the Navy League has this year intrusted the work of making the annual collection for the wives and children of the sailors of our Empire, to the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, throughout Canada, the Regents of the local chapters desire to make a strong appeal to the public for a generous contribution to this cause. The 8th of December has been set apart as "Sailor's Day" and it is hoped that many will remember the dependents of the brave men who are so wonderfully serving the Empire.

Confusion Over Whistles Blamed

THAT IS GIVEN AS THE CAUSE OF THE DISASTER AT HALIFAX.

Halifax, Dec. 7. — Pilot Frank Mackie, who was on the munition ship, declares that the accident was due to a confusion of whistles, sounded by the Belgian relief steamer.

In addition to her cargo of munitions, the Mont Blanc carried a deckload of benzine, and this caught fire, following the explosion.

The captain of the Mont Blanc ordered his crew to take to the boats. The men hastily left the ship in two boats and rowed for the Halifax side of the harbor, which they reached in saftey.

The men ran for refuge, as they felt that an explosion was inevitable. Twenty minutes later the explosion occurred, and the men were hurled flat on the ground.

CALL FOR AID.

The catastrophe at Halifax yesterday has brought anxiety to many homes in Peterborough. A number of Peterborough people were known to be in the stricken city yesterday, and there are others who had relatives living there. Mrs. Geo. Helson, Bethune street, had relatives in Halifax whose homes were in the devastated zone where death and injuries were caused by the explosion on the munitions ship and the fires which followed. No word has as yet been received from them.

Frank Pigeon, a former employe of Matthews-Blackwell, Limited, was a member of the crew of the Niobe. A report states that two of the crew were killed.

Keir Sturgeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Sturgeon, Bethune street, sent a telegram on Wednesday that he was still in Halifax, and no further word has reached his parents. H was a member of the 74th Battery.

Miss Eastwood Safe.

Her friends in Peterborough need have no concern for the safety of Miss Pearl Eastwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Eastwood, George street, as Mr. Eastwood received a wire from his daughter last night that she was still in Toronto and would not leave there till Thursday next. Miss Eastwood will then proceed to the east along with other nurses en route overseas.

Lawrence Maguire, son of Mrs. A. S. Maguire, McDonnel street, has come through the terrible ordeal with only a few scratches and bruises. This word was received by his mother last night.

Appeal for Aid.

Mayor Duffus today received a telegram from Mayor Church of Toronto stating that Halifax was badly in need of glass, beaver board, putty, tar paper, bedding and blankets, and asking that Peterborough lend assistance. Mayor Duffus is taking up the matter this afternoon and Council will meet tonight at 9 o'clock to take definite action.

VAIN TRICKS AND DARK WAYS

There are election workers busy among the voters these days who seem to consider the end in view justifies any means that may be employed. The new women voters are their especial pery.

Yesterday a member of this gentry called at a house where two women will have the right to vote on December 17. He solicited their support on behalf of Mr. Hall. The women told him that they had relatives in the trenches, and would vote just as their soldier friends would have them, for the Union Government and no one else.

Suddenly the foxy election agent became magnanimous and declared that everybody had a right to vote just as he or she pleased. Everything considered, he did not know but what the women were right, and he volunteered to see them through. Drawing up the form of a ballot, something the women had never seen, he told them to put a cross opposite the name of Mr. Hall. This, he assured them, would eliminate Mr. Hall from the running and result in the counting of the ballot for Union Government. He was so suave, so apparently sincere, that the women believed him and agreed to follow his instructions.

The agent of Laurierism had scarcely got clear of the premises when two representatives of the Women's Union League called, and the plot was revealed. It is needless to say that the two women in question will mark their ballots for Union Government, and mark them, too, so that there will be no mistake as to their intention.

The wily Laurier agent has probably worked his little scheme in other places. Let all beware of his tricks.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1917

A CANDIDATE'S NIGHTMARE.

MR. HALL APPEARS to be losing sleep over the fear that Quebec will not be required to do its full duty in the war, even under the operation of the Military Service Bill, any more than it did when the matter of enlisting was left to every individual's sense of duty. With the marvelous facility for manipulating figures for which he is noted, Mr. Hall makes it appear that Quebec will give less than 5,000 of the 100,000 draft required. Shades of Wolfe and all the other martyred military heroes in British history, picture it, think of it!

Mr. Hall would do well to possess his soaring spirits in patience. Quebec's chances to shirk her duty are past. The Military Service Bill that the Laurier candidate in West Peterborough so bitterly assails will take care of that. The burden is to be equalized among the provinces. Sir Robert Borden has passed his word that the Act is to be fairly and impartially enforced, and Sir Robert has a habit of doing as he says.

Quebec will be able to shirk further only in the highly improbable event of Mr. Hall and his crowd getting the upper hand in the management of the war. The Military Service Bill will be given a quiet resting place on the shelf with Sir Wilfrid's Canadian paper navy, his militia law and kindred measures. In a word, if Mr. Hall is really alarmed at the outlook in the French province, then he has nothing to dread quite so much as the success of himself and his party.

PASSING ACTS.

"SIR WILFRID LAURIER passed one Act to build a Canadian navy," remarks The Examiner in reminiscent mood.

He did. Passing acts became a fixed habit with Sir Wilfrid when he was Premier. Enforcing them when it came to the test was another matter. Sir Wilfrid's navy never got beyond the paper stage, never was called to venture from the smooth harbor waters of the archives at Ottawa. A paper navy is of little use in this war, save as a political memory for our contemporary.

Another Act passed by Sir Wilfrid was the Compulsory Militia Act in 1904. So long as the country was at peace, it did all right as a reference. When the time came to set it in operation, Sir Wilfrid frankly repudiated the principle that he had embodied in an Act of Parliament.

Passing legislative measures is all right, provided the laws are given effect when the necessity for them arises.

HERE TODAY, THERE TOMORROW.

IT IS A HARD MATTER these days to follow the movements of the agile and versatile Mr. G. N. Gordon. First he is located at a Unionist meeting, bravely talking for conscription. Again he is found speaking a word in favor of the Laurier candidate in East Peterborough. One night finds him posing as the friend of the soldiers. Twenty-four hours later he is pleading the cause of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. How he can reconcile all these various attitudes is a mystery, but perhaps he is easy in his own mind concerning them. One thing is certain, the soldiers of Canada are not looking for aid and comfort from Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers. They are not likely, either, to take kindly to any attempts that may be made by clever politicians to divert them from the path of duty, clear as it lies before them. The veterans are not putty men, plastic in the hands of the campaigner. They can think and act in this matter for themselves.

Mr. Gordon has another trump card which he plays when he assumes the role of the friend of Labor, the horny-handed champion of the workingmen. His mission in the present campaign seems to be to swing the soldier vote, the labor vote and the women's vote to the support of Mr. Hall. He appeared in a new role Wednesday evening when he attempted to instruct the new women voters in the mysteries of political questions.

Mr. Gordon had an excellent chance to perform a real missionary service. The minds of his hearers were unbiased. The soil was new. They were in receptive mood, anxious to learn. It is really too bad that any man should attempt to lead them into error.

How could Mr. Gordon, for instance, have the heart to tell the women the other night that Sir Robert Borden had deprived the greater number of them of the franchise, something that they had never possessed? Mr. Gordon knows that the Act conferring the provincial franchise upon the women of Ontario did not give them the right to vote at Federal elections unless the Dominion Parliament conferred that right by special legislation. Proceeding further, Mr. Gordon spoke of the dishonesty of the enumerators, and otherwise led the ladies ot believe that they were the victims of all sorts of political chicanery.

All will agree with Mr. Gordon that it is the duty of the women of Canada, standing as they are on the threshold of universal suffrage, to post themselves on the public questions of the day. They should, however, exercise some care in the selection of their teachers. The man or woman who is led into error is perhaps in worse case than the one who is permitted to remain in primeval intellectual darkness.

It is to be regretted that Mr. Gordon shifts from pillar to post as he does. With his ability, his energy and his ambition he could really accomplish something if he would consent o confine himself to one line of endeavor. Even Balaam's long-suffering quadruped could not be over-persuaded to follow the road which its instincts warned it to avoid for its own safety.

FARMERS AND THE DRAFT.

THE EXAMINER makes a brave attempt to show that the appointment of Warden Brown to see that the farmers get a square deal in the enforcement of the Military Act is really a move to nullify the law, or at least to give the farmers all the best of it as against the manufacturers. Nothing could be further from the facts.

Ever since conscription was first proposed it has been made plain that all men required to cultivate the farms were to be left at home. The same exemption was to be applied to men engaged in essential lines of manufacture.

The members of the exemption tribunals were new to their work, and did not in all cases interpret the law correctly. Warden Brown is appointed to correct errors, not to upset the workings of the Act. The industry most essential of all to the success of the war is agriculture. It is only right that the farmers be first dealt with. The manufacturers, too, will be fairly treated.

The Examiner says that if farmers and manufacturers are exempted to the extent proposed, it will be impossible to find the 100,000 men required. Why worry? If our contemporary will look around it can see plenty of men who are not engaged in indispensable pursuits.

MISS LAURA HUGHES.

MISS LAURA HUGHES of Toronto was advertised as the star attraction at the meeting of the Liberal women voters Wednesday night. She failed to appear, however, and the meeting proceeded without her.

Miss Hughes was one of the party who went with Henry Ford to Europe two years ago to attempt to persuade the men to quit fighting and so bring about peace at once. After her return she wore the badge of the "peace" party, wore it when she came to this city to speak a year ago. Her views on the war are well known. Being willing to quit, she is in accord with the party with which she has associated herself. Miss Hughes has a vote, as a number of her relatives are at the front, one of her brothers having been killed in action.

GERMANY'S LAST THROW.

ARTHUR POLLEN, the well-known naval critic, says that this war will end up with the greatest naval battle the world has ever seen.

This has been looked for from the beginning. If Germany is defeated on land, another throw of the dice is left her, a combat with the British fleet. It would be her one last chance. The Germans, even if they lost in a trial of strength at sea, would be no worse off than if they had kept their war craft in safety. The fleet would be taken from them in any case by the victims. In a conflict, they would have a gambler's chance to win without the gambler's risk to emerge any the poorer from the conflict.

The predicted battle will be frightful in its intensity. The outcome is not hard to forecast, for let the opposing fleets sink boat for boat of each other's navy, and the balance will still be in favor of the British. Still, the destruction of property will be appalling and men on both sides will go to their death by the thousands.

With the Germans human life is cheap. And better a fleet, they will reason, at the bottom of the sea than in the hands of their conquerors.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

Are We Quitters?

(Toronto Saturday Night.)

If we fail to meet and discharge our further obligations in respect to this war, as we surely will if union government is defeated, Canada's name will be handed down to posterity as the home of the race of "quitters."

Declare War On All!

(New York Tribune.)

When Congress meets it should declare war on Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey. Only evil can result from the perpetuation of the shallow fiction that we are still at peace with these countries. We cannot be at war with them in any real sense so long as we are at war with Germany. Politically, as well as from the military point of view, they have become German vassals. All their war resources have been appropriated by Germany. Even their diplomacy is directed from Berlin.

A WORD TO THE WOMEN

Women of Canada, give ear,
  Now is the fateful day,
When ye the Nation's destiny
  For weal or woe may sway.
I charge you well, my sisters all,
  Or mother, daughter, wife,
As ye hold dear your freedom, faith,
  Home, country, kindred, life,

And for the sake of the sweet babes
  Ye love with tenderest care,
And by the glorious heritage
  Of Liberty we share,—
That wisely well ye wield the power
  Which husband, brother, son,
For you in peril, toil, and pain,
  By limb or life has won.

Forbid it, Heaven, that purblind, weak,
  To patriot honor lost,
Ye use amiss the sacred right
  Ye own at such a cost;
And thus the confidence and hope
  Of our brave boys betray,
Their high, unselfish sacrifice,
  With perfidy repay.

Avaunt the thought, unworthy, ne'er
  Our proud, untarnished name,
Canadian women will besmirch
  By traitorous deed of shame.
True to our gallant lads they'll stand,
  Lest it be but in vain
Upon the crimson fields of France
  Their blood they freely drain.

On you, enfranchised, must depend
  Issues of ponderous weight;
Aye, one misguided step may seal
  Your own, your country's fate.
Be firm; the world with bated breath
  Holds you in limelight view,
And well the Kaiser knows his doom
  In balance hangs with you.

Hark! from the dreary trenches comes,
  For aid, a mighty call.
Refuse it, and forever be
  The Teuton tyrant's thrall.
Then let every name recorded stand
  For all that patriots prize,
And show the world to win the war
  Ye grudge no sacrifice.

UNION SENTIMENT IN THE WEST

(Saskatoon Star.)

Thirty thousand Canadians—real Canadians—have laid down their lives in the cause in which this country of ours is engaged.

December 17th the rest of us vote to stay with the fight—or quit.

If they died for a country worthy of them, worthy of their lives, worthy of their sacrifices, there is no doubt what the verdict will be.

If the country wants to quit, it has that privilege. But, God knows, we will have to hang our heads in shame; yes, and generations still unborn.

To be a Canadian now, we have been assured by world-famous men of other nations, is to be of the elect of the earth.

That is the honor our fighting men have won for us.

To be a Canadian, if we vote to quit, will be—what? We haven't even the excuse of the Russian Bolsheviki. We have not been brought up in ignorance and oppression.

Canada doesn't want to quit. Canada won't vote to quit, if the issue is made clear and distinct to every mind.

We have our pacifists, our slackers, our shadow-Huns, and, worst of all, our political slackers. They'll vote to quit. But they can't win if the issue is made clear to everyone. There are enough decent, God-fearing, liberty-loving, red-blooded Canadians to carry the day—if they can be made to realize what the issue is.

The world is watching. Australia, with a conscription referendum coming near, is watching. Britain, the grey old Motherland, never so brave, never so fighting-strong as today, is watching. America, whose admiration of Canadian accomplishments in war has known no bounds, is watching. France is watching.

Germany is watching, too. There will be joy in Potsdam if Canada votes to quit.

To make the issue clear, to drive it home to the mind of every voter—that is the big task. That is the task upon which awakened Canadians must engage at once.

The election of the Union Government on December 17th means that Canada will get into the war with renewed energy, with greater strength than ever before.

The defeat of the Union Government means that Canada will quit—just as definitely, just as directly, as Russia has quit.

Make it known! Do your part to see that no one votes under any misunderstanding! That's the duty of the hour!

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE BOYS IN THE TRENCHES.

Editor Review: Kindly allow me space in your paper to answer "A Woman in East City."

The trend of her whole letter seems to portray what I am glad to say does not exist generally amongst the women of Peterborough—gross ignorance. In addition, she does not seem to realise the great human principle of unselfishness and a desire to help others. If she did, she would surely appreciate the sacrifice our boys have made and are making at the front, and would not publicly denounce our women for endeavoring to see that our boys get justice, and to see that the fair name of Canada remains as untainted and great as our boys have made it. Many of these women, let me say, have felt only too keenly the horror of warfare, and would they not be base slackers did they not do all in their power to see that the fight so nobly fought by their dear ones, was honorably continued. This is why these women "are going from house to house with their book and pencil," because they have hearts that go out to Flanders and France, and which are not held in the confines of a selfish, narrow, everyday existence.

SPORTING NOTES

CHAS. WEEGHMAN, president of the Chicago Cubs, is of the same opinion as Garry Hermann that the player limit in the National League should be reduced to eighteen men next season.

CORONER P. J. Byrne's inquest into the death of "El Paso" Jimmy Wilson, who died at Cleveland from a fractured skull, owing to a match with "Whitey" Wenzel, of Pittsburg, last week, developed that all precautions against accident had been taken, and that Wenzel was in no way to blame.

BARNEY DREYFUSS has a new form of world's series. He would have the National and American League teams play a series of home-and-home games. The plan is identical with that which was arranged between the International and the American Association last season.

GEORGE SISLER, the St. Louis Browns' star player, has intimated that he may volunteer his services to Uncle Sam.

BENNY LEONARD, lightweight champion, knocked out Gene Delmont, of Memphis, Tenn., at St. Paul in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. It was the first time Delmont was ever knocked out.

JIMMY SHELVIN, club promoter, of Cincinnati, has offered $20,000 for a bout between Freddie Welsh and Benny Leonard.

Inheritance Tax Argument

Inheritance taxes are very heavy. Unlike Fire hazard, they are not merely possible, they are absolutely certain.

They deplete your estate at once, and to your heirs represent a specific and definite loss of money.

In New York a $250,000 estate would pay a combined federal and state tax of about $12,000. If left to a friend or distant relative, about $22,000. The John Jacob Astor estate paid $3,150,000. J. P. Morgan has insured his life for $2,500,000 to cover a similar loss.

Thus the estate is provided promptly with the ready cash to pay this tax and other expenses without the need of hurriedly disposing of securities or other assets, perhaps at a loss, to meet such needs. The logic of the situation urges immediate action. Premium rates, however, low, advance with age, and so does the possibility of entering the physically impaired group and losing the opportunity to secure this protection.

Knowing that this loss is actually coming, it is simply a matter of ordinary business prudence to guard against it. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada offer you a plan to do so at very low cost.

CHARLEY WHITE, the Chicago lightweight, has been ordered to Camp Custer at Battle Creek, Mich., to become boxing instructor.

Irish Patsy Cline of New York knocked out Jimmy Paul, of the same city, after one minute and 30 seconds of fighting at Providence on Wednesday night.

THE O. H. A. clubs have started to get in line. Entries were received today from Belleville in the intermediate and junior, Cobourg in the junior, Markdale in the junior, Depot Batteries of Kingston in the intermediate series, and Whitby in the intermediate.

JIMMY FREEMAN, the former Cobourg boy, who played one season in Preston and last year for Brantford, is still in the latter city. As Brantford is only likely to be represented in the Junior O. H. A. this winter, Freeman will be out of the game, unless he enlists with a battalion in another town. He would be a valuable player for any team.

Kerensky and Napoleon.

Kerensky has unquestionably developed powers of assimilation, intuition, and decision which even those most closely associated with him in his earlier life had never suspected. When he was appointed Minister for War he shut himself up in his room, having given orders that he was on no pretext to be disturbed, and for twenty-four hours at a stretch tore the essential facts out of a mass of military manuals. Emerging from his seclusion on the following day, he remarked to one of the members of his family, "Now, it seems, I know a little about it and can leave for the front."

This recalls that power of Napoleon—almost as remarkable as his specifically military genius—to absorb within a few hours off the main features of a complex and unfamiliar problem and at once to supply the best solution of it. It should be remembered that till Kerensky became Minister for War the army was an absolutely unknown field to him. He had not even served the usual term in the ranks. And yet he had been only a few days on the visit to the front which followed his appointment, when General Brusiloff enthusiastically exlaimed: "Kerensky is the very man the Russian army needs."

"REVIZOR."

The Only Comedy of Russia Ever Written.

"Most Russian novels are steeped in pessimism, and their authors were men of sorrows. Gogol, however," Prof. William Lyon Phelps writes in "Essays on Russian Novelists," "has the double distinction of being the only great comic writer in the language, and in particular of being the author of the only Russian drama known all over the world, and still acted everywhere on the Continent. Although plays do not come within the scope of this book, a word or two should be said about this great comedy; for 'Revisor' exhibits clearly the double nature of the author—his genius for moral satire and his genius for pure fun. From the moral point of view, it is a terrible indictment against the most corrupt bureaucracy of modern times; from the comic point of view, it is an uproarious farce.

"The origin of the play is as follows: While traveling in Russia one day, Pushkin stopped at Nizhni-Novgorod. Here he was mistaken for a state functionary on tour among the provinces for purposes of government inspection. This amused the poet so keenly that he narrated all the circumstances to Gogol, and suggested that the latter make a play with his experience as the basis of the plot. Gogol not only acted on the suggestion, but instead of a mere farce, he produced a comedy of manners. Toward the end of his life he wrote: 'In "Revizor" I tried to gather in one heap all that was bad in Russia, as I then understood it: I wished to turn it all into ridicule. The real impression produced was that of fear. Through the laughter that I have never laughed more loudly, the spectator feels my bitterness and sorrow.' The drama was finished on the 4th December, 1835, and of course the immediate difficulty was the censorship. How would it be possible for such a satire either to be printed or acted in Russia? Gogol's friend, Mme. Smirnova, carried the manuscript to the Czar, Nickolas I. It was read to him; he roared with laughter, and immediately ordered that it be acted. We may note also that he became a warm friend of Gogol, and sent sums of money to him, saying nobly, 'Don't let him know the source of these gifts; for then he might feel obliged to write from the official point of view.'

"The first performance was on the 19th of April, 1836. The Czar attended in person, and applauded vigorously. The success was immediate, and it has never quitted the stage. Gogol wrote to a friend: 'On the opening night I felt uncomfortable from the very first as I sat in the theatre. Anxiety for the approval of the audience did not trouble me. There was only one critic in the house—myself—that I feared. I heard clamorous objections within me which drowned all else. However, the public, as a whole, was satisfied. Half of the audience praised the play, the other half condemned it, but not on artistic grounds.'

"'Revizor' is one of the best-constructed comedies in any language; for not only has it a unified and well-ordered plot, but it does not stop with the final fall of the curtain. Most plays, by attempting to finish up the story with smooth edges, leave an impression of artificiality and unreality for life is not done up in neat parcels. The greatest dramas do not solve problems for us, they supply us with questions. In 'Revizor,' at the last dumb scene, after all the mirth, the real trouble is about to begin; and the spectators depart, not merely with the delightful memory of an evening's entertainment, but with their imagination aflame. Furthermore, 'Revizor' has that combination of the intensely local element with the universal, so characteristic of works of genius. Its avowed attempt was to satirise local and temporal abuses; but it is impossible to imagine any state of society in the near future where the play will not seem real. If Gogol had done nothing but write the best comedy in the Russian language, he would have his place in literature secure."

He—Be my partner for life.

Wife—Really! Then Ill leave it around when the bill arrives.

Traveller—How much is my bill

Clerk—What room?

Traveller—I slept on the billiard table.

Clerk—Fifty cents an hour.

"Listen to this, Maria," said Mr. Stubb, as he unfolded his scientific paper. "This article states that in some of the old Roman prisons that have been unearthed they found the petrified remains of the prisoners."

"Gracious, John," exclaimed Mrs. Stubb, "them's what they call hardened criminals, I expect."

Nell—I stepped in at a bargain sale today.

Belle—Did you see anything that looked cheap?

Nell—Yes; several men waiting for their wives.

Wife—What do you find so interesting in the paper, dear?

Husband—I was just looking at the money market.

Wife—Oh, do they have a money market? Are there ever any bargains?

"I'll attend to you in a minute," was the way her mother addressed Beth when she was to be punished. One day she sent the little girl to the store on an errand. She returned crying: "He was goin' to 'pank me, an' I wunned home."

"He wouldn't do that," said mother.

"'Es um would,' sobbed the child. "He kep' sellin' to odder folks, an' sayin' to me: 'I'll attend to you in a minute.'"

SPORTING NOTES

CHAS. WEEGHMAN, president of the Chicago Cubs, is of the same opinion as Garry Hermann that the player limit in the National League should be reduced to eighteen men next season.

CORONER P. J. Byrne's inquest into the death of "El Paso" Jimmy Wilson, who died at Cleveland from a fractured skull, owing to a match with "Whitey" Wenzel, of Pittsburg, last week, developed that all precautions against accident had been taken, and that Wenzel was in no way to blame.

BARNEY DREYFUSS has a new form of world's series. He would have the National and American League teams play a series of home-and-home games. The plan is identical with that which was arranged between the International and the American Association last season.

GEORGE SISLER, the St. Louis Browns' star player, has intimated that he may volunteer his services to Uncle Sam.

BENNY LEONARD, lightweight champion, knocked out Gene Delmont, of Memphis, Tenn., at St. Paul in the eighth round of a scheduled ten-round bout. It was the first time Delmont was ever knocked out.

JIMMY SHELVIN, club promoter, of Cincinnati, has offered $20,000 for a bout between Freddie Welsh and Benny Leonard.

Inheritance Tax Argument

Inheritance taxes are very heavy. Unlike Fire hazard, they are not merely possible, they are absolutely certain.

They deplete your estate at once, and to your heirs represent a specific and definite loss of money.

In New York a $250,000 estate would pay a combined federal and state tax of about $12,000. If left to a friend or distant relative, about $22,000. The John Jacob Astor estate paid $3,150,000. J. P. Morgan has insured his life for $2,500,000 to cover a similar loss.

Thus the estate is provided promptly with the ready cash to pay this tax and other expenses without the need of hurriedly disposing of securities or other assets, perhaps at a loss, to meet such needs. The logic of the situation urges immediate action. Premium rates, however, low, advance with age, and so does the possibility of entering the physically impaired group and losing the opportunity to secure this protection.

Knowing that this loss is actually coming, it is simply a matter of ordinary business prudence to guard against it. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada offer you a plan to do so at very low cost.

CHARLEY WHITE, the Chicago lightweight, has been ordered to Camp Custer at Battle Creek, Mich., to become boxing instructor.

Irish Patsy Cline of New York knocked out Jimmy Paul, of the same city, after one minute and 30 seconds of fighting at Providence on Wednesday night.

THE O. H. A. cubs have started to get in line. Entries were received today from Belleville in the intermediate and junior, Cobourg in the junior, Markdale in the junior, Depot Batteries of Kingston in the intermediate series, and Whitby in the intermediate.

JIMMY FREEMAN, the former Cobourg boy, who played one season in Preston and last year for Brantford, is still in the latter city. As Brantford is only likely to be represented in the Junior O. H. A. this winter, Freeman will be out of the game, unless he enlists with a battalion in another town. He would be a valuable player for any team.

Kerensky and Napoleon.

Kerensky has unquestionably developed powers of assimilation, intuition, and decision which even those most closely associated with him in his earlier life had never suspected. When he was appointed Minister for War he shut himself up in his room, having given orders that he was on no pretext to be disturbed, and for twenty-four hours at a stretch tore the essential facts out of a mass of military manuals. Emerging from his seclusion on the following day, he remarked to one of the members of his family, "Now, it seems, I know a little about it and can leave for the front."

This recalls that power of Napoleon—almost as remarkable as his specifically military genius—to absorb within a few hours off the main features of a complex and unfamiliar problem and at once to supply the best solution of it. It should be remembered that till Kerensky became Minister for War the army was an absolutely unknown field to him. He had not even served the usual term in the ranks. And yet he had been only a few days on the visit to the front which followed his appointment, when General Brusiloff enthusiastically exlaimed: "Kerensky is the very man the Russian army needs."

Wearing Paper Shirts.

According to recent dispatches from Berlin, German men both on and off the firing line are wearing shirts made of paper and wood pulp, owing to the scarcity of cloth. Thomas A. Edison thought of the paper shirt about 25 years ago and put it on the market.

UNIONISTS' HEADQUARTERS

The Central Information Bureau of Unionists, and Headquarters of the Unionist Candidate, Capt. The South Ward Committee Room, Routley's Store, corner Lake & Aylmer streets, is open every evening.

The North Ward Committee Room, Miss Griffith's Store, corner Smith and Water Streets, is open evenings.

"REVIZOR."

The Only Comedy of Russia Ever Written.

"Most Russian novels are steeped in pessimism, and their authors were men of sorrows. Gogol, however," Prof. William Lyon Phelps writes in "Essays on Russian Novelists," "has the double distinction of being the only great comic writer in the language, and in particular of being the author of the only Russian drama known all over the world, and still acted everywhere on the Continent. Although plays do not come within the scope of this book, a word or two should be said about this great comedy; for 'Revisor' exhibits clearly the double nature of the author—his genius for moral satire and his genius for pure fun. From the moral point of view, it is a terrible indictment against the most corrupt bureaucracy of modern times; from the comic point of view, it is an uproarious farce.

"The origin of the play is as follows: While traveling in Russia one day, Pushkin stopped at Nizhni-Novgorod. Here he was mistaken for a state functionary en tour among the provinces for purposes of government inspection. This amused the poet so keenly that he narrated all the circumstances to Gogol, and suggested that the latter make a play with his experience as the basis of the plot. Gogol not only acted on the suggestion, but instead of a mere farce, he produced a comedy of manners. Toward the end of his life he wrote: 'In "Revizor" I tried to gather in one heap all that was bad in Russia, as I then understood it; I wished to turn it all into ridicule. The real impression produced was that of fear. Through the laughter that I have never laughed more loudly, the spectator feels my bitterness and sorrow.' The drama was finished on the 4th December, 1835, and of course the immediate difficulty was the censorship. How would it be possible for such a satire either to be printed or acted in Russia? Gogol's friend, Mme. Smirnova, carried the manuscript to the Czar, Nicholas I. It was read to him; he roared with laughter, and immediately ordered that it be acted. We may note also that he became a warm friend of Gogol, and sent sums of money to him, saying nobly, 'Don't let him know the source of these gifts; for then he might feel obliged to write from the official point of view.'

"The first performance was on the 19th of April, 1836. The Czar attended in person, and applauded vigorously. The success was immediate, and it has never quitted the stage. Gogol wrote to a friend: 'On the opening night I felt uncomfortable from the very first as I sat in the theatre. Anxiety for the approval of the audience did not trouble me. There was only one critic in the house—myself—that I feared. I heard clamorous objections within me which drowned all else. However, the public, as a whole, was satisfied. Half of the audience praised the play, the other half condemned it, but not on artistic grounds.'

"'Revisor' is one of the best-constructed comedies in any language; for not only has it a unified and well-ordered plot, but it does not stop with the final fall of the curtain. Most plays, by attempting to finish up the story with smooth edges, leave an impression of artificiality and unreality for life is not done up in neat parcels. The greatest dramas do not solve problems for us, they supply us with questions. In "Revisor,' at the last dumb scene, after all the mirth, the real trouble is about to begin; and the spectators depart, not merely with the delightful memory of an evening's entertainment, but with their imagination aflame. Furthermore, 'Revisor' has that combination of the intensely local element with the universal, so characteristic of works of genius. Its avowed attempt was to satirise local and temporal abuses; but it is impossible to imagine any state of society in the near future where the play will not seem real. If Gogol had done nothing but write the best comedy in the Russian language, he would have his place in literature secure."

Wit and Wisdom

He—Be my partner for life.

She—I must have a controlling interest.

Teacher—If a farmer raises 1,700 bushels of wheat and sells it for $2.20 per bushel, what will he get?

Johnny—An automobile.

"I wish I had a baby brother to wheel in my go-cart, mamma," said small Elsie. "My dolls are always getting broke when it tips over."

They had come to the fruit course. She took a peach and bit into it.

"Cannibal!" he said to her.

"You, too!" she retorted.

He was eating a nut.

Husband—Every time I look at that new hat of yours I have to laugh.

Wife—Really! Then Ill leave it around when the bill arrives.

Traveller—How much is my bill

Clerk—What room?

Traveller—I slept on the billiard table.

Clerk—Fifty cents an hour.

"Listen to this, Maria," said Mr. Stubb, as he unfolded his scientific paper. "This article states that in some of the old Roman prisons that have been unearthed they found the petrified remains of the prisoners."

"Gracious, John," exclaimed Mrs. Stubb, "them's what they call hardened criminals, I expect."

Nell—I stepped in at a bargain sale today.

Belle—Did you see anything that looked cheap?

Nell—Yes; several men waiting for their wives.

Wife—What do you find so interesting in the paper, dear?

Husband—I was just looking at the money market.

Wife—Oh, do they have a money market? Are there ever any bargains?

"I'll attend to you in a minute," was the way her mother addressed Beth when she was to be punished. One day she sent the little girl to the store on an errand. She returned crying: "He was goin' to 'pank me, an' I wunned home."

"He wouldn't do that," said mother.

"'Es um would,' sobbed the child. "He kep' sellin' to odder folks, an' sayin' to me: 'I'll attend to you in a minute.'"

A girl's jealousy tickles a man's vanity during courtship, but after marriage—well, that's different.

FAILED TO PUT IN APPEARANCE AT TRIBUNAL

FREDERICK MORTON'S CLAIM IS DISALLOWED AND HE IS HELD.

Frederick Morton, who after having failed to appear before Judge Huycke's tribunal, was arrested on the street by a police officer, and in police court remanded by Mr. H. Rush, J.P., appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning and was remanded till Saturday. Morton says he went to the armories to be examined but owing to the rush of applicants did not appear before the Medical Board.

He did not offer any explanation for his non-appearance before the tribunal. His claim for exemption was disallowed by default.

THE CITY THAT IS DESOLATED

HALIFAX WAS A FLOURISHING SEAPORT WITH A POPULATION OF 47,000.

Halifax, capital of Nova Scotia, with a population of about 47,000, is substantially built on a peninsula, and has one of the finest and largest harbors in the world, navigable at all seasons, where steamers and sailing ships of many nations have been seen. There were before the war regular sailings for Europe, the West Indies, Boston, New York and coast ports.

Halifax is an important financial centre, enjoys a large foreign and domestic trade, and has many extensive commercial enterprises. To meet the ever increasing dimensions of ocean-going vessels and the vast expansion of Canadian trade, new docks and railway terminals, covering an area of over 200 acres, have been constructed.

Halifax, generally recognized as the key to the strategic situation in Canada and northwest Atlantic, has always been garrisoned by Canadian troops, and, with the fortifications at the Citadel, York Redoubt and McNab's Island, is regarded as practically impregnable.

Halifax has been the scene and is connected with more maritime events of world-wide interest than perhaps any other Atlantic port. Cook, Rodney, Nelson, Marryat, knew this harbor well. Here the "Shannon" and "Chesapeake" anchored after their historic duel. From here the "Tallahassee" escaped. Coming to more modern times, it was to Halifax that the survivors of the Titanic were brought, and where many of the victims are buried. At the outbreak of the greatest war of all times the huge Cunarder, the Mauretania, here took refuge, entering and leaving the harbor under her own steam and without any assistance from tugs, and the part Halifax has played since then is not permitted to be mentioned.

From its long association with the army and navy it is the most thoroughly English city on the continent. With the frequent visits of the men-of-war and the presence of the military, there is a life to the city peculiar to itself in this part of the world. There are many points of historic and scenic interest. The public gardens of Halifax are said to be the equal of any in America. The Northwest Arm, a charming inlet of the harbor, and Point Pleasant Park, are delightful places of recreation.

ESTIMATE DEAD TWO THOUSAND

CREWS OF VESSELS THAT COLLIDED ARE DETAINED FOR INVESTIGATION.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Halifax, Dec. 7. — The estimated dead by the police is two thousand. One thousand have been injured.

The crews of both vessels escaped and have been detained awaiting an investigation into the cause of the accident.

Twenty-five teams already loaded with bodies have arrived at the morgues. Forty were killed on one ship alone. A fire engine exploded, killing the fire chief and his deputy. Many children were killed in the schools. No soldiers were killed or injured. All returned soldiers had left the city. The property damage is enormous.

Government To Investigate.

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—The Minister of Marine and Fisheries has ordered a searching investigation of the collision between the two vessels.

The township of Stamford, near Niagara Falls, is after the Ontario Hydro Commission for more taxes on its property in the township.

PLEA FOR VOTE FROM DUGOUT AT FIGHTING FRONT

PTE. ROBT. FRANKLIN WANTS INDIANS GIVEN RIGHT TO VOTE IN FEDERAL ELECTIONS.

Chief Dan Whetung of Chemong Indian Reserve has received a letter from Pte. Robert Franklin, with the first Canadian Labor battalion in France, who has some interesting remarks to make on the question of giving the Indians the right to vote in the Dominion elections. Pte. Franklin enlisted in the 139th battalion at Cobourg in 1915, and went overseas, leaving behind him a wife and five small children. He is a brother-in-law of A. Whetung. His letter follows:

Somewhere in France,
November, 1917.

Chief Daniel Whetung:

Dear Friend: I saw an account of the Grand Council held at your Reserve, in the Peterborough paper and naturally was very much interested, I being an Ex-Chief of the Alnwick Tribe of Indians, and have had quite a lot of experience in connection with Indian affairs. We are all aware of the fact that there are a few among us that would abuse the privileges of the franchise but I could point to that same abuse among our esteemed brethren, the white man. I do not wish to cast any reflection on the race that brought us to our present state of civilization and now I believe we have proven to them our claim to citizenship, in volunteering to help defend our country. I understand by the Canadian papers that all who are on active service will receive the franchise, but I claim that since the Indians from Ontario have responded so well to the Nation's cause and to which a large number have paid the supreme sacrifice, and in addition the patriotic resolution of the Grand Council to uphold the Military Act, should prove that we should be given a vote in the Dominion election. The Indian Act, a book of laws was all right for the Indians in days gone by but we have given up our old ways, now we want to give up our old laws. You can quite understand how humiliating it is to be held as a ward of the Government and firmly believe it will prove to be a great advantage to our Indians of Ontario. I am writing this from a dugout behind the firing line and my companion is a Six Nation Indian from Brantford by the name of Jake Jakobs. Although we speak a different language he expresses the same views as I do. We can speak English good enough to understand one another so at night after our day's work is over we discuss the franchise question, while Fritz is dropping bombs on us. Wishing you every success in your educational campaign, I am as ever, your friend.

PTE. ROBERT FRANKLIN, 814584,
1st Can. Labor Batt., B.E.F.
France.

EAST AND WEST RIDINGS HOLD A JOINT MEETING AT LAKEFIELD

W. H. Johnston Condemns the Conscription Law as a Measure Designed to Spare Quebec---Mr. Hall and Dr. Munroe also Heard From.

A joint Liberal meeting was held in the Town Hall, Lakefield, last night presided over by Dr. Smith as chairman.

The large town hall was well filled and Liberals from both East and West Peterborough were there in large numbers to hear Mr. W. H. Johnston and Mr. R. R. Hall, the two Liberal candidates.

Mr Johnston in his opening remarks referred to the fact that he had received the unanimous nomination to contest the riding in the Liberal interest and to champion the rights of the common people who have to pay the taxes against the "big interests" such as the William Davies Co. headed by Sir Joseph Flavelle, who have made a profit out of food stuffs since the war began of upwards of five million dollars which would be sufficient to purchase the whole Townships of Otonabee, Smith, and Douro and still leave a surplus large enough to purchase the whole of Lakefield as well. This is only one of the big interests but it shows what a short time it will take to gobble up the whole country.

Mr. Johnston said that he was a farmer and knew how food production could be increased. He said that you cannot produce food by simply advising the farmers to produce more.

Unless the farmer is furnished with the necessary labor instead of it being taken away from him, the people must expect the quantity of food to become less and less and the price to become greater and greater.

If the people living in our cities and towns want to play into the hands of the grafter and the big interests who are discouraging food production and who are lining their pockets with millions of dollars then all they have got to do is to vote for the men that have increased the high cost of living.

Attacks Conscription.

In regard to the administration of the Military Service law no more rank injustice was ever committed against a free people.

Fancy every farmer and his family in the Province of Quebec being exempted from Military Service and the farmers from this County being conscripted in large numbers.

Fancy Sir Robert Borden taking 5000 men from the Province of Quebec and the remaining 95,000 from English speaking Canada, that is to say for every one man that is taken from the Province of Quebec nineteen men are taken from the English speaking provinces.

Are you going to vote for a Government that forces from the English speaking provinces our young men to throw up a job which gives them from $3.00 to $11 per day and force them to work for $1.10 a day and force their families down to living on a soldier's pittance?

Are you going to vote for a Government that will exempt French Canadians from military service and then give them the opportunity to come up to the Province of Ontario and receive the big wages that our own English boys are forced to give up?

This is what is actually taking place at the present time, and this is the rank injustice that Mr. Sexsmith and Mr. Burnham are trying to force down our throats.

"Mr. Sexsmith," said Mr. Johnston, "came to Havelock last spring and gave the farmers advice to produce potatoes, to grow wheat and to grow oats and barley and the farmers did so to the best of their ability But Mr. Sexsmith who has a farm of 250 acres of good land with a fine brick house and a fine barn upon it, let his own farm run idle last year.

He did not produce one pig, on his place, nor one calf nor one lamb. His total stock on the farm is one horse, and he did not produce enough on his farm to feed himself and his family and his horse for the winter.

Mr. Sexsmith knows that Great Britain requires food and by both precept and example he adopts a policy to starve Great Britain out.

Some insulting posters are plastered by Sir Robert Borden upon our boards, headed "Who would the Kaiser vote for?"

The Kaiser would vote for the prime minister who placed the Ross rifle in the hands of our Canadian boys which he knew would jam and become a useless weapon in their hands and would open a breach five miles wide through which the Germans could march on to Calais.

The Kaiser would vote for the government that permitted Canadian nickle to find its way into Germany to be used to shoot down our own Canadian boys and to build submarines that could be used to sink British vessels.

The Kaiser would vote for Sir Robert Borden and Sir Joseph Flavelle and the big interests who would force our common people to pay high prices for food stuffs and to live on inferior food stuffs.

Dr. Munroe was called on. He said, "I am a Scotchman, and was born on the British Islands. I do not like humbug. Before calling the Liberal convention I found out that Mr. Sexsmith said he had the endorsation of Sir Robert Borden and I found out that this so called Union Government was not a real Union of parties but was simply a hollow pretense.

Sir Robert Borden has been prime minister for six years and is still the Premier of Canada and he organized this so called Union Government to cover up the misdeeds of a moribund Government. Such being the case I approved of our executive calling a convention and placing a straight opponent of Mr. Sexsmith in the field.

Mr. R. R. Hall also spoke at length:

"Who is Sir Joseph Flavelle going to vote for in this election?" said Mr. Hall.

"He will vote to keep Sir Robert Borden in power.

Are the farmers and working men going to vote on the same side as Sir Joseph Flavelle or are they going to vote in the opposite way?

GIRLS! ACT NOW! HAIR COMING OUT MEANS DANDRUFF

"DANDERINE" WILL SAVE YOUR HAIR AND DOUBLE ITS BEAUTY AT ONCE.

TRY THIS! YOUR HAIR GETS SOFT, WAVY, ABUNDANT AND GLOSSY AT ONCE.

Save your hair! Beautify it! It is only a matter of using a little Danderine occasionally to have a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, wavy and free from dandruff. It is easy and inexpensive to have pretty, charming hair and lots of it. Just spend a few cents for a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance; freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will, you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

PRICE OF POTATOES.

Food Controller Cannot Fix It This Season.

A letter issued from the office of the Food Controller at Ottawa says in part:

"It is very doubtful if the Food Controller will attempt to fix an arbitrary price on potatoes for this season anyway. Before this may be done with any degree of justice potato grades must be established and the approximate cost of production, which varies in the different Provinces, determined. This committee is giving every earnest attention to the potato situation and expects to have a plan in operation in the very near future, which will do much to control the situation in coming seasons.

JUSTICE DUFF DECIDES FIRST APPEAL CASE

Exempts Farmer's Son Whose Services Are Needed at Home.

GIVES REASONS IN DETAIL

Farm Work Is Essential in Order To Sustain the Allies.

Ottawa, Dec. 7.—Hon. Mr. Justice Duff has given judgment in the first test case brought before him, a Central Appeal Judge, for the exemption of a farmer. The appeal was made by W. H. Rowntree in respect of his son, W. J. Rowntree, from the decision of Local Tribunal, Ontario, No. 421, which refused a claim for exemption. The son was stated to be an experienced farm hand who had been working on the farm continuously for the past seven years and ever since leaving school. He lives and works with his father, who owns a farm of 150 acres near Weston, Ontario. With the exception of a young brother, he is the only male help of the father on the farm. The father is a man of advanced years.

In granting the man exemption "until he ceases to be employed in agricultural labor," Mr. Justice Duff said:

"The Military Service Act does not deal with the subject of the exemption of persons engaged in the agricultural industry; and the question which it is my duty to decide is whether the applicant being and having been, as above mentioned, habitually and effectively engaged in agriculture and in labor essential to the carrying on of agricultural production, ought to be exempted under the provisions of the Military Service Act.

"These two propositions are indisputable:

"(1) In order that the military power of the allies may be adequately sustained, it is essential that in this country and under present conditions, there should be no diminution in agricultural production.

"(2) The supply of competent labor available for the purpose of agricultural production is not abundant but actually is deficient.

"The proper conclusion appears to be that the applicant, a competent person, who had been habitually and effectively engaged in labor essential to such production, ought not to be withdrawn from it.

"It is perhaps unnecessary to say that such exemptions are not granted as concessions on account of personal hardship, still less as a favor to a class. The sole ground of them is that the national interest is the better served by keeping these men at home. The supreme necessity (upon the existence of which, as its preamble shows, this policy of the Military Service Act is founded) that leads the State to take men by compulsion and put them in the fighting line requires that men shall be kept at home, who are engaged in work essential to enable the State to maintain the full efficiency of the combatant forces, and whose places cannot be taken by others not within the class called out."

BOARD OF APPEAL TO BEGIN SESSIONS TONIGHT

The Court of Appeal, to correct errors and omissions in the new voters' list, will hold its first session in the Council chamber tonight. The members of the court are Judge Huycke, chairman, Sheriff Hall, George J. Sherry and Crown Attorney Hatton. Every enumerator who helped to prepare the list is required to be present. The court will be in session for five days. All those whose names have been omitted and who believe they have a right to vote should appear and present their case to the board at once.

"THE 13TH CHAIR" A SENSATIONAL SUCCESS

William Harris, Jr., will present "The Thirteenth Chair," his sensational melodramatic success by Bayard Veiller, which ran for one year at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre, New York, here on Thursday next, December 13. An ideal cast has been chosen for the production that out-of-town audiences may see the play presented under quite as favorable conditions as did those who enjoyed it during its remarkable engagement in New York.

Bayard Veiller, the author of "The Thirteenth Chair," is well known to theatregoers here as the author of "Within the Law," which up to the present season was unquestionably the most popular and the most deservedly successful drama of that character ever written. It was the unanimous concensus of critics on the opening night of "The Thirteenth Chair" that with it Mr. Veiller had excelled his own best efforts, and the subsequent success of the play bore out the early judgment of the reviews.

"Lend us a hand, Mate!"

We are deep-sea sailor folk. We are the men who sail and fight His Majesty's battle-ships. We are the men who go down to the sea in merchant ships. We combat storm and wave, ice-floe, shipwreck and submarine, that the Empire may not receive its death blow on the High Seas. We do this for little wage. We do it without a thought of our own safety. Nor can we provide for our loved ones if the hungry sea swallow us or the whining shell blast us into the Beyond—and there is none else to look after them.

Help the man who never quits—

Sailors' Day, Dec. 8

Time and time again the British and Canadian Sailor is torpedoed but we find him hurrying to ship anew as soon as he reaches Port. The German submarine drowns or shells him when it can—for the German knows that his arch foe, the British Sailor, will beat him in the end.

Dust under the Teuton heel would the Empire be to-day but for the British Navy. And how could our boys at the front be fed and munitioned but for that dauntless, unsung, underpaid, hard-driven hero—the merchant sailor.

You have many demands on you, we know, but the Navy League of Canada asks you to help the sailor, Sailors' Day, December 8th.

Be Fair! Be Generous! Be Quick!

Millions have been given to the Soldier—practically nothing to the Sailor—

The Daughters of the Empire are assisting the Navy League by taking subscriptions on Sailors' Day, December 8th.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Peterborough, Nov. 10, 1917.

AN ADMIRAL'S WIFE

Lady of Leader in the Big Naval Battle Is an American.

ALSO MOTHER OF TWO BOYS.

One of the Most Popular, If Also the Most Reserved, of American Wives in London Is the Daughter of the Late Marshall Field.

Of all British navy men Admiral Beatty holds the greatest interest for Americans because his wife was Ethel Field, daughter of Marshall Field of Chicago, multimillionaire merchant. He married her in 1901, after she and her first husband, Arthur Tree, were divorced.

Beatty was a young officer invalided home from China, where he had been wounded twice in the arm during the Boxer rising, when he met Mrs. Tree. Their courtship was of short duration. Indeed, it was not many weeks after the heiress had ceased to be the wife of Arthur Tree that she became Mrs. David Beatty. Only a few friends attended the ceremony. Even the bride's father had not been informed of the date in advance. Though now past forty years of age, Lady Beatty is as beautiful as ever, and she [illegible] the most popular woman in the American colony of London.

LADY BEATTY.

Her eldest son, David Field, is a sturdy boy, and his habitual sailor suit suggests that he is the son of a sailor.

Peter, the younger son, is the image of his mother.

Lady Beatty, called upon to acquiesce in the greatest sacrifice that can be asked of the happily married woman—the sacrifice of her husband's life and time to the public service—has acquiesced not as one who makes a sacrifice, but as one who is proud to share in a great service. Her life has been entirely shaped by the exigencies of her husband's naval service. She has not sought the conspicuous place in society which many American women in England seem to regard as the chief end of existence. She has rather avoided it and in doing so has made for herself a real place and influence in English social life which no mere dinner giving notoriety could ever have achieved for her. She has provided for her husband in his rare moments of holiday the happy and quiet home life that is so dear to every Anglo Saxon worth the name. And when he is at sea she makes the sea her home too, living quietly on board her yacht at the base port in the waters where his fleet is stationed.

And when war came she turned her yacht into a hospital tender, where under her own charge and with a perfect surgical and nursing equipment wounded men may be conveyed from hospital to hospital or the consulting surgeons carried swiftly where they may be most required. So, though she cannot be with her husband while in his grim post, she is with him in the service of the navy.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

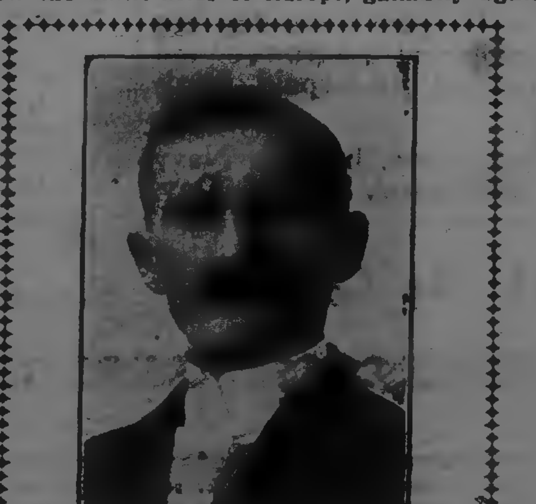
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle-front; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?



As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

JERUSALEM HAS FOUGHT AND BLED FOR THOUSAND YEARS

And Now British and Turks are to Battle for Possession Again—Walls Forced More Than Once.

The Psalmist prayed that Jerusalem might have peace and prosperity. She has on the contrary had a good deal of the woes of plunder. Now that another army is rapidly approaching her gates which it is hoped will soon be in possession of the historic capital, a look backward over the many struggles will be of interest.

As a strategic point, King David soon cast his eyes upon her rocky brow. That was about a millenium before the Christian era. He was seeking for a union of the tribes. A haughty band of Canaanites, the Jebusites, were in possession and mocked the threatening attitude of Israel. "Lame and blind," they shouted, inferring that it did not require their hardy soldiers for defence. But the Hebrew king offered a prize to whoever would scale the walls. And Joab the son of Zeruiah was decorated on the field for going over the rocky parapet.

The next period is of half a millennium, an interesting feature being that a thousand years plays a conspicuous part in the story of the city. It only took that time for the first judgment to fall upon her. Riches, pride, pleasure and sin had done their deadly work, which Josiah tried in vain to reform. Necho, the Egyptian leader was not to fail like Pharaoh. It was faithless Israel that met defeat at Megiddo, a battle which has given to the phraseology of war the word — Armageddon. But the real conqueror was on his way from the east. It was Nebuchadnezzar who plundered Jerusalem of her men and treasures, destroying the walls and temple. The captivity in Babylon followed, when prophets like Ezekiel suffered with the guilty.

Place of Tribute.

For a quarter of a millennium, Jerusalem was simply a place of tribute or curiosity to world leaders. But a new power had appeared in the west which was to dispute Persia in her sway of territory from India to Egypt. It was also a real warlord too, who brought his well armed phalanxes against the hordes of missle-throwers from the east. In 333, B.C., Alexander the Great, King of Macedonia, defeated Darius at Issus, and opened the way to Jerusalem. It is said that he intended to capture it, but he had a vision which made him spare the city from destruction.

But his successors did not respect the liberties of the Jews. A Greek was to be as hard a task-master as an Egyptian had been long before. But against him there was to appear one of the greatest heroes of Israel. The fact is that Antiochus Epiphanes made the foolish attempt to Hellenize the Jews. That is, he invaded the temple and set up his idol of Zeus with the accompanying ritual. He wished to force both the language and religion of the Greeks upon this portion of their empire. An old priest Mattathias led in revolt. But his son Judas Maccabaeus was a very Moses in leadership and zeal. Something of the old fire burned in the breasts of all Israel, and the rebellion succeeded. The temple was purged and a new feast, the dedication, was added to the calendar. But as a nation Jehovah no longer went with them to battle. Thus the patriot was killed at Adasa leading 800 Jews against 22,0[illegible] Greeks.

The end of this first millenium found Palestine a part of the Roman Empire. Judas Maccabaeus had appealed to Pompey, but help came too late. With the liberty Rome usually gave her conquered people, the Jews began to await the coming of Messiah. The greatest event of history was now to happen in and around Jerusalem. It was Jesus Christ. Over the city He wept and foretold destruction. On his [illegible] thither, his friends shouted "Hosanna to the Son of David," while at His crucifixion His enemies said, "Let His blood be upon our heads." They had not long to wait. Rome proved to be as thirsty for Jewish blood as any eastern monster had ever been. So dreadful was the judgment that it was announced as the "end of the world." It was the time of the Passover, A.D. 70, when thousands were present from the synagogues of all the world. Titus drew near with his Roman cohorts and the Jews closed the gates. The story of the siege of 143 days, and the final massacre has been written and gives evidence that Jewish blood has been exacted to the limit. The Arch of Titus, built in Rome as a symbol of triumph for that awful campaign, remains today as a memorial.

The next is another strange turn in the story of Jerusalem. He who prayed for the Roman soldiers, "forgive them, for they know not what they do," was to have as a follower no less a man than Constantine. This Roman emperor was to build the Church of the Holy Sepulchre on the spot where the "Crucified King of the Jews" was buried and arose again. Which became the great shrine for all Christendom. But a new scourge was laying the world in conquest from Persia to Egypt when Mohammed went forth on this mission with the sword. In 637, A.D., Omar, the second caliph, had made great progress with his armies and laid siege to Jerusalem. An honorable surrender was arranged. The Mohammedan leader spared the Christian churches after visiting the same. He also promised them their freedom, contenting himself with erecting the great mosque on the supposed rock where Mohammed ascended to Heaven, which is known today by his name, the Mosque of Omar.

The Faithless Turk.

But no one can trust a Turk. By the end of the first millennium of Christian history, the persecution in Palestine and the Holy City became intolerable. Many believed that the time was at hand when Christ was to return to the Throne of David. But with the increase of pilgrims came also every extreme of robbery, indignity and irreverence to those visiting the city of their solemnities. The notorious Hakim encouraged Mohammedan attacks. Thus Europe arose against Asia in the great movement of the Crusades. The hero of all the knights of the Cross was Godfrey of Bouillon, a Belgian, who had to pawn his effects in the City of Liege to raise the means of leading in the First Crusade. Jerusalem was besieged and fell after four months, and on July 15, 1099, amid great enthusiasm, the city was entered. Blood again ran in rivers from Christian swords as it had before in Roman and Chaldean conquests. Such were the ethics of war. The Belgian hero being proclaimed King of Jerusalem, with real mediaeval piety, refused, saying that he would not wear a crown of gold where the King of Kings had a Crown of Thorns. For a hundred years this kingdom of crusaders existed, when Saladin the great Mohammedan brought the city under his sway.

We are again approaching the end of another millenium. It is significant that another victorious army is fast approaching this city of

PROPERLY BALANCED MEALS

In these days, when all of every man's and woman's energy is needed all the time, the importance of proper food is being especially recognised. One need not eat a great deal of food in order to be well fed. Indeed, overeating is the source of a large share of our bodily ills. But it is important that everyone should have suitable and properly balanced meals.

The man or woman who has sedentary employment which calls for constant brain work and whose diet at the same time contains largely fat and starch is most certainly digging his grave with his teeth. Men in northern lumber camps are, as a rule, more apt to be suitably fed than men in offices about town. The heavy physical labor in the cold calls for heat and muscle producing foods, which are usually supplied. Office work calls for brain-producing and easily digested foods. Are these usually provided?

There are five groups of foods which unite to provide complete nourishment for the body. They are:

1—Foods depended on for mineral matters, vegetable acids and body-regulating substances.

2—Foods depended on for protein.

3—Foods depended on for starch.

4—Foods depended on for sugar.

5—Foods depended on for fat.

All these foods have their place in the complete diet. A little care and study will arrange them properly and provide the proper amounts.

First Group.

Under the first group come fruits: Apples, pears, bananas, berries, melons, oranges and lemons. Vegetables also have an important place in this group and include those associated with salads, lettuce, celery and others; the potherbs or greens, potatoes and other root vegetables, green peas, beans, tomatoes, squash and numerous others of the same sort.

The second group contains the muscle builders, and, of course, consists of milk, cheese, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, nuts, and dried vegetables, such as peas and beans.

Starchy Foods

The third group consists of those which provide the starch, the cereal grains, meals and flours, the cereal breakfast foods, bread, crackers, macaroni, cakes, cookies, starchy puddings, potatoes, and other starchy vegetables.

Group four provides the sugar, and, of course, is made up of various sweets; sugar, molasses, syrups, honey, candies, fruits preserved in sugar and jellies, and dried fruits, sweet cakes and desserts.

The fifth and last group contains the fats—butter and cream, lard, suet, and other cooking fats, salt pork and bacon, table and salad oils.

It will be noticed that some of these foods are included in two groups. When they are used it will often not be necessary to provide another food of the same sort. Or if this is done, one which differs as much as possible from the main food should be chosen.

Planning Meal.

It is a good plan to make some one food as the main item of a meal and then build around it. For instance, it is a waste of material to serve both dried beans and meat together, for they both provide plenty of protein. Choose one of them and then add foods from the other groups to the menu, taking care not to let the heavy foods predominate for a man who is sitting all day, or not to feed a man who is much in the open with vegetables and fruit which contain much water.

Also, if beans are a part of the menu, it will not be necessary to provide as much starch in other forms, for, while beans are classed among the proteins they also contain much starch. The careful housewife will watch for such foods. For instance, turnips and beans would make a better combination than potatoes and beans or turnips and meat on account of the preponderance of starch in both potatoes and beans.

The Dessert.

If a sweet fruit, such as melons, is served at a meal, it is not necessary to provide a dessert containing a great deal of sugar. All these things result in saving and in much better health for the family.

Substitutes for foods which are scarce or expensive may be easily provided by bearing in mind these various groups. Rice or corn meal are excellent substitutes for potatoes and will help to vary menus. Fish, especially dried fish, is an excellent substitute for meat, and has the added virtue of being rather more easily digested.

By keeping in mind these groups of foods it can easily be seen how meals with plenty of nutrition at a reasonable expenditure of time and money can be provided.

English Shortbread.

This is a shortbread made without eggs. The ingredients are one pound flour, half a pound of moist sugar, half a pound butter, and two eggs. Put butter and sugar on the board and cream them together, add the eggs well beaten, and then rub in a little in a handful of flour at a time till all the flour is used up. It takes a good deal of hard kneading. Form the mixture into two cakes, but do not use a rolling pin. Pinch the edges and prick the centre with a fork. Decorate with caraway comfits or lemon peel. Slip the cakes onto white paper and bake on tins in a moderate hot oven.

Pumpkin Pie.

Pare and cut into small pieces sufficient pumpkin, and steam until tender, or about one hour. For each pie put enough pumpkin through a colander to make one and a half cups pulp. To this add two-thirds cup brown sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, half a teaspoon ginger, half a teaspoon salt, two beaten eggs, one and a half cups milk and half a cup cream. Mix well together, and pour into a pie plate lined with plain paste. Do not use an upper crust. Bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set and the crust browned. If the oven is too hot the custard will be apt to curdle.

Letter from Mr. Snobbin to Sir Joseph Flathell

Peterborough, Ontario,
December 7, 1917

Dear Sir Joseph:

I received your letter of yesterday's date, and note your remarks. I quite agree with you that it was most disappointing on the part of the Government that they did not allow you the control of the fish output. I quite agree with you that the public should not be allowed to get this too cheap, or they will start saving money and avoid buying your bacon.

We did our best here to prevent them buying too much fish, and to boost the sale of bacon, although the foolish Food Controller advised people to use fish and not bacon.

You see, I (or rather we) gave only three dealers permission to sell government fish, and they agreed not to deliver it, so if anybody wanted it they had to fetch it, no matter how far away they lived. Of course, if they had to walk a few miles to get it, that was good for their health and gave them a fine appetite; and if they didn't have time to fetch it they could do without eating, and save money, or order bacon and spend more.

I know this sounds rather contradictory, but then it's good policy to be vague in what we say, as it gives us a chance to back down when necessary.

Now, as you will see, our intentions were good, but that fellow PASKINS, on the Corner of Hunter and Aylmer, has spoiled the whole thing. Instead of our men being able to keep the price up and control the output, they can hardly sell any, as he is shipping in quantities and cutting our prices, with the result that everybody is going to him and laughing at us. Just to give you an idea, I will quote some of his prices:

And, worse than that, he is selling bacon retail cheaper than you are selling it wholesale. People are coming and phoning from far and near to get the Mild Cured Family Smoked Rolls, and Sweet Green Pickled Rolls, without bone or skin, which he is selling at 35c and 31c per lb., and Creamery Butter at 47c lb.

He will not leave anybody a chance to make a bit. Even the candy men are suffering. He is selling Home-made Candies at ridiculous prices; Pure Cream Fudge, Coconut Toffee, Peanut Toffee, all usually sold at 40c per lb., he is selling at 28c per lb. Biscuits the same: Ginger Snaps, 15c a lb., Jam-Jams and Apple Blossoms, 20c, or 2 lbs for 38c.

He is helping people to waste money on Christmas fruits that ought to go in your pocket or help increase my salary. Actually offering Mixed Peels at 38c lb., New Seedless Raisins at 16c or 2 lb.s for 31c; New Seeded Raisins at 2 lbs. for 25c.

the ages. This time it is Great Britain and the Union Jack, marked with many crosses. It is another world-wide crusade against the Turk and his new friend the Hun. It is the beginning of a new dispensation. And whatever may be in the nature of the Second Coming of Christ, the fact that we are in the midst of such events, will make all who take any interest in the question await the issue with great satisfaction. This much we may safely say, that when the flag with its crosses waves over the tower of David, both Jew and Christian will rejoice. It will indeed be the first real "peace of Jerusalem," which has occurred in modern times.

A Woman's — Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. KISSLING, 931 East 24th St., Erie, Pa.

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Such letters are received and answered by women only and held in strict confidence.

LOSS AT HALIFAX IS $25,000,000

CHILDREN BLINDED BY FLYING GLASS, GROPE THEIR WAY HELPLESSLY AMONG WRECK - LITTERED HALIFAX STREETS

Pathetic Stories Told by Eye Witnesses Who Escaped Injury—Entire Families are Wiped Out.

(By Associated Press.)

The Massachusetts relief train that left Boston Thursday night arrived at Halifax today. There is absolutely no way of estimating with any degree of accuracy the number of dead as a result of the explosion on Thursday. Fifteen hundred dead is the generally accepted figure by the authorities. In the morgue there are 200 bodies.

Saved The Children.

New York, Dec. 8.—A. J. Goldberg of this city has arrived at Boston with the first train of refugees from stricken Halifax and tells a graphic story of the first incidents of the explosion. His train was eight miles from Halifax when there was a slight explosion followed by terrible one. All the windows in the train were smashed. When they pulled into Africville, one of the divisions of Halifax which was destroyed, he says the sights were awful.

"The platform of the station was crowded with wounded people," he said, mostly children. They were groping about and couldn't see owing to splintered glass in their eyes. Many of them were cut about the neck just as if slashed by a knife. Two hundred and fifty little children were taken into train and doctored up as well as possible. Many are permanently blinded. One woman covered with blood, was hugging two babies to her breast, both dead. Four children died on the train on the way to Truro.

A Montrealer's Story.

Montreal, Dec. 8.—Rev. George Adam, pastor of Emmanuel Congregational Church was in Halifax when the city was wrecked. He returned to Montreal this morning.

"Halifax seemed the most peaceful place in the world as I looked from the Halifax Hotel at a quarter to nine last Thursday morning," he said. "About ten minutes later there was a violent tremor which shook the building and I imagined that half the hotel had collapsed. Three or four seconds passed and then came a terrific crash. The windows of my bedroom crashed in. Frames, glass and blinds, table and chairs were pitched over like ninepins. Instinctively, then, I concluded that the town was being bombarded. While I continued dressing rapidly I could hear people running about the streets shouting and weeping.

Confusion on the Streets.

The hotel corridors were strewn with plaster and broken wood while half dressed hysterical guests were running about asking excitedly what had happened. On reaching the street first rough information, "an explosion" was heard passing from mouth to mouth. A walk through the streets revealed awful damage. In Barrington street, which is the chief street in the Halifax shopping centre, I saw only one glass that was not blown in. Jewellery, clothes, fruits, sweets and

BRITISH STILL HOLD HIGH POST AT CAMBRAI

All Assaults by the Germans Failed To Oust the Defenders.

2000 HUNS SLAIN YESTERDAY

Artillery and Machine Gun Fire Hold the Enemy in Check.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 8.—The British artillery fire upon the evacuated zone in Flanders is very heavy and the Germans have suffered considerable casualties. Something like 2,000 Germans were killed at one place north of Flesquieres yesterday afternoon by artillery fire. These had pushed forward and were exerting pressure against the British near Orival wood. The British fell back slightly and the Germans also retired to a position behind the wood where they assembled in large numbers.

The British artillery put down a heavy barrage and badly smashed the entire force. Yesterday afternoon the Germans also attacked again about Lavacquerie but were repulsed with machine gun fire. The British still hold the high ground near here and the Germans continue infantry assaults in an attempt to oust the defenders.

On the Banks of the Meuse.

Paris, Dec. 8.—There was active artillery fighting last night on the right bank of the Meuse, particularly in the sector between Besonvaux and Beaumont and in the region of Hill 344.

An Essex (England) Appeal Court has ordered the father of nine children, eight under fifteen years old, to join up.

CONSCIENCE SHOULD KEEP MEN OUT OF PARTY POLITICS TODAY

Col. T. J. Johnston Makes a Telling Address at Meeting of Women's Union League in May's School House—A Voice From the Battle Front.

"The present is no time to talk politics. With the men in the trenches there is no religion or politics. I could not be true to my conscience if I was a party man today. I have been a Liberal, but I am proud to say that, politically, I am nothing now."

So spoke Col. T. J. Johnston, who will always be remembered as the head of the 93rd Battalion, one of the finest military units that ever left Canada for the front. The Colonel was addressing a meeting of the Women's Union Government League held last night in May's school house, when the largest class room in the building was filled to capacity, the majority of the audience being women who will vote for the first time at a Dominion election one week from next Monday. There was no mistaking the sentiment of the meeting. The war was the only issue recognized, how to win the war the only problem discussed.

Reeve Rye of North Monaghan presided, and after a few appropriate remarks introduced Col. Johnston to the audience. As usual the Colonel spoke highly of the men he had led to France. He told of the regret felt by officers and men alike when the unit was broken up, how he obtained permission to spend three weeks in the trenches, where he saw his men at their best. The Colonel gave an interesting account of his experience and again referred to his favorite theme, that the present form of military discipline is obsolete and that soldiers should be controlled by considerate treatment rather than by harshness.

"Our soldiers," said the Colonel, "are in the very jaws of hell itself. Are we to fold our arms and take a referendum as to whether we will help them or not?"

Continuing, the Colonel said that the selective draft was necessary because no one knows how long the war is likely to last. Care must be taken to provide for the future. If he was sure that the issue could be settled in six months, he would favor a whirlwind conscription. He would clean out the pool-rooms and such places and have it over at once.

"I am prepared," concluded the Colonel, "to support Union Government to the last ditch."

The President Speaks.

Mrs. A. Stevenson, the president of the League, outlined the objects of the association and gave a brief account of the work already done in this city. The League put one hundred canvassers at work, and as a result of their efforts a large number of women that would otherwise have been omitted were added to the voters' list. Mrs. Stevenson drew a facsimile of a ballot on the blackboard and showed the new voters how to mark it so that it would count.

Knew Edith Cavell.

Mrs. E. M. Garvey, whose husband is overseas, and who spent two years as a nurse in Belgium, during part of which time she was in daily association with the martyred Edith Cavel, gave a graphic account of her life within sound of the guns.

"When Edith Cavell was murdered," said Mrs. Garvey, "the women of Canada spoke of what they would do to the Germans if they had a chance. With the vote in their possession, they have the chance now."

Principles, Not Persons.

Capt. Burnham said he did not ask the ladies or anyone else to vote for him, but to support the Union Government. He explained what was implied in a referendum vote. If the referendum were lost, no reinforcements would be sent overseas. If it is necessary to take a referendum on the matter of sending men, then why not a referendum on supplies and socks?

Capt. Burnham advised the women to vote for his opponent if they were so minded, but by all means to vote. He explained just what was necessary in order to record a ballot, and what some women regard as a complicated process was really made to appear a simple matter.

The meeting ended with the singing of the National Anthem.

CROWN DROPPED SEVEN CHARGES

Magistrate Held The Evidence Was Not Strong Enough.

When in the police court yesterday afternoon Magistrate Dumble told the Crown prosecutor that he would not convict J. S. Knapman on charges of theft if the evidence was not more substantial than that already offered, and Mr. Hatton stated that no new evidence would be adduced, seven charges of theft against Knapman were wiped off the slate.

Knapman's position is that he stands committed for trial on the charge of stealing $2,489.43 from the Wm. Lytle Cartage Co., and he must still face a charge of stealing $19 from the same company.

Yesterday afternoon two charges of theft, the amounts being $4.75 and $4.50, were dismissed by the magistrate.

In the matter of the $19 item, it is alleged that Knapman made out an account of $19.25 against a customer, now in Sudbury, and received that amount, but only credited $14.20 to the account.

"Suppose your case fails, who will pay the costs?" said His Worship to Mr. Hatton.

"The Government, of course," promptly replied the Crown prosecutor.

"You find the Government an easy thing," was the jocular rejoinder of His Worship.

"If you can produce evidence only like this, I wouldn't convict," also stated the magistrate, speaking generally of the character of the evidence given before the court. "The business was too loosely conducted to put a man in the penitentiary."

"But we can't help the bookkeeping; you seem to blame us for the bookkeeping," protested Mr. Hatton.

"It's through the goodness of your heart—" Mr. Hatton began, only to be cut short by Magistrate Dumble, who held that it should not be presumed that Knapman stole the money.

TO REPUDIATE FOREIGN LOANS

NEW RUSSIAN GOVERNMENT PLANS A NEW FORM OF DISHONOR.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 8.—The Bolsheviki Government, according to a Reuter despatch from Petrograd, is preparing a decree repudiating all Russian foreign loans and loans concluded by land banks and railways on government guarantees. Shares of internal loans held abroad also will be repudiated.

In reiterating his former statement that the regenerative processes are going on in Russia, the Petrograd correspondent of the London Morning Post says: "The real Russia is silently and steadily working for reconstruction and the inevitable return to common sense, which we hope is near at hand."

Customer—"No, I suppose not; it's healed up."

AMERICAN DESTROYER TORPEDOED AND SUNK.

COMRADE TELLS OF CORP. DAVE BRADSHAW'S DEATH IN FRANCE

GUNNER P. W. HUGHES

Who has been wounded in the legs while fighting in France. Gunner Hughes is a former employe of Boorman's bakery and he boarded at the home of Bandsman H. Parnell, 129 Stewart street. He has served in France and Belgium for two years.

He Had Been Rewarded For Good Work When Germans Attacked.

How the late Corp. Dave Bradshaw of Stratford, a former member of the staff of the Bank of Montreal here, and a player on the Peterborough Intermediate O. H. A. team, played the game in the Great War, and how he came to his death, is told in letters received from a comrade at the fighting front, and from the chaplain who laid his body away in Lissenthock Military cemetery, where a cross marks the grave. Mr. J. P. Bond of the Warne Drug Co., who was an intimate friend of the d[illegible] soldier, has received the partic[illegible] from Corp. Bradshaw's relative[illegible] Stratford. The letter from the trenches says in part:

"It was on October 30th at 5.50 a.m., just after daybreak, that our battalion made an attack. We advanced about 100 yards before I saw anything of Dave, as he was in another platoon. I was lying with several men in a shell-hole, waiting until our barrage lifted so that we could make a further advance. There was a great deal of machine gun fire coming from the enemy, who had built these concrete pill boxes or block-houses in large numbers. Just as we were about to move further forward I saw Dave a little distance away. He was carrying all his equipment and his rifle, and was heading back for our lines. He didn't look at all as though he had been wounded, and I called out to him to come over with us. But apparently he did not hear me and kept straight on. I watched him for a little time and saw him get back into our old front line trench. I made up my mind that he must be wounded as he seemed to be pretty shaky toward the end of his trip back.

"We went on and carried out our attack, gaining our objective all right and holding on to it too.

"When we got out after two days, I learned that Dave had been hit in the chest by a bullet, but that he had got out to the dressing station all right and was reported to be doing nicely. Therefore it was a great shock to us all when we heard after another two or three days that he had died of wounds.

Reward For Good Work.

"I don't think there has ever been another chap in our company who was so universally popular with everybody. I don't know if he ever mentioned it to you, but when he was granted special leave to Paris last June, it was a reward for his fine work on an occasion when the Germans made an attack one night on a trench we were holding. Also Dave did some fine work in the big attack which the Canadians made at Vimy Ridge, and, in fact ever since he joined us he had always been looked on as absolutely reliable and one of our best men."

In his last letter to Mr. Bond, Corp. Bradshaw wrote under date of October 20:

I am alive and kicking, and going strong. Have been reported down and out once but am still in the game. We certainly have had a fairly exciting summer, the front line since last April has been no place for a quiet sleep.

I wonder if you knew a Rowberry who was in the 93rd. He came to us last September and was killed not long ago. He was certainly one fine boy and was well liked in the company. I have seen quite a number of the old 93rd out of commission but we still have a few left.

SAPPER TANNER MISSING.

Sapper F. Tanner of Chandos, who joined the 93rd Battalion here and after going overseas was transferred to the Engineers, is officially reported missing.

FIRST DRAFT IS ORDERED OUT JANUARY 3RD

Proclamation To That Effect Is Issued At Ottawa Today.

MAY SPEND CHRISTMAS AT HOME

Date Is Deferred One Week on Account of Holiday Season.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—A proclamation was issued today calling the selected men under the Military Service Act to the colors on Jan. 3rd. It was originally hoped to put the first draft on active service by Dec. 10th. It would probably be possible, it is pointed out here, to make the call about Dec. 24th or 25th, but it is felt that members of the draft should be accorded the opportunity of spending the Christmas season with their families and friends.

AERIAL BATTLE IN SWISS AIR

GERMANS, PRESSED BY ALLIES, CROSSED THE BOUNDARY LINE.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 8.—The first aerial battle between Allied and German airmen over Swiss territory occurred around Basle yesterday. It appears that the Germans, hard pressed by their opponents, entered Switzerland on purpose. The fight took place at a great height, and the number of airplanes is not known. The encounter lasted twenty minutes. Seven bombs were dropped on Swiss territory, but only material damage resulted.

SHOULD REASSURE FARMERS.

(The Globe.)

The first decision of Hon. Mr. Justice Duff, Central Appeal Judge under the Military Service Act, exempting a farmer's son working upon the farm as a matter of right and national interest, "until he ceases to be employed in agricultural labor," should reassure agriculturists in all parts of Canada that the interests of production will be safeguarded under the operation of the Act.

CLARION CALL TO METHODISTS

The following call, prepared by the Executive Committee of the General Board of Social Service and Evangelism, will be read from the pulpits of all Methodist Churches in Canada tomorrow:

"With enthusiastic unanimity, believing the present duty of every Canadian citizen is to support the Union Government at the forthcoming election, this Executive Committee of the Board of Social Service and Evangelism of the Methodist Church request that this statement be read from our pulpits and published in the daily and weekly press. We also urge that every Methodist having the right to vote will support the candidates who are supporting the Union Government of Canada."

THEIR DUTY WELL DONE, SOLDIERS OF THE KING ARE HOME AGAIN

Alderman G. H. Duncan did the honors for the city yesterday afternoon when he welcomed several Peterborough men, returned to their homes after serving overseas. One of the home-comers was Pte. W. Lewington, 70 Auburn street, who spent sixteen months in France. He was wounded in the chest at Fresnoy on May 8th.

Pte. B. R. McIlmoyle of Apsley was put out of action with a wound in the left arm. He left Peterborough with the 93rd Battalion.

Pte. W. Hamilton, who was originally a member of the 39th Battalion, came home last night, after two years' service. He was severely wounded. He is staying with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanderson, Braidwood avenue.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1917

THE NEWS FROM THE FRONT.

THE NEWS FROM the battle front these days is anything but cheering. The war has apparently reached another crisis, and hope entertained a few weeks ago that victory was in sight has been shattered. Russia is out of it, and is engaged in a formal discussion of peace terms with the enemy. Roumania, too, has cast in her lot with Russia. Once an armistice is arranged with these two members of the Entente alliance, Germans and Austrians will be able to release several million troops for duty against the Allies elsewhere. The wheat fields of Russia and Roumania will be open to the Central Powers, and the blockade that has been maintained so long at such a cost will be rendered of little effect. The Allies will be forced to abandon all hope of bringing the enemy to their knees by the slow and grinding process of starvation, at least for years to come.

The cause of the Allies is hanging in the balance in Italy. Reinforcements are being sent from other parts of the front to the aid of the Italians. So serious is the situation regarded in that country that the United States has declared war on Austria in order to be in a position to send troops to take part in the defence of Italy. The silence that has prevailed with regard to operations in the Cambrai region for the past week is ominous. The we know for certain is that the British made one of their effective drives there, that the Germans massed their forces against them and recovered part of the lost ground. General Maurice admits that the British troops are in an awkward position.

If the news from the battle front recently has been sparse and other than encouraging, there is no doubt as to the message that the Canadian soldiers are sending home. "Send us help" is the plea that is heard daily above the din of battle. The cable is loaded with private messages to the friends at home to do their duty, now that the opportunity has been given them.

Now that the fate of the Empire is at stake, is this a time to play party politics in Canada, to waste months of precious time in taking a referendum on the question of whether or not the reinforcements asked for are to be sent, a question that has already been settled in the mind of every Canadian patriot?

The soldiers whom Canada has sent to the front have never yet deserted their country or the friends they left behind them. Never once have they faltered at a task, never once hesitated when duty called them, no matter what danger lay before them. Is all this sacrifice to be rewarded now by those who have enjoyed at home the fruits of gallant service deserting the nation's heroic defenders?

Who could blame the soldiers now doing double duty, if they receive word from home after the fateful seventeenth of December that Canada has gone back on them, if they threw down their arms and refused to carry on the one-sided struggle any longer?

TO SAVE THE PARTY.

IN HIS OWN HEART, brave as may be the front that he is putting up, Mr. Hall must be convinced that he had no chance to be elected. He is going to all this trouble simply to keep his party organization alive and ready for a later fray when the war is no longer an issue. He hopes to keep himself in line for future preferment by making a party martyr of himself now. Besides, he has two chances, one to be elected himself and the other that Laurierism will prevail, in which case he will have the handing out of the loaves and fishes to the hungry heelers, even if he is rejected at the polls himself.

But the safety of the Empire is of more moment to the Canadian people than preserving the Liberal party from temporary eclipse; the welfare of the soldiers concerns the voters more intimately than the personal ambition, however legitimate, of Mr. Hall.

THE HALIFAX DISASTER.

RUIN, DEATH and desolation came to the city of Halifax like a flash. It was all over in a moment. The dead, the dying and the injured were everywhere, houses were in splinters, not a single building in the place escaped. Of all calamities that have come to this earth, few have been more sudden, more appalling or more general than the one that overtook the little capital of Nova Scotia the other day.

The catastrophe is one of the incidents of the present struggle that is raging in Europe. Had there been no war, there would have been no American boat in the harbor loaded with munitions, and Halifax would today be intact. Under another phase of combat, the same ruin, just as overwhelming, could have befallen that city. The gunboats of an enemy power could lie to at sea fifteen or twenty miles away and shell the city to the point of annihilation. Larger towns in Europe have been reduced to mere scrap by the military prowess of Germany, their people maltreated and outraged as well as put out of existence.

The catastrophe at Halifax will serve to bring home to the Canadian people a realization of the horrors of war, something to which they have, by the fortune of location alone, been indifferent. They will feel now as they have never done, for the war-blasted myriads of France and Belgium. The awful object lesson will convince them as nothing else could of the danger in which this country, in common with the rest of the civilized world, has been living for the past three years.

There is another truth, more cheering and comforting than all, which the Halifax disaster will impress upon the people. Christianity has been vindicated. Human nature has been revealed in all its better elements. The Golden Rule has not been forgotten. Men have not been taught in vain to love their neighbors as themselves.

Halifax did not need to call for help. Assistance was volunteered as soon as the city's distress was known. Offers of aid came from every part of the Dominion, and, best of all, from the neighboring republic, which is now concerned with a war that is taxing its every resource. American cities led even those in Canada in dispatching relief to the stricken people down by the sea. The American Congress has just voted five million dollars for the relief of Halifax. Who, then, is there who will say that humanity is not growing better year by year, in spite of the blot that this cruel war has placed upon it?

All America is kin when misfortune comes. In the hour of trial all Christian men are brothers. Neighborly love is not something dreamed of or merely preached from the pulpits of the world.

MR. GADSBY EXONERATED.

THE EXAMINER magnanimously declares that Mr. Gadsby never wrote any of those editorials that appeared in its columns to such little purpose during the campaign of six years ago. This is certainly doing the fair thing by Mr. Gadsby, and it may yet transpire that that gentleman is by no means as black as he is painted.

"GAG LAW" IN CANADA.

THE EXAMINER over-exerts itself in roaming over the country in order to be able to cite instances where returned soldiers have broken up political meetings held by Laurier candidates. It says, with a glaring disregard for truth, that a Union meeting here was disturbed by a mob with which veterans were identified. Wrong as it is in this case, little importance is to be attached to any reference it may make to similar instances in other parts of the province.

A returned soldier attempted to address a meeting in Winnipeg, and a mob of young men, the majority of whom were French-Canadians, howled him down. No Unionist candidate can get a fair hearing anywhere in the Province of Quebec. There is no excuse for these disturbances. If protest is justifiable at a public meeting it surely is when made by veterans, who naturally object to hearing a political adventurer talking against the interests of the comrades they have left behind them in the trenches.

INCONSISTENT AS EVER.

ONLY A FEW DAYS AGO The Examiner was bemoaning the fact that the Military Act would interfere with the production of food by taking the young men from the farms. It has since been convinced that no such action was ever intended and that the farmers who are needed on the land will be left there.

The Examiner now suddenly faces right about, and takes the stand that the Act is unduly favorable to the farmer and that it will bear too heavily upon the city residents. That is its only remaining chance to attempt to score a point. It is an echo of what the Laurier candidates in the two ridings of Peterborough are preaching to the voters. One of these, at a meeting in Lakefield the other night, said:

> "Fancy every farmer and his family in the Province of Quebec being exempted from military service, and the farmers from this county being conscripted in large numbers."

There is more fancy to the same general effect. Yes, fancy is the word, but why stop even at that picture? Why concede that even five thousand men will be taken from the Province of Quebec while ninety-five thousand are drafted in the rest of the Dominion? There is a woeful discrepancy between the conclusions of this candidate and those reached by The Examiner. The one holds that too many men are to be taken from East and West Peterborough, while the other declares that there are too few.

Any man is indulging in mere flights of fancy when he says that only five thousand men are to be drafted from Quebec. The men who dream such dreams are the kind of men who suspect a political motive in every move made by a public man or by a party. Even if Sir Robert Borden entertained the design with which he is credited, such a step would be political suicide, no more and no less.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

EVERY VOTE polled for the Union Government is a message of cheer for the men overseas.

• • • •

IF HONEST CANADIANS fall out in this crisis, the lawless will run away with everything in sight.

• • • •

REMEMBER that the soldier boys are voting for the Union Government within sound of the German guns.

• • • •

THERE ARE NINE provinces in the Dominion. Are the eight to rule, or is the ninth to control all the others?

• • • •

NO POLITICIAN found it necessary to play his little game at the women's meeting in May's School House last night.

• • • •

THE MAN OR WOMAN who votes in haste, or otherwise against the Union Government may live to repent at leisure.

• • • •

THE UNITED STATES evidently has millions for the relief of stricken Canadians as well as for the defence of civilization.

• • • •

IN THE CAMPAIGN the Laurier candidate's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of things that never were and never will be.

• • • •

ONE WOULD naturally think that The Examiner would be willing to leave the purely personal element out of the contest.

• • • •

RUSSIA PROPOSES to break a solemn treaty with its Allies. The Laurierites propose to break a pledge given to their own fighting countrymen.

IT IS ONLY FOUR short years since Mr. Hall and his faction were searching the lexicon for dignified words in which to sing the praises of the Kaiser.

NO PARTY VOTING AT THE FRONT

There will be no party ballots marked in the Ypres salient. They dare not do it in the presence of their dead. The physicians who slip out of the moaning hospital wards behind the lines to vote in these elections will not be thinking of Grit or Tory but of how most swiftly and surely to end this horrible slaughter and stop this unceasing carnival of pain. There is not a case-hardened partisan in the Dominion of Canada today who could step from beside the hospital cot on which one Canadian lad lay moaning—in spite of his determination—from the tearing pain that the Germans had given and all the palliatives of medicine could not take away, and still cast his ballot for his beloved party and not solely for the speediest ending of the war.

The only reason why there is a party election in Canada is because the voters in this protected country are not compelled to vote within the sound of the guns. Some of us lack the imagination to realize what our boys are going through—that is the whole explanation. Who are the heartiest and most convinced Liberal Unionists, leaving their old party with regret but without hesitation? Are they not men like Rowell and Ralph Connor and Stewart Lyon, who have visited the scarred battlefields of France and Belgium, talked with the men living in that inferno of danger, agony and death, realized the menace to all civilization that crouches behind the Hindenburg line and had burned in their consciences the conviction that any man who is anything at this crisis but a Canadian, pure and simple, without thought of self or party or predilection of any sort, is a traitor, a betrayer of the men at the front, a practical ally of Prussianism.

This scoring of the partisan is not directed at the men of one party only. It is meant for any citizen of Canada who puts the fortunes of any party before the fate of his country. If it seems to fall upon one party alone, it is only because organised opposition to the Union Government seems to come from one party alone.

The formation of the Union Government was an effort to bring together the entire Canadian nation behind the lines on the Western front. There is no section of the Canadian people—except the Germans who were disfranchised by the War-time Franchise Act—which was not asked and even urged to join that Government. If any section is now outside of it, it is by its own deliberate and determined choice. No one was excluded.

The overwhelming majority of the Canadian people—if their habitual leaders may be assumed to speak for them—have rallied to the Union Government. Liberals and Conservatives alike, the present ministers have put in their pockets all the old issues which formerly divided them, and are now ready to concentrate on the one task of finishing the war with a smashing victory, at the earliest possible moment—if the country will but give them the necessary mandate to do so. It is a mandate which should be made unanimous. If there are any domestic questions which must still be fought out—and there undoubtedly are—we can attend to that after the war. First, let us get our boys home—let us stop the butchery in the only way it can be stopped, by disarming the butchers!

TODAY'S STORY

"I don't hear you preaching sunshine and optimism as you used to," remarked the druggist. "Has something been happening?"

"A number of things have happened," sighed the abstracter. "I used to make a business of handing out the cheer up stuff and I believed I was in earnest. I contemplated the misfortunes of others with heroic fortitude, and whenever I saw a man with a boil or a crick in the back I told him to forget it and smile and sing.

"I was convinced that if misfortunes came my way I'd take my own advice; but handing out optimism to the other fellow is one thing: dishing it up to yourself in the hour of affliction is another story.

"I think the fates conspired to test my optimism and see if it was the real goods. Anyhow, one day a while ago, everything went wrong with me. In the morning when I got out of bed I noticed that the wind was blowing to beat a 4th of July orator, and I pushed my head out of the window to see what damage had been done. And a big chunk of mortar that had been loosened from the chimney by the breeze slid down the roof and caved in the back of my head.

"I hung across the window still saying a lot of things which should have been deleted by the censor. They were not sunshiny things. They didn't fit in with my reputation for optimism. And while I was saying them old Jim Gamberson came along. Just the previous day I heard Jim complaining of the rheumatism and told him not to give way to vain repining, but to chirrup and be glad and his aches would go away.

"When he saw me hanging out of the window there and protesting in seven dialects, he was shocked, and he went around and told his friends about it.

"Finally I regained my faculties and put on my clothes and started downstairs. I really don't know why I fell down instead of walking with my usual queenly dignity. It must have been that the hoodoo was right with me. The stairway opens into the sitting room, and there is a door at the foot. I pushed my head through one of the panels of the door in my haste and couldn't get it out again, and I stayed there a while continuing the oration I began upstairs. Mrs. Jangle had dropped in to discuss the storm with my wife, and she put her hands to her ears and ran for home as soon as she had dropped to the tenor of my remarks.

"Just the evening before Mrs. Jangle was at our house complaining bitterly of a headache, and I told her it was her duty to endure such afflictions cheerfully. I assured her that no calamity could be big enough to justify a grown up human being in making a howl; and she said my talk was quite inspiring, and she went home feeling a lot better.

"Well, I couldn't turn around or walk a foot that day, but something disagreeable happened and my temper was torn to shreds, and I made no effort to conceal my true sentiments. The air was blue in my vicinity for hours together, and all the people I had ever preached optimism to seemed to be around whenever a goat butted me, or a janitor turned the hose on me by mistake or I fell down a coal hole.

"By night my reputation as an optimist was completely ruined, and it would take me years to build it up again, so I'm just letting it slide."

Sly Fox of the Balkans Has Willing Followers Among Cruel Bulgarians

THE sly fox of the Balkans, as Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria is endearingly called in almost every Chancellery in Europe, is the evil genius of a simple and kindly peasant people. The London Daily News, in commenting on Count Tisza's fall from power in Hungary, prophesies a revolt of the Bulgars against their king. It tells us that "the heart of the Bulgarian people has never been in this struggle," and that they were "jockeyed into it against the undoubted will of the majority of the Bulgarians by the purely dynastic intrigues of King Ferdinand." For holding such opinions The Daily News comes in for the scorn of that brilliant weekly, The London New Europe, a paper singularly well informed on foreign affairs. The New Europe tells us that the Bulgarians are in this war heart and soul, and that, while they are not overflowing with love for Ferdinand himself, they are devoted to his sons Boris and Cyril, and his dynasty is therefore safe enough. The persistent optimism of the British Foreign Office and the press regarding Bulgaria is rebuked, and The New Europe remarks:

"The 'Bulgarian mirage' is indeed a wondrous thing, and the Gladstonian tradition, as to the childlike innocence of this simple and kindly folk, dies hard. It is impossible to maintain a sentimental distinction between the people and the Government of Bulgaria by any criterion which cannot with equal force be applied to Britain or Germany or any other belligerent monarchy.

KING OF BULGARIA

"That there were, and are, individuals, and indeed sections of opinion, in Bulgaria opposed to the war no one doubts. The point is that they have never made any effective or concerted protest, or in the slightest degree influenced or endangered the policy of the Government."

Had there been any effective opposition to war with Russia, "the savior of the Bulgars," it could, we are told, have made itself felt:

"Bulgaria enjoys a democratic constitution, and not for one moment since the beginning of the war has the Radoslavoff Government been without full parliamentary support. The Sobranje has sat throughout the war, and, curiously enough, the Opposition has not even thought it worth while to reinsure itself by the most moderate criticism till quite recently. Some Opposition speeches at a recent sitting of the Sobranje, on the way that the Germans were sucking the country dry, drew from Radoslavoff the not unfair retort that the speakers apparently thought that it was time to pave the way for coming into power in case all did not go well with the Central Powers. Similarly, on May 5, the Naradni Prava, the Government organ, commenting on the sympathy shown by certain sections of the people with the Russian revolution, remarks that 'the time has come for the rats to emerge from their hiding-holes.' Though we have no wish to discourage a death-bed repentance, we must admit that the sneer is not only justified in itself, but important for us to bear in mind when framing our present policy. The friends of England and Russia in Bulgaria lack courage as well as strength. It is useless for us to imagine that they will ever free themselves from the iron grip of Germany. If we wish to realise by contrast what a strong and virile section of a people can do against 'dynastic intrigues,' we need only turn to Venizelos and the 60,000 Greeks who are fighting by our side at Salonica.

There have been revolts, it is true, but they were in that part of Bulgaria recently annexed as a result of the war and inhabited mainly by Servians. In a caustic paragraph The New Europe says:

"How can we think that there is yet a change of heart in Bulgaria when we read of the heartless cruelty with which the last Servian revolt was stamped out as late as this February? The provinces which had revolted are claimed not only by King Ferdinand, but even by the Socialists who have gone to the Stockholm Congress, as inhabited by true Bulgarians, so that to retain them would not be a breach of a policy of 'no annexation.'"

Could Have Saved Thousand Dollars

BROWN SORRY HE DIDN'T KNOW ABOUT TANLAC SOONER—GAINS 17 POUNDS.

"I have actually gained seventeen pounds by taking Tanlac, and my recovery has been a surprise to myself as well as all who knew of my dreadful condition," said Walter B. Brown, 132 Yorkville street, Toronto, recently. Mr Brown, who has been a resident of Toronto all his life, was for many years a travelling salesman, and is now employed by the Robert Simpson Company. He is a member of the Masonic Lodge, also of the Commercial Travellers' Association, and is highly respected by all who know him.

"If I could have had Tanlac five years ago," continued Mr. Brown, "I could have saved myself not only a world of suffering, but more than a thousand dollars, which I paid out for other treatment and medicines that failed to do me any good. I don't believe anyone ever had a worse case of stomach trouble than I had. In fact, I got so bad off I was given up to die by my family and friends, and had lost about all hope myself of ever getting well. Even the most delicate and dainty dishes failed to arouse my appetite, and the least bit of food of any kind caused me intense suffering. I would bloat up terribly with gas, and had a mean, agonizing pain in the pit of my stomach, and was never free from headache. No matter what I ate, my suffering was awful, and for over nine months at one time was on a light diet. Half the time I couldn't put on my boots or dress myself, because I didn't have the strength, and my desperate condition can be better understood when I say I had fallen off from one hundred and thirty-five pounds to only ninety-six. I was nothing but a frame of skin and bones, was so nervous I could hardly sleep, and felt so irritable and bad I didn't want anyone around me at all. Everything was done for me, it seems, that could be—X-ray photographs of my stomach were made, stomach pumps used, and every treatment known, but no one seemed to understand my case, and I kept getting worse. After spending eight months in the hospital here to no avail, I was advised to go to Mt. Sinai Hospital, in New York, and I spent three months there, but still didn't improve one bit. I felt that life was hardly worth living, and lost all faith in medicines.

"One day while talking to my brother-in-law he asked me why I didn't take Tanlac, and I said: 'No, I have taken enough stuff; nothing will do me any good.' But he insisted, until I bought a bottle, and Providence was surely guiding me that day, for I firmly believe that was the move that saved my life. To say it is wonderful the way Tanlac has helped me doesn't half-way express it. I'm already feeling a thousand times better, and am on the road to health after five years of torture. I have already picked up from ninety-six to one hundred and thirteen pounds and am looking and feeling better than I have in years. My appetite is fine, the gas and pain has all disappeared from my stomach, and I can eat most anything I want without the slightest inconvenience. My friends are simply amazed at my wonderful improvement. I have also told the physicians who did all they could for me what I am taking, and they say they never saw such a change in a man. I believe Tanlac has saved my life, and deserves more than I will ever be able to say for it. I will be glad to write to anyone who wishes to verify this statement, and tell them what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.

CANADIAN ARMY WILL SOON FEEL THE PINCH

Gen. Sir Arthur Currie writes a friend in Vancouver that the Canadians will soon feel the pinch very acutely, which the men now being massed in Canada as reinforcements will not arrive in time to prevent.

CHILDREN BLINDED BY

cakes, had all been flung into the street and mixed up with a sea of broken glass, making a strange picture. People who like myself had gone into the street to look around were suddenly warned by shouted instructions to proceed to the south of the town as another explosion seemed to be imminent.

In front of the Lieutenant-Governor's residence was an open space which seemed to be safe enough for me so I waited there to watch the stream of fleeing folk seeking shelter. All that had been pictured and written off the fleeting Belgian refugees flashed across my mind as I witnessed the stampede.

Pathetic Scenes.

There were nuns who had left cloistered quiet of their convents, old bed-ridden women were being carried along in sheets, half dressed mothers with babies wrapped in blankets hurried past, blind men were being led by little boys. It was pathetic, too, to see little girls clutching their cats and pet dogs hurry past. Many, very many, of these pedestrians were streaming with blood from cuts on faces, and hands. There were motors too and carts and wagons and perambulators in plenty in this flow of frightened people. Soon the story of the disaster began to shape in my mind as I had conversations with people passing who had come from the scene. The first actual tale of horror was from Ex-Comptroller McKeen, who with many tears spoke of death, maiming and burning in the north end district.

The fear of a further explosion passed as the result of the valiant efforts of the fire fighters. With that relief some of the people turned backward to their wrecked homes. The majority could not, however. There are many stories of families wiped out, of burned children seeking vainly to awaken their dead mothers. Of workmen husbands racing home to find ruin, and their families dead. McKeen's chauffeur was a lad from a family of nine of whom his little sister and he alone remained alive. A railway man at the roundhouse, who found his wife and children dead, went back to his post to his duty."

No German Plot.

Ottawa, Dec. 8.—The chief press censor has characterized the story that a German made explosion of the Halifax arsenal caused the disaster, as ridiculous.

Storm Adds to Misery.

Toronto, Dec. 8.—All Canada from the Atlantic to Winnipeg seem to be in the grip of a fierce blizzard accompanied by very cold weather. There has been no communication with Halifax this morning owing to the storm but St. John, N.B., reports near Zero weather which must greatly increase the suffering of stricken, wounded people.

Council Votes $500 For Immediate Assistance.

Band Instruments

At a meeting of the City Council last night, his worship read a telegram from Mayor Church of Toronto stating that the mayor of Halifax had telegraphed him that his stricken city is badly in need of glass, beaver board, tarred paper, putty and bedding.

Ald. Stratton advanced that if Peterborough had suffered any similar disaster to that in Halifax we should be looking for help, and he strongly urged that it is up to this city to send whatever assistance is possible.

Mayor Duffus—"It appears to me that it is not money, but material which is wanted."

Ald. Stratton—"Let us determine what amount we can appropriate to this deserving cause, and have a committee purchase and forward to Halifax a consignment of the material needed.

This was acquiesced in and on motion of Ald. Smith and Saunders the Mayor, Ald. Stratton and Duncan were named a committee to assume this duty.

On motion of Ald. Smith and Dobbin, this committee was authorized to expend up to $500 in forwarding supplies.

On motion of Ald. Duncan and Saunders, the city will wire Halifax, enquiring what supplies are most pressing; and also a resolution of condolence is to be sent by night letter.

93rd Band Instruments.

Ald. Stratton wondered if Council had been a little hasty last meeting in agreeing that the 93rd Band instruments should be turned over to the 57th Regiment band. Those instruments were bought for the citizens in general and soldiers in particular. Before cementing that agreement he thought further enquiry might be instituted.

Ald. Stratton and Weir moved that a committee look into the situation carefully and report back to Council.—Carried.

This matter went to the Property Committee.

The Voting Bylaw.

On motion of Ald. McIntyre and Stratton, a bylaw to provide for taking the votes of the electors on the question of electing aldermen by a general vote instead of by ward was read three times, and adopted.

Ald. Smith advanced the same arguments in opposition to the measure as at last meeting, and said that while a deputation from the Trades and Labor Council had pressed the matter, he understood that there is individual opposition in that body.

Ald. Langford asserted that when Ashburnham was incorporated with the city, the farmer had been assured of two representatives on the aldermanic board. Since that time however, there had been occasions on which East City had not been represented in Council.

Ald. McIntyre questioned this, and reference to the records showed that in 1907 no alderman from the East had been elected.

Ald. Smith and Saunders' amendment that this matter be left over till next year was lost.

The electors will vote on this question re the proposed change at the municipal elections January first.

Sailors Need Help.

A letter from Cecil G. Williams, secretary of the Navy League of Canada asked that steps be to raise as large a contributi this organization was last y $7000. Last year Council g $3,000, the remainder was con ted by a collection.

On motion of Ald Strattor Duncan this letter will be h to the local committee of the League, of which Mr. V. East secretary, with a recommen that work in connection with t organization be taken up at on.

There were present Mayor fus and Ald Langford Str Taylor, Duncan, Saunders, McI Smith, Dobbin and Weir

GAS, HEARTBURN INDIGESTION OR A SICK STOMACH

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" RELIEVES STOMACH DISTRESS IN FIVE MINUTES.

Time it! Pape's Diapepsin will sweeten a sour, gassy or out-of-order stomach within five minutes.

If your meals don't fit comfortably, or what you eat lies like a lump of lead in your stomach, or if you have heartburn, that is usually a sign of acidity of the stomach.

Get from your pharmacist a fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, nausea, debilitating headaches or dizziness. This will all go, and, besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapepsin helps to neutralize the excessive acid in the stomach which is causing the food fermentation and preventing proper digestion.

Relief in five minutes is waiting for you at any drug store.

These large fifty-cent cases contain enough "Pape's Diapepsin" to usually keep the entire family free from stomach acidity and its symptoms of indigestion, dyspepsia, sourness, gases, heartburn and headache, for many months. It belongs in your home

RESTORE THE NATURAL SIGHT

To the Farmers and Employers of Farm Labor and Farm Help in West Peterboro

By virtue of my appointment by the Government of Canada to consider and make recommendations concerning the appeals of those having or employing farm help, against the findings of the tribunals in the said district, I will be at the Court House, Peterborough, on Wednesday, December 12, to meet all those who have entered appeals or wish to appeal for exemption of farm help, in order that I may make suitable recommendations as representative of the Government and of the farmers to the authorities, in order that there shall be no reduction of production of food or impairing of proper farm conditions at this time.

I am empowered to make immediate and suitable recommendations concerning exemptions, and it is desirable that every person having a complaint should make it to me on the above date at the place named.

Warden, County of Peterborough,

DEPUTY FUEL CONTROLLER WILL GET COAL TO PETERBORO

Take Control of the Situation if the Dealers are Without.

At a special meeting of the City Fathers, last night, Mayor Duffus reported, as a result of his trip to Ottawa on the fuel question, that the Deputy Fuel Controller had assured him that Peterborough should have coal. The Controller said most emphatically:

> "If you can give me an instance in which one person is without coal, and cannot get it, we will take controll of the situation ourselves, confiscate whatever coal is in the city and deliver it ourselves. Should the dealers have no coal, then we will see that coal is sent into Peterborough. Or should dealers' have coal and cannot deliver it where badly needed, then we will arrange for its distribution."

The Deputy-Controller received his worship very cordially on finding he was not of the same calibre as a deputation from Brockville, who a few days after receiving through the Fuel Controll department 1200 tons of coal went to Ottawa complaining that Brockville had no coal. The Controller remarked that he would not permit any community to "hog" fuel at the expense of others.

A Fake Statement.

His worship was also assured by the Deputy-Controller that there is no truth in a report to the effect that there was coal across the line awaiting transportation into Canada. He said: "If any anthracite dealer will assure me of, say 50 cars of coal, I'll get it across the border in quick order." The Controller also explained that arrangements had been made to supply to Ontario 50,000 tons of coal for emergency cases in December, and advised Mayor Duffus to see Mr. Harris in Toronto, and connect with the Toronto Dock and Coal Co., prove to their satisfaction that Peterborough is suffering for want of fuel, and arrangements would be made for immediate relief. After December, the Deputy Controller felt convinced Ontario would get plenty of coal. Quebec is not suffering now.

The coal committee has $12,000 in hand for coal to be delivered as soon as it can be procured.

Wood In Sight.

Ald. Dobbin reported that he had been offered 500 cords of two and four foot hardwood, and also a quantity of mixed wood from a distance in the country, and was awaiting information as to its cost after transportation is paid before considering it seriously.

New Fuel Proposition.

Ald. Stratton reported that when in Toronto, Thursday, he had enquired into the project in hand by the New Fuel Company for converting, tins, bottles, rags, and all refuse into a fuel to replace coal. He had seen Mr. Armstrong, President of the Company, and concluded that the scheme was a promotion enterprise, which however, looked reasonable, although however the price of the fuel after produced is as yet uncertain. Mr. Armstrong had informed him that the machinery for converting refuse into fuel would cost $31,000 and building a plant $75,000. A municipality could either erect a plant and pay a royalty of $1 a ton, or the company would install a plant and operate it. The proposition that a deputation from Canadian municipalities visit Peublo, Colorado, and inspect one of these plants in operation has fallen through, but the organization of another deputation in January is expected.

Coal Next Week.

Ald. Stratton also reported that when in Toronto he was assured that a carload of coal would reach Peterborough for the city fuel yard early next week.

War Anecdotes.

A few very vivid camp, trench, and battle snap-shots are contained in Captain Ralph W. Bell's little book called "Canada in War-Paint." From muddy Salisbury Plains to heavy action in France is some way to travel, but the author travels it with consistent vividness and verve. Army mules, trial day for small offenders against discipline, aeroplanes, and "Archie," the anti-aeroplane gun, the company tavern, sick parade, army rations, minin-werfer, familiarly called "Minnies," all receive their tribute from his facile and slangy pen. Perhaps the best story he tells is of the didactic general stopping to lecture a bomber who was cleaning bombs:

"What I always say about these bombs," remarked the general, "is that they're so d—— simple, what? A child can use them. You can throw them about, and, provided the pin is in, no harm will come of it. But—always make sure the pin is safely imbedded in the base of the bomb. That is the first duty of a man handling bombs."

We all murmured assent, faintly or otherwise, according to rank.

"Give me the bomb," said the general to the bomber, waxing enthusiastic. The man hesitated. The general glared, the bomb became his.

We stood motionless around him. "You see, gentlemen," the general continued jocularly, "I take this bomb, and I throw it on the ground—so! It does not explode, it cannot explode, the fuse is not lit, for the pin——"

Just then the bomber leapt like a fleeting deer round the corner, but the general was too engrossed to notice him.

"As I say, the pin——"

A frightened face appeared around the bay, and a small, shaky voice broke in: "Please, sir, it's a five-second fuse—an' 'e 'ad took HOUT the pin!"

After all the general reached the traverse in time, and we were not shot at dawn.

Police Magistrate Dumble was called to Toronto this afternoon by the serious illness of his sister.

CHARLES GRANT GOES BACK TO THE STONE PILE

HIS ACTIONS AT THE ARMORIES WHEN THE PREMIER SPOKE WERE SUSPICIOUS.

After failing foul of Detective Newhall at he Borden meeting in the Armories, and spending a week in jail, Charles Grant, an alleged "dip," was sent back to the hillside villa for another week by Magistrate Dumble this morning. He was charged with vagrancy.

"I don't think you would want to punish a man by giving him more than a week for attending a Borden meeting," remarked Mr. Gordon, counsel for Grant, when the case opened.

"I understand they want to take him back to Millbrook. There were thefts when Sir Robert spoke at Millbrook, andthey claim Grant is one of the men," stated the Chief.

"I don't think the constable there knows they had a meeting," countered counsel. "I suppose some of them in Millbrook want to get money for Christmas."

Detective Newhall told of Grant's suspicious movements on the night of the meeting, both on the street and at the Armories. When arrested and taken to the police station, letters, notes and receipts found in his possession indicated that his name was Charles Greaves.

Run Gaming House.

"He told me he ran a gaming house in Montreal and followed the races," testified Chief Thompson.

"I didn't say anything of the sort," protested Grant.

"I think I'll move to quash this case and make them spend $75," said counsel.

"You couldn't squash anything," challenged Detective Newhall.

"I didn't say 'squash,' I said 'quash,'" corected Mr. Gordon, who added, "you'd think the reputation of the whole force depended on a conviction."

CHILDREN HATE PILLS, CALOMEL AND CASTOR OIL

IF CROSS, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED, GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on—castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realise what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them.

If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today save a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups plainly on each bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. See that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

BIG UNION MAJORITY.

Hon. Martin Burrell Expects B. C. Will Be Unanimous.

Vancouver, Dec. 8.—Hon. Martin Burrell stated here today that he would not be surprised if every British Columbia constituency returned a Union candidate at the elections on December 17. Mr. Burrell has been campaigning throughout the interior and addressed a meeting here last night, and today went to Nanaimo. He predicts a strong majority for the Government in all the Prairie Provinces. Mr. Burrell expressed the opinion that the vote of the women in the interior would be at least 90 per cent. for the Union Government, and he believed the same proportion would be polled at the coast.

You don't like the cheap tea you are using. Do you?

Pretty Poor Tea, Mother

Before the war so increased the cost of living, many people used to drink better tea than they are now using.

Perhaps, this is true in your case?

Of course, you are not drinking poor tea because you like it, but because you think it necessary to save money.

But are you really saving anything?

Cheap, common teas only make about 150 cups to the pound. You are lucky if you can stretch them out to 185 or 200.

On the other hand, Red Rose Tea easily makes 250 cups. It goes further because of its fine quality, consisting chiefly of Assam teas, the richest and strongest in the world.

You may almost doubt if so many cups of tea can be made from a pound of even such good tea as Red Rose, but you can readily prove the economy of Red Rose without waiting for a package to be used up. Just use a few leaves less of Red Rose for a brewing than you use of common tea—the result we are sure will please and surprise you.

WOMEN ORGANIZED TO SUPPORT WAR VETERANS

Advice to Women Who Will Mark The Ballot.

The organization of a woman's auxiliary to the Great War Veterans' Association was completed, following a public meeting in Victoria Hall last night, and the Veterans now have a strong body of women to support them in the work that lies ahead.

The following were elected officers:

Hon. Pres.—Mrs. W. R. Morris.
President—Mrs. Joseph Mills.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. T. W. H. Young.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Cortez Fessenden.
Cor.-Sec'y—Mrs. Massey-Cooke.
Rec.-Sec'y—Miss Jane Layfield.
Treasurer—Mrs. R. J. Devey.

Mayor Duffus presided over the public meeting until it was necessary for His Worship to leave to attend a special meeting of the City Council. Lieut.-Col. T. J. Johnston then took charge of the proceedings. The former officer commanding the 93rd Battalion was greeted with applause when he appeared on the platform.

Alderman Dobbin gave a report from the joint committee of Veterans and citizens relating to the proposed club rooms and headquarters of the Veterans in the Royal Bank building, and this report was adopted. The estimated cost of covering the rental and equipment was $1500.

Women Will Support.

Mrs. John Allan made an excellent address in which she paid tribute to the men who had fought the battles of King, country and home, and assured the Veterans that the women would support them not only while the conflict was on, but also in the future. Mrs. Allan took occasion to advise the women in the matter of how to mark the ballot. "If you are told to draw a line through the name of a candidate, it is incorrect information," said Mrs. Allan. "You simply mark an X after the name of Mr. Burnham, whose name will appear first on the ballot, or after the name of Mr. Hall. We want every vote to count, whether it's for Mr. Hall or Mr. Burnham."

Nursing Sister Mrs. M. K. Douglas gave an interesting account of her experiences in France, on the Island of Lemnos and in England, in which she eulogized the British troops and the men from the Dominions. Mrs. Douglas gave her audience a further insight into the splendid makeup of the men who are fighting for the freedom of the world, and in doing so took her auditors to the bedside of the wounded who came under her care.

Canadians in Italy.

The speaker intimated that Canadian soldiers and Canadian nurses were among the reinforcements being sent to the Italian front. Before leaving England, she said, Canadian soldiers, in speaking of the election, said, "We don't want the Laurier Government."

"They don't think Quebec is doing the right thing, and they want a Government that will bring Quebec out," concluded the speaker.

Mrs. Nicholls, Mr. Carlisle and Mr. Coleman contributed to the program. At the conclusion of the meeting Lt.-Col. Joseph Mills moved a vote of thanks to all who took part. The motion was seconded by Mr. Cortez Fessenden.

And yet (don't laugh) R. R. Hall says:

"The Union Government is to blame for high prices."

"LILAC TIME" IS FINE WAR PLAY

STORY OF LOVE AND INTRIGUE BEING PRESENTED AT GRAND.

"Lilac Time," the play now running at the Grand Opera House, is a charming little military romance, cleverly portrayed by an able company and showing some of the brighter side of the life of the man who wears the uniform of his King. The hero of this story is an English tommy who during a tour of duty in France falls in love with a daughter in the French family with whom he and other soldiers are billeted. He is removed to another scene of activity and is wounded in action. By good fortune he is carried back to the cottage, where dwells the maiden of his choice, and by her is nursed back to health.

Such a combination of circumstances could have only one result. The young couple are married and the union of the French and British races finds a new bond. The marriage does not take place until the warrior has been made an officer for gallant conduct.

The play will be presented again at the Grand tonight, and deserves the patronage of the theatregoing public.

Raise in Prices on Ford Cars Coming

In an interview with Mr. Duffus, proprietor of the Duffus Garage, Simcoe street, regarding the automobile situation, he definitely states that there is an absolute certainty of there being a shortage of cars even for practical purposes, and, in addition, before six or seven weeks have elapsed, there will be a raise in price. He says he has endeavored to advise all intending purchasers of the existing conditions, with a view of doing everything possible to procure such automobiles and motor trucks as will be absolutely necessary for the coming season, before the price advances.

He is making a special effort at the present time to get in contact with all prospective buyers, and states that his staff is always on hand, both day and evening, for the purpose of taking orders and giving necessary information.

"THE 13th CHAIR"

The record of each theatrical season in New York discloses the name of one piece which, above all others, has exerted a tremendous popular appeal—one piece whose success has been so long sustained and consistently maintained that there can be no question of its right to be written at the very top of the list of the year's theatrical offerings. The play which earned this distinction during the season last past was "The 13th Chair," Bayard Veiller's melodrama of mystery produced by William Harris Jr.

"The 13th Chair" ran for one entire season at the 48th Street Theatre in New York. Audiences which witnessed it during the height of the summer season—when nine out of ten theatres in Manhattan were closed—were as great in numbers and as unrestrained in their expressions of enthusiastic approval as those which attended its performance in mid-winter. None of the influences or conditions which until then had operated to lessen interest in stage entertainments ever manifested themselves in connection with the engagement of "The 13th Chair." But for the existence of contracts calling for its production in other large cities of the country at specified times and which permitted of no postponement, the piece would yet be playing in New York, adding to that record for popularity which is already unprecedented. As it is, "The 13th Chair" has left Manhattan and begun a tour of the other large cities of the country with every confidence that its reputation and the manner in which it will be presented here, will make of its visit to this city the most emphatically memorable theatrical event of this season.

Bayard Veiller wrote "Within the Law," and hardly anyone with the exception of Mr. Veiller himself, believed that it would be possible for an American author to produce another melodrama which would cause quite as much discussion or approach its measure of popular success. Twenty-one drama critics, representing as many New York publications, acclaimed "The 13th Chair" as not only the equal, but the superior of the first-mentioned piece, as a stage offering that would appeal to every class of playgoers. The record of "The 13th Chair" has very abundantly proven these critics to be right.

"The 13th Chair" is a play of mystery. Its central figure is Rosalie La-Grange, an aged spiritualistic trance medium. Summoned to a home whose occupants are strangers to her, she finds that one member of the dinner party plans to make use of her extraordinary powers to assist him in solving the mystery surrounding the recent murder of his friend. Rosalie conducts a seance in the dark, in which all of the guests take part When the lights are thrown on, the inquisitive gentleman himself is found to have been murdered in exactly the manner in which his friend was done to death. Every door and window of the room has been locked, and it is absolutely certain that no one has been able to enter or leave during the progress of the seance. It is the working out of this second crime mystery which provides the story of the play, and in doing so furnishes thrills too numerous to be counted.

WHAT WOMEN WANT TO KNOW

Can you give me the origin of the song "Old Folks at Home?"—F. L. H.

Stephen Foster, the composer of this immortal song, while waiting for a change of horses at a Kentucky hostelry, heard the negro groom grumble, as he threw a set of harness to the ground, "I's sick an' tired o' dis life. I wisht I was back wid de olde folks at home." "Where may that be, Sam?" asked Foster. "Oh," answered the darkey, "way down on de Suwanee river." The result was the song as you know it today.

Will you kindly help me with suggestions about two chairs I wish to cover for my living room. One is a mahogany rocker without arms and the other is a high-back straight chair. The first one needs only a seat and a saddle-back. The second I wish to completely cover; with a valance from the seat to the floor—this chair has arms that I want to pad. The paper in the living room is brown, woodwork white, white shades, white scrim curtains with brown over draperies. A mahogany table, two white willow chairs, one with Turkey red cushions and one with green cushions of two shades. The rug is dark and light brown with black, green, yellow and red in it. I should like to use cretonne if that would be advisable. Mrs. M. S. J.

Cretonne will be excellent for covering the overstuffed chair with the valance. Choose one preferably in an all-over foliage pattern in tones of green, suggesting a tapestry. If it contains any flowers at all, let them be either red or yellow, whichever predominates in the rug (I hope it is the yellow, which would be more in keeping with the brown walls). Use the same materials for recovering the red cushions, which are out of harmony in this room. (One can use small splashes of red, as in the figures of a carpet, in rooms where a large red surface is decidedly inharmonious.) Then either use the two-tone green material like the cushions of the other white willow chair for cushioning the mahogany rocker, or get some plain tan fabric, such as rep or velour, to cushion both these chairs. The latter would be the best plan. Unless the mahogany is very brown in tone, the chair would look better enameled white like the willow ones. This should be the same tone of white as the woodwork. If you have a sofa or a window seat in the room, make some sofa cushions of the cretonne and others of tan fabric.

Please tell me what I am to do when a young man takes me to dinner. Shall I let him do the ordering? Do I pull my chair out from the table or does he? Is it correct for a young man to take a girl's arm on the street? When a young man takes a girl to a dance is it necessary for the girl to give her partner every second or third dance? Should a girl let a young man kiss her after a short acquaintance? N. L.

The young man will pull your chair out for you. If he asks you what you would like at the meal, say, "Won't you do the ordering, please?" Then he will probably say, "Should you like soup?" etc. Do not let him order too expensive a dinner; we must always be considerate. A man takes a girl's arm only when she needs help over a rough crossing. Three dances is usually what a girl gives her partner, but sometimes more, depending on the number of people at the dance, etc. A girl should never allow a man to kiss her unless she is engaged to him.

I expect to take my first trip on a sleeper soon. I am a little in doubt as to just the proper way of doing under such circumstances. Does one dress and undress in a dressing room, wearing a kimono while going to and from the berth; or should one dress and undress in one's berth? I shall be very thankful for any information you may give me about this particular thing, or any other that you think such an inexperienced traveler as I am would find useful.—E. S.

Personally I think it is better to do as much of the dressing and undressing as possible in the berth. Many women take off the waist or the whole dress, put on a kimono, and go to the dressing room to wash at night; the same in the morning. Be sure to carry some cold cream for cleansing purposes; soap is not always convenient to get at when traveling. I always cover my head with a towel to keep the dust out as much as possible. Tip the porter a quarter, for which he is expected to clean your shoes, brush you, carry off your bag, and perform any other small service you require, such as fetching you an extra pillow, etc.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR THE VOTERS

Three months' residence in an electoral district is not necessary to secure a vote in Peterborough on December 17. The residence qualifications for a vote are as follows: In Province since October 1, 1916, in the riding since October 1, 1917. The provisions of the Ontario Act are somewhat different from this, but there is now a definite ruling that they do not apply.

Another important point is that civilian voters in Peterborough who are not on the lists cannot vote on polling day, despite a rumor which has been circulated that women can do so. Not on the list—no vote; that is the rule for civilians in cities. In rural sections electors who think they should be on the list but are not, can tender a ballot, but even there it is not counted unless there is a recount. No civilian person can vote by certificate in Ontario cities on polling day."

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that in a city if a citizen's name has not been on the voters' list during the last week it is not on at all, no matter how long the citizen has lived in the riding nor what property he owns. It is absolute folly for the citizen to delegate to others the task of seeing whether his name is on the list. He must find out for himself, either by seeing the lists at committee rooms or at the polling booth or nearest post-office. If his name is not on he should fill out and sign in duplicate appeal forms, to be had at committee rooms, and send one copy to the Clerk of Appeals, and one copy to the enumerator for his subdivision. The only course safe beyond peradventure is to personally see to the mailing or delivery of the appeals.

WILL LOSE THEIR VOTE.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden [illegible] Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battlefront; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

Havelock, November 20th, 1917.

KINDS OF COURAGE.

War Recalls a Statement Made by Lord Byron.

Lord Byron, who was a good deal of a soldier himself despite his physical handicap, once wrote to his publisher, John Murray: "The French courage proceeds from vanity, the German from phlegm, the Turkish from fanaticism and opium, the Spanish from pride, the English from coolness, the Dutch from obstinacy, the Russian from insensibility, but the Italian from anger." There is plenty of room for difference of opinion as to what kind of courage is the most dangerous to opponents, but Byron seems to have analyzed national characteristics with considerable accuracy. He was not entirely just to the French in leaving out of consideration their fervent love of country, in the expression of which they are more demonstrative than most other peoples. Certainly in the present war the utmost patriotic devotion, not vanity, has inspired their heroic achievements. And yet; in the case of the individual, there is much of truth; and it is not necessarily uncomplimentary, in Byron's reference to French courage. It means that the Frenchman thinks too much of himself to be a coward. As to the German, his phlegmatic temperament undoubtedly has rendered him a service in many a tight place. If he does not become sufficiently excited to execute a brilliant charge, he is also not so likely as some others to lose his head and run away. He is apt to stay where he is put.

English coolness is proverbial. In every emergency of life, from a railroad accident to a battle, the Englishman keeps his feelings carefully concealed. He may really be more afraid than the phlegmatic German, but his greatest dread is that anybody should know it. For Russian "insensibility" perhaps "stolidity" should be substituted, for there was a time, although it is hard to realize it in view of recent developments, when Russian soldiers evinced utter indifference to danger amounting virtually to fatalism. The peasant troops apparently proceeded on the principle that their lives belonged to the Czar and they had little concern as to what became of them. Byron's reference to the Italians is significant in the light of what they have been doing in this latest chapter of the war. They seem indeed to have been moved finally to righteous anger against their Austrian foe. When the Italian's courage flames up, it is difficult to extinguish. He does not easily forgive or forget his wrongs and injuries, and the long-pent-up feelings which he has held toward Austria are now finding emphatic expression. The Italian possesses not merely the dash and brilliancy of the French; he is urged on by an implacable desire to "get" his enemy and never rests until he has accomplished his object. That is why Austria may yet tremble.

A Prophecy Come True.

Only seven years ago M. Bloch, the great Russian banker, wrote: "That is the future of war—not fighting, but famine; not the slaying of men, but the bankruptcy of nations, and the breaking up of the whole social organization of the nations."

The future of war, as written about by M. Bloch seven years ago, is the present of war to-day. Not that fighting and the slaying of men are lessened. Only the Napoleonic and the Thirty Years' wars approach to-day's war in the terrible losses of human life; and too great a drain on the human life of any one or several of the nations engaged may be the deciding factor in the war's conclusion. But on the whole, and as matters stand to-day, that part of M. Bloch's prophecy referring to the predominant influence of the food problem in modern war is thoroughly borne on, by the facts. Despite the fearful and fatal struggling of an incredible number of men, consuming inconceivable quantities of — tions, and using such amazing methods of fighting as are beyond even the fantastic imaginings of the romancers of a decade ago, the national and international phases of the food and general economic problem are the predominant features of the war situation to-day.

China Awakening.

Here then is the situation: China is ruled by force; as yet there is not, in governmental circles, any considerable recognition of constitutional rights; but from below there is an almost imperceptible but unmistakable stirring on the part of the people, who are beginning to conceive of themselves as a part of it all.

A mighty nation is gaining political compactness and momentum. There is no immediate danger of its power being felt outside of its own boundaries. But surely and slowly China is moving toward something. It may be trust in militarism and a consequent need for military preparations on a vastly enhanced scale. Or it may be a breath of true democracy and sense of responsibility to uphold the rights of mankind. For the people are awakening, and this awakening can be put to rule by force or armament or rule by the will of the majority.—Mayard Owen Williams, in The Christian Herald.

R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

I have the honor to accept the unamious nomination of the Liberal Party to contest the election as a Candidate to represent the people of West Peterborough in the House of Commons.

MASSES REQUIRE JUSTICE

Now is the time in the history of this country when we should be guided by true Liberal principles and stand by the masses as against the classes; stand by the people who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow and against the classes who exact unjust profits and extortionate tolls out of even the very necessities of life.

WAR POLICY

Today we are engaged in a great War with the Germanic powers in defence of Canada and the Empire. In the great struggle is involved the very existence of the freedom and liberty of mankind.

Our duty is plain. Our course is clear. We must prepare for any sacrifice of blood and treasure. We must fight Germany until we secure a just and a lasting peace. In this resolve all Canadians are united from Lake Champlain to the North Pole and from our furthest East to our furthest West.

Such being our Nation's resolution I pledge myself to support any effective war measure no matter from what source it may come. We must give immediate and constant support to our noble Canadian armies who have covered themselves with glory. We must support them with men. We must feed them. The rich and poor alike must serve. Our only difference is in how to serve but serve we will.

FOOD PRODUCTION

Great Britain has appealed to Canada to send her 500,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed her teeming millions and those of Italy and of France.

This enormous quantity of wheat would feed 40,000,000 people for a whole year. This shows our Allies want food.

To this appeal the Borden Rowell Government only answers, eat less, slay and eat the calf and the lamb and prepare for meatless days.

Let the Government encourage the Farmer to produce more. Give him agricultural implements duty free. Supply him with suitable labor on fair terms to till the soil. Use our banks and Loan Companies to lend him money on fair and easy terms of payment to assist in every possible way to plant and produce food stuffs. Supply the farmer with steam or gasoline tractors to enable one man to do the work of five. Shield us from the profiteer who plunders the farmer and robs the consumer, makes a profit of a million a year and supports Sir Robert Borden and his hypnotizer Sir Joseph Flavelle.

A forward policy on these lines would be a double blessing. It would reduce the cost of living at home and would help supply the necessities of our Allies overseas.

Remember one single North West farmer produces 2000 bushels of wheat per year when well directed and equipped. 100,000 men would produce 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. Those already on the ground in the North West properly equipped and manned could produce 200,000,000 bushels more.

I pledge myself, if elected, to support prompt and immediate efforts to reduce the high cost of living.

BORDEN DISCRIMINATES AGAINST ENGLAND

Since the war began the Borden Government imposed an increased duty of 5 per cent. on British made goods entering Canada. This should be removed at once. Our great Mother of Nations has troubles enough without the Borden Government thus increasing them.

PROFITEERS AND SOLDIERS

The profits made by War Profiteers should be investigated. The profiteer should be made to disgorge his excessive profits to be used to increase the pay of our soldiers and to increase the pensions or allowances to our soldiers, their mothers, wives, sisters and dependents. None of them should ever be subjected to the indignity of "cold charity" by this grateful Nation on whose behalf they have suffered or died.

NO CONFIDENCE IN BORDEN

Sir Robert Borden has been for six years and is now the Prime Minister of this Country. Its chief head and front with full power to choose and remove his Ministers. He is appealing to this Country under an assumed name, but the policies and methods of his Government remain.

I cannot stop to repeat the well known charges of grafting proved on sworn testimony from the mouths of unwilling witnesses respecting the purchase of motors, of horses, of binoculars, of bandages, of drugs, of boots, of shells of gauze fuse and of all the implements of war.

These unseemly transactions have taken place under the nose of Sir Robert Borden who now seeks to stifle and conceal further investigation with the hollow pretense of so called Union Government which in no sense whatever represents true believers in the principles of justice, truth and liberalism.

BORDEN CONDEMNED FOR SUPPLYING DEFECTIVE AMMUNITION

I have no confidence whatever in Sir Robert Borden who supplied our troops for many months with the Ross Rifle and defective ammunition which he must have known would jam and become a useless weapon after our Canadian boys had nobly entered the battle. The Ross Rifle was used by our troops at the six battles of St. Julien, of Givenchy, of Festubert, of St. Eloi, of Zillebeke and of Sanctuary Wood. In each battle the rifle jammed and many a Canadian soldier was needlessly killed or wounded and some of them today languish in German prisons justly cursing the Borden Government without a chance of voting against it.

GRAFTERS

We must destroy the parasite, the profiteer, the grafter and camp follower, who are our worst enemies and fight our common foe with all the resources at our command.

TO OUR NOBLE WOMEN

I appeal to the women of this Riding who are casting their vote for the first time to act on the pure impulse of your heart alone and vote according to the dictates of your own conscience. My heart goes out in sympathy for you in these anxious times. I know your "beloved is white and ruddy; the chiefest among ten thousand. His countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars" and by him and his I pledge myself to stand.

UNITY OF ACTION AND SENTIMENT

Let us unite our people in this Great War as the armies of Great Britain and of France are united, marching and fighting side by side, the parents and guardians of Freedom and Justice.

"With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right" I appeal to you fellow electors to press on to finish the great war in which we are engaged "to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, his widow and the orphan to do all which we may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace with all nations."

For these reasons I appeal to you my fellow electors for your vote and influence in the pending election.

Your Obedient Servant.

Not a Fight.

"Here, here, stop fighting with all those boys."

"I ain't fightin'."

"Yes, you are."

"No, I ain't. I'm just tryin' to punch Bud Hicks in the nose, 'cause I'm mad at him. I ain't mad at his brothers, but I will be if they don't quit kickin' me in the shins."—Detroit Free Press.

Anxious to Please.

"So you are expected to do a kind act every day?"

"Yes," replied the boy scout.

"How about today?"

"Well, the teacher has been having a little trouble with me. Don't you think I might stay away from school and give her a rest?"—Washington Star.

NEW BAGS PRETTY

Attractive Ones Can Be Made at Home at Small Cost.

Velvet, Fur and Satin Are Popular Materials as Throughout the World of Dress.

Bags are more alluring than ever this year.

The best of them are expensive trifles, but there are others that are attractive without being extravagantly high-priced, and as is always the case when drawstring bags are in order, many a woman can make a good-looking bag for herself without spending much money.

Velvet and fur and satin are the popular materials here as throughout the world of dress, with beautiful brocades and other fancy silks to help in the good work.

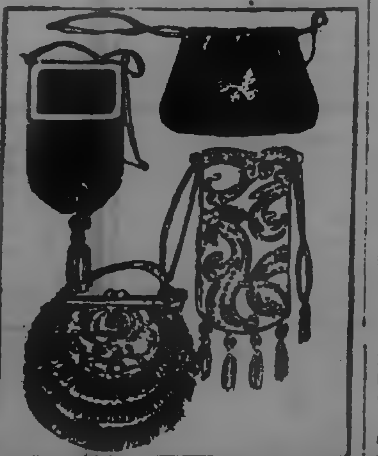
For the omnipresent knitting bag of course all sorts of materials are used from raffia to gold brocade; but the smaller handbag is less catholic and less spectacular, though often exceedingly original.

The bead bag has lost none of its vogue and appears in delightful shapes, colorings and designs, one tone colorings being perhaps first choice this season.

A handsome brocade silk with the design outlined in beads makes an effective bag and one that calls for no great skill or labor on the part of the maker. Black or dark blue brocade, outlined in gold, silver or steel, is effective, and color schemes to match any costume are easily worked out. A rather long narrow drawstring shape with bead tassels across the bottom to match the beading of the brocade is good-looking for this type of bag.

Beads are used to relieve fur, too, and very clever things are done with this combination. One model in seal is flat, rather small, mounted on dull gold and has a butterfly embroidered in tiny gold beads on its side.

A muff bag of fur with turned-back flaps at the ends has each flap finished by a bead tassel and a half moon of solid beading just below the mounting on each side of the bag.



Bags of Fur, Velvet and Beads.

There are many fur bags also without the beading, the short hair, supple furs, such as seal and mole, being especially liked for this purpose, while the long-haired furs are used for trimming bags of velvet, silk and cloth.

RHEUMATISM WAS MOST SEVERE

Dreadful Pains All The Time Until He Took "FRUIT-A-TIVES".

Why She Wept.

Apropos of the numerous influential malefactors whose prison terms are either annulled or cut down to nearly nothing, Mayor Brand Whitlock of Toledo said a short while ago:

"Is it a good thing for the public to let these men out so soon?"

"I was sympathizing one afternoon with a poor woman whose husband had just been sent to jail. She was weeping bitterly, and I said to her:

"'Now, don't take it so hard. Five years is a long sentence, I know, but he may not have to serve it all. Convicts who behave themselves often times get out months before their appointed time.'

"'That's just it,' she replied, still sobbing. 'Henry can be an angel when he likes.'"—Lippincott's.

After All.

"I want you to remember always," he said when they parted, "that you have made me happier than any other woman ever has."

"I shall not waste time remembering anything about you," she replied without trying to conceal her contempt for him.

"And remember, too," he added, "that no other woman has ever made me as unhappy as you have made me."

Then a glad look came into her eyes, and as he went away she drew a long sigh and murmured:

"Dear fellow! There was something good about him after all."—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE PARALLEL OF 1864.

Parties Joined Hands in Union to Support Confederation.

There is only one parallel to the present situation at Ottawa in the history of Canada, and that is the formation of the coalition of 1864. It is true that the union of that day embraced the leader of the party opposed to the Government, namely, George Brown. The union of to-day does not include Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but it does include leading men of the Liberal party in number to justify a comparison.

As in 1917, so in 1864. The union followed a long period of uncertainty and to some extent stalemate. The coalition of 1864 solved the federation issue. The union of to-day is expected to solve the problems of the proper prosecution of the war and give force and harmony to the application of conscription. In both cases the proceeding has been a bold stroke, a heroic attempt to end an impossible condition.

At this moment there are probably thousands of men in both parties who think all is lost because their party has merged with the other. In their belief in the value of party discipline they think the loss is greater than any possible gain. It is worth recalling the conditions of 1864. George Brown and John A. Macdonald had been political and personal enemies for years. They bitterly assailed each other, and it was the last thought in anyone's mind that they would ever bury the hatchet. Yet this is just what they did. They cast aside personal prejudices and differences for the welfare of their country. Election had followed election and one Cabinet after another had fallen, when Brown expressed to two Conservative members one day his willingness to co-operate with any Government that would settle the constitutional difficulty. The next day saw a public reconciliation on the floor of Parliament at Quebec, when Brown and Macdonald, standing in the centre of the assembly room, discussed the situation and arranged an interview which resulted in coalition.

It is worth recalling that this achievement was regarded as sensational and far-reaching at the time. James Ferrier of Montreal, during the subsequent Confederation debates in 1865, said the legislators "all thought, in fact that a political millennium had arrived." Sir Richard Cartwright, then an obscure member of the House, has left a delightful picture of an incident of the day.

"In that memorable afternoon," he told the Ottawa Canadian Club in 1906, "when Mr. Brown, not without emotion, made his statement to a hushed and expectant House, and declared that he was about to ally himself with Sir George Cartier and his friends for the purpose of carrying out Confederation, I saw an excitable, elderly little French member rush across the floor, climb up on Mr. Brown, who, as you remember, was of a stature approaching the gigantic, fling his arms about his neck, and hang several seconds there suspended, to the visible consternation of Mr. Brown and to the infinite joy of all beholders, pit, box, and gallery included."

While this joy was evident in some quarters, it was not everywhere. There was a considerable opposition to coalition in Lower Canada and some in Upper Canada. Alexander Mackenzie, John Sandfield Macdonald, M. C. Cameron, and others were at the time opponents of Confederation, as were A. A. Dorion, Christopher Dunkin and others in Lower Canada, but they lived to change their minds, accept the new conditions loyally, and render valuable service under the new constitution.

A HAPPY HERO.

Letter by Canadian Used to Rouse American Patriotism.

As an illustration of the lofty sentiments possessed of men who die on the European battlefield in the war for democracy and a reminder for Americans who may be backward in contributing to the second Liberty Loan for the same cause, the Liberty Loan Committee of New York has made public the last letter written by Captain V. G. Tupper, of the 16th Canadian-Scottish Battalion, to his father, Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, before his death at the battle of Vimy Ridge last April. The soldier wrote:

"My Dear Father,—I am writing one of these 'in case' letters for the third time, and, of course, I hope you will never have to read it. If you are reading it now, you will know that your youngest son 'went under' as proud as Punch on the most glorious day of his life. I am taking my company 'over the top' for a mile in the biggest push that has ever been launched in the world, and I trust that it is going to be the greatest factor towards peace.

"Dad, you can't imagine the wonderful feeling; a man thinks something like this: Well, if I am going to die, this is worth it a thousand times.

"I have 'been over' two or three times before, but never with a company of my own. Think of it—a hundred and fifty officers and men who will follow you to hell, if need be.

"I don't want any of you dear people to be sorry for me, although of course, you will in a way. You will miss me, but you will be proud of me. Mind you, I know what I am up against and that the odds are against me. I am not going in the way I did the first time, just for sheer devilment and curiosity. I have seen this game for two years, and I still like it and feel that my place is here.

"So much for that, I want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for all your loving kindness to me. This war has done wonders to me and makes me realise lots of things I would not have done otherwise. I could write a book about it, but you know what I mean.

"Good-bye, dear father and mother, and all of you. Again I say that I am proud to be where I am now."

In Sight of Gallipoli.

This poem by Lieut. George Davidson, whose death while a prisoner on the western front has just been confirmed, appeared in the last issue of the "Varsity" Supplement, and was written apparently not very long before he left the Gallipoli theatre of war for service in France:—

The dying day reclines in sombre arm, while night rolls down.
The setting sun reveals a crimson glory,
Aegean sky and sea in rippling mood, and yon winged crown
Of that sarcophagus, fain tell the story.

Hush, thy hoarse note! foul, fearsome bird; thou gruesome scavenger,
Let nature tell, in accents smooth and mild,
The glory of the Dead, not thou, weird, wandering messenger!
Where voices fleckless sky and Neptune's child?

With grief canst thou not speak; nor, faltering, tell the bloody tale?
The secret of that rocky pile unfold?
To honor those who, dying, live again, does thy heart quail?
Or in the telling can it not be told?

So be it then, that tale of love may not be told to me,
Too great to tell and hear, that love which was
A hostage to the world, that thought, and love, and life might be Unwarpt by Hun, who knows no human laws.

Keep thou thy secret and thy dead, stupendous bloody pile,
Yet know we this, that love and life were given
That death was faced with fearless heart and soul and steady smile;
And chosen souls were gently waft to heaven.

And knowing this we go in peace and heaven-born glorious hope,
Forgetting not, in that immortal day,
Unfettered soul and spirit with unfettered will shall cope
To love them more—and in a heavenly way.

High Succession Duties.

Succession duties will probably yield the Province of Ontario two and a half million dollars this year, a slight increase over last year, when a high record was established. Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, stated recently that the act, as amended, was working splendidly, and the money was coming in well. The people were now beginning to understand the law, and there were no attempts to evade payment of the tax levied by the Government.

Revenue derived from succession duties have increased gradually since they were first imposed in 1892, partly by reason of the legislation passed at recent sessions of the Legislature and partly by reason of the increased wealth of the people of Ontario. In 1893, the first full year, the total receipts were $45,507. Ten years later the amount was $458,669. In 1915 the total grew to $1,721,000, and in 1916 it was $2,451,000. This year it will be at least $2,500,000, it is believed.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM RHEUMATISM?

If you had suffered for years from Rheumatism and then had found a treatment that banished your pains and made you spry on your feet once more, would you want to keep the remedy secret, or would you want to pass on the good word to other sufferers?

It is an outstanding feature of the hundreds of letters received by a prominent firm of manufacturing druggists that after returning thanks for the relief afforded, the wish is expressed to let others know the good news.

Here are a few extracts that will interest anyone who has Rheumatism—

"I have recommended Gin Pills to some of my friends who are troubled in the same way."

"Would advise all sufferers from Rheumatism to try Gin Pills."

"I recommend Gin Pills to everyone suffering as I did."

"I take great pleasure in recommending Gin Pills to all sufferers from Rheumatism."

If you would like the names and addresses of these people who are so happy in recommending Gin Pills, and also a free sample to try for yourself, simply drop a line to the National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, (U.S. address—Na-Dru Co Inc. 202 Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.) 130

Dealers sell Gin Pills on a strict guarantee of satisfaction or your money back. 50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50.

CARNEGIE HEIRESS

Daughter of the Captain of the Steel Industry.

INTEREST IS PHILANTHROPY.

In Case Mr. Carnegie's Health Fails, as Is Reported, This Young Lady May Find Herself One of the Richest Daughters of America.

Miss Margaret Carnegie is the only child of Andrew Carnegie, whose indisposition has attracted much notice. She is twenty years old and was graduated in May, 1916, from a New York private school, in which she took the English course.

She was a leader in the school and achieved a high standard of scholarship. Her special interest is civic and philanthropical movements, and for two years, despite her age, she has been vice president of the Armstrong league, which concerns itself especially with the dissemination of information regarding the Indian and the negro.

MISS MARGARET CARNEGIE.

It has been the policy of Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie to shield their daughter as much as possible from publicity.

"She is the only one of my treasures I want for myself," is what Andrew Carnegie says of his daughter, who devotes so much of her time and affection, along with her mother, to the care and pleasure of the aged financier.

The world awaits with interest the special use this heiress of the Carnegie millions will make of her opportunity.

The Issue in this Election!

Shall Canada continue to Fight, or shall she slink from the field?

This Election is the most awful crisis in our history:—

Are we going to retain the honor of Canada, or are we to be known to the world as a nation of quitters?

Are we going to retain our place in the world's markets, or are we to lose both foreign credit and trade?

Are we going to place ourselves under the domination of the French Canadians, who, by spurning their duty in this war, made Conscription necessary?

Patriotic Canadians Carry On!

On December 17th these questions will be answered by the voters of Canada at home and overseas. The brave men and women in France who have sacrificed home comfort and loved ones for our liberty, the men and women at home who believe in Canada, believe in the cause and in the maintenance of Canada's honor, will cast their votes to

Support Union Government

The representative men of the two great political parties came together in Union Government to make Canada's effort in the war most effective in the support of our men at the front with additional forces, and to direct and control the industrial and economic life of Canada to the one end of winning the war. An additional 100,000 reinforcements are urgently needed. Union Government will continue to raise the force quickly and impartially under the provisions of the Military Service Act, 1917. Laurier, Bourassa and Quebec think we have done enough, and are in favor of deserting our men, breaking our pledge, ruining the country's credit with our allies and trailing Canada's honor in the mud of world opinion. Quebec, having failed to do her duty, is now trying to bend the rest of Canada to her will.

Wives, Mothers, Daughters and Sisters—You Have a Vote

Every women may vote who is a British subject, 21 years of age, resident in Canada one year, and in the constituency 30 days, who is the mother, wife, widow, daughter, sister or half-sister of any person, male or female, living or dead who is serving, or has served without Canada in any of the Military forces, or within or without Canada in any of the Naval forces of Canada or of Great Britain in the present war, or who has been honorably discharged from such services, and the date of whose enlistment was prior to Sept. 20, 1917.

BOWSER, HUSTLER

He'll Do the Housecleaning in an Hour by the Clock.

THAT'S HIS RASH PROMISE.

But Making Good Is Another Thing, Although He Will Not Admit It In Spite of Divers Vexations, Such as Carpet Tacks and Tricky Stepladders.

By M. QUAD.

(Copyright, [illegible] by Associated Literary Press.)

WHEN the rest of the world cleaned house last spring, Mrs. Bowser decided to let the job wait until early fall. The other day she also decided that the propitious moment had arrived, and as Mr. Bowser sat reading and smoking she asked:

"Would you mind if we had breakfast half an hour earlier than usual?"

"I guess not. But why?" he queried.

"Well, I thought I'd begin housecleaning tomorrow. I've got two women and a man coming to help me, and I want to get an early start."

"Two women and a man, eh?" mused Mr. Bowser as he laid down his paper. "Two women and a man, and it will take you a month!"

"Oh, no; I hope to get through in three days."

"In other words, Mrs. Bowser, this house is to be upset from cellar to garret for the next three days in order that a man and two women may loaf around and charge you $3 a day apiece for it. That's your way exactly. I don't believe there's another woman like you on earth!"

"Haven't I got to clean house?" she asked.

Will Do the Job Himself.

"Yes, things have got to be tumbled over once a year, I suppose, but I don't propose to be upset for three or four days nor pay out $30 in cash. What housecleaning is wanted around here can be done in one hour by the clock, [illegible] exercise to work off about three pounds of superfluous flesh. I'll change my clothes and be ready in five minutes."

HEAVED AND TUGGED.

"But you can't clean house," pleaded Mrs. Bowser as she barred his way upstairs. "Just let it go. I've thought of another plan. I'll do it, one room at a time, and all by myself."

"What's the matter that I can't clean house? You watch my smoke and see. We won't have any puttering around about it. There's no use for you to spend a week over what I can do in an hour. I'll take the parlor first, and you needn't worry."

Mrs. Bowser dropped into a chair with a groan, and Mr. Bowser jumped into an old suit and was downstairs with the stepladder in ten minutes. The family cat came up from the kitchen and saw him in his shirt sleeves and a grim look on his face, and she quietly slipped under the lounge to be in a safe place when the splinters began to fly.

"A man and two women, eh? Three days and $50 expense to clean a house! Kindly keep track of my motions."

Mrs. Bowser Retreats.

And with five twists and a yank Mr. Bowser had the furniture out of the parlor into the sitting room. The casters chirruped and the dust flew, and Mrs. Bowser dodged the dancing chairs and made her way upstairs. There were pictures and wall ornaments to come down. It would have taken Mrs. Bowser half a day to remove them, but the time consumed by Mr. Bowser was a little short of twelve minutes. That was a saving of eleven hours and forty-eight minutes to begin with. In taking the pictures down he grabbed them by the corners and gave a flirt and a twist and snapped wires or hooks and started the molding from the wall, but he was working against time. As the last picture came down the corner struck and knocked the nose off a marble bust of Shakespeare, and Mrs. Bowser called down to know what had happened.

"Nothing—nothing 'tall," replied Mr. Bowser as he picked up the nose and flung it out of the window. "You just keep quiet, and I'll show you how to do this housecleaning. I don't think we'll have to put breakfast ahead of the usual time."

In carrying the ornaments into the living room he struck a vase against a chair and shivered it, but the shiver didn't reach Mrs. Bowser, and he had nothing to complain of.

The cat purred and grinned as she looked out from her lair. Things were getting interesting. They got more interesting as Mr. Bowser, loaded up with rugs, came staggering in to trip over his own feet and come down on his knees and roll over on the broad of his back.

"I—I thought you had gone through to the cellar!" said Mrs. Bowser as she came hurrying downstairs.

"And suppose I had!" he demanded as he struggled up. "I'm bossing this job and if I want to break through the floor that's my business. You see what I've accomplished, don't you? In twenty-two minutes I have done more housecleaning than you and your crowd could have accomplished in three days. Don't come interfering. I know my gait."

The rooms having been cleared of furniture, the next thing in order was to take up the carpet. Some folks waste time by prying out the tacks, but there is another way, and Mr. Bowser caught on at once. Having got a corner loosened, he seized the border with both hands and heaved and tugged, and there was a rip, rip, rip, all along the baseboard. All he had to do was to walk around the room and heave away. Some men would have folded the carpet over and rolled it up when it was free from the floor, but Mr. Bowser didn't. No, he drew it along like a haystack. As a sort of grand windup and to reduce the height of the pile he fell on it. Two yells and a whoop followed, and the sounds jumped the cat from under the lounge and brought Mrs. Bowser downstairs on wings. He hadn't meant to yell when he fell foul of the tacks and imagined for a minute that he had kicked over a bumblebees' nest, but he was taken by surprise. However, Mrs. Bowser found him on his feet and struggling to preserve a calm and careless demeanor.

"It must have been cats fighting in the back yard," she said. "I see you've got the carpet up. The next thing is to dust the ceiling. I'll get you a feather duster."

Ups and Downs of Housecleaning.

When she had handed him the duster and disappeared Mr. Bowser advanced and kicked that heap of carpet about forty times as hard as he could swing his legs. A hundred tacks had jabbed into him and left smarting wounds, but he felt easier after the kicking. All that was needed now to finish up was to use the duster. He carried the stepladder over to a corner and mounted it and began work, and as he worked he chuckled. Mrs. Bowser had figured on standing the house on its head for two or three weeks, but he had got the best of her. Breakfast and dinner would be served at the usual hours, and he wouldn't have to climb over scrub brooms, mop sticks and pails of water to get in or out of the house.

He was using the duster about as a laborer uses a crowbar and flattering himself that the house would soon go to rack without him when some movement caused the foot of the ladder to slip. Mr. Bowser let fall the duster and grabbed something, but it was too late. He felt himself going, and he yelled "Murder!" He heard the cat pattering in over the bare floor, and he heard Mrs. Bowser on the stairs, and then he landed somewhere and saw stars dancing before him and the sound of many wheels going around was in his ears. He wasn't dead. He hadn't even broken a leg. He opened his eyes to find his head and shoulders on the floor and his feet slanting up on the haystack of a carpet. As he lay thus for a moment he heard the cook asking in an awed voice:

"Is he dead at last?"

And Mrs. Bowser's voice was also plain as she answered:

"I don't think so. I think he turned over twice on his back. Keep the cat away while I fan him."

He Knows Who Did It.

Then Mr. Bowser lost sight of stars and suns and moons, and sound of wheels died away, and he returned to consciousness. He took one leg down at a time and then slowly and with becoming dignity stood up and leaned against the wall. The cook withdrew and the cat walked away, and Mrs. Bowser was left face to face with whatever might come. It was not long coming.

"I see, I understand," whispered Mr. Bowser, as he nodded his head.

"You—you had a fall."

"Yes; attempted assassination. Who sneaked down here and kicked that stepladder from under me? Who I say, who? who? who?" and, pointing the accusing finger of justice at Mrs. Bowser, he slowly and laboriously climbed his way upstairs and left her with her conscience.

Writing Travel Books.

A certain lady who was traveling in Canada, collecting data for her next book, stayed with a farmer's wife. When a farmer came in from the fields he stopped some time to rub his gum boots on the doormat. "Where is your husband?" asked the visitor. "I thought I heard him at the door?" "He's cleanin' his 'gums' on the mat, ma'am, said the farmer's wife. When the book was sent to the publisher this passage caught his attention: "Canadian settlers in the out of the way districts can't get tooth brushes, so they use the doormat!"

ORIGIN OF ESKIMOS.

Traced Musically by Christian Leden, Explorer.

Primitive music hitherto has been little regarded from the standpoint of racial history. Such facts as have been gathered about tribal rhythms and melodies have been much exploited as material for the composition of exotic-sounding pieces for the modern concert hall, but they have been little applied to the comparative study of lost or disappearing civilizations. If some traveler to-day discovers a folk tune in Abyssinia inevitably some composer to-morrow will write an "Abyssinian" intermezzo for full orchestra, with a number of new instruments added. If an antiquarian goes into the back country of Peru and brings out a strange melody from the mountain people, a musician is sure to seize upon it at once as the theme of an aria for an Inca opera.

Breaking away from the idea that the present use of a folk tune is what counts for most, Christian Leden, the Arctic explorer, has investigated Eskimo music in Greenland with the purpose of learning its past significance.

Starting with the idea that the origins of a race can be studied as well through music as through spoken lore, he has taken phonographic records of Eskimo singing as he has heard it under both domestic and ceremonial conditions. The way that a people expresses itself in music does not change so much, according to him, as does its way of expressing itself through other forms of culture. The Eskimos of the present time, as he has noted his theories to interviewers, have the same manner of vocal delivery, the same way of putting a stress on a tone and the same method for constructing a melody that their ancestors had centuries ago.

Going on the theory that races have permanent traits of voice rhythm and tune, Mr. Leden has compared his records of Eskimo singing with his own and other travelers' records of American Indian singing; and he has come to the conclusion that the Eskimo tribes of Greenland and the Indian tribes of both North and South America have a common ancestry. In fact, he holds that he has found a strong argument showing the Eskimos to be descendants of American Indians who were driven northward perhaps thousands of years ago and who have since remained isolated there.

One of the peculiarities which the explorer, talking informally with journalists, has mentioned as common to Eskimo and American Indian singing is a sliding, or glissando, accent of important phrases. There are other details which he has submitted to ethnologists. He has yet to make a complete popular presentation of his researches.

War Killing Politics.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie recently remarked, in speaking of his adherence to the war policy of Sir Robert Borden, that if people accused him of turning his political coat, he would tell them that he had taken his political coat off until the war ended. Such a sentiment has long been popular amongst those who place their country before party. In some countries, notably in the United Kingdom, they are going even further, and thinking seriously of taking off their political coats for good and all. Such is, at any rate, one of the aims of the new national party.

AMBASSADOR GIVES INTERVIEW

Even if Russia Makes Separate Peace, Will Not Be Punished.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 10.—Sir George Buchanan, British ambassador, in an interview with Russian journalists, according to a Reuter despatch from Petrograd, assured them of British sympathy for the Russian people and denied absolutely the reports that Great Britain contemplated coercive and punitive action in the event of Russia making a separate peace. The British Government, the ambassador is reported to have said, was entitled to complain of the action of the Bolsheviki government in negotiating with the enemy, but did not wish to induce an unwilling ally to continue to share the common effort by appealing to treaty rights. Great Britain, he added, was ready as soon as a stable government was established, to examine with it the aims of the war and the possible conditions for just and durable peace. She wished to stand by Russia in this critical hour.

JERUSALEM HAS AT LAST FALLEN INTO THE HANDS OF THE BRITISH

Surrender by Turks of Holy City Announced in British Commons—Has Been in Possession of the Mohammedans for Over One Thousand Years.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 10. — Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced in the House of Commons today that Jerusalem, after being surrounded on all sides by British troops, has surrendered.

WHAT THE CAPTURE MEANS

The capture of Jerusalem by the British marked the end, with two brief interludes, of more than 1,200 years' possession of the seat of the Christian religion by the Mohammedans. For 653 years the Holy City has been in undisputed ownership of the Turks, the last Christian ruler of Jerusalem being the German emperor Frederick II., whose short-lived domination lasted from 1229 to 1242.

Apart from its connection with the campaign being waged against Turkey by the British in Mesopotamia, the fall of Jerusalem marks the definite collapse of the long-protracted efforts of the Turks to capture the Suez canal and invade Egypt. The first move made by Turkey after her entrance into the war was a campaign against Egypt across the great desert of the Sinai Peninsula.

A City of Pestilence.

In sentimental and romantic aspect the capture of Jerusalem far exceeds even the fall of the fable crowned Bagdad. The modern city of Jerusalem contains about sixty thousand inhabitants and is the home of pestilence, filth and fevers but in historic interest it naturally surpasses to the Christian world all other places in the world.

The Conqueror.

General Sir Edmund Henry Allenby, the victor of Jerusalem, was transferred to the command of the British forces in Egypt which have conducted the Palestine campaign. In June of this year he was in command of the third British army in the western front. During 1914 and ahead of this army, General Allenby commanded the British right wing in the battle of Arras, beginning on Easter Monday of this year.

Raids Driven Off.

London, Dec. 10.—A raid undertaken by the Germans last night southwest of Labassee was driven off before reaching our lines. Another party of the enemy which attacked one of our posts east of Klein—Zellebeke was repulsed with loss to the assailants.

Fighting in Alsace.

Paris, Dec. 10.—The artillery fighting was violent for a time in Alsace and also on the right bank of the Meuse in the region of Chambrette, says the official reports today. An enemy raid against our small posts south of Corbeny was repulsed.

Quiet With Germans.

Berlin, via London, Dec. 10.— A supplementary statement issued by the German war office reads: "There is nothing of importance to report from any theatre."

VARTY FREED ON ARSON CHARGE

Pleads Not Guilty to Charge of Perjury.

In police court this morning the Crown offered no evidence in the charge of arson preferred against Walter Varty of Havelock, and County Magistrate Langley, who sat in the absence of Magistrate Dumble, dismissed the charge. Counsel's application for an order for costs was refused.

Varty pleaded "not guilty" to the charge of perjury in connection with obtaining a certificate under the Military Service Act, to the effect that his parents cultivated fifty acres of land and that he was always on the farm during the winter months.

The Crown was not ready to proceed, and the hearing was adjourned to Dec. 28 at Havelock. Bail of $1000 offered by accused's parents was accepted.

PTE. V. A. HENRY NOW MISSING

One of the Gallant Lads Who Fought and Won at Cambrai.

City Assessor Henry has received a telegram from Ottawa, informing him that his son Private V. A. Henry, is officially reported missing. Pte. Henry enlisted with the 8th Mounted Rifles in January, 1915. At that time he held the rank of sergeant, but when the company went overseas, he reverted to the ranks in order to join the Fort Gerry Horse. He has been on active duty in France for over two years, and took part in the famous charge of that regiment at Cambrai on November 20th, which is generally recognized as the most brilliant cavalry operation in all the history of war. It was in this engagement that he was reported missing. His parents have just received a letter from him written two days before the battle. Private Henry was about twenty-four years old. He was a member of the 57th regiment and graduate of the Collegiate Institute, and a member of St. Andrew's Church. He spent a number of years in Kewanee, Ill., but returned to his native city in order to enter the service of the Empire.

DISASTER NOT A JUDGMENT; IT IS A NEED

God Cannot Do What He Wants To Do Because We Have Not Repented.

REV. J. R. WEBB'S SERMON

Events of the Past Seven Years Teach That God Is Not To Be Mocked.

"God cannot do for Canada what he wants to do, and for the rest of the world because we have not repented. I don't believe we have seen the last of this thing and the worst of it. There are some things that God cannot do. The disaster at Halifax is not a judgment but a need."

These striking words were uttered by Rev. J. R. Webb at Murray Street Baptist Church last night when he preached on the subject "Some things God cannot do." "We've all been willing to do our bit, if we can have some fun in connection with it, and we're unwilling to do it if we can't have some fun. The sackcloth is rough, the Ashes is gratey," said the preacher as he endeavored to impress upon his congregation the fact that God's attitude to sin has not changed, that there can be no compromise with sin, and that the world must suffer until it gets down on its knees before the throne of grace, and seeks repentance.

God Not To Be Mocked.

"God cannot do some things because of our opposition. The wickedness of the world caused the war. It was not the wickedness of Germany alone. The events of the past seven years teaches us that God is not to be mocked. We were shocked at the loss of the Titanic and we said this thing cannot happen again. Yet the words were hardly out of our mouth when the Empress of Ireland went down. Then came the outbreak of war. It was followed by what? A feeble, lethargic, shameful and piping voice to the call of our ministers for prayer. Then we got accustomed to war, and we began to boast. The boast of the Germans that they would be in Paris by Christmas, found in us an echo that we would be in Berlin. Since then a thousand Titanics have gone to the bottom, thousands upon thousands of our men have gone 'over the top' and millions of our men have died or have been wounded.

Mr. Webb went on to speak of the terrible events at Halifax, and said that the disaster was not a judgment but a need. "Everything is done not because God is mighty to destroy but because He is mighty to save." The sermon was brought to a conclusion by an appeal for individual repentance and acceptance of Jesus Christ.

PREMIER'S SECRETARY WRITES A GRAPHIC STORY OF DISASTER

Walked Through Streets of Halifax Soon After the Explosion—Distruction More Complete Than in Shell-Torn Towns of Flanders.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Halifax, Dec. 10. — Revised figures in connection with the casualties resulting from the explosion here follow:

Known dead, 1,200; unidentified, 900; missing, 2,000; wounded, 8,000; homeless, 25,000.

All Germans in the city are being placed under arrest.

Toronto, Dec. 10.—George Yates, Premier Borden's private secretary, who toured the devastated district of Halifax within twenty-four hours of the explosion, has written a graphic pen picture of this terrible tragedy. Following is part of his story:

"The catastrophe is almost too dreadful to admit of description in coherent, matter-of-fact English, and too complete for adequate portrayal by means of an indiscriminating camera. To properly appreciate it one must be able to conjure up a picture of what once was in contrast with what no longer is.

Where Stroke Was Felt.

"I have visited Halifax on many occasions, have seen the North street station area, Richmond and Willow Park in normal times and when swollen with the abnormal flux of war. I have seen the panoramic beauty of the Dartmouth shore at all seasons, and always in restful contrast to the somewhat sombre, decidedly crowded and for the most part frame constructed district that sloped back from the tracks up the hill on which this historic old city stands. It was the same district of the working classes with here and there an isolated though stately relic of other times. It was this hard-working, wage-earning community that Thursday morning's tragedy wiped out. This is the exactly proper phrase. In the hard shelled towns of Flanders some walls do stand after the intenseest bombardment. Here a single devastating blast passed up the hill, and in the twinkling of an eye crushed the breath of life out of two thousand people and rendered twenty thousand homeless and destitute.

Pictures of Desolation.

"This morning I walked over what had been a dwelling among the debris of which an old man worked alone. It was merely a flattened heap of wreckage, offering no obstruction to the eye and very little to the feel. What had been a back yard looked out over the exact scene of the explosion. Imagine ye with intact rooms and snug double windows, the depressing influence of a terrific gale of wet, clinging snow sweeping over a city with scarcely a pane of glass intact and carrying its chill contact in falling temperature over thousands of beds of pain. On the shore less than 200 yards away lay the war gray prow of a steamer, all that was left of the Mont Blanc, so I was informed. To the right over on the Dartmouth shore, hard aground but seemingly not in bad shape, lay the Norwegian Belgian relief ship which collided with the French boat with its dreadful cargo. To the left a few sunken piles, and one distorted steamer slammed bodily against a pile of wreckage which had once been the dock, was all that was left of piers six, seven, eight and nine.

A Rendezvous With Death.

To these piers had come the fire chief and his deputy and men and when the alarm of fire was turned in and to the same spot hurried Reporter Ronayne of the Chronicle who had gossiped cheerily with me in my room in the Queen's hotel when the Prime Minister opened his campaign in Halifax the other week. Soldiers who hurried to scene, how many I do not know, but I have talked with one man who told me he end another had found at one point at least a score of bodies of men who though stripped of cloth and in some instances even of flesh were quite evidently military men because of the scraps of khaki rags in their emmediate vicinity. It was indeed a rendezvous with death and death overtook even the men who turned in the alarm.

The third anniversary of the opening of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Ashburnham was celebrated yesterday. The day services were conducted by Rev. Dean McColl, assisted by Rev. Fr. HALIFAX DEAD LAID AWAY IN COMMON GRAVE

Soldiers and Civilians Who Could Not Be Identified Are Buried Together.

GENERAL SERVICE WAS HELD

Scores of Those Reported Missing Have Turned Up Safe.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Halifax, Dec. 10.—In Fairview cemetery, where lie the victims of the Titanic and the Burgoyne, the great marine disasters of the past, many of the dead from last Thursday's disaster were laid to rest in first long trenches this morning. General services were held for all denominations. A number of dead soldiers were given nameless graves, it being impossible to identify them, as being on the home service there were no distinctions. A large number of civilians were also interred unidentified.

Relief parties continue to pour in from all directions. Fine weather today assisted in the search of the ruins, and many more bodies were taken out. Scores of those reported missing have turned up and rejoined their families.

TELEGRAM FROM MISS MUNRO

STATES SHE WAS NOT INJURED IN THE DISASTER AT HALIFAX.

One hour before Mr. R. J. Munro was to leave the Munro House for the C. P. R. station to go to Halifax on Saturday night he received a telegram from his daughter, Miss Irene Munro, saying that she was safe and well.

A CALL TO OUR PEOPLE TO HELP HALIFAX.

Halifax today as a city rivals the devastated lands and places of Belgium and Northern France. The disaster that has overtaken the city is the greatest in the annals of Canada. All the continent of America joins in rushing to the city in ruins prompt and practical relief.

Peterborough is asked to join in the movement. To our sister city we must not fail to answer the call.

The City Council here has made an appropriation to be at once expended in providing such things as are most urgently needed and as specified in a communication from the mayor of Halifax. These were to be materials to render such houses as would admit of temporary repair habitable. Glass, beaver board, roofing materials, etc.

Bedding and such things as will contribute to household use are desperately needed. Many offers have been made to Mayor Duffus to contribute. Mrs. James Kendry makes a gift of fifty pairs of blankets. From the appropriation one hundred pairs will also be procured. There cannot be too many. Bedding and clothing will be most acceptable.

The 57th Chapter, I. O. D. E., has advised that it will hand in a large number of pairs of socks. The Red Cross organization has promised to contribute most liberally Other local bodies are arranging to assist, each in its way.

General contributions are asked. Anything that is sensible and helpful will be valued. The Council is arranging to have a car loaded and dispatched, if possible, by Wednesday. All contributions may be notified to the City Clerk's office, and they will be sent for, or anything that can be delivered can be left in charge of Chief Grange at the Firehall. That building will be headquarters until the car is loaded.

Let Peterborough do its share and do it quickly. Those who can contribute funds may do so to the City Clerk, and the money will be used to purchase additional quantities of such materials as the Council is providing.

Please act promptly. He who helps quickly helps most.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1917

THE ELEMENTS WORK AGAINST HIM.

EVEN THE FORCES of Nature seem to have enlisted in the campaign to accomplish the defeat of Mr. Hall. The storm of Saturday night tore from its moorings the streamer which pointed the wayfarer to his committee rooms on Hunter street, and deposited the piece of bunting, as limp as a discarded dishrag, at the portals of the rival institution over the way. The same storm delayed the train and prevented the arrival of Mr. Heyd, a Toronto lawyer, and K.C. no less, whom Mr. Hall had billed to speak at his Saturday night love-feast for the edification of the unterrified.

It is really too bad that Mr. Heyd, K.C., was not able to keep his appointment. His address would at least have provided the people of Peterborough with diversion and would have illustrated just to what extent a man can go in the matter of sportive political exaggeration. In the first place he would have unmercifully roasted all corporation lawyers; at least, that is what he does in every one of his addresses reported in the Toronto papers, utterly disregarding the fact that he is one himself and that Mr. Hall has prospered beyond at least a modest dream of avarice by following the same line of endeavor.

Mr. Heyd has another oratorical sky-rocket, an impassioned panegyric upon Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He is given somewhat to paying but indifferent regard to existing facts. For example, he stretches his imagination and imposes too great a burden upon the credulity of his audience when he makes the statement that in the new Union Cabinet there is neither a Labor representative nor a farmer. There are both, but lawyers, and Toronto lawyers especially, must have their little joke it seems, regardless of the effect upon the unoffending and unsuspecting public.

The storm of Saturday night blew cold and dismal, the heavy snowfall was an inconvenience to pedestrians and a check on the Saturday night trade of the merchants. Still it had its compensations. It kept Mr. Heyd and his political pipe dreams at a safe distance.

The attendance at the Saturday night pow-wow was painfully small. Mr. Hall had failed to advertise a stellar local attraction as he had done on a previous occasion, and so drew to his meeting a tolerable attendance out of sheer curiosity.

MORE SOUR GRAPES.

MR. HALL HAS in his campaign encountered another bunch of grapes that he realizes are beyond his reach, and, turning up his nose scornfully, he, Reynard-like, declares that they are sour anyway. One week ago he practically announced that the soldiers' vote was not for him and that he hoped to be elected without it. Saturday night he spoke lightly of the united effort the women of the city are making on behalf of Union Government, with unjustifiable sneers at society leaders posing as political workers. The new movement has drawn from Mr. Hall an ill-natured growl of protest. When he talks of women praying for the success of the cause he makes it clear that a prayer does not alarm him half as much as does the vote that will back up the petition. Here is the man who, when occasion calls for it, professes to be a friend of equal suffrage. When he realizes that the tide has set in against him, he scoffs at women in politics and declares that society leaders are out of place in a campaign.

A CAMPAIGN OF REASON.

WHEN A SMALL BOY maliciously creates a din in the back yard with the object of annoying the next-door neighbor, he is naturally disappointed and inclined to be resentful when his performance excites neither notice nor reprisal. Mr. Hall's campaign methods have aroused no opposition. No meetings are being held to offset those which he addresses in various parts of the riding. His exaggerated statements and far-fetched arguments, his importation of Toronto lawyers, cause not a ripple on the smooth surface of the opposition. Mr. Hall and his efforts are not taken seriously. Hence his grouch.

The present campaign is one in which the hope of the nation lies in the reason rather than in the passion of the people. Mr. Hall, the harder he works, must feel the ground slipping from under his feet. The fact is that he is growing more and more defiant, more and more given to exaggerated and unwarranted statements, as the time goes by. Trailing his coat behind him to provoke a combat, he is exasperated because there are none who accept the challenge.

In this campaign as in no other that Canada has ever seen, the people are doing their own thinking. They are not following either cunningly- or clumsily-devised fables. They take no stock in any of Mr. Hall's artifices to mislead them. Even if they were concerned with such matters as the C. N. R., they are well able to form their own opinions. The war is the great issue. The patriotic sentiment of the people is concentrated upon that question, as Mr. Hall seems to be realizing the further he goes in his canvass.

Mr. Hall has reduced the campaign to a ghastly joke when he adopts some of the baby politics first launched by his party organ. His effort to make capital out of the removal of the Metal Products Company from this city is the pitiable clutching of a drowning man at a floating straw. Mr. G. N. Gordon, Mr. Hall's man Friday in this contest, the man of many parts, who is working for his election, the man who posed as an independent to catch the hesitating voters, who sought to land the soldiers' vote, the Lothario selected to woo the ladies with the franchise, was the local attorney for the company whose departure Mr. Hall bemoans and charges to Capt. Burnham and the Government. Mr. Gordon should know as well as any man in the city just why the Metal Products people shifted their location. Anyway the voters of this riding are convinced that Capt. Burnham is no more to blame for their departure than he was for the collapse of the company that occupied the building before the Metal Products Company and which the financial and moral support of Mr. Hall himself could not save from bankruptcy

FAITH AND WORKS.

"IT WILL TAKE more than women's prayers to elect Capt. Burnham," says Mr. Hall, with something more than the suspicion of a sneer in his tone.

Quite so. Faith without works is dead, and prayers without action are equally ineffective. But just now, fortunately, the women are able to vote as they pray, and the combination is certain to achieve its purpose

WHY MILK IS DEAR.

IN THE GRAY LIGHT of dawn this morning, in the cold and the snow, three milk wagons were noticed in one block delivering milk to the residents. And yet some people wonder why milk is dear. The dealers themselves probably wonder, when they count their receipts, why there is little or nothing in a business that entails so much hard work, so much exposure to all kinds of weather, such early hours of labor.

Competition is generally supposed to be the life of trade. Carried to excess, it may destroy what it is intended to enliven. In theory it is regarded as one means to reduce to consumers the cost of commodities. In practice it often has the reverse effect. Theoretically at least the dealer with a large field and an assured line of customers is the one who can afford to sell at a reasonable profit.

This overlapping in the delivery of milk has long been recognised as an economic evil in this city as well as in other large centres. Competition in this line has become an actual absurdity. Attempts to correct the condition, to institute something like order in the business, have been made, only to fail dismally. The milk pedlers at once suspect an Ethiopian in the fence when the matter is broached to them. It seems impossible for them to get together. Each man has a particular district, which he may have served for years, and which he is loath to turn over to a rival even in what would be regarded by a disinterested party as a fair exchange.

Some means ought to be found for eliminating this wasteful feature of the milk trade. The Food Controller has an excellent opportunity to render the public a real service by reducing this industry to something like a system. If municipal councils lack authority to take action, then such authority should be conferred upon them by the Federal powers, and a saving of at least two cents a quart effected for the consumers.

MR. ROWELL AND LABOR.

MR. N. W. ROWELL, one of the Liberal members of the Union Cabinet, said when he spoke at the Borden meeting here, that Labor was to have a representative in the Government besides the member of that party who has already been taken in. He has repeated this pledge at every meeting at which he has spoken since. The Labor Department is to be remodeled and the workingmen of the party will be represented by some man on whom they agree.

Labor already has a friend at court in the person of Mr. Rowell. His record on the Labor question is before the people. As a member of the Ontario Legislature he has interested himself in every measure which concerned the welfare of the workingmen. He has always advocated shorter hours for women and children who are compelled to work. He voted, too, for the Workmen's Compensation Act, one of the best measures ever enacted for the benefit of the workers. He voted with the Government a year ago when the terms of that law were extended and its provisions made more generous in the matter of medical attendance for the victims of industrial accidents.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

HALL, BOURASSA, Laurier, a referendum, and quit the war.

• • • •

NO FRIEND of the soldiers can afford to vote for Mr. Hall.

• • • •

THE UNITED STATES still has faith that Canada will stand true to its pledge.

• • • •

AS THE WORLD grows older and more enlightened it has less use for the campaign orator.

• • • •

SIR WILFRID LAURIER may have an honored past, but an honored past will not win the war.

• • • •

WHO WOULD propose a referendum on the question of sending aid to the sufferers by the Halifax disaster?

• • • •

A VOTE for Mr. Hall means a vote for Laurier. A vote for Laurier means no reinforcements for the soldiers.

• • • •

DO YOU WANT Henri Bourassa to have a say in spending that money you subscribed to the Victory Loan?

• • • •

MR. HALL HAS learned from his whirl around the circle that Laurierism has nothing to dread quite so much as the man or woman who thinks.

• • • •

MAJOR ANDREW MACPHAIL, just back from the front, told an audience of Montreal women that the Canadian army has no reserves. Mr. Hall says there are 100,000 idle Canadian soldiers in England. More fiction.

CANADIAN SOLDIERS WANT VOTES IN ADDITION TO COMFORTS

There has been nothing more beautiful since the war began than the devotion of the women-folk of the soldiers to their men living in discomfort and danger. They have in the great majority of cases abandoned every other interest in life and given themselves up entirely to working for the boys at the front. They knit them warm socks for the wet trenches—they send them heavy sweaters to keep out the searching cold of a Flemish winter—they ship them all sorts of comfortable garments and familiar delicacies—they equip hospitals in which they may chance any day to lie with everything thinkable to restore their strength and while away the tedious time.

Their minds can dwell upon nothing but their best beloved on the battlefront—how they can comfort them, sustain them, keep them in good health and good heart and enable them to press on like good soldiers. Is it conceivable, then, that these same devoted women-folk of our magnificent men in the army will deliberately deny to these men the one thing they most covet? Is it conceivable that they will work night and day to give these soldier boys of theirs mere bodily comfort, and then will not spare half an hour to cast a vote which will give them what they value immeasurably more—the reinforcements which will bring victory?

Touch the elbow of any Canadian soldier at the front and ask him what is the single, big, dazzling thing he wants out of all the best gifts the world can offer! Will he say "another pair of socks"? Will he say "a jar of jam"? It is too ridiculous to dwell on these trivialities, no matter how grateful and necessary they are. The all-engrossing, dominating, towering thought in the soldier's mind which dwarfs everything else, is beating the Boches and saving civilization.

There ought to be no trouble in our visualizing this even away over here in peaceful Canada. Our boys are risking their lives in Europe, and we may be very sure they are doing this for no slight object. All the comfort-bringing things we do for them only enable them to "carry on" and take this deadly risk for a longer time. The big thing is the risk—not the hardships or the sufferings. The big thing, in a word, is their being there at all. And why are they there? To win the war!—that and that alone.

What they want their women-folk to do for them above everything else is to help them win the war. They enjoy comfort, but with every drop of blood in their veins they demand victory. They will die willingly if they can be assured that those who come after them will persevere until they have won victory. They themselves cannot win this victory alone. They hoped to do so when they enlisted but the fates have been against them. Russia has fallen into disorder and Italy has suffered a terrible check. More and more troops must now come if victory is to be obtained. And that is what they supremely desire to be assured of today.

They look back to their women-folk in Canada to vote solidly for the steady stream of reinforcemnts which is to win the victory, whether they happily live to see it or not. Their chances of living to see it will be greatly increased with every new regiment which the Canadian electors, men and women, vote to send over. Every new regiment not only brings the victory nearer, but relieves the strain on the men now under arms. It brings three things—relief, hope and victory, but the greatest of these is victory.

It is impossible to believe that this appeal from the fathers, husbands, brothers and sons at the front will be disregarded by their sincerely loving and anxiously listening and devotedly laboring women-folk at home. They will vote as they have been working and longing and hoping. They will not give their beloved everything else but deny them this one thing most desperately desired.

TODAY'S STORY

"The story book detective," observed the visitor, "always has a lot of special knowledge. He can analyze the ashes of a cigar and tell just what it cost and what sort of a band it had around it. He can pick up a button and describe the suit it came from and the variety of the suspenders the owner wore."

"There's a good deal of nonsense about that sort of stuff," said the chief of police, "but there's truth in it, too. The more a detective knows the better for him. The first class sleuth absorbs all kinds of information and some of it is likely to be useful any day.

"When I was a boy I had to earn my living and I had experience in a dozen different trades. I worked in a sawmill and a woolen mill, in a village store, on a farm and at various other occupations. I didn't stick at any one of them long enough to learn much, but the little I did learn has been useful in my police work a score of times.

"One of the first things done in the operation of making cloth is to run the wool through a machine called the picker. Before running it through, however, it is sprinkled with lard oil. After this the wool goes through the carding machines and I operated a set of these machines for several months.

"The combination of lard oil and wool makes a peculiar smell like no other fragrance I know of. It is very penetrating. It soaks into your clothes and your hide and hair and you can hardly get rid of it without boiling yourself.

"Years afterward I made my debut as a sleuth in a western town. There wasn't much high class crime that would give an ambitious young man a chance to distinguish himself, but the cops had been worried for a long time because they couldn't locate a robber who had been entering business houses at night and getting away with the contents of the cash drawers.

"These robberies had been going on so long that the police were feeling foolish and the newspapers were joshing them heartlessly. There wasn't a man on the detective force who wouldn't have given his halldom to get that burglar.

"One night, just before I went into effect as an officer, the robber had a narrow escape. He was seen leaving a store by the back door. The cops chased him and shot at him and tried to hypnotize him into stopping, but he got away. However, he dropped his hat in his flight. The police got busy with the hat, but it seemed a hopeless job trying to locate the owner. There were a million lids just like it in that part of the country.

"When I went to work the chief told me he'd give me half his kingdom and his daughter in marriage if I'd get that robber, and handed me the hat as being the only clew. I examined it narrowly and lifted it to my nose and smelled it. Where had I known that queer rancid aroma? Gradually the memory came to me as I stood there sniffing.

"I asked whether there was a woolen mill near. Yes, there was one a few miles down the river. I went there and got my man, a chap who worked in the carding room, and helped out his meager wages by tapping the tills in town. That's one instance of special knowledge."

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

(By Lee Pape.)

WINTER.

Winter is the time of yeer
Wen the sound of slay bells fills the air,
Exsept erround the equator
And wen the ground is bare.

The snow begins with a teeny flake
And ends in a grate big pile,
Being a wonderfill sito to see at ferst
But not after its been there a wile.

Beneeth 32 degrees things begin to freeze,
Espeshilly fingers and toes,
Wich the gerls look grate with their cheeks all red,
But not the ends of their nose.

A Eskimo dont mind the cold
On account of the way he is dressed,
Wile civilized ladies dont even mind
it
With ony their skin on their chest.

Trees lose their leaves in winter,
And flowirs lose their bees,
The rosebush loses its roses,
And the dogs all lose their flees.

Some prefers summer to winter,
And some prefers spring or fall,
But no matter wich they wood rather have,
Everybody gets them all.

Wit and Wisdom

The Coat He Bought.

A man paid a visit to the famed Petticoat lane in London and bought a coat, which he regarded as a bargain. On reaching home, however, his wife found that he had been sadly taken in. Back went the deluded man to the Hebrew vender "Here, I say, this coat you sold me is full o' moths!" he explained. "Vell," replied the old Jew, "vat did you expect for the money—butterflies?"

Why He Quit.

A north side woman having occasion to go to a small cleaning and dyeing establishment, where she had not been for some months, was surprised to find the store occupied by an entirely different line of business. Going inside she asked the new shopkeeper why Schmidt had moved away and where he could be found.

"Schmidt?" he replied. "Oh, he died and went out of business two months ago."

Grew Up With the Country.

"You have been here a long time, I suppose," said a pompous English traveller to an old hunter in Oregon, who had been acting as his guide.

"You bet I have," said the hunter; and then, pointing to Mount Hood, he continued: "You see that mountain there? Well, sir, when I first came to this country that mountain was a hole in the ground!"

The Thoughtful Driver.

A London taxi driver had an elderly lady as his fare the other day. On arriving at her home she gave him the legal fare—1 shilling—along with a food economy pamphlet headed: "How To Live on Sixpence a Day."

"Excuse me miss," said he, handing back the pamphlet, "I couldn't think of taking this from you, because in the absence of the information it contains you might be tempted to live beyond your hincome."

A Valid Excuse.

A boy pupil in a public school had sought leave for the afternoon.

"So, Sammy," said the teacher, "you wish to be excused from school after 2 o'clock."

"Yes, ma'am."

"Is your excuse a good one or is it baseball?"

"Both, ma'am."

HOLIDAY NEWS OF THE SHOPS

Blue china in its long career has gathered a certain symbolism with it, and is still the preferred breakfast set in many homes. A new set, or a gift of blue china, is always a good purchase. The new arrivals are mostly of Danish manufacture, but they are of the same depth of coloring that characterized the Belgian importations. The blue china can be purchased from random stock or in complete sets. The prices of the ware are moderate. A breakfast set of twenty-three pieces in a penetrating blue traced with borders of white was seen for $6.50.

We used to carry a porcelain teapot to grandmother on Christmas day and hold to it tight with our red one-finger mitts. It was a very popular gift and ought to be again. The charm of the teapots arrayed for holiday trade are most attractive. The new flourish displayed is the aluminum inset which is said to flavor the tea more scientifically. Blue porcelain, flower trellised pots in crockery, and teapots bound with bases of silver, were seen. A fine, stately teapot of porcelain with one of those new inside contrivances can be purchased for $1.25.

The departments given over to silverware in the shops are magic places just now. A generation ago the use of silver was generally restricted to knives and spoons and forks and candelabra, but today choice can be made of pudding pans, to vacuum bottles. Cocktail glasses in silver frames, wafer compotes, sauce-boats, relish dishes and sherbet glasses are some of the smaller pieces whose price varies around $5 and $10.

As regularly as the holidays come around the ice cream freezers in much metaphorical flurry disclaim all association with seasons. They are again being put forward conspicuously in the shops. Perhaps it is because of the increase in cost of upkeep, or threat of sweetless days, but a good freezer, heavy fine glazed can, is to be had for $3.50.

Browsing for distinctive and useful oddities that would make pleasing gifts, a shoe shining stand appeared to answer both requirements. They come complete with all the bootblack's paraphernalia of brush, iron shoe, polish and rags, and can be had from $2.50 upward. Without the "makins" they sell at $1.25 and more, according to the quality of wood in the stand.

Many housewives have learned from experience that the hardware stores and electric shops are fine marketing places. Casseroles, chafing dishes, toasters and grills and tree lighting outfits are some of the articles from which a good choice can be made in these shops.

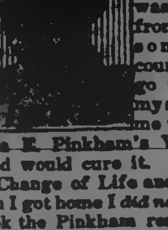
HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



Nashville, Tenn.—"When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it." —Mrs. E. H. BEAN, 525 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a pure remedy containing the extractive properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, meets the needs of woman's system at this critical period of her life. Try it.

If there is any symptom in your case which puzzles you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Half Truths.

Half truths are often more calumnious than whole falsehoods. Not a word may be uttered, but a half suppressed innuendo, a dropped lip, an arched eyebrow, a shrugged shoulder, a significant look, an incredulous expression of countenance—nay, even an emphatic silence—may do the injurious work.

Highly Estimable.

"Half a loaf is better than no bread," said the philosopher.

"There's no doubt about the respect to which half a loaf is entitled," replied the plain person. "It costs as much as a whole loaf used to."

STOKING UP IN COLD WEATHER

THE BODY, LIKE THE FURNACE, REQUIRES FUEL IN WINTER.

With the approach of cold weather it is time for the body, like any other furnace or heating device, to use more fuel. The fuel which is burned most easily in the body is fat or sugar. Both of these, when taken into the stomach and distributed through the blood act exactly like coal does in the fire pot.

The body needs about twice as much fat and sugar in winter as it could possibly stand in summer. That is why fried foods, richer gravies and the many kinds of griddle cake and dumpling forms of food are valuable in cold weather, whereas in summer they are positively dangerous.

The more a person is outdoors the more fuel also his body demands. The oxygen in the air we breathe acts just like an open draft in the stovepipe and burns up more fuel. That is why men who drive wagons, who are car conductors, etc., or children who romp vigorously in snow and outdoors need such quantities of solid food.

It is well known that men at lumber camps and on shipboard and at similar work in the open can digest perfectly immense quantities of salt pork, beans and boiled pudding, which the indoor worker would become positively sick to eat. It is a mistake, however, to stoke up heavily if one's work is sitting at a desk all day or doing excessive brain work.

Children need attention at this time. Because they always seem so ravenously hungry, we are inclined to let them overeat of the wrong food, like cornmeal or oatmeal mush, eggs and milk dishes and sweets in the form of dates, figs and sweet chocolate. No amount of bulk, like quantities of soup, for instance, will make up for the lack of solid nutriment needed at this season of the year.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Peterborough, Nov. 19, 1917.

True in Every Language.

Tennyson once attended a dinner where G. L. Craik proposed "The Ladies." In doing so he recalled the cynical advice given by a brother Scot to his children: "Tak my advice and dinna marry for siller. You can borrow cheaper."

Some time later Tennyson at his own table repeated Mr. Craik's story, but expressed the idea without attempting dialect. His son, Hallam, remarked, "Surely, father, Craik did not use those words."

"No, he did not; but, then, Craik is a Scotchman, and I am afraid to venture on repeating him exactly. However, it's almost as good in English as in Scotch, and it's tremendously true in both."

EYES OF THE CIVILIZED WORLD NOW CENTERED ON JERUSALEM

Contending Armies Never Fought More Fiercely for the Golden City Than Christians and Moslems are Fighting Today.

Under the wheels of British guns and beneath the clumsy tread of army camels the dust of five thousand years of history is being stirred in Palestine.

From Dan to Beersheba, the echoes of British artillery are reverberating, while resolute men in British khaki stand just outside the walls of the Holy City.

General Allenby, a modern Samson, has carried off the gates of Gaza, and, by a series of brilliant military strokes, he is threatening the dominance of the Crescent in Palestine.

For ages Jerusalem has been a glittering gem over which the nations of the world have wrangled. Never was the Holy City a more vital possession than at this moment, nor a possession for which contending armies fought more fiercely.

The British drive across Palestine is as important as the German drive across northern Italy.

Beersheba, Gaza, Hebron, Ascalon. The very names are redolent of romance scented with the reverent incense of antiquity. These were names known in the streets of Babylon and Nineveh. Thebes and Luxor learned them from the lips of Hebrew slaves.

When Troy was young these towns were old. They have been plundered and sacked by countless conquerors and always have they waited for the last deliverer.

These men of the army of deliverance entered Palestine by way of the sea, by way of the desert and by way of Beersheba. Egypt from which countless raids on the northern lands had been made in bygone centuries saw some of the preparations, so did those grim wastes below Mount Sinai where Moses heard the thunders of the law.

The wraiths of conquered people and victors long since dead must have stirred as the Australian corps rode out of the dessert in a whirl of golden dust just like the bygone conquerors save that in place of the standards and banners of chivalry a flock of aeroplanes led the way.

Drink From Abraham's Well.

Beersheba fell, Beersheba, named from the pact recorded in Genesis and the seven lambs that sealed it.

Dusty men in brown uniforms drank from the well which Father Abraham himself dug. They passed under the shadow of Mount Moriah where Abraham led his son Isaac to the sacrifice.

In that desert, from which the Australians came Agar wandered with her son Ishmael when Abraham drove them from his tent. And in that tragic stretch of sand Elias the prophet hid himself when he fled from the wrath of Queen Jezebel.

Gaza fell. Gaza to which came Samson to deliver his race.

Here it was that the Philistines planned to snare the man who had slain so many of their warriors. Here it was that Samson swept the gates from their sockets while the guard slumbered. Here it was that Delilah nagged for the secret of his strength—till "he was wearied unto death"—and told her. And here it was that the mighty man, shorn of his strength, suffered in the temple of Dagon till the granting of his prayer, "Let me die with the Philistines." The awful crash of the temple pillars reverberates today in the guns that speak from Gaza.

In the Path of War.

It is no new thing for Gaza to lie in the path of world events. When Cambyses set forth to conquer Egypt Gaza defied him and fell. When Alexander the Great, overthrowing Darius at Issus, hurled himself toward the Nile, Gaza stopped him for two months, and suffered horrible punishment.

A little bit north of Gaza and in direct line with Jerusalem, lies Hebron, one of the oldest towns in the world with its shining white houses banked about a noble mosque, all set between hills rich with olive, fig and pomegranate trees. In the mosque is the reputed tomb of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to which the 20,000 Mussulmans and the 2,000 foreigners alike do reverence.

Nearby is the "field of Damascus," that stretch of red earth from a handful of which God created Adam. There is a grotto pointed out as the place where Adam and Eve hid after their expulsion from Paradise—the spot where they mourned for Abel, murdered by Cain. The Mussulmans even mark the place, three miles to the southeast, where the murder occurred, and have a tomb which they believe to be Cain's.

There are a dozen wells and a score of springs in Hebron. Sara's well is there, and the wells of Abraham and Jacob, and the pools of Solomon. They have been tinged with blood numberless times since David hung the traitors' hands and feet for a warning to his kingdom.

Ascalon knows bloodshed, too, here by the Mediterranean shore. In these last few days the village again has heard the fury of war about its ruins. Not far from the latitude of Bethlehem—a spot with which the idea of peace on earth is inextricably associated — Ascalon nevertheless has plunged so deep in wars that for seven centuries it has been a rubbish heap.

Famed Ascalon.

Of incredible antiquity, its beginnings had been forgotten even by the ancients, who told each other that in Ascalon was born the goddess-mother of Seminramis. Kings of Egypt besieged and sometimes conquered this "town with high walls" and carved the struggle on their Karnak temples. Joshua could not bring it to terms, but later it passed for a little time under the sway of Juda.

Sennacherib, Alexander, the Ptolemies, all scaled the lofty sea cliffs and became transient overlords.

When the British troops turned machine guns on the cliffs and captured the luxuriant ruins of temple and garden there should have been in the forefront of the invaders a tall, wide-shouldered man in black armor with a tossing black plume in his helmet and a battle-axe in his hand. He could have shown his Englishmen the way into Ascalon, for Richard the Lion-hearted wrested that sea-bright town from Saladin seven centuries ago.

Today stride these modern Lion Hearts, the old lion's whelps.

They are bound on a bigger crusade than Richard ever dreamed, but their spirit is no less great than his. They have pledged themselves to make their crusade a victorious one in that land between the desert and the sea, where the dust of five thousand years is stirring.

A KINDERGARTNER

How One Woman Got Legislation Under Way.

FROM MAINE TO THE WEST.

Mothers and Clubwomen of Five of the United States Have Already Succeeded In Getting Better Laws For Early Education Passed.

During the past few years mothers and clubwomen all over the country have been growing more and more alive to the need of more kindergartens, and this year they have been successful in five states in getting better kindergarten laws passed.

The women of Maine, Texas and Washington have the greatest cause for rejoicing, because their new laws authorize school boards to open kindergartens when parents petition for them. By having the matter regulated by law mothers and fathers in these three states will now have some guarantee of success when they ask to have a kindergarten started in the public school in their neighborhood.

Miss Nellie Brown of the Federation of Women's Clubs was largely responsible for the success of the legislative campaign in Maine, but it is safe to say she could have done nothing without the support which she received from the clubwomen and kindergartners of Bangor and from the kindergarten children themselves. A number of these tiny tots drew, colored and cut American flags for the 182 senators and representatives of the state. Ten of the children were present at the hearing on the bill before the education committee and sang "America" and saluted the flag. As they turned to march out there was a volume of applause, and when the room was again quiet the chairman of the committee said, his face wreathed in smiles, "Miss Brown, I guess you've won your hearing."

MRS. GEORGE W. STEERE.

In Texas both the Congress of Mothers and the women's clubs were influential in getting their law passed. Under the leadership of Mrs. Griffith of the federation and Mrs. Steere of the congress a sentiment for kindergartens was aroused all over the state. The result was that when it came time to think of introducing a bill the state superintendent of education framed it and college presidents and professors were glad to speak in its behalf.

This wealth of public support not only made it easy to put the bill through, but is now helping the Texas workers in their efforts to put the law into effect.

Mrs. George W. Steere of Fort Worth, Tex., was at the forefront of the work in her state to obtain a good kindergarten law, and the governor's signature to the bill was hardly dry before she was launched on a campaign reaching from El Paso to Galveston to interest parents in petitioning for classes.

Some of the arguments she used successfully with legislators were:

The early years are the most impressionable, and in a wise educational system these years should not be left unprovided for.

Little children are given a good start not only in school, but in life, through the excellent training which the kindergarten gives.

The majority of parents who want kindergarten training for their children cannot afford to pay tuition at private kindergartens.

The kindergarten is democratic in that it brings educational advantages to all children before any must leave school to go to work.

Spanish Situation Is a Puzzle

Every now and then we hear something from Spain, indicating that her relations with Germany are critical, and every now and then we hear that there is a movement on foot to make her assume an attitude of armed neutrality against the Entente. The truth is difficult to discover since there is just as rigid a censorship in Spain as in any of the belligerent nations. In a country where public sentiments are conflicting, where there is much sympathy for the Allies and much sympathy for Germany, it is inevitable that there should arise from time to time contradictory incidents. Of one thing we can be sure: Spain will either remain neutral till the end of the war, or she will join the Entente. There is no prospect of her openly taking arms as a German ally. Her geographical position makes this impossible. By mobilising along her northern frontier she could undoubtedly force France to divert troops to this point also; or she might attempt to overrun Portugal, but it is certain that the pro-Ally sentiment in the country is strong enough to prevent the military caste taking this action. It would provoke a revolution.

This is the chief problem of King Alfonso. Revolutionary rumblings have been heard in Spain for years. Barcelona is a hotbed of Socialism and anarchy, and it is curious that probably the only Socialists in the world who are thoroughgoing in their support of the Allies are the Spanish Socialists. To them alone among Socialists it is clear that this is a war between free peoples and a dynasty. In Spain the Socialists are the best educated of the population. They continue an agitation that has for its object the intervention of Spain on the side of the Allies. King Alfonso, personally, is supposed to be pro-Ally, though what is the foundation for the assumption we do not know, unless it be that his wife is an English princess, that he is personally democratic, and that he greatly admires the French people, and is known to have sought out their society. Alfonso is reported to have said that in Spain only himself and the common people sympathize with the Allies.

If he uttered such a remark he made a mistake, in the judgment of Judson C. Welliver, London correspondent of the New York Sun. Both the hoi polloi and the upper classes, in his view, side with Germany. The upper classes favor Germany because they see in the junkers what corresponds to their own aristocracy. Moreover, the Spanish military class is supposed to be a great admirer of the achievements of the German army, and the clericals naturally sympathise with Catholic Austria. Old grudges to England, chiefly the rankling sore of Gibraltar, are recalled. The feelings of the lower classes may be due to their suffering, for food and other necessities are scarce and high-priced in Spain. Mr. Welliver thinks this is due rather to the mismanagement of the Spanish Government in years past and to the undeveloped state of the country's transportation facilities. Those who have depended for a living on Spanish shipping have been thrown out of employment, and among them German agents circulate, distributing funds and spreading dissension.

It would appear that the immediate interests of the King and the whole governing class are opposed to Germany, for the pro-Germans are trying to stir up civil strife in order to make sure that Spain will be powerless to enter the war. On the other hand, the Barcelona Socialists are trying to foment rebellion in order to establish a republic, and they again are favorable to the Allies. No doubt after they formed their republic they would declare war on Germany, but by the time they had established the new order the war would likely be over. Everything now depends on the army. It is not large or well-equipped, according to present European standards, but it is by far the strongest organization in Spain. It is powerful enough to put down a rebellion, and it is powerful enough, if it desired to throw over Alfonso, to usher in a republic.

One of the most difficult problems of King Alfonso is to keep the army contented, and this means to keep the army's pay up to date. This is very difficult, and not long ago the army officers organized a secret society which was powerful enough to force the Government to yield important concessions. The army's example has been followed in other quarters, and now there are few Spaniards, outside of the peasantry, who are not striking, trying to strike, or preparing to strike. Secret organizations have sprung up in many parts of the country. Of these the Free Masons is one of the most important, and has been in existence for many years. It is frankly pro-Ally, but as it is not looked upon with favor by the King or the Government this may be another reason why his Majesty's sympathies should not be unreservedly on the side of the Entente. In addition, German agents are spending money lavishly in the army, so if anyone can make head or tail out of the Spanish situation, he is entitled to the capital

SHORT FUR COAT

Smart New Garment One of Novelties of the Season.

Introduction Due Partly to Scarcity of Materials and Certainty of High Prices.

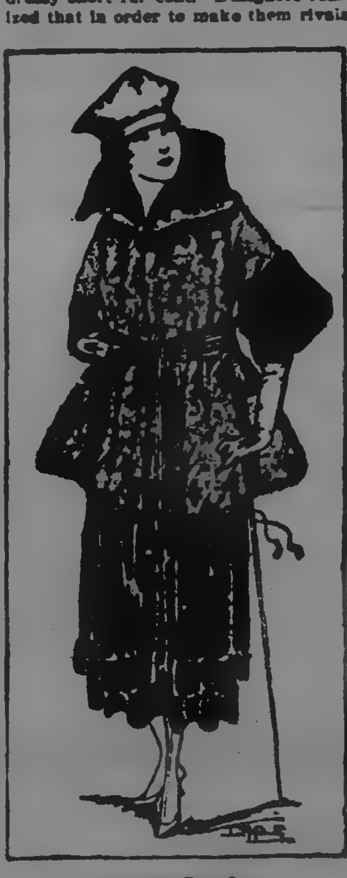
The short fur coat introduced this season is inclined to become a really dressy garment. For years, in fact, one might safely say always, the short fur coat has been classed with sport garments, and has been rather severe, square cut and boxlike, comfortable looking, but not dressy.

This season fur garment manufacturers and designers have brought out innumerable capes that were fitted or semi-fitted, rather after the fashion of the dolman developed from time to time in cloth. Some of these capes are equipped with sleeves, others are sleeveless.

The latest novelty, however, is the short coat that is semi-fitted by being drawn in at the waistline with a belt of fur or a handsome silk cord girdle. More often than otherwise two kinds of fur are combined in these garments.

The sketch illustrates a coat of the type described. It is made of moleskin and is trimmed with Hudson seal, this latter fur being used for high flaring collar and deep cuffs. The coat buttons comfortably and securely in the center front.

The possibility of a fur shortage early in the season, and the certainty that the prices of furs would be very high, probably had a good deal to do with the introduction of a smart and dressy short fur coat. Designers realized that in order to make them rivals of the handsome long coats they must be dressy, and the result is all that could be desired.



New Short Fur Coat.

Muffs developed to accompany these little dressy coats are quite small. The canteen-shaped muff is one of the popular shapes. Some new muffs are given an unusual touch by having each hand opening bordered with a row of short tails, set on fringe fashion.

Wolf pelts are being pushed as strong rivals of fox for muff and scarf sets this winter. Wolf skins are cheaper than fox and they are said to wear better.

JOHNNY RIGG.

Johnny Rigg, the ranger,
He walked in Wood-o-Lea
And happened on a stranger,
A nut brown maid was she.
His heart it did rejoice of her,
As you may recognize.
The wind was in the voice of her;
The stars were in her eyes.

Johnny Rigg, the ranger,
He followed far away
He didn't know the danger
That lurks at time o' May.
She drew him with the smiles of her;
She left him with a laugh.
Bewildered with the wiles of her
And moon struck as a calf.

Johnny Rigg, the ranger,
The muckle oaf was he.
He followed of a stranger;
She led him bonnily.
The fox he marked the track of him
And watched him through the sedge.
The tinkers ran a-back of him
And stole his pheasant eggs.

Now, all you jolly rangers,
When nesting time is on
Don't go to follow strangers,
Nut brown nor white as swan.
Beware of 'em, be wise of 'em.
For sooth it is that's said.
When stars get in the eyes of 'em
The moon gets in your head.
—Punch.

Stumped.

"After all," said the man who had been trying to break into what is sometimes known as our best circles—"after all, you know, society is a hollow thing."

"Are you sure of that?" asked his acquaintances.

"Absolutely. It is as hollow as a sewer pipe!"

"How does it comes, then, that you are unable to crawl into it?"

He never answered. He just went away sadly.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Most Brutal of the Huns Shows Charming Traits In Private Relations

The home life of Nero, Captain Kidd, Genghis Khan, and the Duke of Alva is said to have been most charming. When not engaged in wholesale massacre elsewhere, they displayed lovable traits that endeared them to all. Grand Admiral von Tirpitz has the same sweet ways.

"He came from his study, his arm around his wife's waist and looking down upon her from the height of his wonderful carriage with such loving eyes, while on the other side, walking close to him and hanging on his arm, were his two daughters like two playful children laughing and talking to him."

One can scarcely realize that this is a picture of Admiral von Tirpitz drawn by the pen of a woman who has two brothers fighting with the Allies at the front, and yet such is the man as seen by Miss Susanne Garnier, who lived for three years in intimate relations with the family of the chief instigator of Germany's ruthless submarine warfare—the indirect slayer of innocent women and children.

Miss Garnier, who, during her stay in the family of the High Admiral, was the companion of his daughters Elsie and Margot, is now in Canada, and she tells a story of the home life of Alfred von Tirpitz that reveals a side of his character with which the world is not familiar. She says, continuing her first impression as he entered the huge oblong dining room with a life-size portrait of Emperor Wilhelm over the mantel:

GRAND ADMIRAL VON TIRPITZ

"And then to see him sitting at the table with her Excellency, not at the other end of it, as etiquette would have, but she close to him at his right, he holding her hand now and again, between replying to Margot and Elsie, and teasing them as to whom they had danced with at the royal ball the previous evening.

"When I think of that scene and many other similar ones that I witnessed during my stay in the Admiral's household, I can not realize that the actual man of then and the man of to-day, hated by nearly all the civilised world, are one and the same.

"Following the Admiral's entrance into the dining-room I was introduced, and was immediately enchanted by his joviality. In very broken French he made me welcome to his home, and at once began to tease the girls, as if expecting them to be already accomplished Parisians.

"From that day on the routine of life started, not bringing anything startling. In the morning, Margot, the younger daughter, and myself would go for long walks through the Thiergarten, enjoying the beauty of spring in that unique park in the heart of Berlin. Sometimes I would go and meet her at her music-teacher's, sometimes at the home of one of her girl friends. During our walks, Margot would exercise her French, telling me the gossip of her set, and also anecdotes of her father's life and much of the family history. Thus, I became, in a way, quite well acquainted with the life of the Grand Admiral.

"She told me of her childhood at Kiel, when her father was only commanding a vessel, at which time her mother made all their clothes, having only one maid to assist her in keeping the house and taking care of the children. And from these and other conversations I glimpsed enough to realize that von Tirpitz's rise from lieutenant to Admiral of the German Navy came through sheer ability and an almost superhuman toiling—I know, during the time of my stay there, that he often worked twenty hours a day, sometimes for days at a stretch."

SUBMARINES IN WARFARE.

Only Men of Iron Nerves and Quick Decision Can Work Them.

"It calls for men of iron nerves and quick decision to man our submarines either in peace or war," writes Frank E. Evans in St. Nicholas. "Submarine experts look upon the factor of nerves as the most important of all, and they have given to it the title of calculation.

"Within the cramped walls that are the home of the crew are housed the most intricate mechanisms that man has invented for warfare. Outside its steel walls are mines, great nets of wire, explosives, shells and seaplanes, all devised for its destruction, and the sharp keels of ships that slice through them as a knife cuts cheese. The smallest shell can penetrate them, and nets can hold the submarine as helpless as a child in the grasp of a giant.

"Danger lies everywhere for the tiger of the seas. The ocean in which it lives is a powder tank that waits but for a spark. Only nerves of iron can cope against such an array of enemies. The slightest hesitation of its captain in the face of any of them means the end of his ship and his crew.

"As one expert has put it, the whole A B C of submarine warfare is to act at an instant's warning with nerves of steel."

Same Thing.

"Mrs. Malaprop, your husband has said nothing to my proposal for your daughter."

"Well, don't worry. His silence is catamount to consent."—Baltimore American.

THANKS EXTENDED TO MR. T. BARRIE FOR GENEROSITY TO WAR VETERANS

Owing to the fact that the Great War Veterans Association will shortly be installed in their new quarters in the Royal Bank Building, the Regent, officers and members of the Otonabee Chapter, I. O. D. E., desire to take this opportunity to publicly thank Mr. Thomas Barrie for his kindness and generosity during the past nine months.

When the Veterans first wished to secure a club room, its members of the Otonabee Chapter felt that it was only right and just that something should be done for our returned men to give them comfortable, temporary quarters. Mr. Barrie then generously offered the Chapter two rooms in his building absolutely free of any rent, for the use of the Association. These were fitted up for the men as comfortably as could be managed at the time, and have been in use as club rooms since last March.

The Otonabee Chapter now extends hearty good wishes to the members of the Association and hopes that they may have very many happy hours in the new rooms.

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

A basketball match was played in the gymnasium at the Y. W. C. A. between the Senior School Girls' and the Advanced Class teams. The score was 20 to 4 in favor of the former class, after a closely-contested game.

A big bazaar is arranged for Thursday afternoon and evening of next week. The various gymnasium classes will each be in charge of a booth, and there is a keen competition for first place in regard to the decorations of the booths and the articles contributed. There will be all kinds of fancy goods, home-made cooking and candy on sale. A special feature of the bazaar will be a tea room in the green room, in charge of the girls' auxiliary of the Association, and a splendid musical program also has been arranged for both the afternoon and the evening.

PRICE OF COAL WILL ADVANCE

U. S. FUEL ADMINISTRATOR AUTHORIZED INCREASE BY OPERATORS.

It is stated here that the price of coal will be slightly advanced when shipments of coal affected by the increase of 35 cents a ton authorized by the U. S. fuel administrator reach the city.

The American operators were permitted to increase their charges on December 1st.

Delicious Salad Dressing.

Dainty and oriental in flavor is a salad dressing made with white wine vinegar, one-half cupful of vinegar boiled with two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-half stick cinnamon, five cloves. Chill this sirup on ice and when quite cold pour in, drop by drop, one-half cupful best grade of olive oil. Beat it while mixing and continue until it assumes a creamy appearance. When done add a pinch of salt and a liberal supply of Hungarian paprika; no black pepper.

This sirup should be so finely blended that no flavor predominates. Do not have it too sweet. Use it on vegetables or fruit salads. Save the juice left over, provided you have served it from a large dish instead of individual dishes, and the flavor of fruit or vegetables makes richer the oil, which can be used in potato salad or deviled eggs.

Clean Mirrors.

If glass mirrors should become very dirty it is easy to wash them with warm white soapsuds and rinse immediately with warm ammonia water or water to which a little alcohol has been added. After this go over with a fine chamois skin.

TRAINS RUNNING ON TIME AGAIN

PORT HOPE TRAIN MADE ENTRY INTO PETERBOROUGH AT MIDNIGHT.

Railway trains are back to schedule time after the storm of Saturday and Sunday. The night G. T. R. train from Port Hope did not arrive at the local depot on Saturday night till one o'clock. An accident to the engine delayed the train at Port Hope, and it was necessary to call for another engine from Cobourg. Reports indicate that Peterborough did not get the full severity of the storm.

At Picton where Rev. A. J. Thomas preached on Sunday, the storm raged in all its fury, and at the morning service the preacher faced a congregation that numbered nineteen.

NEW HANGER FOR SWEATERS

Special Holder, Made From Embroidery Ring, Will Preserve Shape of Garments.

Have you ever hung your pet sweater away on a coat hanger for a couple of days? If you have, you have probably found it stretched most distressingly when you took it down again. So then, have you hung it, ever so carefully, up on a hook?

Yes? Then, of course, you have found a most annoying little bump in the wool where it hung.

So then, perhaps, you have decided to keep your sweaters in a bureau drawer—and you have caught them on the edge of the drawer and pulled a thread.

Well, here is a suggestion to make the keeping of your sweaters truly easy. Have a special sweater holder. This special holder is no more than a huge embroidery ring, of the sort that is used for the handles and tops of knitting bags. Attach a ribbon or tape to the ring at each end, and by means of this ribbon hang it on a hook. Then pull the sweater through the ring. Several may be placed on the same ring without any trouble.

The ring, to be best fitted for its work, should be wound with satin ribbon. The quality need not be expensive, but the shiny surface of the satin ribbon makes it easier to pull the sweaters through the ring and there is no possibility of tearing by splinters from the surface of the wood when it is covered in this way.

When Hair Is Dry.

While oily hair is not at all beautiful, it is usually much healthier and thicker than dry, harsh hair. If your glory crown has started in to be dry and wispy it would be a wise move to take it in hand right away and call for an immediate reform. Twenty-four hours before the shampoo rub pure olive oil into the scalp. You can have no idea how much help this will give, and what lovely fluffy gloss it will impart to the hair after the shampoo. Have this cleansing with egg instead of soap.

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE 57TH BAND.

Editor Review: It is with feelings of the greatest reluctance and strictly in self-defence that the members of the 57th Regt. Band are compelled to enter a protest against the slurs and falsehoods published locally under anonymous signatures and also that of the Secretary G. W. V. A. To refute these we propose submitting to the City Council and the public generally a brief resume of our war record up to date and reasons why we are entitled to the use of the old 93rd band instruments, and to say, after perusal, you will agree with the statement that there is no other local organization numbers considered — civil or military — that can show any better achievements:

In the matter of voluntary enlistments twenty-six of our active and ex-members went overseas. The following list comprises the honor roll:

Sergt. Grange, Sergt. Hughes, Corp. Chambers, Pte. Dyer, Pte. Wood, Pte. Gibson, Pte. Doughty, Pte. Gilbert, Pte. Irwin, Pte. Naples, Pte. Grange, Pte. Smith, Pte. Barnes, Pte. Tamlin, Pte. Loader, Pte. Brown, Pte. Loader, Pte. Chown, Pte. Dyer, Pte. Dalton, Pte. Wilcox, Pte. Logan, Pte. Turner, Pte. Dyer, Pte. Newhall, Pte. White.

Our records show that we have filled, entirely free of charge, fifty-nine patriotic engagements since the commencement of the war. These covered patriotic concerts, garden parties and assemblies, Home Guard parades, parades of soldiers leaving for or returning from the front and military funerals. In connection with this latter class of work we would recall the reference of the Secretary of the G. W. V. A. to the alleged cupidity of our organization, notwithstanding the fact that the day previous to the appearance of his communication we had played at the funeral of a comrade of his entirely free of charge and at a loss to the members in time alone of not less than $50.00. Such marked ingratitude we feel certain will not be endorsed by the G. W. V. A. as a whole.

The cost of the 93rd instruments was covered chiefly by public subscriptions and every member of the 57th Band contributed—one donation alone being equivalent to $55.

The achievements of the 93rd Band, both at home and on foreign service, have been lauded to the skies by these anonymous writers, and while approving, we must point out that the 57th also has an enviable record. It has been in continuous existence under one name or another for considerably over half a century and has won many honors during this long period. Under Bandmaster Rackett over fifty years ago it was known all over the Province as an efficient organization, while under Bandmaster Finch Miller it repeatedly won first-class honors at Dominion and Provincial band contests. In recent years under Prof. Giddon the organization reached such a high state of efficiency that a week's engagement at Scarborough Beach, where only first-class professional bands are employed, was filled so satisfactorily that another week's engagement was offered. This continued general efficiency is marked by yearly engagements at Canada's Great Industrial Exhibition.

To sum up—we think we have made it clear that we have as good a war record as any organization in this city; we were organized over fifty years ago and have continued to exist up to the present time without a break; we and our many friends helped to pay for these instruments, and we are first, last and always, a representative Peterborough Band. Others come into existence and pass away but the old 57th has always maintained its organization. It takes a lot of money to run a band and the G. W. V. A. have not half-a-dozen bandsmen in their ranks at the present time, while the 57th has thirty-seven members and are badly in need of instruments. We can put the entire outfit into use at once and thus save deterioration. Another year without use will scrap the whole lot.

During the existence of the 93rd Band the the 57th assisted them in every way, not only financially, but by the loan of instruments, music, etc., and now that they have ceased to exist we claim the right to have the use of the instruments.

Up to the present we have filled every demand made on our services by the G. W. V. A. gratis and are prepared to continue this service. We have the highest regard for the patriotism and self-sacrifice of the members of the G. W. V. A. and feel it an honor to place our services at their disposal.

J. A. HARPER,
For Members of 57th Regt. Band.

Stevenson at Noyon.

The Cathedral of Noyon, in France, exercised a great fascination over Robert Louis Stevenson. "I have seldom looked on the east end of a church with more complete sympathy," he wrote. "As it flanges out in three wide terraces and settles down broadly on the earth it looks like the poop of some great old battleship. There is a roll in the ground, and the towers just appear above the pitch of the roof, as though the good ship were bowing lazily over an Atlantic swell. At any moment it might be a hundred feet away from you, mounting the next billow. At any moment a window might open and some old admiral thrust forth a cocked hat and make an observation."—London Chronicle.

Velvet.

Velvet was developed and originated from fur in China. Thence velvet-making was introduced into India and in the fourteenth century into Italy, where that sort of fabric especially appealed and where the art of velvet-making reached its height.

Four Candidates For Wardenship

Cobourg, Dec. 10.—Candidates for the wardenship of the united counties of Durham and Northumberland have been looking over the ground, and next year the honor comes to Northumberland. There are four candidates for the position: Reeves W. M. Fowlds, of Hastings, F. J. Slade, of Haldimand, Mawbee, of Murray, and Atkinson, of Percy, while Reeve Geo. Gummer, of Cramahe, may also be a candidate.

Nature of Sleep.

Investigation by scientists of the nature of the sleep of persons in normal health shows that it varies according to the daily diet and the different hours at which sleep is begun. Altogether the ideal hour for retiring is 10 o'clock. The sleep of a person going to bed regularly at approximately this time gradually augments in intensity for the space of an hour. It then suddenly becomes very profound, reaching its maximum intensity at about 11:30 o'clock. Within five or six minutes from this time it has been found that the sleep begins to be less deep. In an hour the sleeper is again in the same condition of slumber as at about 11:15. From this time until after 2 o'clock the rest is steady and light. From 2 until 4 it augments, and then it consistently diminishes until it ceases at the customary time of rising.

Bluebirds.

During the nesting season the bluebird may be found in the United States (west to Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana), southern Canada, Mexico and Guatemala. In the winter it is found in the southern half of the eastern United States and south to Guatemala.

Domestic Economy.

"Does your wife economize?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "She has figured to a nicety how many new gowns the money I spend for cigars would buy."

Quail of the Bible.

The quail mentioned in the Bible in Exodus xvi, Numbers xi and in Psalm cv, 40, is a bird of passage about the size of a turtledove and resembling the American partridge.

Why don't you get a box of Cascarets from the drug store and eat one or two tonight and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced? You will wake up feeling fit and fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken like salts, pills and calomel. They act so gently that you hardly realize you have taken a cathartic. Pork Exports.

The sacrifice that Canada is making to supply the Allies with food is illustrated in figures regarding her pork exports that have been made public by the United States Food Administration.

In Canada, recognizing the extreme need for the saving of certain foods for the supply of the Allies, we have taken upon ourselves the task of reducing our consumption of wheat and hog products to two-thirds of the normal consumption.

The pork products exports from Canada to the allied countries in 1913 amounted to 36,000,000 pounds, and in 1914 to 23,500,000 pounds. This was increased in 1916 to 144,000,000 pounds and in 1917 to 207,000,000 pounds. Canadian pork and bacon has to a very large extent replaced the Danish product, formerly the chief of Great Britain's external supplies, outside the United States.

A Valuable Car.

A car of No. 1 northern wheat was received in Winnipeg recently weighing 129,000 pounds and containing 2,150 bushels, with no dockage. The net proceeds of the car, less freight and commission, was $4,458.10. The weight of the wheat per measured bushel was 65 pounds. The car was loaded by George H. Hummell, of Nokomis, Sask.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

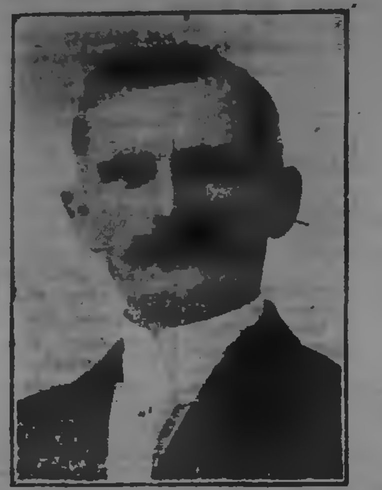
LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle-front; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences —now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?



As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,
JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

Havelock, November 20th, 1917.

MAKING GASES LIQUID.

Knowledge of the "Critical Temperature" Solved the Problem.

In regard to the boiling points of liquid, there is an upper limit to the point at which a thing boils—that is, changes to the state of vapor. It is called the critical temperature. No matter how great a pressure exists on a substance, if it is at a temperature greater than its critical it will change to vapor anyhow.

The ignorance of this point held back the making of liquefied gases—such as air, carbon dioxide, etc.—for many years. The experimenters tried to liquefy gases at ordinary temperatures by enormous pressures, whereas if they had just cooled the gases below their critical temperatures before applying the pressure liquefaction would have ensued immediately.

This is the method employed today in making liquid air. The air is compressed at first and then allowed to issue from a small orifice, thus expanding and cooling; is then pumped back and compressed by the pump, allowed to go through the orifice again, thus cooling still more, until at last it is below the critical temperature, when the compression caused by the pump liquefies it.

CONTROLLING RIVER FRESHETS

A Subject of Vital Importance to Western Ontario.

Mr. Breithaupt, a well-known Canadian civil engineer, has given much time and thought to the problem of controlling destructive freshets on the Grand River and other streams that rise on the western plateau of Ontario and empty into the perimeter lakes or rivers that extend continuously from Kingston to Collingwood. The conclusions at which he has arrived, as the result of his personal observations and surveys, refer entirely to the Grand River, but, with necessary adaptations, his conclusions would apply to several other streams that rise on the same plateau and radiate to the St. Lawrence system in different directions: the Thames, Maitland, Saugeen, Sydenham, Beaver, Nottawasaga, and Credit. All of these cooperate in draining the freshet water from the plateau with great rapidity, leaving it unnaturally and at times disastrously arid, while the accumulated waters are destroying bridges, dams, and buildings in their rushing descent to the level of the lakes.

Speaking of the Grand River, Mr. Breithaupt says the most that can be effected is retardation of the waters by checking them with small dams built at suitable spots on the tributary streams. These would have an effect analogous to that of the logs and other debris that held back the water when the country was forested, and when beaver dams were numerous. The more of such artificial dams there are the greater the amount of retardation, and the less the sum total of freshet destruction. The effect in ameliorating the climate of the plateau by retaining so much retarded water must be quite appreciable, and the larger the amount of it the greater the effect of the water on the air over the whole plateau. Before the advent of the settler the swamps, which are mostly filled up lakes, held much water like springs. Arterial drainage has solidified many of them, and this is another reason for holding up artificially the equivalent of the water that has been artificially and prematurely carried away. According to Mr. Breithaupt much benefit has already resulted from local works; it is worth considering whether the whole problem is not of sufficient importance and difficulty to be taken up as a provincial enterprise.

LONG DISTANCE SKATERS FROM COLLEGIATE CAUGHT IN STORM

At 10 o'clock on Sunday night, Minto Brownscombe and "Doc" Young, completed an undertaking that took them many miles on the ice of the back lakes, and brought them an experience with the storm on Saturday and Sunday that they will not soon forget. The boys were two of a number of Collegiate students who put their heads together and planned an excursion on the ice. When Saturday morning arrived they were the only two who reported at Grand Trunk station. They took the train to Lakefield and on arrival there, started skating, passed up through Young's Point, Burleigh and Buckhorn Lake. At Buckhorn Lake they were overtaken by the storm, conditions being so bad that the boys had a hard time of it. Finally they reached the Indian village where they found warmth and good cheer. Accepting the advice offered to them, the boys gave up their journey by ice and took to the trail, and, after long and patient trudging through the tempest of wind and snow they reached Bridgeuorth and found friends.

Inheritance Tax Argument

Inheritance taxes are very heavy. Unlike Fire hazard, they are not merely possible, they are absolutely certain.

They deplete your estate at once, and to your heirs represent a specific and definite loss of money.

In New York a $250,000 estate would pay a combined federal and state tax of about $12,000. If left to a friend or distant relative, about $22,000. The John Jacob Astor estate paid $3,150,000. J. P. Morgan has insured his life for $2,500,000 to cover a similar loss.

Thus the estate is provided promptly with the ready cash to pay this tax and other expenses without the need of hurriedly disposing of securities or other assets, perhaps at a loss, to meet such needs. The logic of the situation urges immediate action. Premium rates, however, low, advance with age, and so does the possibility of entering the physically impaired group and losing the opportunity to secure this protection.

Knowing that this loss is actually coming, it is simply a matter of ordinary business prudence to guard against it. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada offer you a plan to do so at very low cost.

DEAD HEROES HONORED.

Two Men From the Dominion Receive Victoria Crosses.

Two Victoria Crosses have recently been gazetted to Canadians who lost their lives while earning the distinction. 57113, Sergt. Frederick Hobson, enlisted in November, 1914, at Toronto. He was aged 41, and born in England. His occupation was storekeeper, and the next of kin, Miss F. Hobson, 1381 Lansdowne avenue, Toronto.

"During a strong enemy counter-attack, a Lewis gun in a forward post leading to the enemy lines, was buried by a shell. The crew, with the exception of one man, were killed. Sergt. Hobson, though not a gunner, grasped the great importance of the post, and rushed from the trench dugout, and the gun was got into action against the enemy, who were now advancing down the trench across the open. A jam caused the gun to stop firing. Though wounded, he left the gunner to correct the stoppage, and rushed forward to the advancing enemy with his bayonet-clubbed rifle. Single-handed he held them back until he himself was killed by a rifle shot. By this time, however, the Lewis gun was again in action, and reinforcements shortly afterwards arriving, the enemy was beaten off. The valor and devotion to duty displayed by this non-commissioned officer gave the gunner the time required again to set the gun into action, and saved a most serious situation."

226353 Pte. Harry Brown, enlisted in London, Ont., August, 1916. He was aged nineteen, and a farmer, born at Gananoque, Ont. The next of kin is his mother, Helen McAnlisse, of East Emily, Ont. "For most conspicuous bravery, courage, and devotion to duty. After the capture of a position the enemy massed in force and counter-attacked. The situation became critical, all the wires being cut. It was of the utmost importance to get word back to headquarters. This soldier and one other were given a message, with orders to deliver the same at all costs. The other messenger was killed, and Brown had his arm shattered, but he continued through intense barrage until he arrived close to the support lines, where he found an officer. He was so spent he fell down the dugout steps, but he retained consciousness long enough to hand over the message, saying it was an important message. Then he became unconscious and died in a dressing station a few hours later. His devotion to duty was of the highest possible degree imaginable. The successful delivery of the message undoubtedly saved the loss of the position and for the time prevented many casualties."

Encouraging.

"This," said Mrs. Younglove, "is Mary's second attempt at making cake."

Mr. Witherspoon took a bite.

"After Mary has practiced awhile," he said, "she may become a fairly good cakemaker."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Excused.

"And do you love your neighbor as yourself?" asked the clergyman.

The magazine editor admitted that he did not.

"Still, there are extenuating circumstances," he added. "My neighbor is a poet."—Judge.

WOMEN WORKERS ARE NOW ASSAILED BY MR. HALL

Handfull of Followers Heard Liberal Candidate.

The warmth from a roaring stove fire, and the promise of a treat from the lips of a Toronto King's Counsel, failed to rally the shattered forces of Mr. R. R. Hall's followers, to Victoria Hall Saturday night. The attendance hardly paid expenses, but the Liberal candidate would probably call it an even break, as he had been welcomed with open arms at Ennismore during the week and had had a most enthusiastic meeting—nothing like it before in his 30 years of ups and downs as a participant in the political happenings of the Midland district.

When Mr. J. J. Hartley saw it was useless to get the "crowd" away from the stove, he moved into their midst, and stated that the speaker, Mr. L. F. Heyd, K.C., of Toronto was held up by the storm and unable to reach Peterborough to address the meeting. Mr. Hartley was at first quite positive that Mr. Hall would be elected but later on he introduced an "if" into the probabilities.

The candidate spoke for one hour. He used his favorite weapon, the Ross rifle, and his equally favorite 'bunk" that Sir Robert Bordent sent the Canadians to France with the Ross rifle which he knew would jam, to attack the Premier, and the Unionist candidate in West Peterborough. He made a long tirade against his opponent, and brought the women workers into his remarks. Mr. Hall said so-called leaders of society had constituted themselves a win-the-war league but they were exhibiting very little judgment and good sound discretion. He declared that the members of this organization were going into the homes of soldiers with the message to the wives that "if you don't vote for Mr Ham. Burnham you will never see your husbands again." All of which goes to show that Mr. Hall is short of ammunition.

The Great Omission.

Another of the candidate's bombs, was the departure of the Metal Products Co., the blame for whose going away was laid at the door of Mr. Burnham. Mr. Hall didn't say a word about the large number of French-Canadians who had been brought to Peterborough to work in the plant, while local labor sought employment elsewhere, but he was fracious enough not to blame Mr. Burnham for the disappearance of another company that once had its domicile within the walls of the building.

In conclusion Mr. Hall, took his followers for a trip on the C. N. R., explaining in his own way, the bond side of the undertaking, neglecting to start at the bootom rung of the ladder, upon which as everybody knows, was crowded by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberal Government in the days gone by.

Not being singers, neither the candidate nor his lieutenant encouraged the audience to sing the National Anthem before the lights went out.

H. A. Benton, one of the most successful Public School principals in Western Ontario, died at his home at Walkerville, aged 58.

"JACK AND THE BEANSTALK."

Beginning with a matinee next Friday, Dec. 14, at The Grand, "Jack and the Beanstalk" will open its Peterborough engagement of two days. This will be the first opportunity local theatre-goers have been given to view this widely heralded William Fox fairy photo-fantasy.

New York has acclaimed it the sensation of the day, the "Peter Pan" of the films, so its showing here is awaited with no small degree of interest.

While "Jack and the Beanstalk" will undoubtedly produce delicious gooseflesh in the youngsters who see their favorite fairy-tale visualized, it is by no means a production intended solely for children; on the contrary, grown-ups will find in this picture spectacle a play of intense interest filled with such delightfully subtle humor that it at once becomes irresistible to the mature mind. It is because of that fact reviewers have likened it Barrie's exquisite "Peter Pan."

Prominent in a cast of over thirteen hundred are two remarkable children, Francis Carpenter who is the "Jack" of beanstalk fame, and Virginia Lee Corbin, the Princess Regina. With but nine years to their combine credit they have proven themselves to be marvels before the camera. The acting of Virginia in her love scenes with Jack, who has come to slay the giant, far surpasses anything ever before accomplished by any child. In sharp contrast to these diminutive stars is James Traver, the giant Blunderboro, whose actual height is eight feet and six inches and whose tonnage is four hundred and eighty pounds.

William Fox has omitted nothing which might contribute to the perfection of this extraordinary picture and its cost is reported as over half a million dollars.

Sir Robert Falconer was the speaker at the commencement exercises of the Hamilton Collegiate Ins.

Voting Women Remember This

Some women are expecting to receive notice where they are to vote. There will be no official notice sent. Women must find out at once where their pooling booth is.

Probably candidates for the various constituencies will send cards soliciting your vote. Beware of any but those whose names are endorsed as Unionist candidates.

All you have to do is to keep the one name clearly in your mind—the name of the Unionist candidate in your riding.

Do not sign your ballot. Simply mark it with an X opposite the name of the Unionist candidate.

There will be nothing on the ballot to let you know which man is for Union. Therefore it is vital that every woman shall know before going to vote, the name of the Unionist. If you are doubtful, do not trust the word of any but people working for Union. Write it on a piece of paper if you have a poor memory, and let no one persuade you to vote for any other man.

Once you enter the polling booth, do not leave until you have cast your vote. Even if it takes a long time, stay there. For, once you go out, you cannot get in again.

The polling booths open at six o'clock in the morning. Go before breakfast and do your voting. Then help to get other women out to vote. Take care of their homes and children while they go to the polling booth.

According to law, an employer must allow employes one hour in which to get out and vote. If you are a domestic worker, remember that. Also remember that even were your employer to refuse to let you go, you can go just the same. The law is on your side.

PHILIPPINE EMBROIDERY.

It Is Supplanting the French, Being Both Pretty and Cheap.

At last women are discovering the beauty of Philippine embroidery. That statement is hardly true, for they have known of the beauty of Philippine embroidery for years. But the Philippine women have been embroidering garments that could not possibly be transformed to suit American demands.

There is some tale that the Filipino women, when they were taught to wear our clothes, asked for American patterns. That happened to be in the day when the never to be forgotten but never lamented Mother Hubbard was in the height of its power. Hence the Filipinos were given, it is said, a Mother Hubbard pattern. And that has remained the foundation pattern of their shapeless costume ever since.

In the same way, when the Filipino women first began to do embroidery for the Americans must have been some time shortly after the close of the Spanish war—just when American women were wearing their first "lingerie waists." They were white blouses in their least attractive form—with high, tight collars, and they fastened down the back. And so the Filipino women have since then been giving us "waist patterns," nicely embroidered, to be sure, but one and all cut on those old fashioned lines—lines that could not be reconciled with the present mode.

Recently somebody with clothes sense must have gone down to the Philippine Islands and told somebody there that American women changed their mode of dress with the passing years. For recently there have been wholly wearable garments, hand embroidered by the Philippine women cut on fashionable lines.

There is really very attractive underwear embroidered in the Philippines. It is cheaper than the French work, and it is equally attractive, although it is different. Let us all be grateful to the enterprising soul who changed the current of Filipino industry from those endless and useless blouses that came in just after American acquisition of the islands.

NO PEACE WHILE KAISER HOLDS THE SCEPTRE

Member of the Reichstag Calls on Emperor To Abdicate Throne.

SHOULD DO THIS FOR PEOPLE

World Will Never Be Friendly While the Hohenzollerns Reign.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, Dec. 11.—Albrecht Von Graffe Goldbee, an influential member of the Reichstag, writes in the Deutsche Zeitung, the official Pan-German organ, asking the Kaiser to abdicate. He points out that it is considered throughout the world that Prussian militarism is inseparable from the Hohenzollerns and that it would be in conformity with the traditions of the Kaiser's family to remove willingly this last obstacle and thereby give the German people the inestimable benefits of peace.

POLICE GET COAL FOR ALL NEEDY CASES

ONE HOME WITH CHILDREN ILL IS FOUND WITHOUT COAL OR WOOD.

The police department is doing a little extra work these days, in consequence of which suffering in homes due to the lack of coal and wood is being relieved.

The Police Chief instructed his men to investigate and report on complaints of inability to get fuel, and in one case investigated, a home was found where there were sick children and no fuel on hand.

With the co-operation of Mr. R. Hicks, the Chief has been able to supply all cases of actual want.

It is stated that the situation will be improved soon by the arrival of coal in the city.

RED CROSS TO THE RESCUE

AN APPEAL FOR CLOTHING FOR RELIEF OF HALIFAX SUFFERERS.

To help relieve the unspeakable sufferers in stricken Halifax, the local Red Cross Society appeals to the women of the various churches and organizations throughout the city, to meet together at once for the purpose of making warm undergarments of all kinds, and night-dresses for the women and children, so suddenly rendered homeless and destitute. The Red Cross Society has undertaken to sort, pack and ship these garments, as well as all articles of clothing, in good condition, which may be donated. The packers will be busy every day this week in the basement of the Public Library and all contributions should be sent there as soon as possible.

GERMANS OFFER TO TALK PEACE WITH BRITAIN

Communication To That Effect Received in London Last September.

BALFOUR TELLS HOUSE TODAY

British Government Replied It Was Ready To Receive Any Communication.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Toronto, Dec. 11.—Foreign Secretary Balfour told the House of Commons today that communications had been received by Great Britain from Germany last September through a neutral diplomatic channel to the effect that Germany would be glad to get into communication with Great Britain in regard to peace.

The British Government replied it was prepared to receive any communication the German Government might decide to make and to discuss it with Great Britain and her allies.

CHILD'S MITE FOR AFFLICTED AT HALIFAX

CITIZENS RESPOND TO CALL FOR CLOTHING FOR SUFFERERS—CAR GOES TOMORROW.

"Please will you send this parcel to the poor people at Halifax," said a little gorl to one of the men on duty at the firehall, at the same time handing him a small bundle of wearing apparel—her contribution to the sufferers in the stricken city. Her mite was placed with the bundles of clothing destined for Halifax.

The call for relief has not been made in vain. Citizens who have shuddered at the awful tragedy have been quick to communicate with the city clerk or the fire station, offering to lend assistance. Money as well as clothing is available for the afflicted.

Mrs. James Kendry has donated fifty blankets. Other citizens are contributing this very desirable comfort. The mother of a soldier boy entered a store this morning and spent $10 for blankets and other articles. A workingman approached a clerk with the statement that he had $5 to spend, and asked the clerk for suggestions as to what best to purchase.

Mayor Duffus said today that it was hoped to send the relief car on its journey of 1,018 miles to Halifax tomorrow, so that citizens who have contributions to make should not lose any time in sending their relief to the fire station or communicate with the City Clerk.

Peterborough's relief car will be one of a number of cars bound for Halifax, in consequence of which the least time possible will be taken up in reaching that city. The freight charges will be between $450 and $500.

Otonabee Chapter of I.O.D.E. Send $100

The Otonabee Chapter, I. O. D. E., have forwarded $100 to Halifax towards the relief of the sufferers in that city. This fine contribution was made before the general appeal for assistance from Peterborough.

GERMANS AIM TO SMASH ENTENTE FORCES BEFORE AMERICAS TROOPS CAN REACH LINE

Rushing Troops To Western Front With This Plan In View—Several Hundred Hun Soldiers are Killed in Collision.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 11.—The correspondent at Amsterdam of the Daily Express reports that the Germans are rushing troops to the Western front with the idea of smashing the Entente Allies before America is able to act, and adds: "One of the results of this is that two German munition trains collided on Thursday. Both were blown up and several hundred soldiers were killed or wounded."

Active Artillery Fighting.

Unusually active artillery fighting and aerial operations on the Western front are reported in today's official communication. This action is very particularly noteworthy on the Ypres and Arras fronts.

French Kept Busy.

Paris, Dec. 11.—Patrol encounters occurred north of Bezonvaux on the Verdun front, and near Tahure, in the Champagne. Active artillery fighting developed in some sectors of upper Alsace and Lorraine. Everywhere else the night was calm.

Italians Firm As Gibraltar.

Rome, Dec. 11.—Powerful attempts made by Austro-Germans to retake the Agenzia and Seuliani positions in Cape Sile region of lower Piave river were sanguinarily repulsed yesterday by the Italians, it was announced today by the war office.

Berlin Noncommittal.

Berlin, Dec. 11.—On the Flanders front in France there was a lively artillery duel. On the Italian front there was active gun fire on both sides of the Brenta River and along the lower Piave.

Commander of the British forces which have captured Jerusalem.

DIRECTIONS FOR THE VOTERS

The polling booths next Monday will open at 9 o'clock in the morning, not at 6, as was erroneously stated the other day. You have until 5 o'clock, when they close, to do your voting, but there is nothing like going to the polls early to avoid the rush later in the day. If you are employed, you are entitled to one hour in which to vote.

Soldiers home on pass or furlough or on a visit to friends or relatives may vote wherever they happen to be on polling day, for the candidate in that constituency they wish to support.

All they have to do is to awik into the polling place, in uniform, swear they are soldiers, and ask for a ballot. Boys in the service, not matter what their age, have a right to vote, so long as they are enlisted soldiers.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 11.—No attempt will be made to define the future position of Jerusalem until general peace comes, the Times says it understands. In the meantime the city will be treated as in British military occupation and will be under martial law. General Allenby will appoint a military governor. While the British flag will fly over the city, French and Italian flags will be placed over their national property, such as convents and schools.

A solemn thanksgiving and Te Deum will be held in St. Paul's cathedral today in celebration of the surrender.

SITUATION IN PETROGRAD IS STILL GRAVE

GARRISON IS IN REBELLION

Troops Detached from Western Front To Send Against the Cossacks.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 11.—The situation in Moscow is reported to be grave, according to a Times despatch from Petrograd. The Bolsheviki faction, according to the Petrograd newspapers, have placed machine guns in the streets as they fear an uprising of hostile parties. The garrison however, shows signs of insubordination and is reported to be disobeying the Bolsheviki commander, a private soldier named Muranoff. Considerable forces, the despatch adds, are being detached from the west front to be sent against the Cossacks.

BODY FOUND IN DEEP SNOW

Stranger Perished in Snow on North Monaghan Farm.

The dead body of a man was found by T. D. Young of lot 5, concession 13, North Monaghan, this morning, when Mr. Young was on his way to work in the bush on his farm. The body was partly covered by snow.

Mr. Young notified the police, who informed Coroner Dr. Greer of the discovery, and Detective Newhall was detailed to take charge of the body, which he did and had it brought to Belleghem's undertaking rooms this afternoon.

The body could not be identified. Indications pointed to death having occurred twenty-four hours or more before the remains were found.

It is human nature to be ungrateful to the man who fights your battles for you and gets licked.

HEAVY FROST RETARDS DIGGING GRAVES FOR HALIFAX VICTIMS

Miraculous Escapes of People Who Were at First Supposed to be Lost are Reported—Property Loss a Serious Blow to City—No Sightseers Wanted.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Halifax, Dec. 11.—Remarkable escapes of people caught in their homes when the explosion of the cargo of the Mont Blanc rolled out the houses in the Richmond portion of Halifax have been reported. A large number of women and children were discovered, after all hope had been given up that the ruins contained anybody alive. Mass funerals will be held daily for some weeks in the local cemeteries. A heavy frost which succeeded the snowstorm yesterday still further retarded the digging of the large number of graves required.

The Property Loss.

Next to the loss of life and the homelessness of the people, an outstanding feature is the property loss, and this includes the damage to the drydock where 120 of 232 workmen were killed. It will be months before the drydock can again be in commission, a most serious thing for the port. The basin and caisson are intact, but everything else is gone.

The investigation into the collision between the Imo and the Mont Blanc which will be conducted by a board appointed by the Dominion Government, will commence tomorrow.

Captain Defends Himself.

Captain Lamedon of the munitions ship Mont Blanc, whose explosion caused such a fearful catastrophe, has issued a statement insisting that his ship was in its right course and that the Norwegian ship bore down on them in spite of warning signals. When his ship was in flames the crew took to the boats and all were saved except one man, who died of shock when the explosion occurred after they had landed.

Toronto Votes $100,000.

Toronto, Dec. 11.—The City Council today passed a resolution of sympathy with the city of Halifax and the unfortunate sufferers there, and voted $100,000 towards relief.

No Sightseers Wanted.

The rush of curious people to view the effects of the explosion disaster forced the authorities here to impose an embargo on the entrance of anybody who cannot be of service in relief or reconstruction work. So great has been the inrush that the resources of the city have been badly strained, and the citizens have been compelled to go on shortened rations to avoid the possibility of a famine.

The authorities were spurred on to take this stand when a train arrived from St. John, carrying 300 people, mostly Americans. Representatives of the Relief Committee, with a military guard, went through the train at Rockingham, a suburb, and enquired the business of every person.

25 RELATIVES IN THE WAR AND NO CASUALTIES

TWO HOMES IN ST. GEORGE'S PARISH WITH REMARKABLE RECORD.

There is scarcely a home in the parish of St. George's Anglican church from which the war has not taken toll by death or by wounds, and in the exceptions there are two remarkable instances. The husband, two brothers and nine first cousins of Mrs. Monck have been engaged in the war practically ever since the outbreak of hostilities and not one of them has been reported in the casualty lists.

The husband of Mrs. Edward Cole, and twelve near relatives enlisted to fight and to date all have escaped wounds. Her husband, who went overseas with the 93rd battalion, was invalided home, unfit for service.

PREMIER CANCELS HIS TOUR OF PROVINCES.

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—Owing to the Halifax disaster Premier Borden has cancelled his Quebec and Ontario tours this week, which included meetings in Montreal on Wednesday and in Hamilton on Friday. Sir Robert will, however, speak in Ottawa.

ASK CITIZENS TO CONTRIBUTE FOR CLUB ROOMS

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY WILL CANVASS FOR FUND OF $2000.

At a meeting held in the officers' quarters at the Armories last night, it was decided to make arrangements for a house-to-house canvass for subscriptions to a fund of $2000 to provide the Great War Veterans with club rooms in the Royal Bank Building and to equip the rooms. Mrs. Mills, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the War Veterans' Association, presided, and was assisted by the secretary, Miss Jane Layfield, Mrs. Cortez Fessenden and Mrs. Massey-Cooke.

The women will go ahead and prepare plans for the canvass and present them to a meeting of the Auxiliary, and the public will be advised of the date chosen for the campaign.

Mr. J. J. Turner, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, Alderman Duncan and Mr. G. R. Munro added some encouraging words, and were positive that the women would have no difficulty in realizing the full amount of the fund.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1917

THE LAURIERITE'S PLEDGE.

"I, the undersigned candidate for the Federal deputation, by these presents agree, if I am elected, to exact the immediate suspension of the Military Service Act of 1917, and of all its effects, until the Canadian electors have been consulted by a plebiscite, and should the majority of the people condemn conscription in the referendum, I agree to require that it (the Military Service Act) be considered as void and without effect from its very origin and that in consequence the conscripts be liberated from service and discharged. I also agree to vote against any Government that would refuse to adopt the above-mentioned policy."

THAT IS THE PLEDGE which every Liberal candidate in Quebec is required to sign before the stamp of approval is placed upon him. Mr. R. R. Hall is the Liberal candidate in this riding. He has been endorsed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier ,and so is identified with the men in Quebec, even if he has not been required to sign the above pledge. That is not necessary. His sentiments are the same. If Mr. Hall is elected he will be reckoned among the men from Quebec. He would support Sir Wilfrid Laurier for the Premiership. His [illegible] all that was required to turn the scale in [illegible]. Can the people of West Peterborough [illegible], take the risk that is involved in casting a vote for Mr. Hall?

Read over the above pledge carefully and understand just what it means. No reinforcements will be sent to the men at the front. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will play with the issue for at least a year until a referendum can be taken. Even if the rest of the Dominion voted for conscription and Quebec against it, he would adopt the same course as he followed when a plebiscite was taken on prohibition, and do nothing. The mandate from Quebec with him would be final.

There are 234 members of Parliament to be elected next Monday. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier gets 65 seats in Quebec, as he probably will, all that he requires is 53 from other parts of the Dominion to give him a majority. Is West Peterborough to be a party to turning over the control of the affairs of the entire Dominion to a single province? Can West Peterborough afford to take a chance by electing R. R. Hall, whose election would mean Canada's withdrawal from the war?

Of the provincial premiers in the Dominion, eight have declared and are working for the success of the Union Government. Only one, the Prime Minister of Quebec, is opposed to it. The combination stands eight to one against Mr. Hall and the bunch with whom he is aligned. From the very start his chances of success were dim, and they are growing less every day.

Vote, then, for the Union Government next Monday. It means something more than a union of political parties. It is a union of all the best elements in Canada, formed to save the nation from the greatest danger that ever has threatened it.

Let Mr. Hall explain away the above pledge, if he can.

THE LATE SIR MACKENZIE BOWELL.

FEW MEN IN CANADA have lived so long, and fewer still so well, as Mackenzie Bowell, one of the country's grand old men, who passed away at his home in Belleville last night in his ninety-fourth year. Despite his age, he was active up to a few weeks ago, when a fatal illness set in.

The late Senator Bowell had been identified with the public life of Canada from his youth. He was only nine years old when he came to this country from England, so that by early associations and training he was to all intents and purposes a Canadian. When Sir John Macdonald became Premier in 1878 the subject of this sketch was taken into his cabinet as Minister of Customs. He was appointed Senator in 1893.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell was in the ministry of every premier who succeeded Sir John Macdonald down to 1896. He was Premier himself in 1894, when Sir John Thompson died, until the late Sir Charles Tupper came back from England to take charge.

In private life Sir Mackenzie Bowell will always be remembered as publisher of the Belleville Intelligencer, one of the leading provincial dailies of Ontario. He was one of the prominent figures in the Orange Order all his life.

THE LIBERALS USE GAS.

IF THE GERMANS find themselves assailed by gas, if their towns are bombed by airships, and if in other ways they are made to suffer through the violation of the rules of warfare, they have only themselves to blame. They started it first. The Allies would have fought from the beginning according to the code, if the Germans had consented to be guided by military ethics.

When a man, engaged in a contest with another, ignores all the rules of the pugilistic game and resorts to gutter fighting, when he attempts to gouge, kick, bite, and land his blows on portions of the anatomy of his opponent regarded generally as strictly neutral, he has no reason to complain if the other throws to the winds the regulations laid down by the celebrated Marquis of Queensbury and meets him with his own tactics. When a man in a fight throws mud, he cannot wonder if he receives payment in kind. The devil fights with fire. Those arrayed against him will generally find themselves compelled to resort to the same agency of destruction.

The Union Government party have from the start planned a clean contest in West Peterborough. They have kept it as such down to date. Their assurance has been the justice and the strength of their cause. None can afford to be so magnanimous as the party or the individual who is entrenched in righteousness.

The opposition have lately shown a disposition to introduce the purely personal element into the contest. They are thinking with the thoughts and speaking in the language of untutored and callow youth, and worse. When they attempt to fasten upon Capt. Burnham responsibility for the removal of an industrial plant from this city, nothing more is required to show that they have reached the end of their debating resources. But they go further, and attempt to make capital by the publication of personal letters.

There is no game on earth that it is impossible for two parties to play at. Thin ice is always dangerous. The use of poisoned gas is more than likely to provoke reprisals. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

Our esteemed contemporary on George Street has during this campaign occupied a position that can be likened to nothing so aptly as that of a rat in a corner. Last night the woman who had been induced to part with a personal letter, set out to make the amende honorable. The Examiner attempted to blunt the point of what was really an apology. Of all puerile attempts to discredit a political opponent, that addenda to a letter in The Examiner last night holds the record. It was not only grossly unfair, but was flatly untrue. The man it set out to discredit in the eyes of the public is safe on his record. He has done good in secret, not in the glare of the limelight, and it is at his own request that his deeds of charity have not been paraded before the world. This is the man against whom our contemporary lisps its feeble insinuations.

The present issue before the people transcends all personal considerations of the different candidates. However, if it ever comes to a comparison of their several merits, the Unionists certainly have no reason to feel uneasy.

THE WOMAN VOTE.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in a Federal election in Canada women will vote. They are surely entitled to this privilege, when the sacrifices they have made in the war are taken into consideration.

Every effort is being made by unscrupulous election agents to misdirect this new vote. The man who will attempt to persuade a woman that the way to vote against Mr. Hall is to put a cross after his name is, after all, only a cheap kind of a shyster. Fortunate[illegible] it for the cause that there is intelligence on the part of the women sufficient to offset this style of campaigning.

Wives of men overseas are being asked to vote against conscription on the ground that if no more troops are sent, those now in the trenches will be withdrawn, that Canada will quit the war, and their husbands will soon be home again. This argument is as cowardly as it is sinister.

The truth is, the more men that are sent to the front the sooner will the war be over. The soldiers cannot come home until Germany is beaten. None of the Canadians at the front are the class of men who want to quit before victory is achieved, even if the folks at home desert them. The women will not be deceived. Their friends will come home when the war is won. The more reinforcements are sent, the quicker they are sent, the sooner will the war be over.

Women possess a sense of justice. If their own friends have borne the burden of war since the beginning, they naturally feel that the slackers should be compelled to do their duty.

WILL LOSE THE VOTE.

THE "MOTHER of Parliaments" is surely a safe guide for the lawmakers of the Dominion of Canada. The British House of Commons has decided to disfranchise all conscientious objectors, this disability to continue for the duration of the war and for five years thereafter. The enactment affects not those aliens who have been born in enemy countries, but native-born Britishers in many cases who have religious scruples about taking an active part in the war and whose sentiments are regarded.

And yet Mr. R. R. Hall, Mr. G. N. Gordon and others who are looking for anything in the shape of a peg upon which to hang a case, cannot find words strong enough in which to condemn the Canadian Government for depriving, not native-born subjects, but enemy aliens of the right to vote in an election in which the war is the issue, a war, too, in which these aliens' sympathy is with the enemy.

A safe rule to follow in an emergency like the present is to insist that if a man will not fight, and is not eligible for military duty, neither shall he vote.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

YOU SUBSCRIBED to Victory bonds. Do you want to see that investment wasted by men who are afraid to fight?

• • • •

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME the sinister influence of Bourassa and the clericals behind him was put down and out for good?

• • • •

PRODUCTION in Canada isn't going to suffer by the operation of the Military Service Act. Men who are engaged in production are not being taken.

• • • •

SIR WILFRID'S ZEAL for recruiting was always kept "underadvisement," thereby being slightly better than Bourassa's, which never made its appearance at all.

• • • •

WHAT A FINE TIME Bourassa, Lavergne, Lemieux, together with pro-German friends from Kitchener, would have spending that three hundred million dollar Victory Loan

• • • •

ELECTORS SHOULD not be misled by Laurier promises of a lower tariff. The same promises were made before and never kept, and they are in line with the promises regarding recruiting—to be kept "under advisement."

Civilians Can Wait.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

No one will complain of the edict that prohibits the sending of Christmas gifts to civilians in England, so long as the boys in khaki get theirs. The former can well await happier times.

THE ISSUE ON DECEMBER 17TH

The Hon. Bob Rogers' maxim that "you can't have a good election unless you get 'em savage at each other" applies, of course, to straight party fights. But it works out just as well in the case of a Union Government where the burning question is conscription.

The general election on December 17 next will divide Canadians into two great classes, conscriptionists and anti-conscriptionists. The cleavage is the most definite this country has had in twenty years. It is quite enough to "make 'em savage at each other." Bob Rogers himself could not wish a better apple of discord. Union Government stands for conscription; Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his followers stand against conscription. That is to say, they are against conscription unless the people vote "yes" by way of a referendum. As there is about as much chance of the people voting "yes" to send themselves to the slaughter pens of Europe as there is of the moon condensing into Limburger cheese, it is safe to say that Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his supporters are against conscription.

Sir Wilfrid's proposal to spend, say a year, in suspending the Military Service Act, taking a referendum which would answer "no" to conscription, and then trying out a recruiting campaign which would be sure to fail, means that our brave little army would be wiped out and the war, perhaps, be over before Canada sent any more help to the boys at the front. As a matter of fact, if this general election results in the return of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to power, there will be no need to take a referendum on conscription. A verdict favorable to Sir Wilfrid means a verdict favorable to his anti-conscription opinions, so that suspending the Military Service Act and taking a referendum would both be works of supererogation. All Sir Wilfrid need do, with public opinion behind him, is carry out his policy of no conscription and drop out of the war at once. Why make two bites of a cherry?

Union Government, on the other hand, means immediate reinforcements of our five rapidly-dwindling army divisions. How rapidly they dwindle is shown by the fact that the Canadian casualties in the last drive at Passchendaele were 20,000. Twenty thousand at one crack, and our effective reserves here and overseas amount perhaps to 100,000! A year's delay, as suggested by Sir Wilfrid, would put us out of the fight altogether. Our record of achievement would lapse and the good results of our advertising as spear-brother of England and the United States—the countries where we borrow our money—would be lost. The issue is a straight one—stick or quit. Union Government says "stick." Sir Wilfrid Laurier says "quit."

It comes hard to say it, but the election of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, venerable, high-minded statesman though he is, virtually announces to the Kaiser that Canada is no better than Russia—that is to say that she is in favor of a separate peace. What's more, the election of Sir Wilfrid, with a solid Quebec at his back, means that at the crisis of this war for freedom, humanity and democracy, Canada falls into the hands of the French-Canadians, who have been something worse than lukewarm on the subject. The argument that France and England, the mother and the stepmother, so to speak ,of Quebec, are fighting shoulder to shoulder, falls on deaf ears in Quebec, the truth being that pious Quebec does not love France because she expelled the monkish orders, and she does not love England, the protector of her special privileges and free institutions, because she does not speak French. Although Quebec has prospered under the British flag for 157 years, she does not love the flag with her heart. The best she can do is respect it for making Quebec livable for Quebeckers.

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE COUNTY'S BRIDGES.

Editor Review:—

Will you allow me a little space to reply to Mr. Bullied's letter re Monaghan Bridges. I would just like to put the fact before the people, and let them judge for themselves as to whether I was right, or wrong, in objecting to the reports of the County Committee. With regard to Mr. Bullied's insinuations that no inspection was made by me, previous to June session, etc., well, it is hardly worth considering, but if he wants to investigate I would be delighted to have him, or any other of the County do so. As to not knowing the Township from a County bridges, that is childish. When you are going through the Township of North Monaghan and you come to a dilapidated wooden structure supposed to represent a bridge, you can safely say, it must be a County bridge, that is childish. When you replacing bridges with permanent concrete structures. As to misrepresentation of Hogg's bridge, I will make the statement here that I do not know of any County bridge in North Monaghan with the exception of Ward's. (Draw Mr. Bullied's attention to the fact that this is another bridge that I know the name of) that would stand competent inspection. Let one of the Leonard Construction Co.'s road crushers go and take one round out of the County bridges in North Monaghan, and I can assure you that the Clerk of the County would have the sorrowful duty of writing obituary notices for departed County bridges in Monaghan, with Mr. Bullied as chief mourner on account of the heavy expense that would be put on the County by giving anything to Monaghan; thereby depleting the Treasury to such an extent, that Mr. Bullied would not be able to get any more bridges built in Chandos with approaches 300 feet long and 75 feet wide, flanked with heavy castelated stone work, the large stones for same having been hauled miles regardless of expense.

Now allow me to place before you the reports of County Committee, and also my remarks at the last November session. Mr. Walsh's report was a fair impartial report — Mr. Bullied's was a deliberate, and maliciously false report.

Report of Committee Re Monaghan's Bridges — Mr. Walsh, Chairman. Page 121—1916.

Payne's Bridge: We found one abutment in bad need of repair and advised Mr. McIntosh to have same repaired. This has not been done.

Dunlop's Bridge: We found the abutments in bad shape and no longer fit to carry the heavy traffic it is usually subject to and would recommend new concrete abutments, placing the same covering on with some repairs to same. Not done yet.

Report January 29th, 1917., Mr. Bullied, Chairman, Page 22, Clause 11.

Report June 23rd. Page 123, Clause 5.

That the committee while inspecting Monaghan Bridges look into Mr. Fowler's complaint. Nothing done.

Report November Session.

We inspected Monaghan Bridges, and found same in good repair and a credit to those under whose care they are.

Now, Mr. Warden and Gentlemen, I would draw your attention to the fact that in 1916 Mr. Walsh, as chairman, reports bridges in bad state of repair and recommend repairs. At the January session I reported these bridges as being in bad repair, and having no power to act, under recommendations given in Mr. McIntosh's term, and also on account of believing Payne's bridge to be in as bad state, if not worse, than Dunlop's, asked for a new inspection. This, was not granted me until the June session. The Committee with the addition of Mr. Darling and Mr. Walsh, to say nothing of the clerk went on a "joy ride" with the avowed intention of inspecting Monaghan bridges. When we were at Payne's bridge I spoke to Mr. Walsh, ex-chairman, re new abutment and also centre pier, and he said that he would have to stand by his report of last year, that he could not deviate in any way from that. There was no discussion on these matters either on the road, nor after returning, and I had no report of any kind until the Nov. session, when it was too late to do any work. This report, in spite of the fact, that Mr. Walsh as chairman of 1916 could not change his views, and that no repairs of any kind have been made is:—

"That we, your committee on inspecting Monaghan bridges, find Monaghan bridges in good repair, and a credit to those under whose charge they are." This, I take it puts Mr. Walsh in the position as chairman of 1916 as having recommended repairs, where none were required. Reports like these are very misleading to the members of the County Council. We all cannot go and see, neither do we all know the bridges and other needed works in the County, and we depend largely on the reports of committees for our guidance, and if we are to have conflicting (to say the least) reports of this kind, how, Mr. Warden, are we, the members of the County Council to know how we are voting the expenditure of the public monies? I must say I consider the report as brought in this session, a great injustice to myself, the Township of Monaghan, whose ratepayers I represent, and also the other members of the County Council, who are not all conversant with the facts.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your courtesy, I am, yours,

H. B. RYE,
Reeve, North Monaghan.

A MANUFACTURER'S VIEW.

Editor Review: As election day approaches every serious minded man realizes that Canada has reached a critical time in her history. There are various pressing and important questions before us, such as food production, cost of living, tariff adjustment, etc., but the most important question of all is how to get more troops overseas without delay. And the two policies regarding this latter question are so widely divergent that the difference between them constitutes the real battle ground. The more one studies the question, and tries to think out the probable results of each policy the more clearly is it apparent that to get more recruits by appealing to men's souls, although it may be a beautiful idea, is nevertheless simply a dangerous mirage, and would leave us with an unsupported army, with decimated ranks, seriously impaired morale, discouraged, embittered, and hopeless, and ourselves a spectacle to the world. There does not appear to be any serious attempt being made to defend the policy of Sir Wilfrid in this respect. Like the old Scotch minister who said to his congregation "Ma britherin, whenever I meet a deeficulty I look it squarely in the face and pass on," the Laurierites look the Conscription "deeficulty" in the face, and pass on to discuss food production, and the record of the late Borden government, although the latter is not germane to the question at issue.

There is no good ground for believing that Sir Wilfrid, if elected, could form a better government than the present Union Government, but there are the very gravest reasons for believing that, supporting as he is, he could not form one that would be nearly as good.

My view is that prior to nomination day, we had the prospect of having the present Union Government backed by such a large majority in the House that we would have had really the strongest government that we have ever had. But the regrettable action of the Laurierites in so many constituencies, showing on their part inability to take a broad minded and non-partisan view of a great question, has, I fear, imperilled our chances in this regard. But even now, if the electorate will put first things first, repress every vestige of partisan feeling, get the right perspective regarding important and unimportant questions, and leave as many disputed questions as possible for post bellum settlement, the Union Government may have a good working majority. The serious and absurd wastage and loss occasioned by the liquor traffic should be promptly dealt with by the new Government. And as between the present Union Government in which Hon. N. W. Rowell is so highly placed and a Government headed by Sir Wilfrid, the prohibitionists will be well advised to take their chances with Rowell. Sir Wilfrid does not believe in prohibition. He believes in Sunny Ways, which, of course, are very beautiful, and on some occasions are all right, but like many other good things may be carried to an extreme. Eating one's dinner is a good thing, but if carried to an extreme—well, try pepsin tablets.

Sunny Ways carried to an extreme would throw open the doors of our jails and penitentiaries, abolish our police force, and make this old world a perfect heaven for thugs and crooks, and might even prevent us from using force against the Kaiser. So it is clear to all sensible men that law and force have their place, and are not to be despised. This is no time for namby-pambyism. The issues at stake are too great to warrant us in taking chances. We know that we can get recruits with conscription, but we do not know that we can get them without conscription.

If the electors will consider the effect of Canada's approaching decision on the Australian vote, on the morale of our own soldiers, and on the effective and vigorous prosecution of the war, I feel assured that they will roll up a large majority for Union Government, whose policy is incomparably better than the puerile, weak and Nationalistic policy by which it is opposed, and is the only policy that will ensure adequate support to our boys at the front.

SPORT DOINGS HERE AND THERE

JERRY COUGHL'N is going to have a real argument to land a job with the Toronto pros. The local puck-chaser is working out with a bunch of opposition that has been gathered from fast company.

LOCAL CURLERS will start the season this week. Angus McIntosh is co-operating nicely with the weatherman and the two make a combination that takes off its hat to nobody. The Victory Loan campaigners will have it on the other fellows a mile, in condition.

MAT HYNES, who used to do a hurling turn at Riverside Park, for the London Cockneys, is now a corporal in the military police of an American regiment in training at Tacoma, Wash.

ANOTHER RECRUIT for Uncle Sam has been uncovered in Jimmy Callaghan, a Peterborough boy, who went across the border to reside. If Jimmy can hurl a few hand grenades with the skill he used in shooting the pill across to Mike O'Brien at first base, there'll be some dead Germans, soon after his battalion arrives on the scene.

SPORTSMEN FAMOUS IN BRITAIN DIE IN ACTION

London, Dec. 11.—Names of noted British athletes continue to be sprinkled through the latest casualty lists from the front.

English sportsmen heard with keen regret of the death of David Gallagher, captain of the New Zealand rugby team who toured in the United Kingdom in 1905. He was one of the brave men of New Zealand. Gallagher enlisted when he might easily have avoided doing so, and he came to Europe in the early summer to fight.

Second Lieut. Daniel Orummond, R. N. V. R., who formerly played for Queen's Park and later for Motherwell, is reported wounded.

Fred Griffiths, formerly goal keeper for Preston North End, South Shore and Blackpool, has been killed in action. He played for Wales against England and Scotland in 1899-1900.

Second Lieut. Donald Arthur George Buchanan Ryley, North Staffordshire Regiment, a prominent oarsman at Cambridge in the two seasons preceding the war, is officially reported as presumed killed.

Lieut. James Haslam, London Regiment, killed in action in France, was one of the most successful oarsmen on the Upper Thames during the ten years preceding the war. He stroked the Reading four for the Wyfolds at Henley in 1905, 1906 and 1907, and stroked Reading crews to victory at Molesley, Marlow, Deading, Maidenhead, Henley Town and other regattas.

TANKARD AND DISTRICT CUP SKIPS SELECTED

Messrs. R. M. Waddell and W. M. Lang will skip the two rinks of Peterborough curlers who will compete in the Tankard games this season. Messrs. R. P. Best and Alex. Archibald will skip the District Cup rinks.

The above selections were made at a meeting of curlers at the curling rink last night. Ten new members were accepted by ballot and the rinks were made up.

Mr. James Skinner drew a quartet of S's which he hopes to pilot to victory. The personel of his rink is: C. J. Snider, lead, C. E. Smith, second, C. J. Seymour, vice and Jas. Skinner skip.

"Don't you find geography difficult?" "We don't study geography now," replied the boy. "Teacher says we might as well hold off for awhile and wait for the map to settle."

"Snaggles is worrying because his baby girl is nearly three years old and has not begun to talk yet." "He needn't worry. She'll make up for it later." "That's what's worrying him."

THE UNCIVILIZED [illegible]

Campaign Started on This Continent to Study Aborigines.

Not because the North American Indian is disappearing, as was believed a few years ago to be the case, but rather because he is merging, is there increasing interest and increasing haste in the work of preserving his habitat and its atmosphere. The American Museum of Natural History some time ago entered upon the meritorious task of producing a series of picture groups of American aborigines, beginning with the Hopi, from studies as nearly accurate as are at this time possible.

The Apaches, a tribe of unsavory reputation, but far from being as bad as painted, have been chosen for the second group. Because of the difficulty experienced by the white settlers of the Southwest in living peaceably with them, or near them, and because of the difficulty the Washington Government experienced in subduing them, they came to be regarded as a very troublesome people. It cannot be said, however, that they presented a greater problem than the White River Utes, the Modocs, the Sioux, and other tribes that could not, while game was available to them on the plains or in the mountain passes, be tempted by the reservation and the settlers' stores. The reputation of the Apaches for lawlessness, at all events, crossed the ocean, and Paris long since applied their name to the most dangerous criminal class in the city.

It seems to be quite certain that the Apaches were corrupted by early association with unscrupulous whites. When the Spaniards first came in contact with them, they were tractable and friendly. Always nomadic in their habits, they followed the trail afoot up to the coming of the paleface. The Spaniards appealed to their friendship by giving them the first horses that American Indians ever rode. Mounted, they proved to be excellent hunters. Later, their horsemanship, and the firearms for which also they were indebted to the white brother, proved to be formidable factors in prolonging race war over a wide district.

They had many fearless chiefs, among them Black Hawk, not, however, the one of the memorable Black Hawk War, who became an implacable enemy of the whites; and the famous Geronimo, who displayed not only surpassing bravery, but a high order of military genius. Geronimo was finally captured by General Miles, and the loss of this leader broke the spirit of the tribe. Nearly all the well-known Indian fighters and scouts of the last half of the nineteenth century participated, at one time or another, in campaigns against the Apaches.

As one result of the numerous expeditions against the Apaches, the Government collected a vast amount of material bearing upon the habits and customs of the tribe. A great many collections of Apache arms and utensils also were made, most of which found their way in private hands or public museums.

As already remarked, it is not too late, even now, to witness representatives of many American Indian tribes living in all the primitiveness of the fifteenth century, but their number is every year decreasing. Even the "blanket" Indian is becoming rare in districts where he once was commonplace. It is high time the museums were gathering in all they can find appertaining to the aboriginal American, for the prospects are that his descendants will soon be living as ordinarily as other civilized people.

Final Appeal Judge Gives Ruling on Exemption of Farmers

Mr. Justice Duff (the Final Court of Appeal) Declares It Is Essential That There Shall Be No Diminution in Agricultural Production.

(Published by authority of Director of Public Information, Ottawa.)

Hon. Mr. Justice Duff gave judgment on December 6th, in the first test case brought before him, as Central Appeal Judge (the final court of appeal), for the exemption of a farmer. The appeal was made by W. H. Rowntree, from the decision of Local Tribunal, Ontario, No. 421, which refused a claim for exemption. The son was stated to be an experienced farm hand, who had been working on the farm continuously for the past seven years, and ever since leaving school. He lives and works with his father, who owns a farm of 150 acres near Weston, Ontario. With the exception of a younger brother, he is the only male help of the father on the farm. The father is a man of advanced years.

In granting the man exemption, "until he ceases to be employed in agricultural labor," Mr. Justice Duff said:

"The Military Service Act does not deal with the subject of the exemption of persons engaged in the agricultural industry; and the question which it is my duty to decide is whether the applicant, being and having been, as above mentioned, habitually and effectively engaged in agriculture and in labor essential to the carrying on of agricultural production, ought to be exempted under the provisions of the Military Service Act.

"These two propositions are indisputable:

"(1) In order that the military power of the Allies may be adequately sustained, it is essential that in this country and under the present conditions, there should be no diminution in agricultural production.

"(2) The supply of competent labor available for the purpose of agricultural production is not abundant, but actually is deficient.

"The proper conclusion appears to be that the applicant, a competent person, who had been habitually and effectively engaged in labor essential to such production, ought not to be withdrawn from it.

"It is perhaps unnecessary to say that such exemptions are not granted as concessions on account of personal hardship, still less as a favor to a class. The sole ground of them is that the national interest is the better served by keeping these men at home. The supreme necessity (upon the existence of which, as its preamble shows, this policy of the Military Service Act is founded) that leads the State to take men by compulsion and put them in the fighting line requires that men shall be kept at home who are engaged in work essential to enable the State to maintain the full efficiency of the combatant forces, and whose places cannot be taken by others not within the class called out."

Ottawa, December 8, 1917.

MAKE EVERY BALLOT A BULLET FOR BILL

Y.M.C.A. NOTES

The Y.M.C.A. Business Men's Class met for supper after their regular class in the gymnasium last night and a very pleasant time was spent by them. Mr. Gillespie, President of the Association, gave a brief address which was followed by short speeches by other members of the class. A number of Victrola selections added to the enjoyment of the program. Mr. Charles E. Sisson, the popular president of the class, was chairman. Twenty-two business men sat down to supper and nineteen men took advantage of the Business Men's Class in the gymnasium, which is a record attendance for some years.

At the conclusion of the class the older boys' team played against a picked team from the Business Men's Class. The business men were defeated by one goal in the last two minutes of the play after being in the lead throughout the game.

The Business Men's Class is proving perhaps more popular this year than it has for some time past, and a number of men are taking advantage of it for the first time and are very enthusiastic over the results.

TUG ARRIVES IN PORT IN SAFETY

ARCHIE W. REPORTED LAST IN LAKE ERIE TURNS UP.

Port Maitland, Dec. 11.—The tug Archie W., mentioned this morning as having gone to pieces on the rocks in Lake Erie is safe at Port Dover and nothing further has been heard of the freighter, said to have given distress signal off Point Tecumseh or of the drifting lifeboat with lifeless men aboard.

THE LADY STRATEGIST.

A Case In Which the Longest Way Around Was the Shortest Way Home.

"HERE," she said, rushing back to the ticket window, "this dollar you gave me in change is counterfeit."

"Pardon me, but I didn't give you a dollar in change."

"Yes, you did. I bought a ticket here not two minutes ago, and you changed a five dollar bill for me. It was all the money I had, so I couldn't have got this bad dollar anywhere else."

"You should have examined your change when it was handed to you. I can't make any correction now."

"I shan't budge from this window till you give me a good dollar for the bad one you tried to foist upon me."

"Let me see it."

"There."

"Why, this is a perfectly good bill. Here is another. I'm not afraid of it."

"No. I won't take this bill. It's torn. Give me a new one."

"I'm sorry, but if you don't want that bill I'll have to give you your change in nickels."

"Thank you," she said, after counting the pieces of coin. "I wanted a dollar's worth of nickels, but I knew you wouldn't have that many if I asked for them in the first place."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Newfoundland's "Bit."

Newfoundland, though her population does not exceed that of a populous English industrial city, has sent 10,000 men to fight the battles of the British Empire in this war. It is a magnificent record, and exactly what one would have expected from a country which sent its fishing ships to help in the destruction of the Great Armada. It was in 1583 that Sir Humphrey Gilbert took possession of the island in the name of his "most gracious Lady, Queen Elizabeth"; it was only five years later that La Felicissima Armada left Corunna for English waters, so that Newfoundland had an early opportunity of establishing a tradition for gallantry which Newfoundlanders are so splendidly vindicating in the present war. The "Antient and Loyale Colony" of Newfoundland is celebrating the four hundred and twentieth anniversary of her discovery, an occasion which is seized by the rest of the Empire to wish her Godspeed.

ONE SOLID YEAR OF CAPACITY BUSINESS

This Is The Record of "The 13th Chair."

To say that a play did capacity business for an entire year is often looked upon as exaggeration, yet the truth is that there are probably many people in this city who actually were unable to secure seats to see "The Thirteenth Chair" during the visits last year to New York. The mystic melodrama which will be presented by William Harris, Jr., its producer, in this city became a sensation the night it was produced in New York and during the year it played at the Forty-Eighth Street theatre, the management estimated that nearly half again as many people as did see it, would have, had the capacity of the theatre been greater. "The Thirteenth Chair" is from the pen of Bayard Veiller, known to theatre-goers the world over as the author of "Within the Law." Great as was that play it is the firm belief of those who follow the theatre that his newest play will actually excel in popular interest and support that really remarkable play. "The Thirteenth Chair" will be seen here on Thursday next, Dec. 13, at The Grand.

HIS BAIL BONDS NOT RENEWED

A. E. STEVENS IS PLACED UNDER ARREST BY LOCAL POLICE.

A. E. Stevens of Montreal was placed under arrest this afternoon after having failed to appear in the police court at one o'clock, to have his bail bonds renewed. Stevens first came before the notice of the police when it was alleged he issued two cheques for $15 and $3 respectively without having funds in the bank.

This afternoon his bondsmen refused to renew the bail bonds and Stevens was remanded to jail.

Dead Artist Honored.

In memory of the late Tom Thompson, the distinguished young Canadian artist, an imposing cairn has been erected in the wilds of Algonquin Park. It overlooks Canoe Lake, whose beauties the young artist made everlasting and is situated close to the spot where he met death by drowning last July. The memorial is cut from the native stone and a brass plate with the following inscription is imbedded in the solid rock.

"To the memory of Tom Thompson, artist, woodsman and guide, who was drowned in Canoe Lake, July 8th, 1917.

"He lived humbly but passionately with the wild. It made him brother to all untamed things of nature. It drew him apart and revealed itself wonderfully to him. It sent him out from the woods, only to show these revelations through his art, and it took him to itself at last.

"His fellow artists and other friends and admirers join gladly in this tribute to his character and genius."

His body is buried at Owen Sound, Ontario, near where he was born. August 1237.

NEED FOR KNITTERS AND SEWERS IS MOST URGENT

Bugle Call by Red Cross Society Executive.

At the regular monthly executive meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Red Cross Society, which was held Monday afternoon, December tenth, the urgent need for more knitters was emphasized. As the days and the weeks and the months and the years pass and the war still continues, the interest of many of our workers is apt to wane, our needles are inclined to ply less vigorously and consequently the supply of socks turned in, is certain to diminish. If we but stopped to realize the dire results of our selfishness, the awful suffering we thus occasion our boys overseas, and the indirect aid we are, in this way, giving the enemy, surely we would energetically renew our efforts, resolutely set aside our personal interests and knit, knit, without ceasing till our men come home. Each Wednesday afternoon, Miss Burnett is in the Red Cross workrooms of the Public Library, ready to give out wool to all desiring it. There are also legs of socks, machine-knit ready for footing, which may be obtained from Miss Burnett by any, wishing to do this part of the work.

More Sewers, Too.

There is also a continued need for more sewers for Wednesday afternoons. At least twenty additional workers are required to bring the number up to desired quota and to make it possible for the supervisors to turn out a satisfactory amount of work.

The report of Miss Flora Davidson, convener of the Packing Committee, is as follows:

Madam President, Members of the Red Cross:

Your packing committee report 17 cases, shipped in November, containing the following:

15 dressing gowns, 18 bed jackets, 53 Day shirts, 161 pyjamas, 288 prs. socks, 142 sheets, 314 pillow cases, 147 towels, 54 face cloths.

Supplies Received.

Supplies were received from the following societies: Ashburnham P. L., St. Andrew's Church, Berean B. C., All Saints' Aux., Fairview Ladies Aid, George St. Methodist, Stewart Settlement I. O. D. E., Indian River, St. John's Women's Aux., Lily Lake, Lakehurst, Murray St Baptist, St. Paul's Aux., South End Aux., Trinity Church, Library Work Room, St. Peter's P. L. Socks from Mrs. Magee and Mrs. Waddell for C. W. C. A.

Miss Burnett, the convener of the Knitting Committee, reported as follows: For November our socks amounted to only 397 pairs in all. From our individual knitters we received 101 pairs. As donations 134 pairs, made up as follows, from Indian River 9 pairs, Lakehurst 27 pairs, Fairmount Women's Institute 18 pairs, Murray St. Baptist Church 19 pairs, St. Andrew's Church 43 pairs, Stewart Settlement I. O. D E. 11 pairs, Trinity Church 7 pairs. Of machine knit socks we received 163 pairs. In addition to this for the C. W. C. A. we had a generous donation of 29 pairs from Mrs. Magee and 6 pairs from Mrs. Halliday, making a total of 35 pairs.

FARMING CAR HERE THURSDAY

PUBLIC IS INVITED TO EXHIBITS AND TO LISTEN TO LECTURES.

The demonstration car which the Ontario Department of Agriculture is sending through Eastern Ontario will be at the Grand Trunk depot here all next Thursday. The car will be open for the inspection of the public from 10 a.m. until 5.30. School children in the upper grades are invited and special lectures will be delivered for their benefit. Practical addresses will be given by expert farmers and in the evening a public meeting will be held in the Assembly room of the Public Library.

Mr. R. R. Hall will do well to visit this car. Nothing will so tend to convince him that the Government is really doing something to increase production to show the country how to make two blades of grain grow where only one feeble straggler appeared before. A trip to the car will also show him that all his frenzied appeals for greater production have been so much lung energy thrown away.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH INDIGESTION, GAS

"PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN" IS THE QUICKEST AND SUREST STOMACH RELIEF.

You don't know what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sick, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented and turned sour; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin to neutralize acidity, and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have dyspepsia. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps the stomach sweetened, and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless antacid is Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it stops food souring and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Your stomach will digest your food if you keep acids neutralized.

Save Canada from Russia's Disgrace!

INDIVIDUALLY, the people of Russia are loyal to their country, but woefully misguided. The army, weakened by lack of support, simply 'quit' fighting; and in its contempt for Russia's present attitude, the world is rapidly forgetting the marvellous achievements of Russia earlier in the war.

Be True to Our Boys
They Ask Your Help

In a diary taken from a captured German officer was found: "There are no deserters among the Canadians." There are none among Canadians at the front.

Desert the boys who have fought and died for us? Never! They ask for reinforcements and they shall have them—in the only possible way—by the return of Union Government. Laurier offers a referendum—in the course of time—then a further appeal for volunteers. Rot! All the volunteers who could go have enlisted.

Support Union Government

Union Government is pledged to the immediate raising of reinforcements under the Military Service Act, 1917. Only under the leadership of Union Government will Canada remain a useful, honorable factor in the defence of civilization and liberty. You are coming to the cross-roads. Will you take the road to dishonor and disillusionment, or will you support the men in khaki on the road to Victory? Your vote demands a decision!

The Franchise is Extended to Women

Every woman may vote who is a British subject, 21 years of age, resident in Canada one year, and in the constituency 30 days, who is the mother, wife, widow, daughter, sister or half-sister of any person, male or female, living or dead, who is serving or has served without Canada in any of the Military forces, or within or without Canada in any of the Naval forces of Canada or of Great Britain in the present war, or who has been honorably discharged from such services, and the date of whose enlistment was prior to September 20th, 1917.

A MAN'S OPINION OF GIRLS WHO WORKS ON THE FARMS

Says in Many Respects They are Better than Men—Are Cleaner, Steadier and Have More Patience with Cows.

Past the window of the local club in England a farm girl strode manfully on her way to the station. She was obviously a girl impelled to farming by a sense of duty. Her clothing—smock, felt hat, trousers, leggings and boots—was superlatively good. She looked as if she had stepped out of one of the illustrations used by a London shop to show the very best wear for women's work on the land.

"There goes one of Welcome's girls," said a man looking out of the window, and followed some good-natured chaff. It was generally considered that Mr. Welcome, with these women workers, had ceased to be a practical farmer.

"I don't care," said Welcome, in his slow considered manner of speaking. "I speak as I find things, and my three women workers have more than made good. In some respects they are as good as men, if not better. There will always be a place on my holding for a woman worker if she comes up to the women who are with me now. That jaunty girl you are smiling at is real proud of herself and her uniform. She has finished her work, and I admit, in the matter of costume, she likes to let herself go when the job is done. The height of her pleasure, when she goes away for the week-end, is to travel home to London in that rig-out. And I don't blame her. There always remains the same old touch of Eve in a woman, no matter what she is doing. And that girl does not need to muck about on any land. Her father is a West End doctor.

Excel in Dairy.

"But let me tell you," Mr. Welcome went on, "I don't suppose that girl knew one end of a cow from another until she 'enlisted.' Yet she makes good, though she is not the best of my bunch. I am not going to sit here and say that women can do the same work on a farm as a man, or that for some work men are not better. They always will be better. There is work on a farm you cannot ask a woman to do.

"But I tell you what I have found out by actual experience. Women are better in the dairy. Yes, and in the downright practical work of the sheds. My cow-sheds are just as well kept as they ever were, and cleaner than any man ever kept them. They handle cows better. They have more patience. In cleaning, milking, keeping time, dispatching, my women workers are just as good as men.

"No, they don't take kindly to ploughing. Again, I believe in her secret heart every woman hates pigs. Girls are effective in the stables, but slower than men. They certainly treat horses and cattle better. They are reliable on the road to the market town and waste less time. They do not get through so much work as men in the harvest field, naturally, but the work is well done. In the work of supervision about fruit trees, cattle and poultry feeding, dairy work—we do not do much in the dairy nowadays—packing, storing, and such-like jobs, I have nothing but praise for the woman worker. I've always kept bees since one of the county council experts practically talked me into the experiment, but never rightly understood them, and I've never had a man who began to try. That girl from town makes a hobby of my bees. I know now there's a case for bees if you understand them. The girl can prove it by her balance-sheet.

No Surly Days.

"Yes," summed up Mr. Welcome, "women work well. They are cleaner than men and more cheerful. They have no surly Mondays and lapses on market days."

Someone interrupted Mr. Welcome with a new thought. "Yes—of course they talk, but I've had male workers who could waste more time resolutely without saying a word for hours. I've no doubt women waste a lot of time talking. But men can waste time, too, sometimes by talking and sometimes in silence. At present I seem to be wasting time talking.

He stood up and smiled on his audience, and disappeared.

"You must not take too much notice of Mr. Welcome," said another man of Kent, winking. "Mr. Welcome is a widower."

TODAY'S STORY

"Ha, a fight!" exclaimed Ripply Waters, pacifist. "I must stop it!"

And he hurried across the street to where Bismuth Knobs and Scoyd Spipps were pommeling, scratching, clawing, biting and kicking.

"Friends, stop it!" commanded Ripply Waters, stepping between them. "No provocation excuses such behavior."

"Don't it, though!" panted Bismuth Knobs. "Just lemme tell you what he did to me; just lemme tell you! In the first place he stole $300 out of my pocket while he was helping me on with my overcoat; in the second place he sent me poisoned gumdrops in the mail; in the third place he shot at me from the dark, and in the fourth and last place he ran away with my wife."

"But just lemme tell you what he did to me!" cried Scoyd Spipps. "In the fourth and last place he forged my name to a check; in the third place he went around telling everybody I'm not fit to eat with the pigs when I really am; in the second place he practiced on a cornet next to my bedroom every night from 11 p.m. to 3 a.m. for four months."

"Childish! Childish!" scoffed Ripply Waters. "There's not a thing there that doesn't admit of arbitration."

As Bismuth Knobs and Scoyd Spipps walked off arbitrating, with their arms around each other's necks, a man carrying forty early Christmas parcels accidentally trod on Ripply Waters' toe.

"You ——! double blank!" roared Ripply Waters. And, dashing after him, he beat him to a pulp.

SHORTHORNS FOR MILK

English Experts Claim Them Superior To The Dairy Breeds

English Shorthorn farmers are proclaiming the merits of their breed. Listen! Professor Long says the milk-producing farmer has studied how to increase the flow of milk while maintaining the characteristic feeding qualities of the Shorthorn breed, and has succeeded. On the other hand, some of the pedigree breeders have subordinated milk to flesh development. But in its native land the Shorthorn is pre-eminently the best dairy cow in the best dairy country in the world. The milking qualities of the English Shorthorn are shown in a remarkable way by the results of the tests made at the London Dairy Show. In the eleven years, from 1894-1904 inclusive, first place in both milk and fat production, was won by a Shorthorn in every case, competing against all dairy breeds, commonly bred there. The ability of the Shorthorn to produce high class meat is too well known to require discussion.

Their Greatest Christmas Joy!

AMONG all the toys and games for the kiddies—the pretty, handy presents for the young folks—the useful gifts for the parents—one Christmas gift stands supreme for all the family—

The NEW EDISON

You could not select one single feature—at any price—to add to your home this Christmas that would compare with music. And you could not get music in any form so ideal as in the NEW EDISON.

An endless source of joy to the kiddies; inspiration to the young people; comfort to the old folks; entertainment to the whole family and friends—it is the one supreme gift for the entire home circle, for years to come.

It will be the center of interest, the strongest home tie, long after other gifts are gone or forgotten. And best of all it is real, re-created music that Thos. A. Edison spent nearly a million dollars and five years' efforts to perfect. There is no other way in which you can add true, natural music to your home, in such endless form, except with the NEW EDISON. Yet it does not necessarily mean a heavy outlay of money. A small amount will place an Edison in your home for Christmas, with the balance payable in convenient monthly installments and the prices are the same as for cash.

Can you think of any way in which you could lay out, say $25 or $50 and get so much?

Think of Christmas morning—bright, cheery, happy with the merry anthems and carols of old St. Nicholas ringing through the home! That—or silence?

Let this be a Musical Christmas

Prices of the New Edison range from $139.91 to $331.19 in standard models. Art models to $6000.00. Convenient terms.

The J. M. Greene Music Co, Ltd.
GREENE MUSIC BUILDING, CHARLOTTE ST.

The New Edison can be made to play all makes of records, if desired.

OFFICERS ARE RE-ELECTED BY GREAT WAR VETERANS

To Assist Soldiers, Families to Get Coal and Wood

Mrs. Knox Thanked

Comrades H. Staunton, president, Walter Perks, vice-president, Sidney Whatley, secretary, Fred Haggart, financial secretary and George Coleman, treasurer, were re-elected to office at a meeting of the Great War Veterans last night in the armories.

On the suggestion of Comrade J. C. Smith a relief committee was formed whose duties will be to assist the families of soldiers overseas to obtain supplies of coal and wood.

Comrades H Gilbert, H. Kelly, P. Parrington and G. Coleman will represent the Association in a conference with the Women's Auxiliary at the office of Mr. E. A. Peck, to discuss the question of a canvass for the Club Rooms Fund. Officers of the Auxiliary waited on the meeting giving a report on a meeting held in the officers quarters to deal with the same matter.

Secretary Whatley was congratulated upon the manner in which he had presided at the Borden meeting and the Secretary was instructed to write Mrs. J. Knox and express the sincere thanks of the Veterans for her efforts in helping to organise the Women's Auxiliary.

Comrade W. R. Elliott, chairman of the Entertainment committee, wrote tendering his resignation, owing to having secured a position in the Pensions Department, Ottawa, which necessitated his departure from the city.

The Entertainment committee has had the arrangements for the children's Christmas treat in hand, and Comrade Gilbert will carry on as chairman of the committee.

Comrade Hughes reported that Adjutant McElhiney not only promised to have the Temple Band on hand for the Christmas entertainment, but had offered the use of the Salvation Army Temple for the occasion.

It was the feeling of the meeting that the S. A. Hall would be more comfortable than the armories, and it was decided to hold the Christmas treat there on Saturday, Dec. 22nd.

Seven new members were admitted into the ranks of the G.W.V.A.

IRON SECOND OFFICER HOME FROM HUNLAND

Ill-Treated While Prisoner of Germans.

Ottawa, Dec. 11.—Undaunted in spirit, despite vile treatment at the hands of the Boches by whom he was captured at Langemarck in April, 1915, Sergt. Frank McHugh, 2nd Battalion, arrived back in Ottawa yesterday, after over three years absence during which he has had experiences very few men live through to tell of.

Sergt. McHugh told a little of what he had gone through since he became a soldier. He enlisted in Ottawa on August 7, 1914, in the Governor-General's Foot Guards, and was attached to the Second Battalion. He went overseas with the first contingent and participated with them at the battle of St. Julien where so many brave sons of Canada fell. He was badly gassed and wounded with a large number of the French Algerian troops.

A brutal German who was one of a party which took him prisoner bit Sergt. McHugh on the back of the head with his gun before marching him back to the lines and he was in a very weak state indeed when bundled into a cramped box car with about 40 other prisoners, some of them Canadians and others Algerians. The box car would only have held less than a third of that number so the discomfort of the unfortunate men may be easily imagined.

Sergt. McHugh said he had nothing to eat for 24 hours when he was captured and he was forced to travel for two days into the interior of Germany on an empty stomach. At several of the stations on the way huge crowds of jeering Germans would gather, mal-treating those whom they could reach, while the guards looked complacently on. Water was offered to the parched men but when they reached out to take it, the mocking "good Samaritans" threw it on the ground and laughed at them. None of the men were allowed to stir out of the truck until it reached Cologne where they were subjected to further harsh treatment at the hands of a large crowd of brutal citizens. Some of them accepted the offer of the guards to get out but the crowds rushed at them and they were forced to get back again to save being beaten. The others were wise and stayed in their only place of safety.

Jammed in Quarters.

The train with the prisoners arrived at Geissen the next night and about 400 unfortunate prisoners were jammed into one tiny hut that wouldn't comfortably contain a score of human beings. The men spent the night piled on top of each other, scores of them suffering badly from wounds and the effects of being gassed. The next morning they were given a piece of bread and some watery coffee, and were all ordered to wash at the one tap. There was no soap or towels but the men were glad even to bathe themselves in the comforting cool water, though they were compelled to dry themselves in their own linen, dirty after weeks' wear.

Driven to Work.

At Geissen they were sorted out and were told they would have to work on the farms and in the mines. Sergt. McHugh and a party of 50 Canadians refused to work, but the Germans drove them down to the nickel mines and when they refused to go down called an extra guard and forced them to descend. Down below they were given tools and told to go to work, but they again refused and the guards and the civilian workers surrounded them and beat them. When one of the Canadians saw his chance he stuck a pick into the air-pipe and the others caused as much trouble as possible by hiding the tools. When the Germans found they could do nothing with them, the Canadians were sent up out of the mine. Sergt. McHugh spent a month there, when he was sent back to the hospital at Geissen, where his wounds were given crude treatment. In August, 1916, a physical wreck, he was sent to Switzerland with others. He was there a year and under kind treatment soon picked up. He was able to play football before he was sent off in a draft for repatriation in September last. From England he came home to Canada.

THE ONLY MEDICINE THAT HELPED HER

"Fruit-a-tives Again Proves Its Extraordinary Powers

Rochon, Que., March 2nd, 1915.

"I have received the most wonderful benefit from taking "Fruit-a-tives". I suffered for years from Rheumatism and change of life, and I took every remedy obtainable without results. I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and it was the only medicine that really did me good. Now I am entirely well—the Rheumatism has disappeared, and the terrible pains in my body are all gone. I hope that others, who suffer from such distressing diseases, will try "Fruit-a-tives". MADAME ISAIE ROCHON.

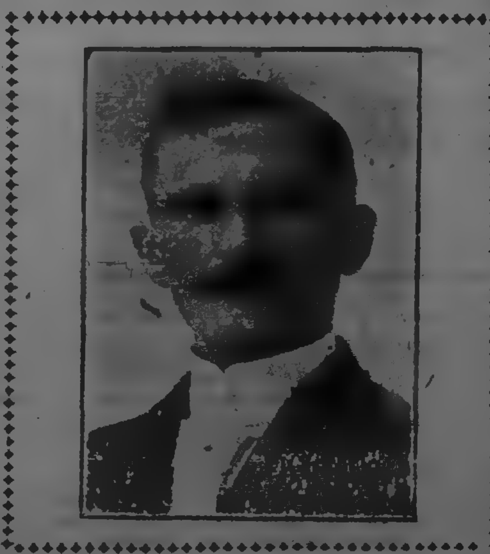
TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle-front; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.



For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

G. W. Miller Has Gained 32 Pounds By Taking Tanlac

Improvement of Former Postmaster Surprises All of His Friends.

Remarkable, indeed, was the statement made by G. W. Miller of 232 McNab street, Hamilton, who recently declared that he has not only gotten complete relief from rheumatism and stomach trouble by taking Tanlac, but that he has actually gained thirty-two pounds in weight besides. Mr. Miller was for twelve years postmaster and merchant at 69 Corners, Brant County, and is well known and respected throughout Southern Ontario. Mr. Miller's complete statement follows;

"As a result of rheumatism and stomach trouble I had fallen off to one hundred and fifteen pounds. I now weigh one hundred and forty-seven pounds, which puts me even beyond my normal weight, and I don't think I have ever felt better in my life. I was so sick and crippled up that I had to sell out my business and get a man to take charge of the post office. My legs had perished away until they were no longer than my arms—I couldn't bend them—the leaders seemed to be tied in knots and hurt me so I could hardly bear anything to touch me. I just could manage to hobble around by the use of a walking stick. My stomach was so upset that I could hardly eat anything. My appetite was all gone and I just seemed to be slowly starving. Sometimes all I could take was a glass of milk and even then I suffered.

"For several months I was under treatment at a considerable cost without getting any relief, but my improvement on a few bottles of Tanlac has astonished me and all who know of my awful condition. It seems that everybody I see asks me what I have done to gain so much weight and make me look so much better. My appetite is so big now I can hardly eat enough to satisfy me, and I can eat anything—meats and all kinds of vegetables— and nothing hurts me. I was badly constipated, too, but by using the Tanlac tablets in connection with Tanlac I have been relieved of this trouble. The rheumatism is all gone out of my legs—I don't have to use a cane any more—and I can walk any place I want to go. My legs are getting back to their regular size, my muscles are getting firm and I simply feel altogether different in every way. Of course I owe my present good health to nothing but Tanlac and am glad to make a statement that will reach others who may be suffering as I did, for I honestly believe Tanlac will help them."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.

WOMEN'S UNION GOVERNMENT LEAGUE

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden UnionAdministration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Peterborough, Nov. 10, 1917.

National Unity Essential to VICTORY

To-day, Canada, like the other fighting nations, has Union Government. War has proved its absolute necessity. It is the ONLY way in which Canada can throw her whole strength into the business and finish the war victoriously. Party must give way to the supreme concern for the safety and continued existence of the state.

Any opposition to national unity at such a time as this must, if it is not to plead guilty to a charge of utter disloyalty, arise from thoughtlessness, rank prejudice, or narrow party spirit. The following extract from de Tocqueville written half a century ago, condemns such opposition as is being launched by the Laurier-Bourassa faction—"For a generation which is manifestly called upon to witness the stern and terrible changes of the constitutions of the empires of the earth, the deadliest sin is thoughtlessness, the most noxious food is prejudice, and the most fatal disease is party spirit."

Patriots will Support Union Government

The fainthearts, the indifferents, and the quitters in the province of Quebec must NOT be permitted to interfere with the will of the people as represented in the leading men of both the great parties, brought together in Union Government. If Laurier prefers Bourassa to the great Liberal leaders who have thrown in their strength and influence with the great Conservative leaders for the Winning of the War, Laurier must be prepared to lose his personal following while there is real work to be done.

The Vote is your Seal of Approval

Union Government is formed by the union of men who have sunk political differences in the hour of great national danger. It has come into existence in order that the whole moral power of Canada could be organized for victory. The task of getting these strong men together has been accomplished; all that remains is for the people to put their seal of approval on the best Government Canada has ever had.

Support and Reinforcement of our Fighting Forces Supremely Important

Union Government is pledged to supply reinforcements of men and money at the earliest possible moment. The rejection of Union Government and all it implies would be disastrous, and its effects far-reaching. This war is a test of civilian morale as well as of military efficiency. Behind the armies stand the people, if they break no valor in the field can avert defeat.

The Kaiser hopes the Laurier-Bourassa faction will accomplish in Canada what Lenine is achieving for him in Russia. Your interests and the Kaiser's are absolutely opposite—and it is YOU who have the vote.

WOMEN WHO CAN VOTE

Every woman may vote who is a British subject, 21 years of age, resident in Canada one year, and in the constituency 30 days, who is the mother, wife, widow, daughter, sister or half-sister of any person, male or female, living or dead, who is serving or has served without Canada in any of the Military forces, or within or without Canada in any of the Naval forces of Canada or of Great Britain in the present war, or who has been honorably discharged from such services, and the date of whose enlistment was prior to September 20th, 1917.

HOME VISITATION BY ALL CHURCHES OF PETERBORO

Will Be Held on the Afternoon of Jan. 4

Plans are being perfected to conduct in this city [illegible] the auspices of the Ontario Sunday School Association and promoted by a co-operative committee representing the Peterboro Sunday School Association, the Protestant Ministerial Association and representatives of the Jewish synagogue. The co-operation of the Roman Catholic Church is being sought.

The Home Visitation plan is a systematically organized interdenominational movement through which every home in the city can be visited in a few hours. Its purpose is to place a printed invitation in every home, inviting all the people to attend the Church or Synagogue and Sunday School of their choice; and to secure a record of the church connection or preference of every individual, which is given to the pastor, priest, rabbi, or organization preferred.

The city of Toronto conducted on Nov. 9th, 1917, a complete visitation. About 6000 workers from the churches, Sunday Schools and Synagogues of that city visited the half million population in three hours. The ministers, rectors and rabbis as well as a multitude of workers are enthusiastic in praise of the results.

The Peterborough visitation is planned for the afternoon of Friday, January 4th, 1918. Each of the participating churches, etc., will be asked to select and appoint a number of visitors. These will be asked to meet on Thursday night, January 3rd, for instruction. It is expected that all the information will be in the possession of each church and pastor by Sunday, January 6th, 1918.

AIR FIGHTING SHOWS GREATER ACTIVITY THAN EVER AT CAMBRAI

British Airmen Drop Bombs on Enemy Villages and Germans Retaliate on Allies Region---Russians Forces to be Disbanded---More Fighting in Petrograd.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 12.—There was great activity in the air on Monday, especially in the Cambrai region, according to an official statement on aerial operations issued last night. British airplanes dropped bombs on enemy villages and the Germans bombed the British area. Five German airplanes were brought down and three British machines are missing.

On Tuesday British aviators dropped bombs on a large railway junction northeast of Pirmasens in the Bavarian Palatinate about 100 miles east of Verdun.

Russians Demobilized.

Copenhagen, Dec. 12.—A semi-official German news agency says the demobilization of Russian forces already has begun and that peace negotiations restricted to the Russian front have been authorised.

British Repulse Raid.

London, Dec. 12.—A local attack by the enemy yesterday afternoon against our positions north of Lavacquerie, on the Cambrei front, was repulsed says today's official communication. We carried out a successful raid last night in the vicinity of Pontruet north of St. Quentin in which we captured prisoners and machine guns.

Bolsheviki Defeated.

London, Dec. 12. — Reports of fighting at Mohilev, the Russian general headquarters, between troops newly arrived there and the Bolsheviki garrison were received in Petrograd Monday according to the correspondent of the Times in the Russian capital. It is also reported that shock battalions and Cossacks advancing on Mohilev clashed with the Bolsheviki who were defeated.

On The French Front.

Paris, Dec. 12.—German parties felt out the French lines at points northwest of Rheims last night. No activity of importance elsewhere is reported although there was artillery fighting of some liveliness in the Verdun region where also a German raid was attempted.

EVIDENCE IN FIRST APPEAL

Decisions Will Not Be Announced By Judge-

Before Judge Huycke this afternoon, in the city council chamber, Alex. Caldwell of Apsle appeared against the decision given by a military service tribunal, in which his son, Hugh J. Caldwell, aged 22, was refused exemption from military service.

County Crown Attorney Hatton is military representative.

Caldwell said he farmed 200 acres. Adjoining his land, his son had 200 acres, and cultivation was carried on jointly. The appellant said he had two daughters aged 18 and 12 and two others sons aged 15 and 13.

No Decisions Here.

Judge Huycke announced that he had received instructions to send all decisions to Kingston, and all appellants would be notified from Kingston.

Reeve Bullied, representing the township of Chandos, said the tribunals did not consider production in making their decisions. "I don't think we received a square deal," said Reeve Bullied. The boys are needed to fill up the places of those who are gone." Labor had cost $2.00 a day and board, and that was one reason why the price of potatoes was high and they could not be sold at $1.60 a bag.

Reeve Loan representing Burleigh and Anstruther said the labor question was an acute problem. He was compelled to keep from school his 12 years old boy to help in the harvest." We won't be able to produce as much, or raise as much stock if the Act is carried out." A contractor, he was informed, had tried to withdraw from his agreement with the McDonald Lumber Co. because he could not get men.

Judge Huycke in reply said that each individual case would receive his very best consideration, with due regard to the need of the army and the farm.

MR. HALL FACES SMALL CROWD

Few Electors Attend Meeting This Afternoon.

It wasn't necessary to open the second balcony to accommodate the "crowd" at the Liberal candidate's meeting in the Grand Opera House this afternoon. The numerical strength of the audience must have been a big disappointment to Mr. Hall.

In his address he launched his well known attacks against he Union candidate and once again placed the blame for the removal of the Metal Products Compan from Peterborough to Montreal upon the shoulders of Capt. Burnham. He made a number of promises as to what he would do if elected next Monday.

During the address the Rooters' Club chimed in with applause at prearranged periods.

Mr. J. W. Jacobs, K.C., of Montreal, and Mr. J. J. Hartley supported the candidate.

C. H. BREWSTER IS APPOINTED

Charles H. Brewster has been appointed by Judge Huycke to sit on the military service tribunal at Havelock in the stead of F. J. Squire, who last week was arrested on the charge of perjury. Reeve W. Matheson is the other member of the tribunal. Nineteen cases remain on the list. Fifteen applicants are railwaymen, and will appear before the special tribunal for C. P. R. employes.

RUSSIANS HOPE FOR THE DEFEAT OF BOLSHEVIKI

Officials in London Say That the Better Elements Are in Revolt.

DEMOCRACY WILL TRIUMPH

Bolsheviki Forces Abolish All Established Courts of Justice.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 12.—Russian officials in London, who are establishing direct communication with Gen. Kaledines and other leaders of democratic organizations in Russia, declared to the Associated Press today that the movement to overthrow the Bolsheviki was supported not only by the Cossacks but by almost all leaders of other parties. These leaders, it was said, are confident that they will be able to make short shrift of the Bolsheviki.

All Courts Dispersed.

Petrograd, Dec. 12.—The Bolsheviki have dispersed the Senate, the highest Russian court, and all other courts of Petrograd, in keeping with the recent decree of the people's commissaries, substituting new revolutionary tribunals. The only opposition met with was at the palace of the county judges, who refused to be dispersed. They were arrested by the soldiers. Leon Trotsky, the Bolsheviki foreign minister, has issued a decree dismissing all Russian ambassadors and their staffs.

500 PERSONS LOSE SIGHT OF ONE OR BOTH EYES

Many Men, Women and Children Herded In One Room.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Halifax, Dec. 12.—There will be from three hundred to five hundred people blind or partially blind and two hundred full orphans as a result of the Mont Blanc explosion, it was learned today from Canadian and United States workers who have made investigations of the dead, missing and injured here. The known dead total eight hundred, and it is estimated that from nine hundred to one thousand still lie beneath the debris of shattered or burned houses. The list of missing, very formidable in the days immediately succeeding the disaster, is being steadily reduced as relatives are reunited and refugees who left the city return. On the property damaged, it is reported that five hundred houses have been totally destroyed, five hundred rendered uninhabitable, while one thousand can be patched up.

In one shelter in Dartmouth there were found three hundred men, women and children herded together, eating and sleeping in the same room. Some of the children were only a few days old. To this number there was yesterday added the crew which left a munition ship on fire. The people in this shelter were attended to by only three nurses.

BODY THAT OF ROBERT SMITH

Remains Found in The Snow Are Identified.

The body of the man found in the snow at the farm of T. D. Young, in North Monaghan yesterday morning, was identified last night by Mr. A. J. Johnston of the Window Hotel as Robert Smith, and later by Mr. H. Sherwood, Bethune St., a nephew of the unfortunate man. He was well known locally as a stone mason, but he had not followed his trade for some time.

The deceased had been an inmate of the Protestant Home but he could not content himself there and was given to taking long walks into the country. The upper part of his body had been disfigured by foxes and dogs. Death occurred a week or ten days ago, it is believed.

The funeral will be held from Belleghem's undertaking parlors tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at 3:30. The service will be conducted by Rev. Robt. Pogue.

TIMES DEMANDS PROMPT INQUIRY

ALLEGES THAT BRITISH BLUNDERED IN THE BATTLE OF NOVEMBER 30.

London, Dec. 12.—The Times this morning prints conspicuously an editorial demanding prompt and searching inquiry into the battle on the southern end of the Cambrai salient on November 30 and on the following days owing, it says, to disquieting first hand amplifications of censored accounts. These are said to include charges of blundering and assertions that the British were caught unready.

HIS DYING ACT TO VOTE UNION

PATHETIC INCIDENT IN WARD OF MILITARY HOSPITAL IN FRANCE.

Paris, Dec. 12.—Polling is steadily proceeding among the Canadian soldiers in France, and Col. F. Reid claims that the organization is resulting in a heavy poll.

A pathetic incident was the casting of a vote by a dying man at a base hospital. He was unable to use his hands, but retained a clear intellect and gave instructions as follows:

"Please mark it so that these fellows (referring to the Opposition) will get a black eye." Shortly afterwards he expired.

On the ludicrous side there was the instance of a well-known cavalry unit. They got into a tight corner in recent fighting and were battling against heavy odds when the first message to reach them was the instructions from the polling officer.

Major E. K. Brown, Toronto, has gone to Italy as deputy, where many Canadians are in the Imperial units.

An order-in-council has been passed putting the Canada Temperance Act into force in the city of Quebec on Saturday next.

WILL GET RAISE NEXT PAY DAY

WHY SEPARATION ALLOWANCE INCREASE WAS NOT RECEIVED THIS MONTH.

Soldiers wives and dependents who receive separation allowance were disappointed the other day on the receipt of their monthly checks from Ottawa to find that the $5 increase was not enclosed as it was understood that the raise made by order in Council was to take effect December 1.

This matter has been investigated by interested parties and it is learned that it was found impossible to make the change in the current payment. The increase will be received in January and the checks will then be raised by $10, to include the December payment.

SHELL FACTORY IS SCORCHED

ROAR OF EXPLODING SHELLS SOUNDS LIKE A BOMBARDMENT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Wilmington, Del., Dec. 12. — Fire broke out this morning in the shell-loading department of the Bethlehem Steel Company's munition plant a short distance below Newcastle, Del. The flames caused an explosion of loaded shells, and they were scattered everywhere, the report says. The roar of the explosion resembled a bombardment.

No Casualties.

New York, Dec. 12.—The explosion and fire which occurred at the Newcastle plant of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation caused only comparatively slight damage. There were no casualties.

Ald. Alfred Taylor stated that he was in the field for the mayorality of Guelph.

BONNER-WORTH EMPLOYES HEAR CALL OF DESOLATE

Raise $170 for the Relief of Halifax Sufferers and Make Generous Donations of Second Hand Clothes in Addition.

The hearts of the people of Peterborough are certainly in the right place. The good work of sending aid to the stricken residents of Halifax goes bravely on and all classes are coming to the rescue of the unfortunate.

One of the most striking examples of self-sacrifice has been given by the employes of the Bonner-Worth Company, who yesterday appointed a committee from the different departments to take a canvass of the staff, 225 in number altogether. In a short time the sum of $170 was subscribed, an average of 85 cents each. When it is understood that half or more of these employes are under sixteen years of age and earning comparatively small wages it will be seen that some of the individual donations must have run as high as four or five dollars.

This money was invested down town by a committee appointed for the purpose, the purchases including woollen goods of all descriptions, underwear, hats, caps, blankets, and the like. Besides this, the employes donated a quantity of second-hand clothing. All these gifts were baled today and prepared for shipment on the relief train which leaves for Halifax this evening.

The goods made a splendid showing as they lay in the shipping room of the company, almost sufficient, it would seem, to fill one-fourth of the space in an ordinary box car. The Bonner-Worth employes have led in the good work. Who will follow their example?

At the meeting of Court Stanley Lodge, I. O. F., last night, it was decided to take $25 from the contingent fund for the Halifax relief project.

The members of the Temple Band have donated $100 of the grant they received from the city last summer to the same purpose.

PRIVATE HEARING GIVEN FARMERS BEFORE WARDEN

Many Tillers of Soil Present When Board Sits.

Max Brown, warden of the county, and R. Knox of Asphodel are sitting at the county council chamber today, as representatives of the Government, to hear the applications of farmers and men employed on farms, who wish to appeal from the decisions of military service tribunals. Fifty farmers were present this morning.

The applicants were given a private hearing, the press not being admitted.

After hearing the evidence of the applicants Warden Brown will communicate with military headquarters at Kingston with a view to keeping on the farms all labor necessary to ensure adequate production of food stuffs.

Warden Brown is also authorized to appear before Appeal Boards, in behalf of farmers appealing from decisions which disallowed their claim for exemption from military service.

SAYS ALBERTA WILL GO UNION

RESIDENT PREDICTS EIGHT OF TWELVE SEATS WILL SUPPORT GOVERNMENT.

Toronto, Dec. 12.—Mr. George Lane, of Calgary, the largest individual rancher and farmer, and one of the oldest settlers in Alberta, who is in the city on one of his annual visits, predicts the triumph of the Union Government in his province next Monday. Mr. Lane says that the Government will be returned with at least eight out of the twelve Federal seats in Alberta. Mr. Lane was originally the nominated Liberal candidate for the constituency of Bow River, but was later displaced in a Unionist convention by H. H. Halliday of Hanna.

Mrs. Becker of Toronto was the main speaker at a big Unionist meeting in Cobourg last night. She said it was a case of clinging to party prejudice or saving lives of soldier boys.

AUSTRIAN BATTLESHIP, WIEN TORPEDOED AND DESTROYED

Loss of Warship is Officially Reported By Vienna

(Canadian Press Despatch)

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Austrian battleship Wien was torpedoed and sunk Sunday night, according to a Vienna official statement received in Amsterdam and forwarded by the Central News. Most of the crew was saved. The Wien displaced 5,512 tons and had a complement of 441 men.

FARMERS' ATTENTION!

The Warden will be at the Court House, Peterborough, on Wednesday, 12th, Thursday, 13th, and Friday, 14th, to hear requests for exemption of farm help, from the farmers of West Peterborough.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, WEDNESDAY, DEC. 12, 1917

THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE'S PLATFORM.

WHAT PLATFORM has Mr. Hall; what does he plead before the people: what does he give as a reason why they should vote to send him to Parliament?

Aside from his single plank, which he has trod on until it has been worn thin, he really has nothing substantial on which to stand. With him the question of production has become a monomania. It is his single screed. Everyone recognizes the necessity for production, but they recognize just as readily that the pressing necessity is men. Mr. Hall has got the essentials mixed. He has made the mistake of insisting that a cart alone is required, while there would be no use to which the vehicle could be put, lacking a horse. Mr. Hall is like a man who blindfolds himself, and then, in the full glare of noonday yells for some one to turn on the light.

If Mr. Hall in his campaign lacks argument, he supplies the deficiency with tirades of abuse. Sir Robert Borden is his favorite target. In spite of the low esteem in which Mr. Hall is pleased to hold the Premier, Sir Robert receives nothing but tributes of praise from British and American statesmen whose judgment has not been warped or whose sentiments are not jaundiced as are those of the men who are seeking Sir Robert's official life. When Sir Robert Borden was in this city he received from members of both parties such a reception as was never before tendered a public man in Canada. Unconvinced by these expressions of good-will, the Liberal candidate holds to his malicious policy of berating the Premier at his every meeting.

When Mr. Hall exhausts the phials of his disapprobation upon the Premier, he turns his attention to the men of his own party who for the sake of the Empire have severed temporarily their political relations and have entered the Union Cabinet, even though they risked their public career when they did so. When Mr. Hall has distinguished himself in the political life of the country as these men have, the people will be more disposed to listen to his strictures, and not before.

It is hard to believe that an astute politician, as Mr. Hall is, should commit the egregious tactical blunder of descending to abuse of the soldiers of Canada, especially the officers who have led those soldiers in engagements that have made themselves and their nation famous in the military annals of the world. Mr. Hall has told his audiences that there are one hundred thousand men loafing in the training camps in England. Those in a position to speak from first-hand knowledge state that the reserves are all but exhausted and that until a draft is made in Canada, no more reinforcements can be sent to the front. Mr. Hall's rough stricture on the gallant General Currie will not only injure him in his campaign but will stick to him as a reproach for all time to come.

Mr. Hall has gone from one fatal blunder into another. Saturday night he surpassed even his own record when he criticized the members of the Women's Union Government League and called their motives in question. The members of the committee of that League, with three exceptions, have relatives in the fighting line. Some of them have son, brother or husband buried in Flanders. Others lack even the consolation of knowing that their martyred friends have been laid at rest, their remains never having been found. All of these women, as they work, are oppressed with the fear that those who have gone from them will never return. In the new duties that they have taken up they are animated solely by a desire to help the men who have done so much for them. They are making a fair and honorable effort to do their duty as all the better instincts of womanhood define that duty for them. Unlike Mr. Hall, they are not pursuing the rainbow of political fame.

Mr. Hall's last effort at jockeying for place was in printing a personal letter, obtaining it, too, from a person who apparently never dreamed of the use to which it was to be put. The silliness of this play lay in the fact that behind that letter is a story which would confound the very object Mr. Hall had in mind when he gave it to the public.

Is that a platform upon which any man who takes his stand in political life is justified in asking the suffrage of the electors of West Peterborough? Is it the platform of a man who has a righteous cause? Is it the platform of a man who has any confidence in what he himself preaches?

YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

THE WORLD BURNED with indignation when Edith Cavell was ruthlessly murdered, when the Lusitania was sunk, when Belgium was ravished, when Canadian soldiers were crucified, and when any of the atrocities of the Germans shocked humanity. The cry for vengeance was sent up. Men who were able to fight joined the colors to pay back the Hun in his own coin. Others debarred from the service by age or disability longed for an opportunity to get even.

If you belong to the latter class, that opportunity is yours today. Next to a shot aimed at the enemy, a vote for the Union Government next Monday is to be reckoned in effectiveness. It means a ceaseless warfare until the spirit that devised cruelties that eclipse anything ever designed by man has been crushed forever. If the German barbarians had a chance to guide your hand when you mark your ballot he would certainly see to it that you marked it for others than the party who stands pledged to war upon Prussianism until the end.

A PLEDGE THAT CAN'T BE KEPT.

"MR. HALL IS PLEDGED," The Examiner asks us to believe, "to see that the soldier's pay and pension are increased and the allowance to the soldier's family is made larger and more generous."

Pledges are easily made, especially just before an election. Keeping them is an entirely different matter. Mr. Hall could never carry out such a promise, even if he were disposed to do so. He has the wrong associations. As an offset to his pledge, there is the one that is made by the Laurier candidates in Quebec to have Canada withdraw from the war if Laurier is mane Premier.

Mr. Hall must be judged not so much from what he promises as by the political company he keeps. Does he ask the soldiers, returned or yet overseas, to believe for a moment that they may expect any favors from the party that insult and stone men in the King's uniform, that maltreat wounded and crippled veterans with a devilishnesss suggestive of the Hun, that tear down recruiting posters and break up meetings called by Unionist candidates?

Does Mr. Hall for a moment deceive himself with the fancy that any veteran is simple enough to look for an increase of pension from such a faction?

Does Mr. Hall think the soldiers' wives are foolish enough to vote against their own bread and butter, as they most certainly would if they supported a Laurier candidate? Let the Laurierites get the upper hand in Canada, and one of their first acts of power will be to abolish the separation allowance now granted the soldiers' families. That is an open secret. The Patriotic Fund, too, will be abolished so far as it is possible for the Government to do away with it. At least none of the anti-war party in Quebec will contribute to it. The attempt now on foot to have the Government take over the management of the Fund will fall through.

Just as the soldiers in the trenches have nothing to expect from the Laurier party, so the returned veterans may look for nothing. The soldiers' dependents can hope for no sustenance from the faction that would desert their husbands, sons and fathers in their extremity.

If Mr. Hall is elected—which heaven forbid—he will be numbered with the Quebec crowd lined up behind Sir Wilfrid Laurier. And what is the record of that province in this war? Apply every test, and the French-Canadians will be found lacking.

The English-speaking people in Quebec number about one-tenth of the entire population. Upon them devolved the task of redeeming the reputation of the province. Quebec has not only defaulted in the matter of sending men into the service, but has failed to contribute its fair share to the Red Cross to take care of those men, has failed in the Patriotic Fund, and has fallen short in the Victory Loan, the money designed to provide for the needs of the soldiers. Let the Laurier party win and the Victory Loan will be diverted from the purpose for which it was intended.

Again, then, what can the soldiers or their dependents expect from the election of Mr. Hall and his associates. The people who declare themselves ready to resist the draft will most certainly resist anything. If they are opposed to the war they will resist the war tax.

If they refuse to help the Red Cross to take care of Canada's wounded, they will let the crippled veterans take care of themselves.

The party that refuses to sustain the men who are fighting for them will permit the wives and children of those men to suffer at home, even to the point of starvation.

Mr. Hall would be helpless to do anything for the soldiers. His pledge is simply an election cry. The people will not be deceived.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

AND ONCE UPON A TIME they did have something like free speech in Quebec!

• • • •

SIR WILFRID LAURIER says that if Quebec fights it must be voluntarily. "If" is right.

• • • •

UNION GOVERNMENT is the only hope of the men at the front and of their dependents at home.

• • • •

THAT QUEBEC LUMP is too big for a little leaven like Mr. Hall to attempt or even hope to leaven.

• • • •

THERE IS THE MAN who bites off more than he is able to Fletcherize, and then there is Mr. R. R. Hall.

• • • •

JERUSALEM with its associations is the greatest gift the Christian world will find in its stocking this Christmas.

• • • •

AS A MEASURE of real economy why does not some thrifty individual restore the black silk shirt of the early 90's?

• • • •

BOURASSA AND LAURIER are a pair, but the Ontario man who understands the game will not care to draw to them.

• • • •

TALKING ABOUT "unholy alliances," Mr. Hall's identification with the Nationalists can hardly be regarded as a union made in heaven.

• • • •

BLESSED INDEED are the peacemakers, but not such peacemakers as would make terms with Satan, the Kaiser or the anti-war party in Canada.

• • • •

WHERE DOES the Bolsheviki of Russia get the wherewithal to stay in business? The German agents in Canada and elsewhere could probably tell.

• • • •

MR. HALL IMPORTS another corporation lawyer, this time from Montreal, to tell the people just what an undesirable breed the members of that profession are.

• • • •

"VOTE FOR the Union Government." That plea coming from the men in the trenches will have more effect than all the campaign oratory in the world.

• • • •

GIVING EVERYONE his due, it must be conceded that Mr. Hall is considerable of a sport. He has never yet put forward the claim that he has been misquoted.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

Whipping a Dead Horse.

(London Free Press.)

The local Laurier organ complains that nobody pays any attention to the "crimes" of the late Government. Well, what have the "crimes" of the late Government got to do with the case, more than the crimes of any Government that is dead? You can't successfully whip a dead horse.

BRITAIN NEEDS MORAL SUPPORT.

In the rush of an election campaign the followers of Laurier, in the English speaking parts of this Dominion, must have their eyes blinded as to the effect of a Laurier victory upon the morale of England and the Allies generally. The London (England) Sunday Times of December 2nd, prints an editorial headed "Will Canada drop out?" and says "Whether Russia goes out of the war is now a minor matter. A far more vital question has arisen "Will Canada stay in?" It adds that "The issue rests with the Canadians outside Quebec. If these can but realize that the honor and future of Canada are in the balance they will save their country's soul." It bases this argument upon the statement "it is difficult for English people to realize that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, whom they have been accustomed to regard as a typical British patriot, is actually today the leader and idol of the French-Canadians, who, despite their label, are neither French nor Canadian, but frankly anti-Imperial, and still more frankly anti-British. Wake up, Canadians. Realize the issue. Be British. Stand by the Motherland which is ready to be starved rather than risk defeat or even a drawn fight!

HELPING THE STRICKEN CITY

We do not know yet what opportunity for assistance the disaster in Halifax harbor has opened to us. Competent representatives of the Government in the navy and the Red Cross are in the stricken city, learning at first hand from the imperial, colonial and municipal authorities, and from the inhabitants themselves, what is needed, what they have to meet the emergency, and what must or should be provided by us, says the New York Sun. Whatever that may be it will be forthcoming with a sympathy quickened by the common interest that now animates the Dominion of Canada and the United States.

We of the United States cannot look upon this catastrophe as the misfortune of an alien people. The agents of destruction loosed in the splendid harbor of the great northern port originated in this country and were intended for use in the defence of this country against a foe which menaces Canada and the United States alike. The victims of their premature discharge gave their best not less truly for our defence than their own while we reposed slothfully at ease. For two and a half years we were protected by the valor and skill of our neighbor's sons; if we as a nation were slow to recognize the facts of their struggle, we shall not be quick to forget the debt we owe.

That debt we cannot pretend to estimate. Had not the British Empire withstood the onslaughts of the German aggressor, had not the component units of that empire proved loyal and given of their strength at the call of their motherland, had not Canada contributed her magnificent effort to the common cause, what the course of the war and the fate—perhaps already fulfilled—of the United States would have been it is impossible to say. But we know that the utmost cunning and strength of Germany were exerted, in unnumbered open and hidden ways, to detach the Dominion from civilization, and thus to remove from the path of German ambition an obstacle recognized three years ago as considerable, but not visualized in its true proportions until they had been demonstrated under the test of mortal combat.

These men and women and children of Halifax whom it may be our privilege to succor now are more than unfortunate neighbors exciting a philanthropic curiosity. They are our blood brothers and sisters in the struggle for the preservation of freedom that engrosses the whole world; they were pioneers in the fight to release us from the terrorists that proposed our destruction; and if we can aid them today, in so doing we shall be repaying a minute fraction of our obligation to them.

TODAY'S STORY

(By Betsy Tansey.)

When you tell your boy good-by as he entrains for camp, don't break his heart with your grief.

The other day a party of khaki clad soldiers boarded a train on their way back to business after a furlough at home.

Their mothers, their sisters and their sweethearts accompanied them to the train. And what did those women do? They wept bitterly and convulsively, they clung to their boys' necks, and as the train pulled out one gray haired woman fainted.

That woman's son sat down by me. He pulled his service hat over young brows tortured by his mother's sorrow.

"I'm ready to go," said he. "I'm not dodging my duty to my country and I'm willing to go over there and fight it out with those Huns. But my mother's heart is breaking, and it's hard to bear."

Is that what you want your boy to say as he leaves you to do his duty? Is the last sight of you to be a misery to him and a pain? Or is it to be an inspiration, something wonderful and full of hope, something which he will recall with a thrill of pride when he thinks—and he will think every day—of his mother and his loved ones?

Am I asking too much? You know in your hearts that I'm not. Boys have gone out into the world day by day since the world began. Their mothers grieved to lose them, but what a grief to have them so much less than men that they would not go; that they would today hide in their home nest when their duty and their country calls them!

When there was peace in the world our boys—I have one, fighting age—our boys went out into the world, out of their homes to fight and to make their own place.

They kissed us good-by and their eyes were set, not on our faces, but on their own future.

And now with the world in mourning, with mothers "over there" wearing sorrows like a crown, remembering with pride that they had a son to give that the world might live, what are we mothers over here thinking of that we tear the courage and the young smile out of our boys' eyes when they go out to fight for the flag?

Shall they be less men than the English boys and the French? Than Russian lads or Scottish, than Irish soldiers, or the high hearted Italians who hold the ramparts of the Alps?

"The idea of enlisting is a good one," said the recruiting sergeant, "but what is Braintree—a breakfast food or an educational institution?"

"It is a town in Massachusetts—the only town in the United States that ever produced two Presidents," proudly replied Brown. "John Adams was born there and so was John Quincy Adams. WHO SHALL SPEND the proceeds of THE VICTORY LOAN?

ON December 17th the above question will be decided by the voters of Canada. The electors will say who is to spend the hundreds of millions raised with a definite purpose in view. Is it to be used in support and maintenance of Canadian men at the front, and to bring war orders to Canada? Or is it to be handed over to Laurier and Bourassa and their adherents, who propose deferring Canada's further participation in the war?

You Invested Your Money to Hasten Victory and Continue Prosperity

The first and most vital issue in the coming election is whether Canada should make good her pledge to send reinforcements to France and Flanders as speedily as possible. Representative men of both political parties, who are in favor of making good this pledge, appeal to the country to support Union Government. The economic and financial future of Canada are in the hands of these men. They are pledged to spend the money you invested in Victory Bonds in the way you approved by buying the Bonds. If you still wish to hasten Victory, reinforce our diminishing fighting line, and lay a firmer foundation for Canada's continued prosperity.

AN APPEAL

Daughters of the Empire:

There is No Time to Lose

Hasten to Her Aid

Work, WORK, WORK for Union Government

Your Motto—"One Flag, One Throne, One Empire"

WOMEN'S UNION GOVERNMENT LEAGUE

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle-front; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

E. C. Drury, Independent Liberal in North Simcoe, endorsed by Laurier, says he cannot follow Sir Wilfrid if he proposes to repeal the Military Service Act, or to abandon the Canadian forces at the front.

Kingston Ministerial Association passed a resolution, declaring that Canada's need in this critical time is a strong Union Government.

Yesterday was a busy day for Sir Wilfrid Laurier in Winnipeg. Many of his supporters from the Western Provinces called on him at the Fort Garry Hotel and conferred on the campaign. Friday night he will close his campaign with an address at Vancouver.

It is feared that the crew of the tug Archie W., which went to pieces after grounding on Tecumseh Reef, Lake Erie, have been frozen to death in their lifeboat.

Of the seventeen inmates of Stony Mountain Penitentiary who come under Class 1 in connection with the Military Service Act, all have waived claim for exemption and have reported for service.

The Woodstock Ministerial Association unanimously "notes with sincere gratitude the formation of a Union Government for Canada."

FARMERS, PLEASE NOTICE.

Editor Review: Rumors are being circulated to the effect that the Warden has really no authority in making or recommending exemptions. The Warden was appointed by the Government to represent the Government and has full power and authority. His recommendations to exemptions of farm help and for production will be accepted. It was because all other plans had failed that this one was adopted. The Warden is the chief official of the county and as such was recommended by me when asked by the Government for the name of a man to represent it. His telegram of appointment from Ottawa is quite clear and gives him full authority. He will be at the Court House Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to hear complaints.

SOLDIERS' WIVES WARNED NOT TO VOTE AGAINST THEIR LIVING

Women's Union Government League Held Meeting in Byersville Salvation Army Temple—Addresses by Capt. Burnham and Mesdames Stevenson and Gamey.

Despite the inclement weather, a fair-sized audience gathered in the Byersville Temple of the Salvation Army last night to listen to the addresses that were given under the auspices of the Women's Union Government League. Those who braved the elements were certainly interested in the questions discussed and brought to the gathering the message that the voters in that community can be depended upon to do their duty as citizens next Monday.

Mrs. A. Stevenson, president of the League, presided last night, and the first speaker called on was Capt. Burnham, who gave a brief outline of the situation, especially as regards the war and the attitude of Quebec since the beginning. He showed how that province has failed in its duty not only in the matter of recruiting but in contributing to the Red Cross, to the Patriotic Fund, and in subscribing to the Victory Loan. Just what the defeat of the Union Government would mean, not only to the soldiers, but to their dependents at home, was clearly set forth. In all of what he said Capt. Burnham did not utter one word in disparagement of his political opponent.

Mrs. E. M. Gamey, whose husband reverted in rank to get away with the 247th Battalion when it left the city, and who is now at the front, delivered a telling address, dealing with the referendum idea and the conscription issue. She told of how a man with four sons at home, three on the farm and one clerking in a store, and another in khaki, asked for exemption for those still in civilian life, and how Judge Huycke told him that at least one of them must go, and they could settle it among themselves. Even the son in the store, doing work that could as well be performed by a woman, has appealed for exemption. Mrs. Gamey asked was it fair to have some escape while others made all the sacrifices.

The addresses of Mrs. Gamey possess peculiar interest from the fact that she worked in Belgium as a nurse with the martyred Edith Cavell, and has also been in Germany, with the customs of which country she is perfectly familiar.

Mrs. Stevenson again explained the object of the League of which she is head, and gave an account of the work that they have done. Just how to go to the polls and vote was clearly explained to those who will use the ballot for the first time next week. Mrs. Stevenson made a touching reference to her own son, who is in the trenches, and told how the sacrifices he is making there inspired her to take up the cause of the Government that is pledged to support him and his comrades in arms.

The meeting adjourned with the singing of the National Anthem. Another mass meeting under the auspices of the League will be held in Victoria Hall Friday evening at 8 o'clock, when excellent speakers will make addresses. Everybody is invited.

COMMONS VOTES ON NEW CREDIT

WAR IS NOW COSTING BRITAIN THIRTY-TWO MILLIONS A DAY.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 12. — Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, introducing a vote of credit in the House of Commons today, said he estimated that the present vote would carry the expenditure to the end of March, 1918. He declared that the average daily expenditure in the last sixty-three days was 32 million dollars.

Can You Match Her?

"It was Charlie Spink whom Mabel said she'd marry if he went to war, wasn't it?"

"Yes."

"Did he agree?"

"Oh, yes. He said he'd prove he was a hero at any cost."

"Was Mabel surprised?"

"Very much so. She was sorry too."

"What did she do?"

"She wrote Charlie a nice note saying that she didn't want him to go to war, and she regretted she had asked him to make such a sacrifice, because, anyway, she had just made up her mind to marry Tommy Green."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Words of Encouragement to Childless Women.

Motherhood is woman's natural destiny, but many women are denied the happiness of children simply because of some curable derangement.

Among the many triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is its marvelous power to overcome such derangements, as evidenced by the following letter:—

Worcester, Mass.—"I suffered from female ills, and was advised to have an operation, but a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and who has six children, told me to try it. It has helped me so much that I am now well and have a baby boy who is the picture of health, and I thank the Vegetable Compound for my restoration to health."—Mrs. BERT GARVEY, 20 Hacker St., Worcester, Mass.

In many other homes, once childless, there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

R. R. HALL'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH

I have the honor to accept the unamious nomination of the Liberal Party to contest the election as a Candidate to represent the people of West Peterborough in the House of Commons.

MASSES REQUIRE JUSTICE

Now is the time in the history of this country when we should be guided by true Liberal principles and stand by the masses as against the classes; stand by the people who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow and against the classes who exact unjust profits and extortionate tolls out of even the very necessities of life.

WAR POLICY

Today we are engaged in a great War with the Germanic powers in defence of Canada and the Empire. In the great struggle is involved the very existence of the freedom and liberty of mankind.

Our duty is plain. Our course is clear. We must prepare for any sacrifice of blood and treasure. We must fight Germany until we secure a just and a lasting peace. In this resolve all Canadians are united from Lake Champlain to the North Pole and from our furthest East to our furthest West.

Such being our Nation's resolution I pledge myself to support any effective war measure no matter from what source it may come. We must give immediate and constant support to our noble Canadian armies who have covered themselves with glory. We must support them with men. We must feed them. The rich and poor alike must serve. Our only difference is in how to serve but serve we will.

FOOD PRODUCTION

Great Britain has appealed to Canada to send her 300,000,000 bushels of wheat to feed her teeming millions and those of Italy and of France.

This enormous quantity of wheat would feed 40,000,000 people for a whole year. This shows our Allies want food.

To this appeal the Borden Rowell Government only answers, eat less, slay and eat the calf and the lamb and prepare for meatless days.

Let the Government encourage the Farmer to produce more. Give him agricultural implements duty free. Supply him with suitable labor on fair terms to till the soil. Use our banks and Loan Companies to lend him money on fair and easy terms of payment to assist in every possible way to plant and produce food stuffs. Supply the farmer with steam or gasoline tractors to enable one man to do the work of five. Shield us from the profiteer who plunders the farmer and robs the consumer, makes a profit of a million a year and supports Sir Robert Borden and his hypnotizer Sir Joseph Flavelle.

A forward policy on these lines would be a double blessing. It would reduce the cost of living at home and would help supply the necessities of our Allies overseas.

Remember one single North West farmer produces 2000 bushels of wheat per year when well directed and equipped. 100,000 men would produce 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. Those already on the ground in the North West properly equipped and manned could produce 200,000,000 bushels more.

I pledge myself, if elected, to support prompt and immediate efforts to reduce the high cost of living.

BORDEN DISCRIMINATES AGAINST ENGLAND

Since the war began the Borden Government imposed an increased duty of 5 per cent. on British made goods entering Canada. This should be removed at once. Our great Mother of Nations has troubles enough without the Borden Government thus increasing them.

PROFITEERS AND SOLDIERS

The profits made by War Profiteers should be investigated. The profiteer should be made to disgorge his excessive profits to be used to increase the pay of our soldiers and to increase the pensions or allowances to our soldiers, their mothers, wives, sisters and dependents. None of them should ever be subjected to the indignity of "cold charity" by this grateful Nation on whose behalf they have suffered or died.

NO CONFIDENCE IN BORDEN

Sir Robert Borden has been for six years and is now the Prime Minister of this Country. Its chief head and front with full power to choose and remove his Ministers. He is appealing to this Country under an assumed name, but the policies and methods of his Government remain.

I cannot stop to repeat the well known charges of grafting proved on sworn testimony from the mouths of unwilling witnesses respecting the purchase of motors, of horses, of binoculars, of bandages, of drugs, of boots, of shells of gauze fuse and of all the implements of war

These unseemly tranasctions have taken place under the nose of Sir Robert Borden who now seeks to stifle and conceal further investigation with the hollow pretense of so called Union Government which in no sense whatever represents true believers in the principles of justice, truth and liberalism.

BORDEN CONDEMNED FOR SUPPLYING DEFECTIVE AMMUNITION

I have no confidence whatever in Sir Robert Borden who supplied our troops for many months with the Ross Rifle and defective ammunition which he must have known would jam and become a useless weapon after our Canadian boys had nobly entered the battle. The Ross Rifle was used by our troops at the six battles of St. Julien, of Givenchy, of Festubert, of St. Floi. of Zillebeke and of Sanctuary Wood. In each battle the rifle jammed and many a Canadian soldier was needlessly killed or wounded and some of them today languish in German prisons justly cursing the Borden Government without a chance of voting against it.

GRAFTERS

We must destroy the parasite, the profiteer, the grafter and camp follower, who are our worst enemies and fight our common foe with all the resources at our command.

TO OUR NOBLE WOMEN

I appeal to the women of this Riding who are casting their vote for the first time to act on the pure impulse of your heart alone and vote according to the dictates of your own conscience. My heart goes out in sympathy for you in these anxious times. I know your "beloved is white and ruddy; the chiefest among ten thousand. His countenance is as Lebanon, excellent as the cedars" and by him and his I pledge myself to stand.

UNITY OF ACTION AND SENTIMENT

Let us unite our people in this Great War as the armies of Great Britain and of France are united, marching and fighting side by side, the parents and guardians of Freedom and Justice.

"With firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right" I appeal to you fellow electors to press on to finish the great war in which we are engaged "to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, his widow and the orphan to do all which we may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace with all nations."

For these reasons I appeal to you my fellow electors for your vote and influence in the pending election.

Your Obedient Servant.

R. R. HALL.

Is a United Quebec to Rule All Canada?

This, the most tremendous question in Canada's history, is to be answered within ten days.

Our answer involves Canada's honour, her freedom and her future. Old-time party questions are being advanced to obscure the gravest issue ever placed before a nation. Canada is in real danger. The clouds that obscure her vision must be brushed aside so that the great issue stands forth clear and distinct.

"Is a United Quebec to Rule All Canada?"

To-day, in our national crisis, Quebec alone among all the provinces stands more united than ever before. She knows what she wants:

(1) Withdrawal from the war.
(2) Bilingual schools everywhere.
(3) Weakening of the ties of British connection.
(4) Political control of Canada.

From the Ottawa River to Labrador and the Gulf, a common purpose actuates Quebec in her determination to profit by the factional divisions of Canada and to impose her will upon all the people of Canada.

Within the last few weeks, Quebec has mobilized all her forces to dominate Canada under the unified leadership of Bourassa and Laurier. Canada knows that these two men in their earlier days were personal friends and political associates. Canada knows how in recent times they gradually drew apart—until in 1911 Bourassa opposed Laurier and helped to bring about his defeat, at the polls. Canada knows that from that time forward, until a few weeks ago, the breach between them steadily widened until envy and hatred, each toward the other became the possession of both. Bourassa and his followers were anathema to Laurier.

Should not the people of Canada ask themselves, before it is too late, why these two men have suddenly agreed to bury the past, why this sudden embrace each of the other? If we will but let the scales drop from our eyes the answer is obvious. The all-compelling influences of Quebec have combined to force the union of Laurier and Bourassa in the common purpose of French Canadian domination.

We concede the right of French Canadians to make common cause of anything they think it is in their interests so to do. This is a free country. But as the French Canadians have already combined to assert their views, it is the duty of the hour that we English-speaking Canadians get together and present to Quebec a united front in the defence of our rights. This is imperative.

With sixty solid seats Quebec is about to accomplish her designs. Bourassa, the real master and idol of Quebec, is in sight of his goal.

To attain her purpose, Quebec has not scrupled to ignore British traditions and to suppress freedom of speech. So thoroughly organized is her campaign to prevent even the discussion of the war that Unionist candidates are prevented from holding public meetings throughout that Province. The Unionist minority in Quebec are the victims of organized obstruction.

To be successful in her determination to rule all Canada, Quebec has but to secure a few seats in each of the other Provinces. Quebec leaders now seek to divide the rest of Canada into factions by insidiously bringing into political discussion old-time party questions, to divert the public mind from Quebec, her purpose and her ambitions.

United in her determination to quit the war, Quebec would compel a divided Canada to do likewise. By union only can the English-speaking people prevent this calamity.

However well-meaning Laurier candidates in Ontario may be, they will be helpless against a united Quebec.

Apart from the splendid work of the small English-speaking population, Quebec has failed the Red Cross, has failed the Patriotic Fund, has failed in recruiting and has failed in the Victory Loan. Dare we trust our soldiers, their wives, their children, their pensions and their allowances to Quebec, that will neither give, enlist nor invest, and which will resist taxation for the support of our men and their dependents?

Canada must decide whether she will become a deserter and quit with Russia, or fight to the end for liberty with Belgium. This decision must not be dictated by the only Province which has shirked its obligations throughout the war.

All Canada knows that Germany has been working through agents, spies and bribes in every country in the world. The latest evidences are the revelations recently made to the world by President Wilson. Do we Canadians think the Kaiser has overlooked Canada? If we do, what a fool's paradise!

Germany benefits by division among her enemies. Upon whom would she look in Canada as furthering her designs? Not Sir Robert Borden, Mr. Rowell and their colleagues in the Union Government. That is certain. But can the same be said with respect to the leaders in the Province of Quebec whose attitude in this war is against Canada's continuation in the war. We regret to be compelled to say these things, but we must not shut our eyes to facts.

The Citizens' Union Committee, anxious for the maintenance of British ideals and traditions, views with alarm the menace of French-Canadian domination with its inevitable influence upon the home, the school and the state.

We, therefore, call upon all English-speaking men and women to realize that—Canada, divided by political factions and old-time party questions, is at the mercy of a united Quebec. Union Government alone can save Canada from the menace of French-Canadian domination.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Peterborough, Nov. 10, 1917.

MR. HALL CONTINUES HIS SERMON ON PRODUCTION

Meeting at Bridgenorth Last Night—More Arm Chair Farming to Increase Supply of Food.

A large and enthusiastic meeting in the interests of Mr. Hall was held at Bridgenorth last evening, presided over by Mr. William Telford, chairman.

Mr. Hall stated that it was almost incredible to think that Sir Robert Borden and his so-called Union Government had not taken any steps whatever to encourage food production on this continent.

Neither he nor the so-called Union Government even try to.

His utter disregard of facts, warnings and prayers from the British Government is a matter of amazement.

Mr. Hall stated that in none of the speeches delivered by Sir Robert Borden nor Mr. Rowell had any reference whatever been made to the fact that the world's shortage of foodstuffs is apparent and that the world is rushing headlong into a world-wide famine, and the ones that are going to suffer the most are going to be Great Britain and her Allies.

Dr. Robertson, of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, says "that the world faces a food situation that is nothing short of appalling." Great Britain has made demands upon us for enough food to feed forty-five million people for one whole year, and yet Sir Robert Borden and his Government does nothing.

The British Government have told Sir Robert Borden, "what we ask from the United States and Canada we cannot procure elsewhere."

Mr. Hall said that the average production of wheat in France for the year 1917 is short 156 million bushels. The average production of cereals in Italy is short 36 million bushels, and the average production of Belgium is short nearly six million bushels.

The total shortage in food production in France, Italy and Belgium is in the neighborhood of 200 million bushels, which is enough to feed the population of France for nine months.

No person doubts the accuracy of these figures.

Mr. Hall said Canada, therefore, finds herself suddenly to be the most important factor in the world.

Supplies for the Allies from Eastern Europe, there are none. Supplies from Australia and South Africa cannot be moved. Therefore, Lord Rhondda says, "What we ask from the United States and Canada we cannot procure elsewhere."

And yet we find that on this all-important question Mr. J. H. Burnham has been dumb as an oyster. He knows that the Allies are on the verge of starvation. He has not even seen fit to address the farmers of this riding upon the all-important question of food production, nor has he even thought fit to address the workingmen of the city of Peterborough upon this all-important question of food production, although he knows that the prices of food are constantly and continuously rising and he knows that Sir Robert Borden is taking no steps whatever to encourage food production on an extensive scale.

We have, said Mr. Hall, in the Northwest the choicest and richest lands in the world all ready for the plow. Canada can add extensively to her food production in a single year. She could save vast numbers of persons from famine and thousands from death. She could materially help to preserve a falling world from overwhelming ruin.

The rich, fertile lands in the West could be made to produce 500 million bushels of grain during the coming year instead of prairie grass. This would tend to reduce the high cost of living and would save Great Britain and her Allies from being starved into subjection.

These great opportunities are neglected by Sir Robert Borden and Mr. J. H. Burnham. Surely the electors of this riding will not vote for Mr. J. H. Burnham and his "do nothing" policy.

Inheritance Tax Argument

Inheritance taxes are very heavy. Unlike Fire hazard, they are not merely possible, they are absolutely certain.

They deplete your estate at once, and to your heirs represent a specific and definite loss of money.

In New York a $250,000 estate would pay a combined federal and state tax of about $12,000. If left to a friend or distant relative, about $22,000. The John Jacob Astor estate paid $3,150,000. J. P. Morgan has insured his life for $2,500,000 to cover a similar loss.

Thus the estate is provided promptly with the ready cash to pay this tax and other expenses without the need of hurriedly disposing of securities or other assets, perhaps at a loss, to meet such needs. The logic of the situation urges immediate action. Premium rates, however, low, advance with age, and so does the possibility of entering the physically impaired group and losing the opportunity to secure this protection.

Knowing that this loss is actually coming, it is simply a matter of ordinary business prudence to guard against it. The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada offer you a plan to do so at very low cost.

ST. PAUL'S AND HALIFAX NEED

CLOTHING WILL BE RECEIVED AT SCHOOL HALL AND NEW ARTICLES MADE.

A meeting was held in the guild room of St. Paul's Church Monday afternoon to decide upon some method of giving immediate relief to the sufferers in Halifax. A large committee was appointed to deal with the situation. It was decided to make an appeal to all members of St. Paul's to assist with gifts of clothing of all kinds. The Sunday school hall will be open every day this week to receive what may be sent in. Clothing must be in good condition.

It was also decided to make new clothing. A number of sewing machines are already in the Sunday school hall, and all who can are asked to come and assist in the making of garments. Gifts of money will also be received to purchase material. Those who find it more convenient are asked to leave their gifts at either Mr. Madill's or Mr. McDermid's drug stores. What is done must be done at once.

LAKEFIELD

(Special Correspondence.)

Lakefield, Dec. 12.—A meeting in the interests of Mr. J. A. Sexsmith, Unionist candidate for East Peterborough in the Dominion elections, will be held at Town Hall, Lakefield, on Thursday, Dec. 13, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be addressed by the candidate and a number of prominent speakers. All electors are cordially invited to be present.

A meeting for women only was held in the town hall, Lakefield, on Saturday, Dec. 8, at 3 o'clock. Matters of interest to the women of Canada were discussed by Mrs. Baird Laidlaw of Toronto and Capt. Stewart. Despite the disagreeable weather the meeting was well attended. The meeting was opened with the National Anthem. Mrs (Capt.) Marling presided. The officers of the Soldiers Comfort Club, namely, Mrs. G. Hilliard, Mrs. Wm. Graham, Miss Griffin, were called to the platform. Short speeches were given by Mrs. Wm. Graham and Mrs. F. Burgess. The meeting was closed by singing God Save the King.

The annual Grove school football supper was held at the grove on Friday, Dec. 8th.

On Monday evening the Epworth League held their weekly meeting in the Sunday School room. The meeting was in charge of the missionary department. Rev. Barrett gave a very interesting talk on the Indians. Instrumentals, solos, readings were given by different members of the league. The meetings will be discontinued until the new year.

The Young People's Society met in the Sunday School room of the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday.

The annual school concert will be held at Pattrick's school on Wednesday, Dec. 19. A good programme is being prepared of dialogues, drills, recitations, songs, etc., which is in charge of Miss Irene Madill.

THE WEATHER

The lowest figure reached last night was the same as on the previous night, namely, 12 below zero. The highest yesterday was 10 above. Low temperatures still continue all over the continent, and there will be no immediate decided change.—W. P.

ASKED $50,000 IN HEART BALM BUT LOST CASE

Jury Couldn't Agree in Breach-of-promise Action of Leonard Smithers Trustly.

At a special sitting of Judge Morphet's court last night, the jury agreed to disagree in the breach-of-promise action brought by Leonora Smithers Trustly against Abijah Pippins, for heart balm to the amount of $50,000 and the case was thrown out. Incidentally Pippins made a raid on the judge, seeking cover from an attack launched by the irate plaintiff, but finally capitulated into the arms of the woman who according to her evidence, he had wooed and won, and had carried a distance of fives miles to the home of Rev. J. A. MacKenzie where the nuptial knot was tied. But the Edison whistle had no sooner announced the event, when Pippins departed from the side of his newfound mate. Failing to return a warrant was issued for his arrest and he was taken into custody.

The clever cross-examination of the plaintiff by Lawyer Snapcash, counsel for the defendant lost the day for the balm-seeker. He proved conclusively that it would take the combined efforts of two teams, a crew of workers and two piano tuners from the Fuel and Transfer Co. to move the plaintiff from her home and deposit her before the minister.

The presentation of the case put on by Knox Church Brotherhood in the Sunday School hall last night provided many laughs for the audience. Miss Keturah Hall, who in the role of a suffragette, served on the jury and had much to say, said it well. In fact the composition of the jury was a scream in itself.

A musical program preceded the play, those contributing being Miss K. Fanning, vocal solo, Mr. H. Loader, concertina selection, Mr. F. Hartshorn, vocal solo, and Mr. J. John, recitation.

2nd WOMEN'S MASS MEETING, FRIDAY EVE'G, Dec. 14, in VICTORIA HALL. Women's Union Government League. Everybody Welcome

INVESTIGATION BEGINS AS TO CAUSE OF EXPLOSION THAT WRECKED CITY OF HALIFAX

Steamer That Caused Disaster was Loaded With Munitions in a New York Harbor.

Halifax, Dec. 13.—The official enquiry into the collision between the French steamer Mont Blanc and the Belgian relief steamer Imo on Dec. 6 was begun this morning before Mr. Justice Drysdale, judge in admiralty, who is assisted by Captain Howes, R.N., and Wreck Commissioner Demers, acting as nautical expert assessor.

When the enquiry opened only the members of the commission, a large array of counsel, witnesses and a few newspapermen were present, the general public apparently being too busy rebuilding to attend. At the outset the lawyers asked for the exclusion of all witnesses except the ones giving evidence.

Captain Gives Evidence.

Captain Lamodec was the first witness called. Examined by Mr. Henry he said the Mont Blanc was loaded at Gravesend Bay, N.Y., with a cargo of T. N. T. guncotton and dry Picric Acid and a deck load of benzol for the French Government. The cargo was hermetically sealed and nobody allowed to smoke. Captain Lamodec said his ship had not carried munitions before.

The ship came to Halifax to receive orders where to join her convoy. He received his orders from the British pilot. Mackay came on board at Halifax on the evening of December 5. He was absolutely sober. No liquor was on the Mont Blanc as it had been forbidden by the French Government. The morning of the collision was quite clear.

"EVERY ABLE BODIED MAN'S PLACE OUT HERE"

Selfish Man is he Who Will Stay at Home While Others Fight.

"Every able-bodied man's place is out here, where good strong, sound men are needed. We all know that there are dozens of arguments for them to use, but if the Germans were to get away from us here and go to Canada, where would the end be then? I think it is a selfish man that will stay at home while someone else goes out to fight his battles."

The above is part of a letter received by Mrs. James Davis, who resides at the Lift Lock, from her nephew Capt. G. G. Winterbottom with the First Division Canadians in France, and who was awarded the distinguished conduct medal and was promoted for his service on the field. Capt. Winterbottom writes:

Dear Aunt,—I am writing you a few lines tonight before the noise starts. I wonder how you are, well I hope. I haven't heard from you for quite a long time now. I suppose that it is mid-winter with you now, it is just like a night in May here, warm and dry. The farmers are sowing wheat here. There are some farmers within a mile and a half of the trenches in some places. Of course they often have to beat a hasty retreat, but the French are worse than the Jews, they cannot

CALLING THE PEOPLE TO PRAYER

The Ministerial Association met in session on Wednesday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. parlors. Among other matters which came before them was the duty of earnest prayer upon the part of all Christian people at this critical time in the nation's history. It was felt by all that the present was a momentous hour in the history of Canada and the British Empire, and that never was the need for calm and clear thinking, and hence for Divine guidance, greater than it is today. Different proposals were considered. The final course adopted was that each minister should follow whatever method he deems wisest in presenting the situation to his people, and that he urge upon all the members of his church to make the use of their franchise in this crucial hour a matter of earnest prayer.

ORDER COMES TO SEND NO MORE GOODS TO HALIFAX

Mayor Duffus Wires to Stricken City for Further Instructions—Splendid Donations from all Sources.

Word has been received from Halifax at the headquarters of the Red Cross Society in Toronto asking that all goods intended for the victims of the explosion be held back. The request is not yet quite understood here, but the local branch of the Red Cross were first to note the instructions, and will govern themselves accordingly. The city, too, will not send the car until further notice. Mayor Duffus wired to Halifax this morning for specific instructions. The belief appears to be general here that donations are pouring into Halifax faster than they can be handled, and that all the goods that have been contributed here and elsewhere will be needed. The generous response of the citizens to the call for help will not be in vain.

The donations sent in in some cases have been really splendid. The girls employed in Cressman's have sent to the Red Cross a box of ready-to-wear garments for children.

Mr. F. C. Paul of Ashburnham furnished the material, and his employes, working after hours, made up a number of children's dresses which were turned over to the Red Cross.

Every church in the city took up the work, and nearly all of them were sewing for the victims. This work will now be stopped until further word is received from Halifax. The ladies of St. Andrew's Church were especially successful in their efforts.

Every society, every church, the City Connell and anyone who solicited donations wish to express their appreciation of whet the citizens have done. The response was prompt as it was generous. The charity will not, it is believed, be offered in vain, behandled at he receiving depot in needed just as soon as they can be cause it is thought the goods will be Halifax. Thanks are especially due the firemen who worked so faithfully in collecting the doantoins.

"PETERBOROUGH WON'T STAB US IN THE BACK."

JUDGE HUYCKE UPHOLDS THE DECISION OF MILITARY SERVICE TRIBUNAL.

Fifteen appeals against the decicions given by the military service tribunals were considered by Judge Huycke yesterday, and in some cases the decisions were upheld. While all appellants will be notified from Kingston of the decisions in their appeals, Judge Huycke will announce his decisions when it is possible to do so.

When asked this morning by Judge Huycke to state his reasons for not wishing to go to war, Percy Drain of Clarina said he and his brother, who had been exempted, were alone on 280 acres of land, his father being dead. There were two smaller brothers, aged 15 and 12, and four sisters, two of them being at home. Drain thought that had the tribunal before whom he appeared known of his circumstances, he would have been exempted. The mother said the two daughters at home were delicate and unable to do hard work.

"I might say that his is one of the cases where it would be right to dismiss the appeal," said Mr. Hatton, military representative.

"The tribunal did right in exempting one boy and leaving the other," said Judge Huycke, in disallowing the appeal.

Decision was reserved in the appeal of Thomas Kelly of Bridgenorth, employed on the 200-acre farm of his brother, Hugh Kelly, South Dummer. Two other brothers had been exempted from service so long as they remain in farm work. One brother was killed at the front.

William G. Wilson was sent back to the medical board for re-examination. He had been categoried A1, but appealed on the grounds of poor health, due to a nervous breakdown.

GERMANY TRYING TO BRING OFF COUP ON SEA AND LAND TO INCLINE ENGLAND TO PEACE

A MOABITISH INSTRUCTOR

Mr. Jacobs, the eloquent and witty lawyer, brought all the way from Montreal by Mr. Hall to address a meeting in the opera house, is certainly prominent in his own province. He is a corporation lawyer of large connection and a politician of note. By birth he is identified with the race whose hand today is turned against the English-speaking residents of Canada. There is an unfortunate cleavage between the two races.

Mr. Hall did not help to bridge that chasm when he introduced a discordant element into the local field. The patriotic voters of West Peterborough are justified in objecting to having their duties as citizens defined by any outsider who is enlisted in the cause of Bourassa, Lavergne and the rest of them.

Mr. Jacobs must admit that he was given a patient hearing in spite of the want of sympathy between him and his audience. But while he was addressing the Peterborough people, how were his compatriots behaving in his home city, Montreal?

Trying to break up a meeting that was held by Hon. C. J. Doherty and Hon. C. Ballantyne, ministers of the Crown. When the disturbers were thrown out by the police they worked their spite on the ministers' auto by converting it into a wreck. These are the nice peaceful and patriotic citizens Mr. Jacobs spoke of.

Worst of all, Mr. Jacobs had the bad taste to boast of the strength of his province. Quebec, he says, expects to elect 63 Laurierites out of the 65 members allowed by the constitution. If Mr. Hall is elected, he will be numbered with these, so far as voting strength is concerned.

Shall Quebec rule Canada? Are the rioters and the lawless to be voted into power?

BRITISH NAVAL LOSSES SHOW SLIGHT INCREASE.

London, Dec. 13. — A slight increase in the losses of British merchantmen by mine or submarine in the past week is noted in the Admiralty statement. Fourteen vessels of more than 1,600 tons were sunk, as well as seven under that tonnage.

The losses to British shipping by mine or submarine the previous week comprised 16 merchantmen of 1,600 tons or over, and one under that tonnage.

Naval Authority Explains Heavy Losses From Subs in Past Three Weeks--Cost Huns Dear

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Dec. 13.—When the Associated Press inquired of a high naval authority today if the antisubmarine war was going well and what was the reason for high rate of sinkings in past three weeks, the answer was, "The enemy has had more submarines at work. He has actually been attempting a submarine offensive of the greatest possible magnitude in an effort to reinforce his offensive on land. He is trying to bring off a coup which will incline us to peace. He has failed signally on sea as on land and he has had to pay a heavy price. Our counter measures are meeting with increased success and the enemy will experience constantly increasing difficulty in maintaining his campaign."

London, Dec. 13.—Three attacks were made by Germans in yesterday's battle, the war office reports. The first two were repulsed. At the third attempt the enemy penetrated the obliterated British trenches at the apex of the angle in the British lines near Bullecourt. Local fighting continued until late in the evening without changing the situation.

Paris, Dec. 13.—Active artillery fighting is in progress along the whole front, the war office announces.

Subs Not Mastered.

London, Dec. 13.—"The submarine menace, in my opinion, is held, but not yet mastered," said Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty.

ELECTION IN RUSSIA IS WON BY SOCIAL REVOLUTIONISTS

Send 195 Members to Constituent Assembly But Bolsheviki is Still in Charge—Korniloff Reported Defeated and Wounded.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Dec. 13.—The latest returns from the elections to the Constituent Assembly show that 195 members have been chosen as follows: Social Revolutionists, 102; Bolsheviki, 44; Constitutional Democrats, 17; Ukraine Social Revolutionists, 9; Maximalists, 11; Jews, 3; miscellaneous, 9. The Socialist Democratic representatives include M. Kishkin, former minister of public welfare, who is under arrest in St. Peter and St. Paul fortress, and Prof. Paul N. Milukoff; Social Revolutionists, M. Kerensky, Mme. Breshokavskaya, and M. Techernoff.

The Bolsheviki intend to compel the Constituent Assembly to be subservient to them, says the Petrograd correspondent of the Times. In the meantime the Assembly stands adjourned indefinitely.

The Constitutional Democratic party will not be permitted to get control of the Constituent Assembly by the Bolsheviki, according to a statement issued by the official news bureau.

Gen. Korniloff Defeated.

New York, Dec. 13.—The counter revolutionary efforts against the Bolsheviki appear to have received a setback in the reported defeat of Gen. Korniloff in a battle in South Central Russia. Unofficial advices contained the rumor that Gen. Korniloff was wounded, and his capture by the Bolsheviki is anticipated. According to a report received in London the battle was fought between Bielgorod, in the province of Kursk, and Sumu, in the province of Kharkov, approximately 300 miles south of Moscow.

To Arrest the Democrats.

Petrograd, Dec. 13.—The Bolsheviki government have issued a decree ordering the arrest and trial by the revolutionary tribunals of the leaders of the Constitutional Democratic party assisting the counter revolution.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE'S LAWYER-STAR DID NOT TWINKLE AS ADVERTISED

MR. HALL'S ELECTION LITERATURE WON TWO VOTES FOR UNION GOV'T

After last night, Mr. Hall should not object to a joke, no matter where it hits. Here's one in which he pays the bill by providing two votes for the Union Government.

Two Normal School students of the gentler sex were among those who received the Liberal candidate's election literature, making an attack on the Unionist candidate—the same attack that has lost many votes for Mr. Hall. So incensed were the young women that they decided then and there to go to their homes for election day, both having the right to vote both having hte right to vote by reason of relatives being at the front.

The spirit of these young women may be judged when it is explained that they have to travel a long distance to reach their homes, and come back to school again for only three days before the term is completed.

But Audience at the Grand Opera House Had a Big Night's Entertainment.

That the seven hundred persons in the Grand Opera House last night took the remarks of the speakers seriously, is questionable. It is a safe wager, however, that the audience agreed with Mr J. W. Jacobs, K.C., of Montreal who questioned the veracity of Mr. R. R. Hall's statement that he, Mr. Jacobs, is the most brilliant, witty and entertaining speaker in Canada. The garland must most assuredly stay right here in Peterborough. Mr. Jacobs is alright for the chorus but no further in the spotlight for him. The man who rightly deserves the gilt-edged adjectives applied to the visitor from Montreal, is the man who from a seat in the bald-headed row took the house by storm by introducing himself a score of times into the discussion of the evening. Everybody who sat it out will agree to that. His "I can't help it" and "They were Ross rifles" were immense, and had to be heard to be appreciated.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1917

CANNOT PROVOKE A SCRAP.

MR. HALL STILL SEEMS exasperated because Capt. Burnham will not pay any attention to his frenzied challenges to verbal combat. Just where he has any occasion to worry is not quite apparent. If the Unionist party is headed for the breakers, that fact should be Mr. Hall's stay and comfort. The truth, however, is probably being brought home to him that the campaign of his opponent, quiet as it is, is gathering force every day. No one is uttering a word to which Mr. Hall can possibly offer the slightest objection. The Liberal candidate's complaint seems to be that no one will take him and his orations in a spirit of seriousness, and no man likes to have his best efforts ignored.

Mr. Hall has been before the public for some years. No one doubts his ambition to do something, for himself chiefly, and incidentally for his country. That he has succeeded in the first regard to some considerable extent must be admitted: But greater opportunities yet await him. Nothing takes with the masses like originality of thought. This claim that Capt. Burnham should have impounded the Metal Products Company, or made business for the legal fraternity by taking out an injunction to prevent their escape, is beginning to pall upon the public. Mr. Hall should take up some new line. Has it never occurred to him to advocate, for example, the straightening of the Otonabee River and to solemnly blame the Union Government and Capt. Burnham for the sinuous course that stream has held from the period of cimmerian darkness that preceded the dawn of the first day?

ANONYMOUS LETTERS.

THE REVIEW is in receipt of a letter from "A Soldier's Wife," a well-written communication, which discusses the campaign methods of Mr. R. R. Hall with the utmost frankness. While we must admit that the Liberal candidate merits the somewhat rough handling which he receives, we cannot break our rule putting an embargo on all such letters, unless the writer consents to have them appear in print over his or her own name.

Another letter, signed with the full name of the writer, handed in yesterday, was withheld for the reason that it dealt with an issue raised by the Liberal candidate, an issue which has already been laughed at and forgotten. This letter appeared in the Examiner last night, and it was the duty of that journal, misguided as it has been and put upon in this matter, to make all the amends in its power.

Talking of anonymous letters, these documents resolve themselves into two classes. The one bristles with malicious charges, the other is sweetened to the nauseating point by silly panegyrics. The first merits suppression because of its spirit of hate, the latter for its very insipidity.

No man should be allowed to use the columns of a newspaper for the publication of matter dealing with the reputation of another if he is afraid to append his name. No anonymous writer should be allowed to even mention in a derogatory tone the name of a respectable citizen in a public communication.

The man who, over an assumed name, praises another or espouses any cause in the same faint-hearted fashion, is uneasy in his own mind as to the foundation for his assertion.

Some mistaken champion of Mr. R. R. Hall writes an anonymous effusion to our contemporary in which he succeeds in making the Liberal candidate ridiculous by the very extravagance of his claims for Mr. Hall's virtues as a public servant. The climax of this exaggeration is reached when the writer declares, not as a joke, but with every evidence of sincerity, that if Mr. Hall had been member of Parliament, the Metal Products Company would never have been permitted to slip its leash and go to Montreal.

This is, indeed, a misfortune. Why not go further and put up the claim that if an unappreciative public had never relegated Mr. Hall to private life the Canadian Cordage Company would never have collapsed, that farmers would be getting cheap binder twine, and so many stockholders would not have ample cause to regret the day they ever put a cent into the venture?

The anonymous letter that is sweetened to excess with fulsome flattery always excites the suspicion that it was written by the person whose praises it sings and that that person with commendable modesty did not like to appear in public tooting his own horn.

CONSCRIPTIONISTS AND ANTIS.

WHAT OUTSTANDING figures in history, what leading men and nations of the present day have been and are in favor of conscription? Here are a few of several scores that could be mentioned:

Moses, the leader of the children of Israel.
Joshua, who saved his people from the Midianites.
Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States during the American Civil War.
Jefferson Davis, President of the Southern Confederacy during the same eventful period.
President Wilson.
Lloyd George.
Lord Roberts.
Lord Kitchener.
Great Britain.
France.
The United States.
Eight of the nine provinces in the Dominion of Canada.

And who are the antis, whose names can be written against the above list? Here are a few of them:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.
Henri Bourassa.
Hartley Dewart.
Sir Allen Aylesworth.
One of the nine provinces of the Dominion of Canada.
R. R. Hall and candidates of his persuasion.
The Peterborough Examiner.

It is only fair to say on behalf of our contemporary that it has been bravely trying to sit evenly on the fence, but its two feet are at last hanging over on one side.

WHAT PETERBOROUGH MISSED.

AFTER ALL, in a way it is unfortunate that the storm of Saturday night prevented the arrival in this city of Mr. L. F. Heyd, K.C., of Toronto, who was billed to speak in the interests of Mr. R. R. Hall. Mr. Heyd would have added to the gaiety of political campaigns by the very audacity of his statements. On his first public appearance in Toronto, after fair weather set in, he delivered himself of the oration that he had no doubt canned for the people here. This city lost the opportunity to be known as the place where all records in the matter of making free and easy with veracity were shattered into atoms.

Mr. Heyd, K.C., tells a wondering public that the Union Government is to blame for the catastrophe at Halifax. They had no right to let any boat loaded to the gunwales with munitions wander over the high seas without proper supervision.

This assertion makes the claim of Mr. Hall that the Government and Capt. Burnham are severally and jointly to blame for letting the Metal Products Company leave the city look like the proverbial thirty cents. It may encourage Mr. Hall, however, to essay still wilder and wider flights. May the fates forbid that he will take up this cry himself or that he may yet upbraid the Government for not using the Bessie Butler as a convoy for transports.

Almost anything is to be expected from desperate Liberal candidates these days.

DESTROYING HIS OWN HOUSE.

WHEN MR. HALL SAYS that 95 per cent. of the men in Quebec called out by the first draft for recruits have applied for and been granted exemption, and out of that attempts to build a case against the Government, is he not really destroying his own house and treating unfairly the members of his own political family? How does he hope to raise men by the voluntary system after such a sorry showing as that? And yet, he says, with his leader, that it can be done.

If Mr. Hall is elected, he will be numbered with the members of Quebec. With them he will support Sir Wilfrid Laurier for the Premiership. Is he showing the proper fraternal spirit when he represents the race upon whose support he hopes for success beyond his own mere personal triumph, as a bunch of men who are trying to shirk the highest duty of patriotic citizens?

THE ENTRY TO JERUSALEM.

WHEN THE SAVIOUR of mankind made His last entrance into the city of Jerusalem He rode on an ass to indicate that His mission was one of peace and that He had no military aspirations, as would appear had He ridden on a horse, in those days the emblem of war. The crowd that acclaimed Him King, that threw palms and their garments in His path as a token of respect, could easily have been inspired with military ardor and incited to rebellion against their Roman taskmasters. But the Nazarene's mission was not of this earth, earthly.

It must have been that General Allenby, commander of the British army that captured the Holy City, had this historic incident in mind when he entered the confines of Jerusalem, not as a conqueror, but as a lowly pilgrim on foot. It was fitting that he should assume a still lowlier role than the One Who was something more than man.

After two thousand years the charm that the City of the Great King holds for humanity is as strong as ever. Reverence for Him Who has made that city sacred above all places on earth has lost none of its fervor. The hundreds who hailed Him as he rode into Jerusalem have grown to millions as He comes again into His own.

BORDEN OR BOURASSA?

THERE IS DANGER to Canada in the election of Mr. Hall to Parliament, especially if the party to which he belongs secures a working majority. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier is made Premier by the votes of his Quebec following and that of Mr. Hall, the veteran leader, by reason of his years, cannot hope to remain long in the harness. Henri Bourassa, his present lieutenant, who is even now the real leader in Quebec, will succeed him as the Prime Minister.

Can Canadians afford to take this risk by voting for Mr. Hall, a ballot for whom really means a boost for Bourassa, Bourassa the man whose dream is a Canada severed from all connection with Britain and under French domination, with French the official language?

NOTES AND COMMENT.

BORDEN or Bourassa, which?

• • • •

CABLEGRAMS may comfort Mr. Hall, but it will require votes to elect him.

• • • •

NO ONE IS quite so anxious over the result of the election as the man or the newspaper on the fence.

• • • •

ARM-CHAIR FARMERS may be entertaining, but they can hardly claim exemption from military duty.

• • • •

MR. JACOBS counts in Mr. Hall and the Laurier party, but it is the polling results that will decide the issue.

• • • •

LET THE FATES be thanked that while many in West Peterborough have been exposed to Laurierism, very few appear to have contracted the malady.

• • • •

THE CALL OF THE SLAIN.

Dark and drear lowers the doom of the Land of the Maple
If the lads of St. Julien lie slaughtered in vain.
For we'll drain to the dregs the foul cup of dishonor
If we heed not, my comrades, the call of our slain.

Far off from the fields of the country that bore them,
All silent they rest 'neath the blood-sodden plain;
All silent their lips, yet their deeds still are speaking
And pleading with us for the cause of the slain.

As proudly they answered the call of their country,
So we must now answer the call of the slain;
Must scatter the ranks of the trench-starving traitors
Who'd let our brave comrades lie slaughtered in vain.

For we are their brothers and we are their keepers,
And, though "treachery" raises the hell cry of Cain,
We swear by the love of the country that bore us,
Her sons shall not die for that country in vain.

GOVERNMENT NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR DECISIONS OF TRIBUNALS

Amongst the many insidious false impressions widely passed around by the Laurier Opposition perhaps the most dangerous is that Sir Robert Borden and the Union Government are directly responsible for the decisions of the Military Tribunals. Is this British fair play?

Before the Act was passed, the opponents of the old Government all prophesied that conscription would mean a partisan enforcement and the Government was challenged to arrange for non-partisan local administration of any compulsory law. The challenge was met by the appointment of local and absolutely non-partisan tribunals. Laurier shares equally with Borden the responsibility for the members of local tribunals. Let no one forget that one member of each tribunal was appointed by a County Judge, many of such judges having been appointed under the Laurier regime, that the other member of each tribunal was selected by a committee, one half of whose members were nominated by Laurier himself. There has never been a shadow of a suggestion that either Borden or the Union Government have urged the tribunals to be harsh either on the farmers or on families which have already done well under the voluntary system. The facts are exactly the reverse.

The Government setting these absolutely non-partisan tribunals in operation was not called upon to interfere in any way, but the Government and Sir Robert Borden have nevertheless appealed specifically to the tribunals to give every consideration to the bonafide farmer if usefully and necessarily employed in farming, and to sons of families which have contributed largely under voluntary enlistment. Let us be British, and not seek to blame the Union Government for any personal quarrels over the decisions of these tribunals.

GEN. TURNER KNOWS THE NEED

General Turner is in supreme command of the reinforcing units in England. If there is any one man connected with the Canadian Army whose word on the vital necessity of Infantry reinforcements is final, it is he. He has been forced to use the men of the Fifth Division to reinforce the four divisions in France. He has been compelled to order the wounded back to the firing line without sufficient leave. He has been compelled to refuse furlough to men who have been fighting in France since February, 1915, who went overseas in October, 1914, with the noble First. Can anyone read the following words from a cable to General Mewburn, and then vote against the Union Government and the continued enforcement of the Military Service Act?

"If the people of Canada would only realise that in order to maintain our divisions up to full strength men who have been wounded have been rushed back as soon as they are fit, without leave or rest to which they were entitled, I believe there is not a patriotic civilian in Canada who will not stand heart and soul behind you in your endeavors. Sir Robert Borden has given his pledge that he will not betray us, and we know we may rely on him to the utmost. We are relying too on the honor of our countrymen in Canada to be true to themselves and to us in this great crisis."

TODAY'S STORY

"Lieut. Jinks, you are conversant with the French language?" asked Capt. Jones.

"Oui, oui—er—yes, sir," replied the dashing young American officer.

"Well, lead this French squad for its morning exercise," said the captain.

"Marche!" ordered Lieut. Jinks, and the squad followed him dutifully.

"Hah! I got that right, anyway," thought Jinks, complacently. "I wonder what's French for 'column right?' Oh, well, maybe I'll just keep 'em walking straight ahead."

Fifty yards ahead he saw a yawning abyss, far below which he could hear the rushing of the Dzeezer river.

"Great heavens! what's French for "halt?" he thought, wildly. "These men are so well trained they'll walk right over the blame thing if they don't get the order to halt, and I'll be court-martialed for murder aggravated by ignorance." And he cried out sharply 'Mouchoir!'

The squad stepped briskly on.

"Demi tasse!" roared Lieut. Jinks, but his only answer was the steady tread of the French soldiers marching on to certain destruction.

"Menu! A la carte! Camouflage!"

Tramp! tramp! tramp! Jinks felt something hissing—was his hair turning white?

The precipice was only five feet away when the word came.

"Halte!" cried Lieut. Jinks, and the French soldiers, halting just in time, went up one by one and kissed the lieutenant on both cheeks for saving their lives.

The rise in bread prices in Montreal in October, says the Acting Commissioner on the Cost of Living, was not justified by a corresponding increase in cost.

"No, dear," answered the mother "Please tell me."

"A nice hairpin tray with gold flowers on it all around," said the little girl.

"But, my dear," exclaimed the mother, "I have a nice one like that already."

"No, you haven't, mother," Marie answered. "I have just dropped it on the floor."

Dawson Says He Gained 15 Pounds

Suffering of Fourteen Years Standing is Overcome by Tanlac, He Says.

Recently, in speaking of the marvelous way in which Tanlac has restored his health and renewed his strength and energy, A. W. Dawson, a shell inspector for the Canadian Cartridge Company and living at 119 Gibson avenue, Hamilton, said: "It may seem hard to believe, but it's a fact, this Tanlac has put me in shape where I have gained fifteen pounds and I am feeling better and more able to work than I have in a long time." Continuing his statement, Mr. Dawson said:

"For fourteen years or more I had suffered from indigestion and nobody knows better than I do the misery it causes. My appetite was no good and my stomach was so out of fix that I always had to be very careful about my eating. I was bloated up with gas, full of pain and felt after every meal like I wanted to vomit. My food just seemed to lay like lead in my stomach and at times the gas crowded my heart so I could hardly get my breath. I was badly constipated, had awful headaches and couldn't sleep more than three hours at night. My nerves were all upset and I would go to bed tired—get up in the mornings with an awful taste in my mouth—and feeling even more tired than when I lay down at night.

"Those who have never had such troubles certainly have something to be thankful for, and now that I have found relief I can hardly find words to express my gratitude. My sister-in-law persuaded me to try Tanlac and it has done far more than I had any idea it would. I have a great big appetite now and I don't stop at anything to eat. All that lumpy feeling, gas pressure and pain is gone. In fact, I never have a touch of indigestion now, no matter what I eat. My nerves are strong and steady, my head seldom aches and I sleep like a log. I have also found wonderful relief from constipation by using Tanlac Tablets in connection with Tanlac. I have spent lots of money for medicines of different kinds and Tanlac is the only one I have ever found I felt like I could recommend. If it hadn't done the work I certainly wouldn't say so and I am giving this statement because I know there are lots of others who need just such a medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd.

Capt. Murray, formerly harbormaster of the port of Quebec, who lost his life in the Halifax disaster, was buried in Quebec with full military honors.

MILLBROOK

(Special Correspondence.)

Millbrook, Dec. 13.—Miss May Needham was a visitor to Peterborough on Saturday.

Rev. W. H. Higgs is a guest of friends at Frankfort.

Mr. Walter Caldwell was a guest of his aunt, Mrs. Janes, on Friday.

Mr. Ed Crummitt of Port Hope was in town this week in the interests of Hon. N. W. Rowell.

Mr. Harry Bland of Mt. Pleasant was in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. G. W. McKim of Peterborough was in town on Saturday.

Mr. Arthur Vance of Ida was in town on Monday.

Mrs. Benjamin Raper has received word that her brother, Sergt. W. A. Tebb is missing. We hope she will soon receive a more reassuring message.

The Methodist S. S. is preparing a splendid entertainment for New Years. A cantata of unusual interest is being rehearsed. Keep this in mind.

Mrs. Alfred Hawkins has received the sad news that her husband, Pte. Alfred Hawkins, has died of wounds. The sympathy of the community will be extended to her in her bereavement.

Anniversary services will be held in St. Thomas' Church on Sunday, Dec. 16th. In the morning the rector will preach on the Duty of Canadians at the Present Time. There will be special music by the choir at both services.

No doubt owing to the specially good agricultural section around Millbrook, this place was chosen as one of the twenty-two places in Eastern Ontario, where the Agricultural College, Guelph, in co-operation with the G. T. R., had their agricultural instruction cars stop. Hundreds of people came from all parts of Cavan, Hope, Manvers and Monaghan, to view the cars and received all information possible. The various exhibits were certainly interesting and instructive. In the town hall in the evening a large number were present. The moving pictures were enjoyed and the address by the lady speakers was listened to with close attention and appreciation.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church it was decided to send the two autograph quilts to Capt. C. R. Spencer, to be presented to Kitchener hospital in England.

There are hundreds of names on these quilts which will be of interest to any of our Millbrook and Cavan heroes, who may be unfortunate enough to have cause to enter this hospital. The next meeting of the Ladies Aid will be held at the home of Mr H. Dunford, the second week in January, 1918.

The Home Town.

Most people grow up with the home-town feeling for the old town—the town where they were youngsters, where they knew every kitten and puppy, every street and every alley, every cracker barrel and every candy counter, everybody and everything, at least for many a block around. It was not, of course a feeling of which you were uncomfortably conscious. As likely as not you never knew that you had it until you came back after a summer in the country, or, perhaps, came home from school for the holidays. It was then that the home town feeling grew large within you—a fine, big, warm feeling.

If it happened that you lived in a medium-sized town in those days, the light of the station was a deeply satisfying thing. It seemed, as you rattled along in the little old hack, past the courthouse square and across the one-street car line, that you had come back to yourself—a very comfortable sort of feeling indeed.

Perhaps you lived in or near a much smaller village, but it was the same home-town feeling you had as you climbed under the heavy, horsey-smelling robe into the buggy and rode down the street. The general store, the white church, the brick house where the one rich family lived, and the patched-up cabin where the one poor family lived were so familiar to you that you were immediately conscious of every new sign in the store window and every new patch in the cabin roof. And if, perhaps, you lived in a much larger town, the distant smoke, the insistent clamor, the crowds, and the rush of traffic were the things you were looking for and the things that satisfied the home-town feeling.

An Efficiency Test.

"The head of our concern decided to have everybody undergo an efficiency examination and apportion the jobs accordingly."

"How did it turn out?"

"The office boy won the manager's job, and the manager couldn't pass at all."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Rival Ambitions.

"What are you going to do when you grow up?"

"I haven't made up my mind," replied the small boy. "I'd like to be a good bridge whist player like mother, and, then, again, I'd like to be a champion tango dancer like father."—Washington Star.

ONE AGAINST SIXTY

HOW PTE. JOHN CHIPMAN KERR WON V.C.

A Graphic Story of the Heroic Act Performed by the Nova Scotia Boy, Who Was the Sixth Canadian to Win the Most Coveted British Military Decoration.

"AN authenticated story of one against sixty odd," is the story just allowed through the censor's hands of how John Chipman Kerr, Canada's sixth and latest V. C. hero, won his Victoria Cross.

Pte. Kerr, the son of a Canadian militia captain and born at Fox River, Nova Scotia, was transferred to a battalion at the front on June 8th, 1916, in the course of the reformation of the Canadian division, and on June 22nd the reorganized battalion went back into the line in the same position in Sanctuary Wood, where they had first suffered. On Sept. 15th they were sent to the chalk pits on the left of Courcelette.

Meantime, the attacking parties had advanced to the capture of Faback Graben, a difficult trench to take, as the men had to go forward in oblique fashion. The centre was taken, and Capt. Harstone rushed his company, Kerr amongst them, to fill the gap, and Fabeck Graben fell. But its taking was not complete. The enemy, in unknown strength, retained possession of a stretch of 200 yards, where he was sandwiched in between different portions of the Canadian force. His hold on this position was strengthened by the fact that he also held in great force Zollern Graben, which adjoined.

This disposition was fraught with great danger to both the opposing troops, neither of which knew the other's strength in men and munitions, but the enemy had the advantage of knowing every inch of the ground, concealed machine guns, and snipers' nests. Capt. Harstone decided on a bombing expedition to oust the enemy from the trench, and he sent word to this effect to the brigadier through his battalion headquarters. The assault, however, had consumed all the bombs, and before the supply could be replenished night had set in.

Meanwhile, an elaborate plan to capture this particular portion of Fabeck Graben and also Zollern Graben was in course of preparation by the staff, but a brigade message gave Captain Harstone an allotted time in which to carry out the bombing expedition.

A squad of a dozen men was detailed under Corporal Patterson to execute this minor operation, and Pte. Kerr was selected for the post of first bayonet man. His duty as such was to precede the party, dispose of the enemy sentry in a manner which would not arouse the whole garrison, seek the latter's whereabouts, and advise the bombers of their target.

Kerr climbed the block, or boundary line, established in the Canadian trench, and made his way toward a similar obstruction erected by the enemy. The other men followed him. The German sentry was alert and hurled a bomb over the parapet. Kerr saw the missile hurtling towards him, and bent his right arm in front of his body the better to protect himself. It was a near call, for the bomb blew off the top of Kerr's forefinger and wounded him in the side. Bombers of both sides then became busy, and neither could see the other nor the effect of their missiles.

Regardless of his wounds and of the enemy, Kerr scrambled to the top of the battered parados. Here he obtained a full view of the enemy. The small attacking party could easily have been overcome by the number of Germans that crowded the trench, but this did not enter into Kerr's calculations.

He had only two bombs with him, and after making excellent use of them he opened fire with his rifle. This, however, had become clogged with mud and jammed. With his bombs expended and his rifle useless he remained at the top of the trench directing the aim of his bombers. Then he seized the rifle of the second bayonet man to make reprisals for his own hurt. He seemed to bear a charmed life, as, though he was in full view, the wild aim of the Germans passed him by.

Under continuous pressure the enemy retired, and as soon as they had rounded the first bay, which hid them from sight, Kerr jumped into the trench and grimly followed. The place was thick with dead and dying Germans. Prepared for German treachery, Kerr rounded the first bay without incident, holding his bayonet fixed. They had retired to the other extremity of the trench.

Kerr discovered this when on rounding the third bay of the trench he came face-to-face with a heavily-built German, who at sight of the bayonet instantly threw up both hands. There stood the wounded Canadian facing, not this one man, but sixty others behind him, in a trench amply provided with ammunition and weapons. He smiled with amusement when one among the sixty waved a white rag at him.

Kerr signalled to the Germans with his rifle to climb over the parados, at the same time calling to his comrades to hurry along as he was in touch with the enemy. The attacking party now numbered only nine, one having been killed and three others in addition to Kerr wounded.

When the other eight Canadians came on the scene the opposing forces were roughly seven to one in favor of the enemy. Zollern Graben was close at hand, and the Germans had a plentiful stock of munitions, including a machine gun, yet they refused to make one last bid for their freedom.

Instead, they followed the pointed instructions of their captor and made their submissive way down a communication trench into captivity.

The public school at Fingal was destroyed by fire with a loss of $18,000.

TO THE ELECTORS OF EAST PETERBORO

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—

I believe no greater disaster could at the present time befall our country than the defeat of the Borden Union Administration at the polls on December 17th.

The policy of this Administration is the speedy and continuous reinforcements of our Canadian troops on the battle-front; and the putting forth of all our national strength for the cause of civilization and freedom.

To carry out this policy, a number of Canada's ablest public men of vision—sinking for the present all political differences—now stand together—strong to battle for the right—united to WIN THE WAR.

For over three years thousands of loyal Canadians of many creeds and of different nationalities have stood shoulder to shoulder on the battle-fields of Europe, gallantly fighting our common foe, and sometimes, sometimes falling, have won for the name of Canada undying fame. Shall we, with all possible speed, send help to these, our heroic defenders, now holding the battle-line, or shall we, breaking faith with them as well as "with those who die"—delay—vote—while the enemy advances?

As the Union Candidate in this Riding, I am putting forth every effort to win East Peterborough to the support of the Borden Union Administration, and, if elected, shall to the utmost of my ability support the same.

To this end I now earnestly solicit the co-operation and influence of every loyal and patriotic man and woman in East Peterborough.

I have the honor to be, faithfully yours,

JOHN A. SEXSMITH.

BREAK A C S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

CLEANSES THE LITTLE LIVER AND BOWELS AND THEY GET WELL QUICK.

When your child suffers from a cold, don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or is feverish, or has a sore throat, give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs" to evacuate the bowels, no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

LIBERAL CANDIATE'S

Even the Liberal candidate forgot himself and smiled. And it was quite a relief from the cut-and-dried, stock in trade address that the Liberal candidate presented before his auditors, and one good reason why every man and woman in the theatre held their seats till the performance was at an end and the orchestra had concluded the first verse of the National Anthem.

Mr. J. J. Hartley, opened the meeting and said his part very well—partly by making only a few remarks. He seemed quite in earnest in his declaration that Mr. Hall would be elected. Mr. Hartley has said the same thing so often that it has become a habit, and people who contract habits do not always say and do exactly as the tiny voice within would have them say and do.

The Candidate.

Passing on to Mr. Hall it can be truly said that he received applause when he stepped forward. That's the proper thing for a theatre audience to do whether the curtain reveals a member of Marks Bros. company or Charlie Chaplain. And Mr. Hall smiled his acknowledgment. The Liberal candidate was tuned up for the occasion and he proceeded to lay bare the sins of omission and commission of the Borden government, wholly neglecting to announce the fact that the people were dealing with a Union Government, the cabinet of which was made up of the big men of the Dominion, who, realizing the peril of the hour had laid aside the game of politics and were determined to give united attention to the colossal task of winning the war, and with this end in view had struck out straight from the shoulder in passing legislation calculated to help bring about that single end. The Liberal candidate endeavored to interest his audience as he sought to find some weak points in the Military Service Act. Why cannot we have a conscription law or military Service Act which will deal fairly and equally upon every part of Canada" he asked, if being qu Canada" he asked, it being quite evident that he had not heard of the premier's definite statement made at the armories here that "the Military Service Act will be enforced fully, impartially but firmly in every part of Canada." We must make up our minds that we are not in a short war, he went on to say. We must be guided by common sense and good judgment and it is necessary for us to work with one another. All of which is quite true. Mr. Hall found fault with Sir Robert Borden for not consulting with Great Britain and her Allies as to what Canada could best serve in the winning of the war, not giving a hint of course of the fact that the Premier was in close touch with the British Government as to the conduct of the war. The premier's policy was he said "send over 100,000 men and the war's won," while Sir Wilfrid Laurier's was "confer with Great Britain and her Allies."

A Terrible Offence.

The speaker was grieved to know that the premier had smiled when his, Mr. Hall's platform had been torpedoed by the secretary of the War Veterans Association in the meeting at the armouries in his "smart and sarcastic speech." It had created a great laugh and Sir Robert had been guilty of laughing the heartiest. Mr. Rowell also sinned. It was nothing more or less than "fiddling while Rome burned." And all this, while the women of the win-the-war brigade were entering the homes of soldiers and telling the wives "if you don't vote for Burnham you'll never see your husband again." "I say," said Mr. Hall, rather bitterly, "if she votes for Burnham she may see her son starve to death."

Verbal Bouquets.

Mr. Jacobs made a poor getaway. Mr. Hall had already pursued such a masterly course and there was nothing he could add to illuminate the question. Yes, it was worth coming all the way from Montreal and to have to go back again to listen to such an address. Mr. Jacobs is some kidder. He deeply regretted that Sir Robert Borden was not present to hear the great exposition of truth. But however the premier would not be so jubilant when the 17th inst had departed. Then proceeding, the Montreal K. C. took occasion to question the veracity of Mr. Hall who had published the statement that he, Mr. Jacobs, was the most brilliant, witty, and entertaining speaker in Canada. Then he told a story. He would begin with jokes and therefore start with the Food Controller. Mr. Jacobs said something about a "Hanna" in the Bible, but as it was so long since he had read the good book he wasn't sure of his facts so the Food Controller was made to suffer. Hanna is a child of the Prophets said he—the Standard Oil profits. There is a real Food Controller and he is Sir Joseph Flavelle. Peterborough wished him on Canada, declared Mr. Jacobs in manufacturing the ingredients for another ripple of laughter. He guessed it was because Sir Joseph made 80 percent profits the British Government made him a baronet. If it had been only 40 percent, it would have been a duke with only 20 per cent profits he might only have been created a peer. And this terrible man Hanna had had the nerve to arise from a sumptuous repast served in Montreal and tell the women folks there how to make bread pudding out of bread crumbs, which by the way is a blamed sight easier than landing among the chosen ones in Parliament after navigating the route Mr. Jacobs and the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough have selected for themselves.

Mr Ballantyne, the new Minister of Marine and Fisheries, is, in the opinion of Mr. Jacobs a very estimable gentleman. His only fault lies in the fact that he was taken in and Mr. Jacobs was left out. And because Mr. Ballantyne has been successful in life and has made money he should not have been chosen. Canada didn't want these kind of fellows and if he should be elected, he would see to it that Canadian citizens were prevented from accepting titles.

Passing on to Quebec, Mr. Jacobs told all about what Sir Wilfrid Laurier had tried to do and what Sir Robert Borden had done and was doing, the picture being drawn by him to suit the intentions and purposes of the occasion. Sir Sam Hughes also got his for taking away the right of the 65th Regiment to carry Government owned rifles in the religious procession in Montreal. And to make it worse Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not spoken to Henri Bourassa for ten years. All of which had something to do with the want of recruiting in Quebec.

About this time, Mr. Jacobs became of a prophetic turn of mind. Of course he himself would be elected. And when on the morning of the 18th he picked up his paper, he sure would find therein the name of Mr. Hall, among the victors, for had not Mr. Hall just received a cable from the front that "all is going excellently for Hall."

The meeting was closed with cheers for the candidate, for Mr. Jacobs and for Sir Wilfrid Laurier but not a blooming thing for the soldiers at the front.

The Gift That is Everlasting

Combining Permanence, Pleasure, Economy, Elegance

Such a gift is Thos. A. Edison's favorite invention—the New Edison Diamond Disc Phonograph. With ordinary care it will outlast you. During the years to come it will afford pleasure to all the family for all occasions. Its cost, spread over a period of months, means but little outlay and saves its cost many times by affording recreation, rest, comfort, entertainment at home.

Yet, what a magnificent possession! Artistic, ornamental, useful and substantial. It is the gift of gifts. No other Christmas treasure will hold so great and permanent a place in the hearts of your family as

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul."

Heretofore it has been the custom to judge a phonograph by the artists it had, the strength of the motor, the size of the cabinet—the friends who had them.

But one day, about four years ago, Thos. Edison changed all that when he came out of his laboratories with the announcement that he had succeeded in re-creating music so perfectly that the real could not be told from the re-creation.

To-day people judge a phonograph by its musical quality—thanks to Edison.

We might tell you of the superb mechanism in the New Edison; the genuine diamond point that never needs changing; the cabinets designed by artists of renown; the records that never wear out—but these are side-lights beside the one great, supreme fact that it gives you real music—that it has lifted the "talking-machine" from the realm of a toy to a wonderful musical instrument.

Let others boast of their mechanical features, and proudly claim that their "talking-machine" can play Edison records. The fact remains that there is only one Edison Disc Phonograph capable of really re-creating music—and over five hundred newspaper critics have admitted this.

You can, if desired, purchase a New Edison with a small cash payment. Can you think of any outlay of a few dollars that will bring such universal, lasting joy to the whole family? Call and hear it to-day.

Sailors' Dependents Cry to You for Help

ATTEND THE TEA AND DANSANTE, SATURDAY, IN THEIR AID.

The tea and d[illegible]nte in the Empress Hotel, S[illegible]day afternoon, from 3.30 to [illegible] under the auspices of the [illegible] Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E., sho[illegible] and undoubtedly will be, gen[illegible]ly patronised. The object of the [illegible]ction is to raise funds for the re[illegible]f of British and Canadian sailors and their dependents.

It is known th[illegible] out of the millions of tons of merchant shipping sunk during the war the dependents of crews who have lost their lives are in many cases in dire necessity. There is no particular fund or pension system covering their cases, notwithstanding that this class of the community is today really the most important and the one on which we depend the most, for without sailors to man the ships our products both from the mine, field, factory and fisheries would not reach their destination; the trade of the Empire would cease, and the countries of the Empire open to invasion.

With these facts before them, there should be no doubt but that the commendable efforts of the Peter Robinson Chapter young ladies in aid of the dependents of brave sailors who have lost their lives in the Empire's main defence, will be substantially endorsed by the public. If you cannot dance, you will find pleasure in a select musical program arranged for.

OBITUARY

ROBERT J. MENZIES.

(Lindsay Warder.)

Word reached town this morning of the death of Mr. R. J. ("Bob") Menzies, which occurred at Detroit, Mich., Tuesday afternoon after a short illness. It appears that the deceased had been in the hospital for a few days and underwent a critical operation.

Lindsay friends of the late Mr. Menzies—and they are legion—will deeply regret to hear the news of his demise. He was quite popular with all who knew him. For years he was identified with baseball clubs in Lindsay, especially during the years when the famous Lindsay Red Birds won the Midland League. He was also an enthusiastic follower of hockey in Lindsay, and a curler of no mean ability. His genial disposition at the curling rink gained for him a host of staunch friends. He was also for a time manager of the Lindsay opera house, and for years was a member of the staff of Dundas & Flavelles, Limited. In religion he was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

The late Mr. Menzies is survived by three sons: Bert, of Sudbury; Percy, of Detroit, and Harry, in the service of the Empire, being stationed at present with the militia at London, Ont. The eldest son, Norman, enlisted out west, and paid the supreme sacrifice on the field of Flanders over a year ago.

The funeral will be held here.

The deceased was a brother of William Menzies, Rubidge street.

HENRY TRUESDALE.

Henry Truesdale died this morning at four o'clock, at his home, 177 Edinburgh street, after a long illness from internal trouble. The deceased was 30 years old. His widow and two sons survive.

The funeral will be held on Friday at 2.30 p.m. to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. A. J. Doner will officiate.

FUNERAL OF ROBERT SMITH.

The funeral of the late Robert Smith was held this afternoon from Belleghem's undertaking rooms to Little Lake Cemetery The Bricklayers and Stonemasons Union had charge.

in the House of Commons today. "Our shipbuilding is not yet replacing our losses." The First Lord said that if the country would economize so as to restrict the use of tonnage and set ships free for more urgent uses, if the English would follow the tradition of their race and put forth all their power, relaxing no effort, to defeat the submarines, then the war could end only in victory.

"We must have ships, more ships, still more ships, and now I want the men to build them," Sir Eric added. He said plans were made and the steel had been obtained, and that unless he mistook the spirit of the country there would be an adequate response to the appeal for men.

Mysterious Fires

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Dec. 13.—Four big fires are reported in various parts of Eastern Canada today. The recruiting office and several stores adjoining with various military buildings were destroyed at Ottawa with a total damage of a quarter of a million dollars. In St. John, N.B., St. David's Presbyterian Church was totally destroyed. At Valleyfield, P.Q., three thousand were thrown out of employment in the destruction of the Montreal cotton plant. Damage half a million. At St. Johns, the Excelsior Straw Company plant was destroyed with a loss of $125,000. In all cases the origin was mysterious.

"SO LONG LETTY."

When one of Oliver Morosco's successes is announced, the patrons of the theatre realize they can expect something worth while. The fact is perhaps, the reason for the enthusiasm hereabouts toward the coming of "So Long Letty" to the Grand Opera House next Tuesday, Dec. 18.

Needless it is for the press agent to say much about any of Oliver Morosco's successes. They are all known to the average theatre-goer, who delights in attending them, especially when the guarantee that Oliver Morosco will send his own company of skilled players is added.

During the past months the piece has been carefully cast, rebuilt and newly costumed for its second triumphant tour and in every detail the production will be found to be bright and new and will come to the splendid standard Mr. Morosco has set in the past.

The cast includes such funmakers as Gladys Lockwood and Jack Pollard, Robert Cavanaugh, Jean Temple, Vera Coburn and Muriel Greil.

The book is the work of the producer and Elmer Harris, while Earl Carroll, already well-known as the writer of most popular melody is responsible for the eighteen musical numbers interwoven throughout "Letty."

The music of the piece will be rendered by a novelty orchestra which includes: Saxaphone, Banjoes and Marambaphones, the latter being the Guatamanlin piano.

"So Long Letty" is rightly termed the cross-continent musical success, for it was first produced at the Morosco Theatre, Los Angeles, and has record breaking runs in San Francisco, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and New York to its credit. The entire press throughout the Country are unanimous in its praise. Its a play of California, with a California beauty chorus and a "Typical Morosco Cast" which means the very best obtainable.

EVERY ABLE

bear to see a penny escape them. Still you know my dear aunt that it takes all kinds and creeds to make a world and the way they rob the troops is fierce, every farmer sells beer and cigarettes and charge about twice the price for eggs, butter and bread that they would get otherwise.

Well I have some good news. I was decorated with the Distinguished Conduct Medal last week for meritious service, so you will know that I have been doing pretty well. I am Sergeant Major now too, so I have got some promotion as well as the decoration. The General commanding came and congratulated me. By the way our Brigadier General is a son of Sir Sam Hughes. He is one of the smartest Generals here I believe. He has the advantage of being young, that to my mind is one of the most important essentials. The majority of our senior officers are too old. They cannot grasp new ideas easily enough. Age (I think) inclines one to stick to the old ways and doesn't grasp the advantages of originality. Well how are all the folks at home. I suppose you do not go out much except to the Church. We have a new Chaplain now. He is fine, although we all were fond of Captain Gordon. He was a brave and absolutely fearless man. I have seen him conducting a service over someone with the shells bursting in the next field and the pieces of shell flying uncomfortably near, but there was never a tremor in his voice. I was at service last Sunday; the lesson was the 11th psalm and the text was the 11th verse of the 11th psalm. I just forget the wording of the verse, but it is something like this "The fear of God is the beginning of wisdom."

Well aunt I guess that I shall have to close soon now, as it is late and I have to get up early in the morning now. We are in billets and I have a good bed for the first time in France. We are looking forward to some lively work in a short time; it will mean glory to the lucky ones and I don't know what for the ones that get hit. One cannot help but glory in a death out here, fighting for what we believe and know to be right. I cannot see how some people will be able to face the poor chaps coming home crippled up. Every able-bodied man's place is out here, where good strong sound men are needed. We all know that there are dozens of arguments for them to use, but if the Germans were to get away from us here and go to Canada where would the end be then? However, I should worry, but I think it is a selfish man that will stay at home whilst someone else goes out to fight his battles. We do not find any records of such a thing having occured in olden times; every man went out to fight in some tribe or other.

Military Voters' Act, 1917

To the Editor of The Review:

Sir:

As I have had so many enquiries as to the soldiers' vote, will you please allow me through your columns to state for the benefit of all enquirers what the law is on this subject? It is as follows:

The returned and discharged soldiers and nurses, as well as all persons, male or female, that have enlisted or enrolled or are called out for and placed on active service in the C. E. F., the Canadian Navy Militia, Volunteer Reserves, Air Service and Motor Boat Patrol, whether of age or not, including Indians, are all entitled to vote.

Soldiers and nurses in uniform vote under the military regulations wherever they may be.

Discharged soldiers can vote any place on producing their discharge papers and making oath that they are the persons named therein.

CAPT. BURNHAM'S ADDRESS

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETERBOROUGH:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

Election-day is December 17th. Its nearness admits of no further delay on the part of candidates in formally addressing you. It was hoped that political parties in West Peterborough might unite, as the members of the Borden Union Administration have done, in its support. But since the Liberal Convention has met and chosen its standard-bearer, who has not declared himself to be a supporter of the Borden Union Administration, it becomes necessary for me, without more, to solicit your suffrages. At the convention of the Conservatives of West Peterborough, duly assembled, I was chosen as their candidate to support Sir Robert Borden and his Administration. The Prime Minister has formed a Union Administration, composed of Conservative, Liberal and Labour representatives, to the end that he may the more fully and surely carry in a spirit of national unity and co-operation Canada's share in the war to a successful conclusion.

I pledge myself, therefore, with that same spirit of unity and co-operation, to support the Borden Union Administration and its policies, and I earnestly and respectfully solicit your votes and support accordingly. This is no ordinary political campaign, and it is hoped that all well-wishers of the Borden Union Administration will make every effort to secure the return of its supporters.

I have the honour to remain,

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Peterborough, Nov. 10, 1917.

FIRST CURLING AT THE RINK

Somewhat of a record was established at the curling rink last night when two rinks of curlers opened the season's sport. Ices 6 and 7 were used. December 12 is an early opening date for the rink.

The Belleville Curling Club has selected W. N. Blair and J. W. Davidson for Tankard skips and Dr. M. A. Day and C. L. Eymons as skips for the district cup.

TEST YOUR LUNGS.

A Simple Method by Which One May Measure His Development.

People often suffer from weak, undeveloped lungs without suspecting it. True, small, feeble lungs are usually associated with a small, narrow or sunken chest, but not invariably. By means of the misuse of physical culture it is possible to develop large chest muscles, thus acquiring a big chest measurement, while the lungs remain small and ill nourished.

Again, lung mischief is often so slow and insidious in its approach that the trouble is not discovered until it is firmly established. Here, however, is a simple test which will tell you whether your lungs are healthy or not:

Take as deep a breath as you can, and then, in a slow but distinct voice count from one onward as far as you can without taking in more breath. The number of seconds you can continue counting is a pretty reliable index to the state of your lungs, so you should have some one to time you.

If your lungs are sound and normally developed your range will be between twenty and thirty-five seconds. If your limit is between ten and twenty seconds there is no need to be alarmed; probably your lungs are merely in need of exercise, to be readily obtained by regular deep breathing in pure air. A range less than ten seconds, however, points to more or less mischief, and you should not delay in having your lungs examined by a medical man.

Exaggerated Optimism.

"What is your idea of an optimist?"

"An optimist," replied Mr. Growcher, "is a man who thinks he has the makings of an automobile because he has managed to get hold of a gallon of gasoline and a spark plug."—Washington Star.

OLD PAP PINKHAM

Relates How Patriotism Got the Crowd In Jericho.

USEFUL GREAT-GRANDDADS.

Rival Candidates For Constable Inject Their Ancestors' Heroism Into Their Campaign, and Bunker Hill Goes Down to Defeat.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, ... by Associated Literary Press.]

MY Dear Mr. President—Later on I may ask you to find some sort of federal office for Mr. Abner Jones.

The other evening Abner says to me, "Pap, I'm thinkin' about runnin' next 'lection and you must help me out."

"But I'm postmaster of Jericho," says I, "and it's furbidden fur postmasters to talk politics."

"But I'm askin' it as a personal favor, pap," he goes on. "I've bin a friend of your'n, and now you've got to help me. What's the Monroe doctrine?"

"I wouldn't dast start in to tell you, as I never studied up on it. What don't concern the postoffices don't concern me, you know."

"D'you know anything about free trade, pap?"

"Bein' busy in the grocery and postoffice, I don't go into outside things."

"YOU'VE GOT TO HELP ME OUT."

"I've got to find out all about these things," says Abner.

"Why don't you go to Lish Billings?" says I. "Lish is purty well posted.

"But how kin I? Lish wants to run fur constable himself."

Abner seemed so anxious I felt sorry for him and says:

"You had a great-grandfather?"

"I must hev had."

"And he fit and died at Bunker Hill?"

"He must hev. As nigh as I kin learn he was allus around whar a row was goin' on."

"You've got to put it that he poured out his blood thar. That's your holt."

The next evenin' brung its crowd to the postoffice. Thar was some scatterin' talk about 'tater bugs and hog cholera; then Enos Johnson speaks up:

"I think I'm right in sayin' that the patriots assembled here this evenin' hev the best interests of these United States at heart. And, hevin' the best interests of these United States at heart, it behooves us to go a leetle slow about our next constable and see that he is a fittin' representative of the great and glorious principles which hev made America a shinin' example before the world. On behalf of my fellow patriots of Jericho I asks Abner Jones whar he stands on the question of free trade."

"I ain't standin' on the question 'tall," answers Abner after a minit

"We'd ruther you'd be on one side or t'other," continues Enos, "but mebbe that won't make so much difference. I've understood that Thomas Jefferson never could make up his mind as between pumpkin pies and strawberry shortcake, and so we won't press you. How about trusts, Abner?"

"Same as on free trade," replies Abner.

"But you've got to be one way or t'other."

"That's a p'int—a strong p'int," says Deacon Spooner.

"Hain't you fur sunthin or agin sunthin?"

"Yes, I'm fur sunthin. I'm standin' pat on my great-grandfather."

"What about your great-grandfather?" asked Enos in a keerful way.

"He died at Bunker Hill," says Abner. "Yes, sir, he poured out his blood right then and thar, that America might be what she is."

There was a good deal of enthusiasm, and it looks as if the case was settled when Enos motions fur silence.

"We've got to hear from Lish Billings yet. He's bin chawin' dried apples and sayin' nuthin.' Will he tell this assemblage whar he stands?"

"I'm also standin' pat," says Lish.

"Standin' pat on what?"

"On my great-grandfather."

"And what did he do?"

"Fit and poured out his blood same as Abner's."

"Was it at Bunker Hill?"

"Noap; at Lexington, and as Lexington was fit on the 8th of April and Bunker Hill on the 17th of June I am just two months ahead of Abner Jones."

I feel sorry for Abner—I know he lays it up agin me—but how could I tell that Lish Billings would also stand pat and beat him by two months?

HON. N. W. ROWELL TONIGHT, DEC. 14th, IN VICTORIA HALL

DEATH OF PTE. E. KING IS OFFICIALLY CONFIRMED

Harold Knapman in England to Take Commission.

Official confirmation of the death of Pte. Ernest King, was received this morning by his widow who lives on Townsend street. Mrs. King had received a letter from an Australian Red Cross nurse stating that Pte. King died on October 30, in No. 3 Australian Field Hospital.

Pte. King enlisted at Kingston, two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Wiley have received this letter from their son Palmer:

France, Nov. 23, 1917.

Dear Mother and Dad:—

Received another of your most welcome letters tonight and sure was glad to get it, (written on Oct. 25). I only wrote about 3 or 4 days ago but as I have a chance to answer it right away I thought I would answer it now.

Say, I can't imagine what happens to the letters I send home. You said you hadn't received any mail for three boats, that means about three weeks. I know sometimes I may not be able to write for eight or nine days but I never let two weeks pass without writing.

We're getting our mail pretty regular now, we always get it when we are out of the lines.

Say, do you know that it is exactly two years today since I enlisted. I will be able to put up a good conduct strip now, that is a L.-Cpl's stripe upside down on the fore-arm of my left sleeve. You see I've been a good boy since I've been away from home (1 year 4 months) and it seems like 4 years 1 month. Lets hope it won't be much longer.

Well I think I will close for now I still have a letter of thanks to send to Rev. Mr. Thomas.

With love,

PALMER.

DRINKFEST IN ROOM OF HOTEL OFFICER FOUND

AND MAGISTRATE DUMBLE COLLECTED $100 AND COSTS FROM THREE MEN.

Miles Burke, John and Jos. Dolochry did not go to work yesterday. Instead, they imbibed of the contents of at least two whiskey bottles in the room of their hotel. In police court this morning they paid fines aggregating $100, to which was attached costs of $2.60 in each case. P. C. Wigg was detailed to call at the hotel in search of Miles Burke, who had neglected to appear before a military service tribunal. He came upon all three stretched out on a bed suffering from the effects of "tanglefoot."

P. C. Wigg said he found Burke and two other men, John and Joseph Dolochry, in a room in a hotel. They were in bed. A bottle on the floor had a quantity of liquor in it. "Burke asked me to drink the remainder of the liquor, and when I declined Burke drank it," said the witness. Another bottle had liquor in it, and Joseph Dolochry, using the words, "Don't let him have that," took the bottle from Burke and drank the liquor. Burke refused the officer's request for an inspection of his trunk. Later investigation revealed two empty whiskey bottles in a washstand in the room. Burke said he had a friend who got the liquor for him, and that he would do 17 months in the penitentiary before—" when he stopped. The officer said it was a different mission that took him to the hotel.

To Mr. V. J. McElderry witness said there had been no attempt to hide the liquor. He had gone to the hotel with an order to bring one of the men before a military service tri- ing had liquor or of drinking any. bunal.

"The reason they gave you for being in the room was that there was no work at the Quaker Oats on account of the storm?"

"That's right," replied witness.

They Met a Man.

Detective Newhall testified that Burke had stated that he and John Dolochry purchased two bottles of whiskey at $2.50 each from a man whom they met near the G. T. R. station. They took the liquor to the room in the hotel, which Burke had taken to be his home while in Peterborough. When witness said the Dolochry brothers were intoxicated, they denied all knowledge of hav-

AMERICANS WATCHING CANADA

The New York Times gives prominence to an editorial on the Canadian election in which it says: "The result of the Canadian elections will be awaited with anxious interest by the allies, by none of them more anxiously than by the United States."

After explaining how Sir Wilfrid Laurier and a "rump of Liberal leaders," refused to extend the life of Parliament and refused to come into Union Government, the Times goes on: "Sir Wilfrid would not coalesc when unity and the winning of the war have brought together patriotic Canadians, not as Grits and Tories, but as freemen fighting for the freedom of Canada and the rest of the free world. Sir Wilfrid is, we hope, half-heartedly, dabbling in Provincial politics and seeking office.

"Behind much of the clamor made by the Canadian anti-conscriptionists are the same forces that we know too well in the United States, alien propaganda, foreign influence, a campaign of sedition. In Canada, as here, there is the prattle about the conscription of wealth, Wealth is conscripted. The conscription of men must be universal, too. 'We all want to win the war,' Sir Wilfrid says. It is a curious way to help the winning of it by opposing or delaying the reinforcement of the allies."

After telling the kind of sophistry that is being given out in some quarters to the effect that now that the United States is in the war, Canada need not exert herself, the Times concludes:

"Canada has just had a Victory Loan. Monday every American and Canadian patriot hopes she will hold a victory election."

UNIONIST PARTY LOOK FOR MAJORITY OF OVER THIRTY WHEN VOTES ARE COUNTED

A LAST WORD TO THE ELECTORS

It is unnecessary to appeal to the patriotism of Canadians. All loyal citizens of the British Empire are devoted to its preservation. "God save the King" means much to all true Canadian hearts. The governments of all the allies have made mistakes. The criticism has been severe. But they are doing their best. Whether we vote for the Union Government or for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for the province that failed in men, in money, and in the Red Cross and patriotic work, and in the Victory Loan, or for that part of Canada that has strained every energy to provide for the men at the front, let us go to the polls, not with party prejudice and political party rivalry or hope of patronage in our hearts, but with the warm flow of the red lifeblood of the nation. Let us vote as men and women and not as party slaves. We have had to endure much at home—but think of the lads at the front. They are brave. Are we not brave, too? Let us show ourselves worthy of them, as I am sure we shall, and I will do my level best, if elected, to prove worthy to represent you and to justify your confidence. Believe me, ladies and gentlemen,

Yours sincerely,
J. H. BURNHAM.

Opposition too, Profess Hopes of Success Without Soldiers Support — 25 Seats go by Acclamation.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—With the close of the Dominion election campaign practically at hand it looks as though the seats in which there will be no contest on Monday will number twenty-five. Ten of these are in the Government column, while the Laurier opposition will have fifteen, all but one, Turgeon of Gloucester, N.B., being in the Province of Quebec. The Unionists will have acclamations in two Nova Scotia and one New Brunswick seat, one in Ontario, four in Saskatchewan, one in Manitoba and one in a British Columbian seat. Of the Cabinet Ministers Hon. Frank Carvell and Hon. Martin Burrell are elected already, and W. P. McCurdy, Under Secretary to Department of Militia, is sure of his seat.

Leaders of both parties here appear confident of the result. Unionist headquarters here believe that when the soldier vote is added to the home vote the Government will have a majority of from thirty to thirty-five. The Opposition assert they will have comfortable lead Monday night which will not be materially affected by the soldier vote.

SOLDIERS' WIVES.

Soldiers' wives are disappointed becaaseth ey did not receive any increase of separation allowance this month. All of them expected $25. They received $20 as usual, and some of them think that they will never be allowed a raise.

No one should worry. It was impossible to make the increased payment this month. The new schedule, however, will go into effect next month, when the soldiers' wives will receive $10 additional in order to make up for what should have been received in their December envelopes.

HEAVY SNOWSTORM DISTURBS TELEGRAPH SERVICE WITH OUTSIDE WORLD.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Dec. 14. — Telegraphic communication with Halifax has again been interrupted as the result of a heavy fall of snow. Only two wires are reported as workable today, one by each of the two companies operating in the territory and these only at rare intervals. The only news that has come out of Halifax today is that owing to the severity of the storm the Boston relief steamer Calvin Austin has postponed her sailing until tomorrow.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Dec. 14.—Gen. Kaledines has begun hostilities and is besieging the city of Rostov, according to a wireless telegram received in Sebastopol from Rostov. Within Rostov the Bolsheviki troops have clashed with the Cossacks, who have destroyed the Bolsheviki headquarters. The transport Kolchida, manned by the Bolsheviki, is bombarding the Kaledines forces.

GERMAN HOPES ARE REVIVED

PEOPLE HAVE CONFIDENCE IN OUTCOME OF BIG OFFENSIVE PLANNED.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Dec. 14.—A generally increased confidence in Germany based on the Russian armistice and other obvious factors, is shown in extracts from the latest German newspapers telegraphed from Holland. Travellers arriving in Holland from Germany are quoted as saying that he German people are building high hopes on the great offensive in the West, which is regarded as certainly impending.

MANY FARMERS ARE ASKING EXEMPTIONS FOR HELPERS

Warden Brown is Kept Busy at the Court House—Sessions Will be Resumed Next Tuesday.

Warden Max. Brown, who is hearing farmers' appeals for exemption from military service, had a busy session morning and afternoon today at the Court House. The plan of hearing complaints, which was perfected as a result of the efforts of Capt. Burnham and the delegation that waited upon Sir Robert Borden when he was in this city, is working out successfully. The farmers are all pleased with the chances they now have for a square deal.

Every case is carefully considered by Warden Brown, and a typewritten record is made of it. This is forwarded to Kingston for final disposition. Warden Brown has no power to grant an exemption to anyone, but his recommendations in every case will go a long way.

One of the best features of this appeal tribunal is its secrecy. The general public are barred out. Any farmer can state his case in detail and be spared the penalty of having his private business bunted about the county and among his neighbors by the newspapers. If the exemption tribunals had sat in camera from the beginning there would have been less dissatisfaction with the operation of the Act and fewer neighborhood differences engendered.

The new appeal tribunal will adjourn this evening, as tomorrow all the reeves and councillors of the county must be at home for the council meetings, the last of the year. The sessions will be resumed Tuesday and will continue just as long as there is any business to come before it.

Farmers are asked to remember that all papers in every case must be produced with their appeals. Warden Brown cannot grant exemptions, but what he advises in each case is sure to have weight in the final disposition of the case.

Among those who have appealed for exemption are two cheesemakers and two blacksmiths, as those of these trades are included in the operation of the court presided over by Warden Brown.

ONE OF FOUR SONS MUST ENTER ARMY

MORE REQUESTS FOR "SECOND CHANCE" IS MADE TO JUDGE HUYCKE.

"You'll have to sacrifice as others have done, otherwise you won't have a farm," Judge Huycke told John Shaughnessy of Otonabee this morning, in dismissing the appeal of his son, John Shaughnessy, from the decision of the Keene tribunal, who decided that the latter should go to war.

Mr. Shaughnessy has four sons, all engaged in farming. His Honor and Mr. Hatton agreed that he should give one for military service.

"I don't think it will do you a particle of good," His Honor said to Harry W. Wildman, who asked and was granted another examination by the medical board.

"How can you expect me to find that these doctors were wrong?" remarked the Judge to Wm. B. Quinlan, who pleaded ill-health, and said he had had pneumonia followed by anaemia. He thought he would be turned down if he was examined again.

"I don't want you to go away from here saying that you didn't get a fair chance," decided His Honor in granting Quinlan's request.

TWO CHILDREN ARE TAKEN FROM HOME BY AGENT

CLOTHING HAD TO BE BURNED AFTER YOUNGSTERS REACH SHELTER.

The population of the Children's Shelter has been increased by two by the addition of two small children whom G. W. Powell, the Society's agent took from a home in Dummer. The circumstances of the family have been under the eye of the Society for some time and when the parents neglected to improve living conditions for their children, it was decided to take action.

Such was the condition of the youngsters when brought to the Shelter that their clothing had to be burned, and the matron had to almost exhaust her energy in bringing about a clean and tidy appearance of the new wards.

In Dummer where the family lived, they had a shack without windows. All the members of the family slept on a bundle of blankets and old rags. There was no lamp, little to eat and no home comforts of any description.

When Mr. Powell told the husband that the mother of the children must leave, he was informed that he would have to supply her with a plug of smoking tobacco a week.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1917

MR. DAN O'CONNELL'S POSITION.

PETERBOROUGH'S former honored citizen, the genial and eloquent Dan O'Connell, explained his position clearly at a meeting held the other night in the interests of the Liberal candidate in West Toronto. Mr. O'Connell believes in the principles of Union Government. It is a right idea in war time. Yet he will vote for Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the old order of things. The reason he gave is that he does not like the personnel of the present Union Government. There are too many lawyers in it for one thing, and Mr. O'Connell appears to have other than a kindly or trustful feeling for members of his own profession. Hence he will vote for Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Mr. O'Connell's excuse dates back, in point of age, to the days when Cain sought to escape from the consequence of his conduct. The former Peterborough man is like the half-convert, who, while convinced that the straight and narrow path is the trail that he ought to follow, steers away from it on the ground that it is dotted her and there with hypocrites. Accordingly it is still the broad and easy down-grade highway for him.

WHY THAT COMPANY MOVED.

SOME FRIEND of Mr. Hall should take him quietly to one side and tell him just why the Metal Products Company left this city. It was all due to the war. So many native-bron Canadians had enlisted in this city that labor was scarce. The company had to bring their working force largely from Quebec, where enlistments were below the average. Finally, it became apparent that it would be better to move the works to where the men are than to bring the men here and run the risk of their developing an acute case of nostalgia and jumping their jobs.

Mr. Hall's argument practically amounts to a claim that if he is elected to Parliament every industry will become a permanent fixture in the city. Even a fly-by-night enterprise that opens up in a tent by the wayside will, once it lands here, become part of the scenery until the end of time. According to that line of talk, if Mr. Hall had been kept invested with the prestige of a member of Parliament, the Cordage works, the Rapid Tool Company, the Shovel and Tool Company, and several other industries, with all of which he was connected, would never have collapsed.

Among the marines or the birds of the air Mr. Hall may find an audience to be impressed with that kind of persiflage. Certainly the intelligent voters of West Peterborough are not so easily hoodwinked as Mr. Hall appears to imagine.

MAKING WAR FOR PROFIT.

AT FREQUENT INTERVALS a Laurier candidate or speaker with a super-heated imagination makes the assertion that this war is being carried on for the benefit of the profiteer. It was such twaddle as this, preached from the platform and the press, that put an extinguisher on the voluntary system of raising men for the army. It was twaddle in those days, and it is more so now that the situation on the various fronts is more serious than it ever has been since those first dark days of August, 1914.

Is Canada waging for profit a war that was forced upon her and in which she is fighting in self-defence and on behalf of the civilisation the world has been 2,000 years in building up, a war in which, even if the Allies win, Canada has no hope of conquest, and little hope that there will be anything left out of the wreckage which she can claim as an indemnity?

Did Belgium, crushed and bleeding now, go into this war in a mercenary spirit? Is France, is England, is Australia, or any of the Allied Powers, in the strife for the money that it may bring to them? Are these rivers of blood flowing, are all these millions being wasted in what is really a grab for new riches?

Any man, any newspaper, that talk in that strain is turning the minds of the weak and uninformed against the Empire's cause. Such talk is treason thinly veiled. The unscrupulous business man may seek to enrich himself out of the war, but he is at least no worse than the man who attempts to raise himself to political eminence from his country's Gethsemane.

THEN VOTE UNION.

UNION GOVERNMENT is the only government which will enforce the Military Service Act which is now the law of the country. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has refused to state that he will enforce this Act. On the contrary, he suggests its suspension. The figures furnished by the military authorities, men like Generals Turner and Currie, who know the conditions at the front, must be accepted as final; therefore, Union Government and Compulsory Service should be supported because the honor of the State demands it and the law decrees it.

WHICH WILL YOU BE?

"WHICH ARE YOU going to be on Monday next—a patriot or a politician?"

The Globe asks the question, which the Examiner carried at the head of its editorial page, seven columns wide and deep in proportion. We do not wonder that it does. The puzzle is, however, how any journal can have that query constantly before its eyes and then slash with true partisan malice into the Union Government, as our contemporary does daily.

SOME FEATURES OF THE CAMPAIGN.

THE CAMPAIGN which is being conducted by Mr. Hall is not lacking in special features to enliven it. The most outstanding of its characteristics are the humor, the sarcasm and the irony which Mr. Hall, unconsciously perhaps, infuses into it.

The humor lies in Mr. Hall's attempt to beat his way into Parliament with a wooden club, or, come to think of it, wasn't it a wooden leg?

Mr. Hall must speak in a spirit of playful sarcasm when he scores the profiteers and the money grabbers. He cannot really be in earnest.

There is bitter irony in Mr. Hall's profession of friendship for the soldiers and their families. If Mr. Hall were a true friend of either he would not have nailed his colors to the mast of the Laurier brig.

SHOOTING AND VOTING.

CANADA HAS OVER three hundred thousand men all told on the firing line, or had before death thinned their ranks, whose mission in life for the present is to shoot as many Germans as possible. Every time they take the life of a Hun these Canadian boys believe that they are doing God's own work.

Here at home the men who, by their nativity, will, if they are human, sympathise with the enemy's cause, are being deprived of the right to cast a vote which could easily be made to tell in that enemy's interests. Jaundiced partisans deplore this as harsh treatment. Their championship of men who cannot be trusted among the nation's defenders is no less mawkish than the prattle of the pacifist who raises his hands in horror at the very idea of taking the life of a German soldier.

WHAT DEFEAT OF UNION WOULD MEAN.

PLACING $400,000,000 raised for war purposes under the control of men opposed to carrying on the war.

Placing $400,000,000, mostly raised outside of Quebec, under the control of a party dominated by Quebec.

The withdrawal of Canada from active participation in the war, through the wasting away and death of the real Canadians who are overseas and through the neglect of professed Canadians to supply reinforcements.

The loss of Canada's honor and prestige in the eyes of the world.

The loss of commercial interests which go hand in hand with the country's honor.

The refusal of Great Britain and the United States to finance our undertakings or to develop the resources of the country which deserts them at the most critical period of the war.

Canada's lost credit will mean depreciation in the value of her bonds, with the result that every man, woman and child who has invested in the said bonds will be more or less seriously affected thereby.

WHERE THE CHURCHES STAND.

THE NAME of Rev. Dr. Herridge of Ottawa is known throughout the Presbyterian Church of Canada as one of its recognized leaders both as a preacher and as a thinker. Upon being interviewed on the question of Union Government, he expressed himself as follows:

> "The one question in the coming election is this: What part shall Canada continue to take in the war? The intrusion of other matters obscures the real issue. During the last three years, mistakes have been made on both sides of the House. But, in this supreme crisis of British history, political labels count for little, and concerted effort to bring out at once the utmost martial resources of our land counts for everything. If Quebec lags behind, the fault does not lie with the people of that province, but with the distinguished French-Canadian who has failed to seize the most unique opportunity of his life. 'Any pause just now in aggressive action at home, any concession to mere selfish interests, any attempt to take 'under advisement' how we shall deal with the mad dog that is yet unmuzzled, would assuredly bring joy to the German camp. Further, it would prove that we ignored the valor of the firing-line of Canadians, that we hesitated to fill up promptly the thinning ranks, that we dared to offer a menace to the living, and an insult to the dead."

And Rev. Dr. A. Gandier, Principal of Knox College, endorses Union Government, too. The leaders of all the religious denominations in Ontario have taken the same stand, and Ministerial Associations all over the province have placed themselves on record.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

AND STILL the cabled messages come from the front: "Do not desert us."

• • • •

NO MAN CAN HOPE to help the soldiers by voting for a Laurier candidate, any more than he can keep his feet warm by wearing a fur cap.

• • • •

WHY DOES NOT some admiring letter writer suggest that that noble craft, the R. R. Hall, be commandeered by the Government for the naval service.

• • • •

"QUEBEC STANDS back of the soldiers," says Mr. Hall. What the soldiers would like to see would be Quebec taking up a position in the front line.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

From Crime To Crime.

(Buffalo Express.)

Not content with torpedoing the British passenger steamer Apapa, a German submarine turned its guns on the lifeboats in which passengers were trying to escape. About eighty persons are missing. Of course, this has happened before, though not to a passenger ship. It is a natural next step into savagery for minds which could see nothing wicked in the sinking of the Lusitania.

Sir Wilfrid and the Railways.

(Toronto News.)

With tongue in cheek, Sir Wilfrid Laurier seeks to make party capital out of the Canadian Northern Railway purchase. He it was who built two transcontinental railways for private capitalists with public money and public credit. He it was who thus saddled Government and people with transportation obligations and problems which are almost as onerous as those involved in the war. This policy enabled him to win two general elections, but it cost the country hundreds of millions of dollars. The motive behind his present criticism of the Canadian Northern Railway transaction is his undying hatred of public ownership as applied to railways, telegraphs, telephones and other national utilities.

THEY ALL WANT PRICES FIXED

(By S. H. Howard.)

"I tell you it's something awful," said the man who keeps hens at the outskirts of the city. "It's time Mr. Hanna got after those farmers. The idea of $2.21 a bushel for wheat. It's terrible. I simply can't afford to feed wheat to my hens at that price. It's time Mr. Hanna did something to reduce the price of chicken feed."

"What do you charge for your eggs?" I asked.

"Sixty cents a dozen," replied he promptly.

"How would it be for Mr. Hanna to fix the price of eggs?" I suggested. "Set it so that the poor consumer could afford to have fresh eggs on his table Sunday morning for breakfast once in a while. Suppose he set the price of eggs at, say, about 30 cents a dozen?"

"What!" exclaimed the poultry man, aghast, with astonished indignation.

"Why not?" I asked him. "The general public are more interested in eggs than in chicken feed."

"Why, man, you don't know what you are talking about. Do you know what it is costing me to produce eggs which I sell at 60 cents a dozen?

"Do you know what it costs the farmer to produce bushel of wheat?"

"Oh, you can't tell me anything about farming. I used to farm some myself. Say, if I could get prices like the farmers are getting now, I'd retire after one season."

I tried another tack.

"Why feed wheat to hens when the world is short of wheat for bread?"

"I don't," replied the poultry man promptly.

"You use corn now, I suppose?"

"No, even corn is too dear. I feed them oats. But even oats cost 90 cents a bushel."

"Well, you paid that much for wheat often enough before the war. You should be glad to get oats for 90 cents," I suggested.

"Ah, yes," said the poultry man, falling back upon the technicalities of his profession, "but you can't get the eggs out of oats that you can from wheat."

And so it goes. Every man wants prices fixed so long as it is not his own ox that is starved. The average man is so blinded by self interest he wants the full benefit of the "bull" market for his own products, be they eggs, hogs, labor or ideas, but he kicks at the market cost of his raw materials and calls upon the powers to fix prices further up the line, cut down somebody else's profits—"do something,"—so that war conditions don't affect him unfavorably.

The consumer, who lives in the city, and is making more money than before the war, with more jobs open to him if he wants to make a change, than at any other time, perhaps, in the country's history,—the consumer wants the middle man eliminated, forgetting very often that he is some sort of a "middle man" himself. He wants producers' selling prices fixed at a maximum approximate to normal. Then with his living expenses somewhere in the neighborhood of where they used to be, he could really enjoy the "prosperity" engendered by the war.

The merchant would like the cost of transportation "fixed," so that transportation expenses would not be so costly for him. The transportation companies would like to fix the cost of labor. They all want the other fellow "fixed," but hate and detest the principle as applied to themselves.

Wich we all looked in our pockits to see wat we had. Puds Simkins giving him a spring and 6 little wheels out of a watch, Leroy Shooster givin ghim 7 segar bands, Sam Cross giving him a little red white and bloo button with a pin on it, Ed Wernick giving him a peece of chockiit wich nobody knew he had, and me giving him a hunk of stone wich looked as if it had came out of a gold mine, but dident, Sid putting the peece of chockiit in his mouth and the rest in his pockit, saying, Heer, Teddy, do your wonderful trick.

And he took a hold of Teddy by the coller and stuck him under the potato baskit and sat on it, Teddy barking like enything and trying to get out, Sir sayin, Now Teddy, wen I count 3 I wunt you to knock the baskit over and come out, 1, 2, 3.

Wich as soon he sed 3 he quick jumped up and Teddy nocked the baskit over on account of Sid not setting on it eny more and came out. Everybody saying it was a heck of a trick, but Sid woodent give back eny of the prices of admission.

"The superman does first rate in fiction," replied the chief of police, elevating his feet to the top of his desk, "but we don't run across him in real life. If we did he wouldn't be chasing criminals. He'd be swaying the rod of empire or something like that.

"Detectives, as we find them today, are clever fellows, and they pull off some real triumphs, but if they followed the methods of Holmes they wouldn't be on the pay roll long.
